AN EASY GUESS

When you see an Overcoat on the street that strikes you as a very "Swell" garment, where do you suppose it came from. We can make a very good guess. It's a "H. S. & M." and came from Jim & Paul.

[illegible] ance to the business [illegible] Red Lake Falls was announced [illegible] urday, Samuel Gibeau, for the past six years Register of Deeds of Red Lake county, having purchased an interest in the S[illegible] Land, Loan and Abstract Company, and taken up this work with them. At the annual meeting of the company Mr. Gibeau will be elected treasurer, the position held by A. G. Bjorneby, who was compelled to dispose of his interest in the company and seek a milder climate by reason of his wife's poor health.

It is understood that aside from his duties as treasurer of the company Mr. Gibeau will have charge of the large abstract department, and by reason of his long experience in the work will make a valuable addition to that part of the business.

Mr. Gibeau has held the office of Register of Deeds of this county for the past six years, was a member of the first board of county commissioners of the county, and while living at Lambert filled many positions of trust. He has a reputation for always filling all positions entrusted to him to the best interests of his constituents, and by fair dealings has won confidence of the people with whom he had dealings.

Mr. Gibeau has a wide acquaintance in Red Lake county and will make a strong acquisition to this popular corporation. Mr. Gibeau is [illegible] stockholder in the Bank [illegible] and is said to be [illegible]

The people of Red Lake Falls will be pleased to know that he is to remain here, and will extend congratulations to both Mr. Gibeau and the bank people on the new arrangement.

HANSON IS TREASURER

Judge Grindeland Decides That Irregularities In Several Precincts Entitles Him To The Office.

Karl M. Hansen, Democratic candidate for county treasurer at the last election, was sworn into office Tuesday of this week, after having won out in the contest for the office, over Ovide Moreau, the Republican candidate who was declared the winner by seven votes by the canvassing board.

The case was tried here last week with Judge Grindeland on the bench, and in his decision, handed down Monday of this week, he declares Hanson the winner with 27 votes to the good.

At the time of the contest Hanson alleged irregularities in several precincts in this end of the county and as a result of the investigation it was found that a large number of people had marked ballots without first being sworn—a practice that is contrary to law but the general custom—and as a result Moreau lost out by a total of 27 votes in the final summing up.

Mr. Moreau will not contest, but abides by the decision of the court, which insures Mr. Hanson the office for two years at least.

Woodmen Install.

The local lodge of Modern Woodmen installed their recently elected officers at their regular meeting last night, and a good time is reported. The officers installed were: V. C., Wm. Schwalen; W. GETS A LIFE SENTENCE

Joseph Guillmette, the Convicted Mentor Murderer, Will Spend His Remaining Days at Stillwater.

Monday afternoon at precisely 10 minutes after 2 o'clock Joseph Guillmette was sentenced to imprisonment for life at hard labor in the penitentiary at Stillwater for the murder of Joseph Mougeou on the [illegible] Northern railroad track one mile east of Mentor on the 17th day of last October.

The prisoner was brought into court at 2 o'clock sharp but in the absence of his attorneys, sentence was deferred for a few minutes. He was brought into court by Jailor Jerome and Deputy Sheriff Orrin Daniels and was handcuffed for the first time. The manacles were taken off in the sheriff's office, however, and he entered the court room in the same manner as he has in the past, with his over-coat on.

He took one of the seats reserved for the attorneys and awaited the coming of his attorneys with apparent unconcern. As soon as Attorneys Brochu and Hagen entered the trail of the case before the court was suspended and County Atty. James H. Maybury addressing the court said:

"If it please the court, I now move that sentence be pronounced on Joseph Guillmette."

Judge Watts ordered the prisoner to rise and approach the bench and as he did so he was a shade paler than usual, but his hand was as steady as it has been throughout the trial. When his honor asked the usual question whether there was any reason why sentence should not be pronounced the prisoner answered in clear, firm tones, but not very loud.

"I AM INNOCENT"

The judge then asked his attorneys if they had anything to say and Attorney Brochu replied, "We have nothing to say, your honor."

Judge Watts then stated that as the attorneys for the state had expressed the belief to him that they believed that the ends of justice would be met by a sentence of imprisonment for life, and as Foreman J. G. Tenney of the jury convicted him, had reported that he had canvassed nearly all the jurymen and all he had seen preferred that such a sentence by pronounced, and the further fact that as far as known the prisoner had not belonged to the criminal class heretofore he would sentence the prisoner to life imprisonment.

Judge Watts, after he had pronounced sentence asked the prisoner if he had ever learned any trade aside from that of a weaver, and Guilmette said he had also been a machinist and with the words, "that is all," the prisoner was taken from the court room.

When the prisoner heard the sentence he apparently was pleased and his step was elastic when he walked from the court room into the corridor, down stairs and re-entered his cell in the jail.

The sentencing of the prisoner was the last chapter in a most remarkable trial throughout which Guilmette has at all times protested his innocense and displayed remarkable nerve. [illegible] give way [illegible] Hagen in his closing plea to the jury referred to the dependent wife and family praying for his return to the humble little home in Woonsocket.

The prisoner apparently did not at any time realize the enormity of the crime of which he was convicted. The night of the day he was found guilty, he was pretty nervous for a time, but after he had been assured that there was very little likelihood that he would be hung he seemed relieved and after that gave no evidence of being worried and enjoyed a good night's sleep.

Monday morning when he was visited by Attorney Brochu, he asked, "Do you think I will get more than four or five years;" and seemed surprised when his attorney responded that he was fortunate in view of the verdict if he was let off with a life sentence. He had implicit confidence in his attorneys and during the trial expressed the opinion that he would be found not guilty by the jury.

There was some talk prevalent to the effect that the man must be insane, but neither of his attorneys; nor the attorneys for the state, nor Sheriff Sullivan, nor his attendants in the jail share that view. They do agree, however, in the idea that Guilmette has not any brains to spare, and his limited intelligence was accountable for his apparent lack of appreciation of how near the hangman's noose was to his neck.

On New Year's day, Guilmette had quite a large number of callers, and among them were several curious young ladies of this city. To them he talked freely and said he would be glad when he received his sentence and was taken to Stillwater where he would be given some work to do and have something to occupy his mind.

When he pronounced sentence Judge Watts was deeply moved and some of the spectators seemed more concerned than the prisoner did. Several turned deathly pale and there was a sigh of relief after the unpleasant scene was closed and the prisoner left the room. Quite a large number heard that sentence would be pronounced at 2 o'clock, and many who did not attend the trial were present to watch the last chapter enacted, of one of the most peculiar murder trials in the history of northern Minnesota.

The Diamond Cure.

The latest news from Paris, is, that they have discovered a diamond cure for consumption. If you fear consumption or pneumonia, it will, however, be best for you to take that great remedy mentioned by W. T. McGee, of Vanleer, Tenn. "I had a cough, for fourteen years. Nothing helped me, until I took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which gave instant relief, and effected a permanent cure." Unequalled quick cure, for throat and lung troubles. At W. A. Schreiter's drug store; price 50c and $1.00, guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

A heifer came to my place two weeks ago. Owner can have same by proving property and paying charges. If not called for in 15 days will keep same according to law.—Frank A. Cyr. Red Lake Falls.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. MEXICAN
Mustang Liniment
FOR MAN OR BEAST.

Cures sprains, bruises, burns, cuts, sores, lameness, piles, rheumatism, stiff joints lame back, etc.

For Poultry Raisers.

An occasional dish of charred corn is good for the hens. It brightens their combs and tones up their systems generally.

During the winter especially, a warm morning meal is greatly relished by the hens and stimulates them to a more active exercise of their duty.

Carefully gather the scraps from the table and give them to the fowls. There is no kind of food which will produce a more liberal supply of eggs.

Burnt bones pounded fine have not by any means the same effect as bone dust or bone meal, being reduced to mere phosphates of lime with some amount of animal charcoal.

For roup, dissolve a teaspoonful of chloride of lime in a pint of water, and give the bird a teaspoonful of the solution.

The egg shell is porous and any filth on it soon affects the meat. On this account eggs should be cleaned.

Poultry should have a certain proportion of salt in their food the same as animals. It is necessary for the promotion of health and thrift as soon as gathered, if at all soiled.

For swelled eyes bathe the head with a warm solution made by dissolving a teaspoonful of powdered boracic acid in a pint of water and then anoint with a few drops of glycerine.

A good egg is alive. The shell is porous and the oxygen of the air goes through the shell and keeps up a sort of respiration. An egg soon becomes stale in bad air, or in dry air charged with carbonic acid.

The breed of fowls to select from is the one you like best. This has a great deal to do with which is the best fowl. Profitable results depend much more largely upon care and treatment than upon the breed.

A good way to feed corn to young chickens is in a crushed or cracked condition. It may be fed to them dry or it may be fed scalded to an advantage. It should always be given to the fowls fresh, however, for when mixed with water or other liquid it quickly grows musty or sour if not used.

When chickens are fed and cared for just to keep them at a standstill, the food given is practically thrown away. But food may be wasted by giving too much as too little. The better plan is to avoid extremes and feed sufficiently to keep the chickens growing rapidly and the matured fowls in a good thrifty condition.

Bent Her Double.

"I knew no one, for four weeks, when I was sick with typhoid and kidney trouble," writes Mrs. Annie Hunter, of Pittsburg, Pa., "and when I got better, although I had one of the best doctors I could get, I was bent double, and had to rest my hands on my knees when I walked. From this terrible affliction I was rescued by Electric Bitters, which restored my health and strength and now I can walk as straight as ever. They are simply wonderful." NEW DITCH WORK.

Another New Ditch Will Be Built Out East.

Crookston Times: George A. Ralph, engineer of the state drainage board, left last evening for St. Paul and today will turn his annual report over to Governor Van Sant and the latter will include it in his annual report. The printed report is not entirely complete but is nearly finished and will comprise 100 pages illustrated with eighteen cuts and photographic views and a large map of the northern part of the state showing all the ditch work that has been done in this section in recent years.

On his return from St. Paul Mr. Ralph will begin the survey of a new ditch which will run through Gully and Chester, of Polk county and Lambert in Red Lake county. The ditch will be about eighteen miles in length and will run in a westerly direction through a portion of the Lost River swamp and finds its outlet in the first Lost River ditch, the course of which it will follow for the last five miles—the latter ditch being known as Lambert ditch No. 1, in Red Lake county. This ditch will be enlarged to take care of the water from the new ditch. The proposed ditch, if constructed, will drain a very large area of very fertile meadow land comprising a portion of what is known as the Lost River swamp, heretofore a worthless bog but which has been undergoing a great change beginning with the state ditch constructed last season. The new ditch is but a part of the original plan of the drainage of the great swamp.

Judicial ditch No. 4, which was laid out last year but work on which was laid over last May will undoubtedly be taken up again in the spring and constructed according to the original plan. It lies north of the Lost River ditch and furnishes drainage for a part of the same swamp.

A state will also be built at Donaldson next year about 8 miles long at a cost of $8,000 or $9,000 and Mr. Ralph will begin the survey of this work the first of the present year. While in Kandiyohi county recently he completed the survey of a ditch badly needed there and will have his report ready for the present session of the legislature which will be petitioned by the people of that county to make a special appropriation for the construction of the ditch of $15,000, the approximate cost.

GOLDEN NUGGETS FOR SALLOW PEOPLE

PORT ARTHUR FALLS

RUSSIAN STRONGHOLD IN FAR EAST CAPITULATES TO JAPANESE BESIEGERS.

SURRENDER OF POSITION ENDS MOST DRAMATIC EVENT IN MODERN WARFARE.

FIGHTING HAS BEEN CONTINUOUS AND OF MOST DESPERATE CHARACTER.

CAPITULATION OF PORT ARTHUR.

Port Arthur has surrendered. Exhausted by months of almost constant fighting, decimated by disease and casualties and hopelessly sealed in its rocky fortress, the gallant garrison has yielded to its gallant besiegers and the end is now written of the most dramatic war incident of modern times.

At 9 o'clock Sunday night General Nogi, commanding the Japanese army of investment, received from General Stoessel, commander at Port Arthur, a note saying that he found further resistance useless and asking for a meeting to arrange terms of capitulation. The note was simple and direct and the Japanese general immediately named commissioners to confer with representatives of the Russian commander. They met at noon Monday and arranged the conditions to surrender.

The siege and the defense of Russia's stronghold in the Far East have been marked by bravery, gallantry and desperation unequalled in modern warfare and hardly excelled in military history. The story of the operations around Port Arthur is one of repeated fighting, both by land and sea, of the most desperate and thrilling character. Isolated instances of heroism that would have set the world ringing under less overwhelming circumstances have been dwarfed by the generally magnificent conduct of both forces.

What Port Arthur has cost in human life and in money no estimate of even approximate correctness can be made. The losses have been appalling. It has been reported that in some engagements leading up to the recent capture of 203-Meter hill the attacking force lost as high as 40 per cent of the force engaged, while the garrison's losses, of which no word has come, must have been frightful.

The defense of the position, which fell to her as a heritage after the Chinese-Japanese war, has cost Russia practically her entire fleet in those waters. Her ships lie from Port Arthur's inner basin to Chemulpo, in Korea, and along the Shantung peninsula, battered hulks of once proud vessels; or, ignominiously dismantled, are interned in neutral Chinese harbors. Save the three or four cruisers and some lesser craft that lie in the icebound refuge of Vladivostok not a warship now flies the Russian cross in the waters of the Northern Orient. And Japan, too, has had her losses in the long drawn out operations. Mines have struck from Admiral Togo's fleet list many fine ships and smaller vessels since the morning of Feb. 8, when he hurled his fleet at the Russian ships in Port Arthur's roadstead.

TERMS OF SURRENDER

THOSE STIPULATED BY JAPANESE COMMANDER PRACTICALLY AGREED UPON.

Tokio, Jan. 3.—The Russian and Japanese commissioners appointed to arrange the terms of the capitulation of the Russian forces at Port Arthur signed the compact of surrender at 9:45 o'clock Monday night.

The text of General Nogi's telegram announcing the capitulation of the Russian force at Port Arthur, dated Jan. 2, is as follows:

"The plenipotentiaries of both parties concluded their negotiations today at 4:30 o'clock. The Russian commissioners accepted on the whole the conditions stipulated by us and consented to capitulate. The document has been prepared and signatures are now being affixed. Simultaneously with the conclusion of negotiations both armies suspended hostilities. It is expected that the Japanese will enter the city of Port Arthur tomorrow."

DESTROYED BY RUSSIANS.

Two Forts at Port Arthur Blown Up by Garrison.

Chefoo, Jan. 2.—Captain Kartow, commanding the torpedo boat destroyer Fiestni, which put into this harbor from Port Arthur, says the Russians Sunday blew up two of their own forts near the railway and completed the destruction of the cruiser Beyan.

Port Arthur is described by later arrivals as a living hell.

The hospitals are said to be nearly all destroyed.

RUSSIAN BOATS AT CHEFOO.

Seven Torpedo Launches Are Now at That Port.

Chefoo, Jan. 3.—Tuesday morning two Russian torpedo launches from Port Arthur arrived here. There are seven Japanese torpedo boat destroyers in the harbor.

A third Russian launch arrived from Port Arthur at 10:30 a. m. Four of the Japanese torpedo boat destroyers have departed.

General Fock Not Killed.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 3.—The report of the death of General Fock is denied. It was admitted that he was wounded but it was stated that the report of his death had not yet been confirmed.

FURTHER DEFENSE USELESS.

Stoessel Sues for Terms to End Needless Sacrifice of Life.

Tokio, Jan. 2.—General Nogi has reported as follows:

"At 5 in the afternoon of Jan. 1 the enemy's bearer of a flag of truce came into the first line of our position south of Sushiyen and handed a letter to our officers. The same reached me at 9 o'clock at night. The letter, signed by General Stoessel, is as follows:

"'Judging by the general condition of the whole line of hostile positions held by you I find further resistance at Port Arthur useless and for the purpose of preventing needless sacrifice of lives I propose to hold negotiations with reference to capitulation. Should you consent to the same you will please appoint commissioners for discussing the order and conditions regarding capitulation and also appoint a place for such commissioners to meet the same appointed by me.

"'I take this opportunity to convey to your excellency assurances of my respect.'

"Shortly after dawn I dispatched our bearer of a flag of truce with the following reply, addressed to Stoessel:

"'I have the honor to reply to your proposal to hold negotiations regarding the conditions and order of capitulation. For this purpose I have appointed as commissioner Major General Ijichi, chief of staff of our army. He will be accompanied by some staff officers and civil officials. They will meet your commissioners Jan. 2, noon, at Shuishiying. The commissioners of both parties will be empowered to sign a convention for the capitulation without waiting for ratification and cause the same to take immediate effect. Authorization for such plenary powers shall be signed by the highest officer of both the negotiating parties and the same shall be exchanged by the respective commissioners.

"'I avail myself of this opportunity to convey to your excellency assurances of my respect.'"

ENTIRE CITY DESTROYED.

Fortress of Port Arthur Said to Have Been Laid in Ruins.

Paris, Jan. 3.—A Chefoo dispatch to the Temps says the officers of the Russian torpedo boat destroyers which have arrived there report that the entire town of Port Arthur has been destroyed, including the hospital in the northwest section.

DR. CHADWICK MEETS WIFE.

Pathetic Scene in the County Jail at Cleveland.

Cleveland, Jan. 2.—Dr. Leroy S. Chadwick arrived in this city during the day and was immediately driven to the county jail, where he was registered as a man against whom the law has a suspicion.

Dr. Chadwick was then escorted to the woman's ward, where he met his wife.

Mrs. Chadwick flung herself into her husband's arms and both wept convulsively. Mrs. Chadwick tried to imbue her husband with the thought of her innocence of any wrongdoing. His only response was, "I hope so."

"Trust me, trust me," was the constant cry of the woman.

The doctor was dazed for a moment upon reaching the turnkey's room. Emil Hoover had arrived at the jail while Dr. Chadwick was with his wife and was awaiting his stepfather in the office. The man grasped both hands of the boy and searched his face for a moment before either spoke.

"Emil," slowly said the doctor, "it has been a long time since I saw you. Many things have happened since then."

The boy made no response to his stepfather's remark and they started to leave the jail.

"Has your regard for Mrs. Chadwick changed since her ——?" began a questioner of Dr. Chadwick as they were leaving the jail.

"I cannot say anything," interrupted the physician. "You will have to talk with Mr. Dawley or Mr. Kerruish."

"There will be no statement," said Mr. Dawley; "so you may as well let him rest."

FARMHOUSE DESTROYED.

Three Members of Prominent Family Meet Death.

Geneseo, N. Y., Dec. 29.—Three persons lost their lives in a fire which totally destroyed the farm residence of Charles McMillan at the head of Conesus lake. The dead are: Charles McMillan; Lottie McMillan, his sister; Frank McMillan, his nephew. Lulu McMillen, another sister, escaped. The cause of the fire has not been explained.

The McMillans were among the prominent families of Livingstone county.

LOCKUP BLOWN TO PIECES.

Jail at Oakwood, O., Completely Destroyed.

Continental, O., Dec. 31.—The Oakwood lockup has been blown to pieces. The one who did it took the dynamite from a hardware store and left $1.50 to pay for it. The structure is a complete wreck. There is no real clue, but several men are under suspicion. The mayor and marshal have been conducting a crusade against saloon men who sold on Sunday and one of them who had been fined $50 was to go to the lockup for non-payment.

BECAUSE OF ALLEGED SHORTAGE.

State Bank of Dedham, Ia., in Hands of a Receiver.

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 29.—The State Bank of Dedham, Ia., was Wednesday placed in the hands of a receiver on the order of State Auditor Carroll and an effort will be made to liquidate its affairs, which are badly involved through an alleged $15,000 shortage of Cashier B. A. Caton. Caton has admitted his shortage and efforts are being made to secure settlement. The bank is expected ultimately to pay its depositors in full.

FOUR MEN KILLED.

Boilers in a Sawmill Plant Explode at Walville, Wash.

Walville, Wash., Dec. 29.—Four men were killed and one fatally injured Wednesday by an explosion of four boilers at a sawmill plant. One of the dead, Roy Ickes, has relatives at Decatur, Mich.

DENIED BY MITCHELL

OREGON SENATOR SAYS HE IS NOT GUILTY OF COMPLICITY IN LAND FRAUDS.

Grand Jury at Portland Returns Indictments Against That Member of the Upper House and Also Against Congressman Hermann — Senator Mitchell Anxious for Speedy Trial In Order to Establish His Innocence.

Portland, Ore., Jan. 2.—The Oregonian prints an authorized statement by Senator Mitchell regarding his connection with the alleged land frauds conspiracy. The statement says:

"I am as innocent as a babe unborn of any complicity in any land frauds in Oregon or elsewhere. I assert in the most positive terms that the indictment must be based upon the testimony of self-confessed and convicted land thieves and perjurers, who have been offered immunity in case they meet the vindictive desire of Secretary Hitchcock and his agents, who have by their testimony involved me and others in the frauds.

"The prosecuting officer, Francis Henry, filled the newspapers of the country with press dispatches from Portland, ten days before the grand jury met to the effect that I was involved in the land frauds. I immediately left Washington for Portland to answer any charges made against me by the grand jury."

Senator Mitchell says he requested permission to go before the grand jury to answer any charges against him, but was told that no charges had been preferred. At his request he submitted to examination before the grand jury and answered all questions asked and was willing to answer any others that might be asked. Having been assured that no evidence had been brought against him, Senator Mitchell left Oregon for his post in Washington. If indicted, he says he wants a speedy trial to demonstrate that he is innocent.

Senator Mitchell and Congressman Hermann were indicted Saturday for conspiracy.

OREGON LAND FRAUD CASES.

Federal Grand Jury Returns Seven More Indictments.

Portland, Ore., Dec. 28.—The federal grand jury during the day returned seven indictments in connection with the land fraud cases. The prominence of three of the number with the two mysterious "John Doe" indictments makes the day the most sensational since the jury reconvened in its present session.

Of most importance is the indictment against Dr. William H. Davis, mayor of Albany, Ore. Second to this, and of hardly less importance, are those of Solomon B. Ormsby, formerly a government agent, and Clark E. Loomis, at one time forest superintendent. Henry M. Young and George Sorenson are not so well known.

The indictment states there are two others, John Doe and Richard Roe, implicated, whose names the jury does not know.

INQUIRY TO BE SWEEPING.

Colorado Supreme Court Orders Investigation of Election Frauds.

Denver, Dec. 30.—Chief Justice Gabbert during the day announced the decision of the supreme court to grant the petition of Alva Adams, Democratic governor-elect, for the opening of all the ballot boxes used in Denver at the late election and a full investigation of all frauds. Adams' object in filing the petition was to secure a legal determination of the question whether he or James H. Peabody is entitled to fill the office of governor of Colorado for the next two years.

Chief Justice Gabbert said that while the petition did not state facts entitling the petitioner to such an investigation as proposed the court had decided that a general investigation might aid in discovering the guilty persons who were responsible for the commission of the gross frauds that had been revealed in the contempt proceedings. There must have been some persons behind the election officers and others who committed frauds, the court believed, to prompt the commission of such frauds.

The court decided that the investigation shall go into all frauds of any kind which constitute a violation of the orders issued by the court prior to the election. All ballot boxes will be opened at the county courthouse and the ballots and books be examined by two experts, one to be appointed by counsel for the petitioner and one by counsel for the people in whose name the interference of the court was originally sought. The court will appoint a referee, not to take testimony, but to supervise the experts' examination and see that it is conducted in accordance with court's orders.

DYING WOMAN'S BRAVE DEED.

Although Fatally Burned She Saves Her Children.

Norfolk, Neb., Dec. 31.—In a fire near Elgin, Neb., which threatened the destruction of her home and the lives of her children Mrs. Joseph Reuse was so seriously burned that she died shortly afterwards. Mrs. Reuse' clothes caught fire and she jumped into a tank of water, quenching the flames which enveloped her, but not, however, before her clothes had been burned off her. She dashed back into the burning house, extinguished the fire and saved her children and soon afterwards died from the effects of the burns she had received.

DEFICIT OF $22,000,000.

Report of Treasury Department for Calendar Year Issued.

Washington, Dec. 31.—The treasury department has issued a review of treasury operations for the calendar year 1904. The receipts were $540,000,000 and the expenditures (including the Panama payment) $562,000,000, a deficit for the year of $22,000,000.

CONVICTS SHOT DOWN.

Three Killed and the Same Number Fatally Wounded.

Folsom, Cal., Dec. 30.—Seven of nine convicts at the state prison who made a break for liberty were almost riddled with bullets, three being dead and three in a critical condition. Captain R. J. Murphy, a prison official, is wounded by a shot in the leg and two slight knife wounds.

The convicts who engaged in the break were all employed in the rock crusher, where 325 of the most desperate prisoners were at work. A large sledge hammer was thrown into the crusher, causing the ponderous machine to come to a standstill. This attracted Captain Murphy, Charles Jolly and Charles L. Taylor to the place immediately.

Thereupon the desperate convicts rushed to seize Murphy, Jolly and Taylor. They succeeded in catching the two first named. The convicts, with their captives, made their way toward a small post commanded by Guard W. H. Harris, who was armed with a rifle.

They no sooner stepped into the open than the seven guards commenced firing and within twenty seconds fully 100 shots had been fired and seven convicts were on the ground helpless. The rest were secured. The dead are:

H. G. Hill, under sentence of thirty-six years for robbery; J. Quinlan, serving twelve years for robbery; W. Morales, under sentence for robbery.

The following injured will probably die: D. Kelly, serving eight years for robbery; E. Queyada and W. P. Enley, life sentence for murder.

SENATORIAL FIGHT ENDS.

No Further Opposition to Re-Election of Depew.

New York, Dec. 30.—Chauncey Mitchell Depew of New York will succeed himself for a term of six years as United States senator from the state of New York, continuing as the colleague of Senator Thomas C. Platt, who has four years to serve.

The formal announcement of this conclusion was made late Thursday afternoon at the Fifth Avenue hotel by Governor Odell, as chairman of the Republican state committee, and came as the result of a series of conferences by prominent state Republicans extending over several weeks and pretty continuous for the past few days. The purport of the announcement is that the candidacy of Former Governor Frank C. Black, which has been warmly pressed by his friends during the past fortnight or more, will be withdrawn and the name of Senator Depew will be the only one presented to the caucus of Republican legislators, which will select the party's candidate for senator.

IN BUREAU OF MANUFACTURES.

J. Hampton Moore of Philadelphia Appointed Chief.

Washington, Dec. 29.—President Roosevelt has appointed J. Hampton Moore of Philadelphia chief of the bureau of manufactures of the department of commerce and labor.

Mr. Moore is president of the National League of Republican Clubs and was formerly city treasurer of Philadelphia. He has accepted the appointment and will enter upon the discharge of his duties about the first of the year.

THE GREAT FAMILY MEDICINE

Thedford's Black-Draught comes nearer regulating the entire system and keeping the body in health than any other medicine made. It is always ready in any emergency to treat ailments that are frequent in any family, such as indigestion, biliousness, colds, diarrhœa, and stomach aches.

Thedford's Black-Draught is the standard, never-failing remedy for stomach, bowel, liver and kidney troubles. It is a cure for the domestic ills which so frequently summon the doctor. It is as good for children as it is for grown persons. A dose of this medicine every day will soon cure the most obstinate case of dyspepsia or constipation, and when taken as directed brings quick relief.

DANVILLE, ILL., Dec. 23, 1902.

Thedford's Black-Draught has been our family doctor for five years and we want no other. When any of us feel badly we take a dose and are all right in twelve hours. We have spent lots of money for doctor bills, but get along just as well with Black-Draught. IRA H. BADER.

Ask your dealer for a package of Thedford's Black-Draught and if he does not keep it send 25c. to The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn. and a package will be mailed to you.

My Breath.

Shortness of Breath Is One of the Commonest Signs of Heart Disease.

Notwithstanding what many physicians say, heart disease can be cured.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure has permanently restored to health many thousands who had found no relief in the medicines (allopathic or homoeopathic) of regular practicing physicians.

It has proved itself unique in the history of medicine, by being so uniformly successful in curing those diseases.

Nearly always, one of the first signs of trouble is shortness of breath. Whether it comes as a result of walking or running up stairs, or of other exercises, if the heart is unable to meet this extra demand upon its pumping powers—there is something wrong with it.

The very best thing you can do, is to take Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure. It will go to the foundation of the trouble, and make a permanent cure by strengthening and renewing the nerves.

"I know that Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is a great remedy. For a number of years I suffered from shortness of breath, smothering spells, and pains in my left side. For months at a time I would be unable to lie on my left side, and if I lay flat on my back would nearly smother. A friend advised using Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, which I did with good results. I began to improve at once, and after taking several bottles of the Heart Cure the pains in my side and other symptoms vanished. I am now entirely well. All those dreadful smothering spells are a thing of the past."—F. P. DRAKE, Middletown, O.

Red Lake Falls Gazette

L. A. DAUTREMONT, PROPRIETOR
SAM S. HAISLET, EDITOR AND MANAGER

Published weekly, Thursday evening, an entered as second-class matter in the post office at Red Lake Falls.

Official Paper of Red Lake County.

Official Paper of Red Lake Falls.

Subscription, $1.00 per Year

Joel P. Heatwole's ambitions in the direction of the United States senate are destined to smell loud before they are gratified. Joel may be a big man, politically, but he lacks several sizes of being heavy-weight enough to succeed either of Minnesota's able senators.

The opposition to Senator Clapp petered out in short order when it come to a show down. A bluff sometimes works for a short while, but sooner or later you have to show the goods or take a back seat, and the gang of Minneapolis grafters were finally compelled to do the latter. 'Tis well.

According to the Crookston Journal two prominent Crookston young men are behind a proposition for the establishment of a daily paper at Thief River Falls and from present indications the deal will go through. It is understood that a plant and equipment has been purchased and that an option upon suitable quarters at the Falls have been secured. Thief River Falls now has three weekly papers and the advent of a daily will make things rather interesting for the newspaper men of that place.

THE COUNTY PRINTING.

The county printing matter has again come into the lime-light and the general public can depend upon hearing all of the pros and cons of the case discussed during the next few weeks, and pet names will undoubtedly be hurled in the air.

But the taxpayers can well afford to listen to the old, old story this year, because the actual amount of money that will be expended for this work during 1905 will be so small that the treasury will be enriched several hundred dollars as a result of the controversy.

The Gazette does not believe nor contend that the low figure at which the printing was let Tuesday is by any means a fair conpensation for the service guaranteed and the contractor will necessarily lose money in carrying out the terms of the agreement. The element of "spite work" entered into the case strongly and as a result the county's cash box is the beneficiary.

But, notwithstanding the fact that the compensation will be inadequate, it does not follow that it is necessary for the newspapers of Red Lake or any other county to combine to force the county to pay a greater amount of money for the work than is actually earned, and because of this contention of The Gazette four of the other papers adopted the cut-throat policy and took the work at practically nothing, while The Gazette and Thief River Falls Review each bid independently at figures that would have been good compensation, and in comparison with charges for like services to individuals. Both the bids of the Review and the Gazette provided for as large a circulation as was possible to secure, each agreeing to furnish a copy of all the official business of the county to every personal property tax payer, but in view of the fact that the bid of the "combine" was at least two-thirds lower, the commissioners could pursue but one course, that of allowing the lowest bid that gave equal service.

The Gazette has no excuses to offer for its conduct, as it feels that it has done exactly as any fair competitor for a job of work would do, and in doing this it also feels that it worked for the best interests of the people of the county. It has never, under the present management, advocated combines or trusts for the purpose of suppressing just competition, and if a newspaper preaches one doctrine and advocates its exact extreme it cannot long expect to hold the confidence of the people. If a newspaper is not adequately equipped to take a cuntract of this sort, it should not attempt to force those that are to help it get a fat pull at the public teat, and for that reason, and that alone, The Gazette refused to be a party to a scheme to prohibit just competition and secure the work at unfair prices.

The Gazette believes that every paper in the county deserves some compensation for the large amount of work every year performed without muneration, and if a plan could be devised where all could print the official work at reasonable prices it would be much fairer to the public and to the papers themselves.

The Gazette has no bone of contention with any of Red Lake county's newspapers, but feels that its stand was in the interests of justice, which is all that can be expected of any one.

Notice of Election.

Notice is hereby given that the regular annual meeting of the stock holders of the First State Bank of Red Lake Falls, Minn., will be held in their banking rooms on Tuesday, Jan. 10th, 1905, between the hours of 2 o'clock p. m. and 4 p. m.

PLEASED WITH THE GAZETTE.

Country Newspapers Compliment the Handsome Holiday Number.

Ada Herald: One of the handsomest Christmas editions of a country weekly newspaper coming under our notice is that of the Red Lake Falls Gazette of last week containing twenty-four pages of interesting reading matter and catchy advertisements. A town that can turn out such a handsome edition is a long ways from being dead.

Ada Index: That was a very creditable holiday edition issued by Bro. Haislet of the Red Lake Falls Gazette, one that Sam and the people of Red Lake Falls and county can justly feel proud of.

Tenstrike Tribune: The Red Lake Falls Gazette issued a 20-page holiday number last week, which was a credit to the Gazette management. The Gazette is one of the brighest weeklies in the state, and goes to show that it is appreciated by the people of Red Lake Falls by the way it is patronized.

St. Hilaire Spectator: The Red Lake Falls Gazette holiday edition was a little the neatest outlay that reached our sanctum this year.

Magnolia Advance: The holiday number of the Red Lake Falls Gazette. Sam Haislet's paper, is an excellent one. Sam is true to his calling and is giving his town and county the best of service, which is appreciated as the Gazette's pages are well filled with choice advertisements.

Itasca County Record: The Red Lake Falls Gazette got out a fine Christmas edition last week which is neat and attractive in every way, and fascinating from cover to cover. It consists of twenty pages and cover, and is resplendent with good advertising and reading matter and neat typographical work. It is a monument to Editor Haislet's enterprise.

Mentor Herald: The Red Lake Falls Gazette came out last week with a twenty-four page Christmas number which is a credit to the management as well as the city. The pages are well filled with news and advertisements and shows the city to be alive and healthy.

Twin Valley Times: Red Lake Falls Gazette came out with a 24-page holiday edition, profusely illustrated and artistically designed. Editor Haislet is entitled to credit for the strenuosity shown.

Blackduck American: The Red Lake Falls Gazette issued a "hummer" in the way of a special Christmas edition. The business men of that city were well represented by large and attractive ads. and the beauty and resources of their town and county were beautifully portrayed. It's the kind of advertising that bring returns.

Blackduck Times: The Red Lake Falls Gazette came out with a fine holiday number in magazine form, with good pictures of the town, residences, public buildings and citizens.

Gary Graphic: The Red Lake Gazette got out a holiday edition that was a hummer and should be appreciated by the citizens of that lively burg. It told the world more good things about the town than could ever be told in any other way at three times the expense.

Thief River Press: The Red Lake Falls Gazette last week issued a twenty-four page holiday edition that was as good as any we have seen for many a day. The issue was chuck full of good live articles and advertising matter. Sam Haislet is a hustler and the people of the Lower Falls evidentally appreciate his worth.

Jackson County Times: The only what might consistently be called Christmas edition that came to our exchange table this year, was the Red Lake Falls Gazette, edited by Sam S. Haislet. It consisted of twenty pages and cover, with a good write-up of the country and city of Red Lake Falls, half-tone farm scenes and industrial enterprises that are equal to anything one would expect to find in any of the large city dailies. The paper from its first to its last cover page is replete with well written and well set display ads that for a country edition shows wonderful enterprise on both the part of the merchants of the city and the management of the Gazette, by which we mean Sam S. Haislet, who, unless all indications are false, is certainly maintaining the reputation of the Haislet family as newspaper men.

Warren Sheaf: The holiday number of the Red Lake Falls Gazette was a hummer and no mistake about it.

Plummer Pioneer. The holiday number of the Red Lake Falls Gazette, issued last week, was the best production of its kind ever gotten out in Red Lake county. It contained 24 pages of very interesting matter and its appearance throughout was most attractive.

NEW OFFICERS SWORN

Changes In Five Important Red Lake County Offices Made the First of the New Year.

Five strange faces are to be found in Red Lake county's large and beautiful (yes) court house today, as a result of the recent election. On Tuesday morning of this week the county commissioners administered the necessary oaths that declared Thomas Germo county attorney, Frank Jeffers register of deeds, H. T. McAnulty superintendent of schools, Karl M. Hansen treasurer and Daniel Shaw commissioner of the fourth district, entitled to seats in their respective offices in the court house, while Joseph Belair, coroner, and J. K. Wood, surveyor, were also sworn and qualified,—but didn't get nicely warmed office rooms.

The new men are all representive types of progressive Red Lake county citizens, and all are expected to fill their repective offices with credit and ability.

Thomas Germo, county attorney, is a young man who has practiced in Red Lake Falls for a number of years, and has all the qualifications necessary to make a success in his new duties. Tom is o. k. and will not be found wanting on any occasion.

H. T. McAnulty is a young man who has devoted his life work to school matters and takes up the office exceptionally well equipped to attend to his official duties. He is energetic and capable, and will give good satisfaction as superintendent.

Karl M. Hansen, decided the winner in the treasurership contest, is an old resident of Red Lake county, and is well known to nearly all of the people. Mr. Hansen is well versed in the requirements of his office, and can be looked to to make a capable treasurer.

Frank Jeffers, register of deeds, is so well known that you don't need any more of his biography. He is a whirlwind in any capacity, and will fill the register's seat to perfection.

Dan Shaw, commissioner from the fourth district, has all of the qualifications of a "dandy" comissoner. He is an up-to-the-minute business man and one who can be depended to stand for the rights of the people at every stage of the game.

Joseph Belair, coroner, has held the office before and gave good satisfaction. He will attend to his duties in a manner that will be satisfactory.

J. K. Wood, surveyor, is a stranger here, but came recommended as a good surveyor and will undoubtedly be a good officer.

The Gazette trusts that they may all bring credit upon themselves and the people at large.

Forced to Starve.

B. F. Leek, of Concord, Ky., saye: "For 20 years I sufferon agonies, with a sore on my upper lip, so painful, sometimes, that I could not eat. After vainly trying everything else, I cured it with Bucklen's Arnica Salve." It's great for burns, cuts and wounds. At W. A. Schreiter's drug store; Only 25c.

A VENERABLE PASTOR CURED BY PE-RU-NA.

Pe-ru-na is a Catarrhal Tonic Especially Adapted to the Declining Powers of Old Age.

In old age the mucous membranes become thickened and partly lose their function.

This leads to partial loss of hearing, smell and taste, as well as digestive disturbances.

Peruna corrects all this by its specific operation on all the mucous membranes of the body.

One bottle will convince anyone. Once used and Peruna becomes a life-long stand-by with old and young.

Rev. J.N. Parker.

Strong and Vigorous at the Age of Eighty-eight.

Rev. J. N. Parker, Utica, N. Y., writes: "In June, 1901, I lost my sense of hearing entirely. My hearing had been somewhat impaired for several years, but not so much effected but that I could hold converse with my friends; but in June, 1901, my sense of hearing left me so that I could hear no sound whatever. I was also troubled with rheumatic pains in my limbs. I commenced taking Peruna and now my hearing is restored as good as it was prior to June, 1901. My rheumatic pains are all gone. I cannot speak too highly of Peruna, and now when 88 years old can say it has invigorated my whole system. I cannot but think, dear Doctor, that you must feel very thankful to the all loving Father that you have been permitted to live, and by your skill be such a blessing as you have been to suffering humanity." —Rev. J. N. Parker.

A Bishop's Letter.

T. H. Lomax, D. D., Bishop 2nd Dist. A. M. E., of Charlotte, N. C., writes: "I recommend your Peruna to all who want a strengthening tonic and a very effective remedy for all catarrhal complaints."—T. H. Lomax.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Miss Minnie Shannon is quite ill at the home of her sister, Mrs. F. A. Mizen, in this city, with appendicitus, and has been very sick during the past week. It is thought that an operation will be necessary to relieve her.

A. R. Jorris, of Thief River Falls, is visiting with Mr. Flanigan, north of town, and took advantage of the opportunity to visit the Woodmen lodge last night. Mr. Jorris has a valuable claim on the ceded reservation near Thief River Falls.

James Egan, of Galesburg, North Dakota, arrived here yesterday for a business visit of a few days with his relatives here. Mr. Egan is a brother of Mesdames Duffy, Spillane and Doe, of this city, and a son of Mrs. C. S. Egan, and his visit is being enjoyed by the family.

Editors D. A. McDonald, of the Review, John W. Eastman, of the News and S. W. Bagloy, of the Press, of Thief River Falls, and Harry E. Ives, of the St. Hilaire Spectstor, were callers here Monday looking after the county printing matter before the board of county commissioners.

Assistant Engineer J. C. Patterson, of St. Paul, Resident Engineer A. Jackson, of St. Paul, and Contractor Guthrie were here in a special car Tuesday looking over the railroad construction work being done. They expressed themselves as well pleased with the outlook for a speedy termination of the work.

Thief River Press: W. A. McIntyre, the Lower Falls attorney, was up here over Monday night looking after evidence in the Hansen-Morean contest case. Mr. Morean's attorneys thought there might have been irregularites in the Hansen strongholds, particularly in Thief River where the Bohemian vote was large, and for this reason Mr. McIntyre was sent up here to investigate.

Miss Rose Harren entertained a party of young people at the home of her parents last Saturday evening. Games were played and the usual quota for fun was had.

Leo Spillane has resigned his position at Reichert's drug store and his place has been taken by Orson Doe. Leo has not yet decided what he will do, but it is likely that he will not remain idle.

The Knights of Pythias installed their recently elected officers at their hall Tuesday evening. P. B Gaass officiated as installing officer, and the work was carried out smoothly and without a hitch.

Nap Miller has decided not to return to Grand Forks, and has accepted a situation in the shop with his brother, Joe. Nap is well-liked here and his friends will be pleased to learn that he is to return to Red Lake Falls.

The general stores, hardware stores, and other business places close at 6:30 p. m. again, commencing last Tuesday evening. This arrangement was tried last year and proved very satisfactory and the employees have welcomed its edoption again very joyfully.

The First State Bank extends you a New Years greeting in The Gazette columns today, which you will do well to read. The First State people make every effort to accommodate the public and that they have succeeded in every sence of the word is a well-known fact.

The Woodmen dance given at their hall last Friday evening proved to be one of the most enjoyable social affairs of the season. A large crowd turned out, and to the music of the excellent Red Lake Falls Band orchestra danced for several hours. The Woodmen proved royal entertainers, and netted a neat sum for their efforts.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wilkinson, who have both been very sick at their home in this city, are reported as considerably improved at this writing, and will recover rapidly. A trained nurse from Grand Forks has had charge of the patients, and under her care the improvement has been marked.

Thief River Press: Emil E. Zeh has bought the confectionery and cigar store formerly owned by H. L. Dudley and the place was opened for business last Saturday morning. George Curran is in charge as manager, he having given up his position at the Brick Store to enter upon his new duties. Mr. Zeh will continue at his present place of business.

O. K. Jorris, of Thief River Falls, was a visitor here yesterday, and made the Gazette office a call. Mr. Jorris is organizing a basket ball and indoor baseball club at Thief River Falls, and while here talked with several who are interested in these sports with a view to getting like organizations started here. Basket ball and indoor baseball are two every good forms of amnsement, as well as affording opportunity for physical developement, and it would be a splendid thing for our yuung men if such organization could be secured for our city.

L. P. Berthon and the Rev. Father E. Fayolle expect to leave about the 15th inst. for points in the south to spend several weeks looking over that section of the country and to enjoy a rest from the cares of the world. They will tour the southern states quite extensively, and plan on visiting all of the principal points of interest in that part of the world, and may conclude to run over to the island of Cuba to look at that renowned island a few days. Their trip will undoubtedly be an enjoyable one, and there were never two individuals in the world who can get more fun out of it than they can.

Don't forget Salley when you want that load of coal.

Read every word of The Big Store ad—it will save you money.

Henry Bray has been employed at Kaufer's barber shop during the absence of Arthur Mercier.

M. Verboncer and family returned to Grand Forks Tuesday morning, after a holiday visit with friends and relatives here.

Mrs. C. C. Jackson returned to Thief River Falls Saturday, after a weeks' visit at the home of Mrs. E. F. Marshall in this city.

Attoroey Chas. E. Boughton drove over to Plummer last Saturday to try a law suit before a justice in Emardville, and of course won his case.

Ben Rasch, ooe of the populer N. P. section foremen, left Monday evening for Minneapolis for a visit of a couple of weeks with relatives and friends.

The Misses Doretta and Tillie Matthies arrived home yesterday from Marshall county, where they have been teaching school during the past few months.

The families of Joseph Paradis and Thomas A. Crompe spent New Years' day with Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Crompe sr., in Terrebonne township, where a most enjoyable family reunion was held.

Drew Marshall entertained a party of young gentlemen friends at his mother's home last Saturday evening. Cards furnished the diversion and oysters were served. A pleasant time is reported.

Willow City, (N. D.,) Eagle: Frank Latendresse, one of Theo. Skotland's popular clerks, will leave this morning for his old home at Red Lake Falls, Minn., for a weeks' visit with his parents—and his best girl.

A postoffice has been established at Hazel, the Soo town east of St. Hilaire, with Algot M. Edstrom postmaster. A postoffice has also been established on the ceded reservation. It is called Anton, and P. O. Berg will be the postmaster.

Dentist F. F. Fletcher announces that he will hereafter visit Plummer and Brooks each month. He will commence this month, visiting Plummer the 16th and Brooks the 17th. The people out that way will do well to remember the dates of his visit.

Mrs. Joseph Hayton will leave Friday for her home at Bemidji, after having spent the past two months with her parents here. Her sister, Miss Ella Krueger, will accompany her to Bemidji and remain there until next summer with Mrs. Hayton.

George Sauers left Tuesday for a week or ten days' visit with relatives and friends at his old home town, Melrose, Stearns county. George has worked steadily during the past year, and his brief breathing spell will no doubt be greatly enjoyed.

Arthur Ittner was out last Friday for the first time in a couple of weeks, and although his siege og sickness thined him down considerably he is still big enough to eat up four or five ordinary men. Art's friends are pleased that he recovered from his illness without a long confinement.

The "klubs"—not necessarily incorporated—will entertain a party of friends at the home of Miss Iza Tibbets this Thursday evening. The affair will be given in honor of Miss Ella Krueger, who leaves the latter part of the week for Bemidji to spend the remainder of the winter with her sister.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McIntyre very pleasantly entertained a party of friends at their home on south Main street last Saturday evening. The evening was spent in playing "Fan Tan," at which Miss Etta Zaiser was the most successful, winning the prize. Delicious refreshments were served the guests and a most delightful evening was spent by all present.

Arthur Mercier went up to Thief River Falls Monday and has been spending the week with friends (and prospective relatives.) The intervening time between a summer school session and New Years' day is said to contain many lonesome hours, and therefore Art's friends imagine that he is enjoying his visit at the up-river city.

Crookston Journol: Joseph Guillmette and Crookston are strangers and will continue so for the remainder of Guillmette,s natural life unless some action in the distant future is taken in regard to pardoning him. Last evening the convicted murderer of Mathias Mongeon, waa taken to Stillwater by Deputy Sheriff Daniels assisted by D. D. Horton, as guard, and upon his entry into the state prison this morning he will be immediately fitted out with the garb of the life convicts, his hair clipped close striped clothes put upon him and his existence as a member of society will cease. At the depot last evening Guillmette was adorned with braclets, but never moved a muscle. Apparently he has no nerves at all but are made of steel. Not once either during the trail or since has he betrayed any sign of emotion excepting the time when his family, wife and children were referred to.

Woman with Bright Red Hair Tells How Locks of a Titian Shade Have Become Desirable.

"If I had waited 20 years about getting myself born, I'd have saved myself innumerable heartaches," said a Georgetown woman to a Washington Post reporter. "My hair, as you see, is a warm Titian shade. When I was a child it was plain red, and I was commonly called 'brick top' and 'carrots.' What misery I endured on account of that flaming hair of mine! I washed it in sage tea, I soaked it in iron rust water, and I shed tears enough because of its color to float a battleship. I used to long for something to frighten me enough to turn it white. My only grain of comfort was the hope that it would darken as I grew older. Nobody considered red hair anything but a horror in those days. It's so different now. I didn't realize how different till I took my little niece downtown the other day to buy her a doll. She passed rows of black and blond-haired dolls disdainfully. At length we came to a case full of dolls whose hair was exactly the shade mine used to be. 'Oh, I want one of these!' said she. 'Look at their lovely, lovely red hair!' The toy man who showed red-haired dolls in my day would have been considered mad, but now they tell me the red-haired doll is the most popular novelty of the season. What that means as to the attitude of modern children toward red hair only one who was a red-haired child 20 years ago can tell. It was thoughtless of me to be born so soon."

ASHOD SIEGE THE LONGEST

Town Held Out Against Egyptians for Period of from Nineteen to Twenty-One Years.

The Philadelphia Ledger says that the longest siege of antiquity was that of Ashdod by the Egyptians. According to one authority it lasted 19 years. Another fixes it at 29 years. Fabled Troy was besieged for ten years. The siege of Jerusalem by Titus, A. D., 70, though not the longest, was the most sanguinary on record. Syracuse, 214 B. C., held out against the Romans for three years, and Carthage resisted them, 147 B. C., for two years. Famous among sieges was that of Parma, which capitulated in 1585 after a year's investment. Candia, in Crete, surrendered to the Turks in 1669 after a siege of 24 years, during which, it is said, 200,000 were slain. Gibraltar successfully resisted the Spaniards and French from July 16, 1779, to February 5, 1783. Among modern sieges that of Sevastopol, 1854-55, is interesting, inasmuch as the besieged were Russians. Sevastopol and Port Arthur are seaports. When the former was invested the Russians blockaded the harbor with sunken battleships. Whether the defenders of Port Arthur will resort to the same course remains to be seen. The siege of Sevastopol lasted 349 days during which the besieged were heavily reinforced.

ANIMALS ENJOY TELEGRAPH

Monkeys Perform Many Complicated Evolutions on Wires in British East Africa.

In British East Africa the animal kingdom looks upon the 2,190 miles of telegraph wire strung through that region as an innovation to be utilized. The wires arouse curiosity and stimulate experiment. The latest official report speaks of monkeys as incorrigible. They have ceased to pay much attention to the locomotive and even the shrieks of the whistle are not permitted to interfere much with the fun of swinging on the wire. Three wires are strung on the same line of poles for 584 miles between the Indian ocean and Victoria Nyanza, giving an opportunity for complicated performances. In the Kikuyu forest the monkeys in their evolutions sometimes succeed in twisting the wires together. Even the giraffe sometimes applies muscular energy to the bracket on which the wire is fastened to twist it around, stretching the wire and causing it to foul with the other wires. The hippopotamus rubs up against the poles and sometimes knocks them over.

Radium Emanations from Springs.

Monsieur Curie, whose wife was the original discoverer of radium, has lately investigated the radio-active gases given off by the waters of certain mineral springs. These emanations are strongest from the waters of Bad Gastein in Austria. They are also found in the waters from Plombieres, Bains-les-Bains, and Luxeuil in France. Monsieur Curie thinks that the emanation does not come from a radium salt dissolved in the water, but is due to some as yet unexplained cause. It has been shown by others that gases from the air and the soil can set up induced radio-activity in other substances. It is suggested that the emanations from mineral springs may account for the physiological effects of certain waters whose properties in that respect are not explained by their chemical composition.

Practicing Medicine at Ninety.

Longevity of Irishmen is proverbial, but even in that country for a doctor to be in practice at the age of 90 is unique. Dr. Woods, of Birr, has that distinction, and at the last meeting of the district board of guardians it was decided to grant him a full superannuation allowance. Popular with his patients, whom he visited on a bicycle, the venerable practitioner strenuously objected to retiring when the proposal was first brought forward. He urged that he was willing and able to earn his salary, and did not wish to take money from the public that he did not earn.

National Thanksgiving Days in History

By D. L. AMBROSE,

Author of "Lights and Shadows of a State Capital."

THERE are those who believe that Thanksgiving festivities are of modern conception and origin. In this belief they are in error. All along the intricate course of time every nation has celebrated the end of the harvest. In remotest antiquity we read of the Hebrews observing the day of "First Fruits." The high priest was on that occasion presented with a sheaf of barley, publicly reaped, with oil and frankincense subsequently in evidence.

Five weeks later came the day of Pentecost, one purpose of which was to celebrate the end of harvesting. Associated therewith were three burnt offerings and a peace offering. They also observed the "Feast of Trumpets" and Ingathering at the end of the vintage.

This latter festival wa not much unlike our modern Thanksgiving day, save in the fact that it continued eight days, from the fifteenth to the twenty-second day of the Jewish month of October, Tisri. During that time no labor was performed; the people drank and feasted and sent portions to the poor and indulged in great hilarity. Hosannas were sung, and the silver trumpets led the stately processions of choruses said to be the grandest the world has ever heard. The magnificence of the great Hebrew festival with the march of time has passed away. What is observed now is only a part of its past glory. In Disraeli's "Tancred" is given a word painting of its modern observance by the dispersed children of Israel.

The Greeks were in the habit of paying tribute to Demeter, the goddess of corn. The Romans were equally enthusiastic in their celebration of the finished harvest. Their festival was called the Cerealia which was contemporaneous with the reign of Romulus. It took its name from Ceres. The celebration was just after the ingathering of the harvests. Imposing processions were formed. composed of worshipers regaled with corn leaves and poppies. The best fruits and the sweetest wines were put upon the sacrificial altar. The Aztecs honored the Mexican Ceres with the best of the fruit dedicated to her, and then had a harvest feast. In France and Italy the vintage season at the present day is one of the many delights, one of the important features being the singing of the "Harvest Home."

History tells of the numerous special Thanksgivings. In 1608 the Pilgrim church, exiled from England, went to Holland, where it remained until 1620, when it sent the Mayflower colony to New England. After the first harvest of the colonists at Plymouth, in 1621, Gov. Bradford sent four men fowling that they might have a feast and rejoice with Thanksgiving.

In July, 1623, when rain came following a drought, the governor appointed a day of Thanksgiving, which was observed with religious services.

In June, 1632, Gov. Winthrop, of the Massachusetts Bay colony, recommended a day of Thanksgiving on account of the action of the British privy council favorable to the colonies. Such was the germ and origin of our National Thanksgiving.

A thankful people suggests a people of the truest worhip, of the highest civilization. Favors received without returnin gthanks, reveals an ill-conditioned life. A thankless people are anti-Christ.

"Praise God from whom all blessings flow," is the voice of a soul that lives more in light than in darkness.

Ebb Tide of Unionism

By FRANK K. FOSTER,

Union Labor Leader of Boston.

We in the labor movement have much to learn, though this fact is often disregarded. When I saw the tremendous wave of organization a few years ago, especially in Chicago, I feared that history would repeat itself, that the movement would be subjected to the universal law and that the tide surely would ebb. It would appear that this is exactly what has happened to the movement in Chicago.

In the scientific organization of crafts much good will be accomplished for the working people, but the inspiration and sentiment which lead men to organize must be crystallized into practical form. The organization movement must be directed by judgment and the principles of common sense must be applied or the inspiration alone will not carry the movement to ultimate triumph.

The happy optimism of the people who join labor unions, with dreams of accomplishing great things in a hurry, soon spends itself and a reaction results. Because results are not accomplished men think the organizations are worthless and are dissatisfied because the dollars invested did not bring them fortunes.

I have watched the ebb and flow of the tide of organization for many years and, notwithstanding the many times that unionism has had to retreat, there comes to me an assurance that no power on earth, not even the gathering force of Parryism or the weaknesses of our own movement, that we all know exist, can prevent the slow and certain improvement of the working people through craft organization. Don't draw any lesson of discouragement because there is an ebb in the tide. The labor movement is an evolutionary one. Great gains have been made in the past and will be made in the future.

Love Is Not All

By DR. GEORGE F. RHEINHARDT,

Professor of Hygiene, University of California.

As a class we Americans are not well bred. We give more attention to the production of a fine breed of horses and cows than we do to the production of strong, healthy men. Our presence on this earth is a matter of sentiment largely, and it is no wonder, then, that some of us are unfortunate in appearance; that we have eyes, ears and noses and heads out of shape and disproportioned. If we could only select the fittest among us for the producers of our future citizens what a fine race of citizens we could have!

These are serious matters. You men may be sending sons and daughter of your own to college some day. Then bear in mind that sentiment is not the only thing to think about when you get ready to enter into wedlock. Do not let love, playing on your heart strings, get the better of your common sense. Some men marry women they know are not fit to make good wives because they have entered into a courtship blindly and do not realize until too late that they have made a mistake. It is all right to think that there is only one girl in this world for you, but you should be very careful in selecting this one person. When a man selects a sickly girl or one in whose family there is some hereditary disorder he is either a fool or has no regard for his posterity.

TURKEY AT THE M'SWAT'S.

The Big Thanksgiving Bird Remained as a Family Bugaboo for Many Days.

CHAPTER I.

"Lobelia," asked Mr. McSwat, as he surveyed the enormous fowl that loomed up before him on the huge platter at the Thanksgiving dinner, "how much did this bird weigh—gross weight, I mean, feathers and all—as it came from its beautiful home in the country?"

"Twenty-seven and a half pounds," replied Mrs. McSwat. "The man said it was the biggest turkey he had sold this year."

After a few moments spent in a careful survey of the enemy, for the purpose of deciding the proper strategic point at which to begin the attack, he grasped his trusty weapons and sailed in.

CHAPTER II.

"I didn't order any meat for this meal, Billiger," said Mrs. McSwat, as they sat down to dinner next day. "There is plenty of the turkey left."

"Is this the same fowl we had yesterday?" asked Mr. McSwat, surveying it critically, carving knife and fork in hand. "It looks larger than it did then."

CHAPTER III.

Saturday.

Dinner hour in the McSwat mansion.

"How much did you say this majestic ruin weighed when in the pride of its full-grown beauty, Lobelia?" said Billiger, making a gash on the left side of the turkey, hitherto untouched, and slicing off some of the white meat.

"Twenty-seven pounds and a half."

"I had forgotten whether it was 27 or 37. Did you ever see a picture of an aepyornis, Lobelia?"

"No. What is it?"

"It is a gigantic bird, of which some remarkably interesting fossil remains have been found. Its egg was several times as large as an ostrich's egg. The bird itself, I am happy to say, is now extinct—unless this is an aepyornis."

CHAPTER IV.

"The sermon this morning, Lobelia," observed Mr. McSwat, sitting down at the table Sunday afternoon and unfolding his napkin, says the Chicago Tribune, "did not strike me as being in the preacher's happiest vein. What he said, though, about character being formed largely by the home life, with its quiet and refined influences—O, great Caesar, Lobelia! Is this that thundering old turkey again? Are we never going to have the last of it?"

"Now, you needn't make a fuss about that turkey, Billiger. It's nicely warmed over, and it will be just as good as ever. There's too much of it to throw away, and you know it as well as I do."

"Pardon me for asking the question again, Lobelia, but how much did you say it weighed in the raw?"

"Twenty-seven and one-half pounds. You ought to be able to remember it by this time."

CHAPTER V.

Early next morning, before anybody else in the house was stirring, Billiger McSwat slipped downstairs, took the remains of that turkey out of the icebox and weighed them on the scales.

There still remained seven pounds and a half, including the skeleton.

And the drumsticks, large, leathery and terrible, were yet untouched.

Thereupon Billiger McSwat, with a hunted look on his face, fled.

He took his dinner downtown that day, and when he did return, at 11 p. m., he sneaked upstairs to bed.

(THE END.)

The Day After Thanksgiving.

Said little Willie to little Millie:
"What did you do on Thanksgiving?

"Oh! I had the loveliest time. I was helped four times to turkey."

"So was I."

"And I had half a mince pie, and three dishes of ice cream, and a lot of cranberry sauce."

"So did I."

"Then I had nuts and raisins and oranges—"

"So did I."

"And a box of candy."

"So did I."

"And the next day I had the doctor—"

"So did I."

Said little Willie to little Millie.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Now Watch Him.

"Hear me gobble," said the turkey.

"Well," observed the farmer's son, as he dragged it toward the block, "turn about is fair play, you know."—Brooklyn Life.

PRIDE GOETH BEFORE A FALL.

Young Turkey—By the way the farmer is feeding me, he must think I'm a pretty fine bird!

Old Gobbler—Yes. But don't get stuffed up too much or the first thing you know you'll lose your head entirely,

JOHNSON IS CHAIRMAN

January Meeting of the Board of County Commissioners of Red Lake County Held this Week.

The January meeting of the board of county commissioners of Red Lake county convened at the court house Monday noon, and the dads have been busy grinding out matters of importance to the taxpayers.

The first business was the selection of a chairman, and Ole J. Johnson was chosen, James Sutor being elected vice-chairman.

The bonds of the sheriff in the sum of $5,000, register of deeds in the sum of $5,000 and county attorney in the sum of $2,000 were approved.

The eleven towns acquired by reason of the reservation sale were organized into an election district, and the residents of these towns will vote by themselves until further arrangements are made.

A resolution was passed authorizing the sale of $6,000 worth of ditch bonds for ditch No.21.

A resolution was passed dividing the funds of school district No. 36, to give new district 272, in Polk county, her share of assests of the old district. The school officers of the two districts were unable to agree on a basis for division, and Auditor Hoffard, of Polk, and Ford, of Red Lake, were left to decide the matter, which they did, giving the new district 30 per cent of the resources of district 36.

The report of the Board of Auditors was approved.

J. O. Gjerberg was reengaged as janitor at a salary of $50 per month, an increase of $10 over last year.

Applications of D. Patterson, Thos. Morean and R. J. McKircher for auctioneers' licenses were granted.

The bid of the "combine," comprising the Red Lake Courier, St. Hilaire Spectator, Thief River Falls News and Thief River Falls Press for the official printing was allowed at the lowest rate ever secured in the county. The bidders agree to furnish supplements to every legal newspaper in the county.

The application of Thos. Kinslea for abatement of taxes was recommended and approved.

The surety bond of Karl M. Hanson, in the sum of $70,000 was approved.

Engineers' estimates were allowed as follows: E. A. Moran, Lambert ditch No. 1, final estimate, $27.61. Theo. Halvorson, ditch No. 21, partial estimate, $2000.

The board of commissioners examined the books, accounts and vouchers of retiring treasurer Tandberg and found the same correct.

The salaries of the county officers were fixed as follows for the ensuing year: Auditor, $1,200; treasurer, $1,250; superintendent of schools, $1,050; county attorney, $1,250.

A resolution was passed appropriating [illegible] from the revenue fund to the incidental expense fund.

The petition of H. J. Enderle, et. al. praying the right to incorporate that part of [illegible] township known as Plummer into a village was granted, and Tuesday the 7th day of February, was set as the time of the holding of the special election for the purpose of voting upon the proposition. The election will be held in the barber shop of Adolph Nelson from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. of that day, and Chas. W. Latta, E. B. Lunager and Adolph Nelson were appointed as inspectors of the election.

The petitions of Marie Boucher, Adelor Boucher and George Charest, asking that they be set off with their lands from school district No. 73 to school district No. 9 were granted.

The usual quota of bills are being allowed and other business attended to. The commissioners will probably finish their labors today.

Bent Her Double.

"I [illegible] for four weeks, when I [illegible] with typhoid and kidney [illegible]," writes Mrs. Annie Hunter, of Pittsburg, Pa., "and when I got better, although I had one of the best doctors I could get, I was bent double, and had to rest my hands on my knees when I walked. From this terrible affliction I was rescued by Electric Bitters, which restored my health and strength, and now I can walk as straight as ever. They are simply wonderful." Guaranteed to cure stomach, liver and kidney disorders; at W. A. Schroiter's drug store; 50c, price.

SOO'S NEW LINE.

State Railway Commission Publishes Its Report Thereon.

The state railroad and warehouse commission has issued its officiel report upon the inspection of the new Soo Line branch between Glenwood and the international line, part of the new through line to Winnipeg, made by its members earlier in the month. The findings of the commission follow:

"This branch of the Soo railway extends from Glenwood, Pope county, to Emerson on the north line of the state, a distance of 266.5 miles. The road was completed in November, 1904, and is now in full operation. At Emerson connection is made with the Canadian Pacific railway. The general course of the line of railway is north, traversing the counties of Pope, Douglas, Otter Tail, Becker, Norman, Polk, Red Lake, Marshall and Kittson, passing from north to south through the White Earth Indian reservation. Most of the lands traversed are rich agricultural lands. Many beautiful lakes are seen from the road.

"The new line crosses the Great Northern railway at Alexandria, Erskine and Thief River Falls, and the Northern Pacific railway at Glenwood, Henning and Detroit City.

"The number of stations on the line is forty-four and the average distance between stations is about six miles.

The principal stations are Glenwood, Alexandria, Detroit City and Thief River Falls.

"All but five stations are provided with good station buildings, roomy platforms, and where necessary, stock yards have been built.

"At most of the stations there have been erected from one to four modern elevators.

"Two hundred miles of the road are laid with eighty-pound steel rails, and all but fifty miles is well ballasted. On the whole, the road is first-class, and much credit is due the company for providing the new line with such good facilities for the accommodation of the public."

Do Something.

The man who does things is the fellow who gets there. A drone is a worthless wart. The worker wins. When a town wants to be improved it is the workers—the fellows who do things—that improves the town.

They build sidewalks, pave streets, put up new modern business houses and residences start new enterprises and make the old town hard to catch.

The man who does things is always a booster. He gets there with both feet himself and makes everything he undertakes move in the same direction.

If there is a person who needs help the fellow who raises the money to bury the dead and feed the living is the man who does things.

In a business way the man who does the business is the same fellow who makes everything else go. It pays to be a doer.

It pays to have a reputation for pushing things you undertake to successful termination.

This is frequently half the fight. People know when a fellow is in the habit of winning that he will win if it takes him a hundred years to do it.

The young professional man who starts out to win can do so much easier after he gets a reputation for doing things. A farmer who does things is worth more to the country than a hundred hands.

One man in every community who does things will make his country move to the front in rapid strides. We all admire action, but the life is too strenuous for the most of us.

What this country needs is more doers. We honor the man who does thing much more than we do the rich man or the talented man.

In politics, in religion, in business, in everything, the man who does the things wins. And he does not do things for himself alone. He is liberal and helps others. His motto is, Do. And he does everything he undertakes.

Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists. A. L. Reichert

The greatest system renovator. Restores vitality, regulates the kidneys, liver and stomach. If Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea fails to cure get you money back. That's fair. 35 cents. Tea or Tablets. W. A. Schreiter.

The Local Overflow........

Dr. J. E. Argue was a St. Hilaire visitor several days of this week.

A pleasant dancing party was held at the K. of P. hall last Monday evening.

Miss Etta Zaiser will entertain a small party of girl friends tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. Mattie McIntyre, of Madison, Wis, arrived Tuesday for a visit with her sister, Mrs. A. L. Reichert.

Miss Maud Findelsen returned to her school north of Wylie after having enjoyed a two weeks' vacation at home.

Mrs. Joseph Gray and children arrived home Monday from Solway where they spent the holidays with Mr. Gray.

Mrs. W. A. Murphy and little son returned to Thief River Falls Saturday after spending the Christmas holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Kaufer.

The Board of Education has engaged Miss Carrie E. Tambling, of Minneapolis, as principal of the high school to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Tohan.

Miss Josephine Kaus will return to Hallock Saturday to resume her duties in the school of that place after having spent a most enjoyable vacation with the home people and friends.

James McAnulty is quite sick at his home in this city, suffering from a slight attack of heart failure. Mr. McAnulty is getting well along in years, and his health is not as good as his family would like to have it.

Erank E. Hunt departed Monday evening for his southern trip. He was joined at Minneapolis by Jas. I. Wyer who will make the trip with him. Mr. Hunt will remain in Georgia the remainder of the winter if the climate proves benificial.

Miss Stella Lasha, who has been making her home with her aunt at St. Paul for the past year and a half arrived here last Saturday morning for a visit at the home of her father, Eli Lasha. Her visit was unexpected by the family, and they are making it very pleasant for her.

Nick Drees reports to The Gazette that he finished two fine wells in Black River township last week, one for Henry Busse and another for George Weiss. Mr. Dress has had good success with his drilling outfit and many Red Lake county people have secured fine wells through his efforts.

C. F. Johnson has retired from the Northern Minnesota Milling company. Leo Steinert and Theo. Majires remain to continue the business. Mr. Steinert will have charge of the mill and as he is known as one of the shrewdest millers in the northwest, it is safe to assume that the mill will still be continured successfully.

Joke On Lockman.

Crookston Times: A. G. Lockman says that all the thermometers were wrong regarding the temperature night before last. He is certain that it was at least 76 below zero, and none are more competent to judge as he was out of doors for some time with no clothes on.

Mrs. Lockman is visiting east, and A. G. was at home alone that evening. He wanted to see just how cold it was and stepped out on the porch to look at the thermometer, closing the door behind him. He looked at the recorder of cold weather and on trying to re-enter the house found the door locked. He remembered then that the key was in his pants pocket inside and there he was with the wind howling about his slim shins with nothing but a dressing gown on.

He figured, shivering in every limb, for a few minutes and decided there was but one way to get in. He went to the rear—smashed a storm window and after hammering and prying for half an hour managed to raise the inside window and crawl in. The communings he had with himself during the procedure, he says, would not look well in print, and it took three hours to take the frost out of his shaking body and aching bones.

Senator Clapp Wins Fight.

Senator Moses E. Clapp of St. Paul will be elected United States senator for the term beginning March 4, 1905, and ending March 4, 1911. He was nominated in the Republican caucus Tuesday night by a vote of 127 to 1. Gov. S. R. Van Sant concedes his election Jan. 17, when the ballots are cast, by an overwhelming majority and the supports of Judge Gilfillan admit defeat, although the judge last night refused to make a statement.

Only one vote was cast against the junior senator in the caucus held in the house chamber of the new capitol. Representative John G. Lund of Hennepin county, in accordance with his previous announcement, voted for Gilfillan. President Cyrus Northrop of the state university received a complimentary vote from Representative Sherman S. Smith of Minneapolis on the original roll call, but Mr. Smith afterward moved to make the nomination of Senator Clapp unanimous, at the same time changing his vote to Clapp.

Simons Calls at Bemidji.

Bemidji Sentinel: Hon. L. C. Simons came down from Red Lake Falls Friday to meet some of his constituents at Bagley and then at this place. In Clearwater county Mr. Simons was impressed by the earnestness of his friends in the matter of drainage and at this point he found a still stronger sentiment on that topic. As to senatorial matters Mr. Simons is not bothering himself. He says the election will be on Jan. 10th and by that time he will have had plenty of time to scan the field. "During the primary fight" says Mr. Simons, "Clapp's friends were not for me and the friends who stood for me were not for Clapp. I may vote for the Senator but it is some weeks away—the ballot." Mr. Simons felt that whatever obligations he might have been under to the friends of Senator Clapp prior to the primaries they more than evened up on him by supporting some one else, but politics is a game—he is playing his own string and it may be that Senator Clapp will get his vote. Mr. Simons left here Friday afternoon for the cities where he expected to meet some prominent politicians and to also have an opportunity of confering with speaker-to-be Clague.

G. N. ON TO ROSEAU

Roseau County Metropolis to Be Given Railroad Facilities Next Season—Great Northern Will Build.

Roseau county residents are already out with stories of the proposed G. N. extension to the county seat and its possible completion during the coming summer. The work done last year by the G. N. upon its extension northward from Thief River Falls was of great interest to Roseau people, inasmuch as it meant the still futher extension in the near future of the line to Roseau and possibly Warroad. The idea which is prevalent in Roseau county and has considerable ground for its foundation, is that the Great Northern will another summer complete the line put into Greenbush last fall, and lay the steel bands into the present county seat of Roseau county.

This action on the part of the road, while it will necessitate a considerable amount of building, will prove a great adjunct in the settlement and improvement of the northern country. Roseau county is one of the richest in the northern tier of states and has natural advantages in the line of good soil, pasture and meadows, which cannot but result in a rapid upbuilding of the district when immigration is encouraged by the building of railroads, and the farmers at present in prosperous thrifty circumstances there are allowed to get their products to market easily and without great expense. In regard to the proposed continuation of the Greenbush extension next summer the Roseau Region says:

"R. H. Medicraft, of the Rosean Region is in receipt of a letter from [illegible] Wilkinson, of the Great Northern, with reference to the extension of the line from Greenbush to Roseau, in which Mr. Wilkinson says that the company will undoubtedly carry out the plan to give Roseau county ample railroad facilities and 'I expect to come to your town upon the cars in the near future.' The Region wishes to impress upon its neighbors the fact that Mr. Wilkinson is an authority upon the matter, and we have also stated that we relied upon his promise being made good."

Fakirs Abroad.

Crookston Times: Thomas Casey informs us that several fake chart men are touring the country with a proposition which appears very alluring but one which the school officials want to have nothing to do with. According to Mr. Casey the charts are not worth the paper they are printed upon, but the agents ask and receive in a great many cases $65 per set. Cash is taken where the officers of the school are gullible and easily worked but in other deals orders for the full amount are taken and then resold to some bank in the district. Casey wishes to warn the school districts of the county in an emphatic manner against the practise of purchasing charts no matter what the endorsements and recommendations of the agents may purport to be.

No Church at St. Joseph's.

Owing to the fact that Rev. Father Fayolle will leave the first of the week for his trip throughout the southern states, there will be no church services at St. Joseph's church for two or three Sundays during his absence. The regular services will be held the coming Sunday, however, but none thereafter until Father Fayolle's return.

Bregier Takes a Wife.

The marriage of Z. Bregier and Miss Leah Marchildon was solemnized at St. Joseph's church last Sunday afternoon, the Rev. Father Fayolle performing the ceremony, and the young couple are now stoping at the bride's home in this city. The groom is the proprietor of Red Lake Falls' bowling alleys and billiard parlors, while the bride is the daughter of Mrs. H. Marchildon, and well known here. Both are popular young people, and are receiving the congratulations of their friends.

SENATORS FARE WELL.

Swedback and Stephens Land Important Chairmanships.

In the make up of the senate committees Senator Swedback of this district secures an important assignment in the chairmanship of the committee on agriculture. Assignments other than chairmanships have not been announced.

The most important committee so far as northern Minnesota is concerned is the committee on drainage and the chairmanship of this committee goes to Senator A. D. Stephens of Crookston. Senator Stephens is an enthusiastic advocate of drainage and at the last session secured the passage of the famous three per cent bill by which counties can borrow money for drainage from the state funds at three per cent instead of paying seven per cent as before.

LIMITED IS WRECKED.

Winnipeg Passenger Runs Amuck at a Split Switch.

Crookston Times: The Great Northern flyer, north-bound for Winnipeg was wrecked Monday at the junction north of this one mile. Two cars were derailed and the train divided, the sleepers taking the Grand Forks track and the engines, it being a double header, the baggage car, express car and smoker keeping on the St. Vincent track. The first-class day coach was undecided which track to take and landed half way between the two, losing the rear trucks in the mix-up. No one was hurt in the shake up in the day coach but the passengers were jostled about considerably and some were badly frightened. However, all were transfered to the two sleepers and brought back to the city in good order.

Without doubt the cause of the wreck was a split switch. The two engines and the baggage, express and smoking cars passed the switch all right, and it is probable that the front trucks of the day coach did also. The rear trucks of the day coach, however, must have taken the Grand Forks track, and the two sleepers at the rear also headed that way. This accounts for the day coach landing where it did, between the two tracks and at right angles to the balance of the train. The front end remained on the St. Vincent track, but the rear end was slewed around so close to the Grand Forks track that the two sleepers that passed it could not be pulled back on the main track till the day coach had been moved a couple of feet.

While the damage done was very slight comparatively speaking, the vestibules of the sleeper and the day coach and the rear end of the smoking car were splintered up considerably, and the hand rails were torn off in nearly every instance.

The sides of the two sleepers were also scratched up considerably where they scraped along the end of the day coach that was completely derailed.

The St. Vincent track from the junction north was torn up pretty badly for several rods. One of the rails was all broken to pieces and many others were twisted and bent out of shape. A wrecking crew was called out at once and began clearing up the track. The passenger coach was lifted to one side and the rails relaid to allow the double header and the three coaches to pull back to the yards.

The two sleepers were pulled back to the yards and the through passengers had an opportunity to look at Crookston during their wait.

The train stopped before the junction was reached and was just getting under way again. Had the train been running under full headway the wreck might have been a disastrous one costing several lives.

Forced to Starve.

B. F. Leek, of Concord, Ky., says: "For 20 years I suffered agonies, with a sore on my upper lip, so painful, sometimes, that I could not eat. After vainly trying everything else, I cured it with Bucklen's Arnica Salve." It's great for burns, cuts and wounds. At W. A. Schreiter's drug store; Only 25c.

NEW TELEPHONE LINE

Telephone Connections With Towns Out East To Be Established Immediately.

Postmaster Louis Doucet and several other Lambert citizens are working on a project whereby the towns of Terrebonne, Lambert and Brooks will be connected with this city by telephone and it is thought that sufficent interest can be worked up to assure the commencement of the line at once.

The proposition is to furnish the money by popular subscription in the towns benefitted, and to purchase the necessary material and construct the line with such funds, the proceeds after completion to be returned to the various subscribers.

Telephone connection with the towns out east has long been desired both by the people there and in this city, and there is little doubt but what the money can readily be secured for the construction of the line.

Mr. Doucet will be in town within a day or two to lay the proposition before the people, and his efforts should prove highly successful.

TAX LISTS READY.

Red Lake County People Can Now "Dig Up" Annual Donations

The tax lists of the personal and real estate taxes of 1904, payable in 1905 are now in the office of the county treasurer and are payable at that office. Parties desiring to pay either of these taxes may do so at any time now.

There will be no penalties on the personal list until the first day of March when a penalty of ten per cent with attach to all taxes of this nature then unpaid. Part of this list is published this week, and the rest of the county will be published as fast as possible.

The penalty limit upon the real estate taxes is June 1, after which penalties will attach. These taxes may be paid in full or only half of them will be accepted.

When half the taxes are paid in either case no penalties will attach until January first when there will be a penalty attach to that portion of the tax either personal or real estate remaining unpaid.

Bray Mutual Elects Officers.

The Bray Mutual Fire Insurance company held their annual meeting at the village hall of St. Hilaire last Monday morning. The affairs of the company were never in a more promising condition and the stockholders showed their appreciation by re-electing the officers, who are:

President—Nels K. Anderson.
Secretary—C. P. Swanson.
Treasurer—Ole Opperud.
Directors—Peter Englestad, P. O. Halstrom, Carl Gerlasch.

The secretary's books show that there is now $319,000 insurance in force and several applications pending.

No Change In Firm.

The Gazette last week announced, presumably on sufficient authority, that C. F. Johnson had retired from the Northern Minnesota Milling company, but has since learned that this was a mistake, and hastens to make amends. No change has been made in the company, and The Gazette's informant was evidently wrong in his statements.

New Feature This Week.

The Gazette this week introduces a new feature into its columns, which will undoubtedly prove a popular one with the people of Red Lake county. An "Educational Column" to be directed by Prof. E. W. Chamberlain, is introduced, and Mr. Chamberlain's outline is submitted in the column this week. It is the intention of Mr. Chamberlain to secure the co-operation of the teachers of the county in making an attractive and instructive feature of this department, and it is a foregone conclusion that it will be appreciated by those interested in school work.

DAIRY NOTES.

(From the Ada Index.)

If wheat raising was laid aside for a few years and the farmers would go into the stock-raising business they would make more money. Now while the price of cattle is low, it would be a good time to buy a few and increase your herd. The past year the wheat raisers have been very unfortunate in this vicinity, but the cow is the stayer.

A little flax seed meal is good feed for the calves and also for the mothers.

Bed your cows and keep them clean, for cleanliness is of great importence for the dairyman.

A lover of stock is the man who will make the money.

Don't neglect your hand separators and think they don't have to be washed regularly. In order to have them clean, for the most of you have them in the house where it is warm, and they will get sour as quick as in the summer, is to give them a good cleaning once a day. You can't expect to deliver the finest cream to your creamery unless you keep you separator clean.

Cool your cream as quickly as possible after skimming and it will keep better.

Every farmer should try and arrange matters so he can attend the Red River Valley Dairymen's Convention, on Feb. 2, 3 and 4. Everyone who attends this convention will reap a lot of good facts that will be of great benefit in the future.

Good pure cream is the only thing to make good butter from. We believe every farmers will agree to this.

A good industrious farmer will never keep a poor cow, as they will take enough interest in the matter to have every cow tested and find out whether or not she pays for herself, and if he finds out she doesn't pay he will get rid of her as soon as possible. This is the way to build up your herd and make money.

Good timothy and clover buy and bran makes good feed for cows, or oats and barley ground will also be a milk producer.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists A. L. Raichert.

ST. HILAIRE

(From the Spectator.)

A crew of men started at work the first of the week putting the planing mill in order. It is the intention of the lumber company to start the planer at work about the 20th of this month. A large number of orders are on hand and it will be busy all winter.

Nels G. Otterness drove over to Plummer last evening and took the Soo for the cities. He will spend several days in Iowa on land deals.

The St. Hilaire hotel and bar was opened last Monday by K. R. Killend.

Dr. J. E. Argue, of Red Lake Falls, was here several days the first of the week.

Frank Jeffers, the newly elected register of deeds, was here from Red Lake Falls last Saturday calling on friends.

Norman W. Hannay left last evening for Pacific coast points where he will look over the country with a view to locating.

A. M. Edstrom returned the first of the week from a visit at his old home in Goodhue county.

Prof. J. B. O'Brien returned from St. Paul last Monday where he had been visiting for a week.

George Ralph, the well-known Crookston engineer, was here on business last Thursday.

Dr. N. M. Watson, the well known politician, was a caller here yesterday.

Frank E. Packard, of the Crookston Times, was a caller here last Tuesday.

Henry J. Enderle came over from Plummer last Saturday and made his New Years resolutions here. We won't tell you what they were, however.

Business will resume again at the Spectator office as foreman A. F. Ittner is again at work after three weeks of illness.

Several loads of young people drove out to Hazel last Saturday evening and enjoyed a social dance in Otterness & Edstrom's new store building. All who were there report having had a first class time.

H. D. Patthona came in from the woods last Monday and spent a couple of days here looking over the improvement at the mill, leaving Wednesday evening for Minneapolis where he will spend a month.

Sheriff Dan Linnihan in company with Andrew Erickson, P. E. Dainerd, Andrew Letvig and Chas. Krohn went out to Wyandotte yesterday to evict Mrs. Hanum from a piece of land which has been under dispute.

The Firemen determined at a meeting Thursday evening to give a Masquerade ball on Wednesday evening, January 25th. Full details will be announced next week. The boys are trying to make it the event of the season.

The Diamond Cure.

The latest news from Paris, is, that they have discovered a diamond cure for consumption. If you fear consumption or pneumonia, it will, however, be best for you to take that great remedy mentioned by W. T. McGee, of Vanleer, Tenn. "I had a cough, for fourteen years. Nothing helped me, until I took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which gave instant relief, and effected a permanent cure." Unequalled quick cure, for throat and lung troubles. At W. A. Schreiter's drug store; price 50c and $1.00, guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

JAPS CAPTURE 48,000

RUSSIAN GARRISON AT PORT ARTHUR MUCH LARGER THAN FIRST REPORTED.

Over Thirty-two Thousand Men of the Russian Land and Naval Forces in Fighting Condition Capitulate to the Japanese and in Addition Fifteen or Sixteen Thousand Are Confined in the Hospitals.

Tokio, Jan. 5.—A report from General Nogi's headquarters largely increases the figures of the surrendered garrison and indicates that the force handed over to the Japanese at Port Arthur will be 32,000, exclusive of 15,000 or 16,000 sick and wounded, making a rough total of 48,000. The report is as follows:

"As previously reported the transfer of the objects mentioned in article 2 of capitulation compact on Jan. 4 and the transfer of the forts and batteries has been completed.

"The prisoners will be assembled at the place appointed on the day agreed on, but the investigation relating to the prisoners is so complicated that the result cannot be reported at present.

"Reports received up to date are as follows:

"Eight generals, 4 admirals, 57 colonels and majors, 100 captains and commanders, 531 army captains and lieutenants, 200 naval lieutenants and naval officials, 99 army officials, 109 surgeons, 20 chaplains, of the rank and file of the army 22,434, of the rank and file of the navy 4,500, army non-combatants 3,645, naval non-combatants 500; total 32,207.

"Besides these there are about 15,000 or 16,000 sick and wounded in the hospitals. The volunteers are chiefly included in the list of non-combatants.

"One hundred saddle horses and 1,870 draft horses were surrendered."

TERMS OF SURRENDER

AGREEMENT UNDER WHICH RUSSIANS TURNED PORT ARTHUR OVER TO THE JAPS.

Tokio, Jan. 4.—The official text of the articles of capitulation of the Port Arthur garrison, signed by the commissioners representing Generals Stoessel and Nogi, has been made public here. All Russian soldiers, marines and civil officials of the garrison and harbor are made prisoners; all forts, batteries, vessels, munitions, etc., are transferred to the Japanese in the condition in which they existed at noon of Jan. 3, violation of this clause to operate as an annulment of the negotiations, giving the Japanese army warrant to take free action; the Russian military and naval authorities are to furnish to the Japanese army an exhibit of all fortifications, underground and submarine mines, a list of military officers, of ships and the numbers of their crews, and of civilians of both sexes, with their race and occupations; and all public property, as buildings, munitions of war, etc., to be left in the present position pending arrangement for their transference. Officers of the army and navy are permitted to retain their swords and such of their personal property as is directly necessary for the maintenance of life, and with one servant each may, upon signing their parole not to take arms during the continuance of the war, return to Russia. Non-commissioned officers and privates will be held as prisoners. For the benefit of the sick and wounded Russians the sanitary corps and the accountants belonging to the Russian army and navy will be required to serve under the Japanese sanitary corps and accountants for such period of time as may be deemed necessary.

RETURN TO EUROPE

ADMIRAL ROJESTVENSKY'S VESSELS RECALLED FROM MADAGASCAR.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 6.—Although orders to that effect have not yet been sent to Admiral Rojestvensky the Associated Press is able to announce positively that the decision has been reached that the Russian second Pacific squadron, now at Madagascar en route to the Far East, will return to European waters.

AS PRISONERS OF WAR.

Three Russian Generals and an Admiral Will Go to Japan.

Headquarters Japanese Army at Port Arthur, via Fusan, Jan. 9.—Lieutenant Generals Fock, Smirnoff and Gordhatowsky and Rear Admiral Wiren have decided to go to Japan as prisoners of war. General Smirnoff was in command of the forts at Port Arthur and General Fock commanded the Fourth division of the army there. General Fock says he will drill his men in Japan.

Fifty per cent of the Russian officers will go to Japan and share with their men the fate of prisoners of war.

There are five Russian admirals at Port Arthur, one of whom will go to Japan. Among the admirals is a prince.

Twelve foreign naval attaches have visited Port Arthur and inspected the remains of the Russian fleet.

The transfer of prisoners at Port Arthur was completed at 4:30 p. m. Saturday. The total number of officers transferred was 878, men 23,491.

General Nogi reports that the officers paroled to date number 441 and orderlies 229.

MONTANA LAND FRAUDS.

Many Residents of That State Accused of Perjury.

Helena, Mont., Jan. 10.—Judge William S. Hunt in the United States court here Monday overruled the demurrers of the defendants to the indictments in the case of the United States vs. R. M. Cobban, J. B. Cattlin, and many others, charged with subornation of perjury and perjury in connection with timber land entries in Western Montana. The accused will now have to come to trial.

There are twelve indictments for subornation of perjury and ninety for perjury. Included in the defendants are many settlers in Powell and Missoula counties who are alleged to have made false oath in proving up on their timber lands which was afterwards acquired by Senator W. A. Clark. It is charged that Cobban and Cattlin, well known citizens of Missoula, induced their people to swear falsely. The indictments were returned in June, 1901, and the cases have since been pending in court.

AFFAIRS IN BAD SHAPE.

President Orders Removal of Officials of Oregon Land Office.

Washington, Jan. 9.—As the result of the investigation and prosecution of the land frauds cases in Oregon the president has signed an order suspending from office James H. Booth and Joseph T. Bridges, respectively register and receiver of the United States land office at Roseburg, Ore.

The action is on the recommendation of Secretary Hitchcock and was based on a telegram from Assistant United States District Attorney Heney, who alleged that the affairs of the Roseburg office were in bad condition.

TOWBOAT BLOWS UP

EIGHT MEN KILLED AND THREE SERIOUSLY INJURED IN EXPLOSION AND FIRE.

Huntington, W. Va., Jan. 4.—Eight men are known to be dead and three seriously injured in a boiler explosion and fire which destroyed the Pittsburg towboat Defender here early in the day. The dead are: Perry Spencer, mate; Horace Wetzel, watchman; James Seese, lamp trimmer; Albert Hamilton, fireman; Mike Stafford, fireman; Thomas Duffy, fireman; Will Wetzel, deckhand; George Kidd, deckhand.

The Defender is owned by the Monongahela and Ohio Consolidated Coal and Coke company. The boat was returning from Cincinnati with a tow of empties. Captain James Woodward was in the pilothouse at the time of the accident and with the exception of firemen, engineer and the watchman the remainder of the crew were asleep.

The noise was heard for three miles. The survivors grabbed what clothing they could find and plunged into the icy waters of the Ohio river in an effort to escape. The night was bitter cold, the thermometer hovering about zero, and those who escaped were nearly frozen before they could be given shelter.

The boat caught fire immediately following the explosion and drifted down the river about 200 yards, where she sank in shallow water. The fire continued until she was burned to the water's edge.

RESULTS IN SEVEN DEATHS.

New York Experiences Worst Blizzard in Several Years.

New York, Jan. 5.—Not in several years has New York been visited by a storm of such proportions as that which commenced Tuesday and continued until early Wednesday. Nine inches of snow fell, paralyzing traffic, and the marked drop in the temperature brought untold suffering to the city's poor. The blizzard caused seven deaths in New York and vicinity, while many persons, overcome by the cold, dropped to the street, some of them receiving fractured bones.

Incoming ocean liners report a blizzard at sea. The effects of the blizzard were felt at most points along the New England and Middle Atlantic coast. So far no marine fatalities have been reported, due in large measure to the fact that mariners had been warned to stay in port.

AT SAME SCALE OF WAGES.

Work Resumed in Mills of Illinois Steel Company.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—The shutdown of the Illinois Steel company's works at South Chicago ended during the day. Two thousand men who have been idle for four weeks were given employment. More will be taken on as work develops in the various departments. An official of the company, denying reports that wages had been cut 20 to 45 per cent, said:

"The wages and working conditions are the same as when the men were laid off a month ago."

GILLESPIE CONVICTED.

Indiana Man Given Life Imprisonment for Slaying Sister.

Rising Sun, Ind., Jan. 5.—James Gillespie, who, with his sister, Mrs. Belle Steward, and Mr. and Mrs. Myron Barbour, was indicted for the murder of his twin sister, Miss Elizabeth Gillespie, has been found guilty and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Miss Gillespie was shot and killed by a person outside the house while she was in the parlor of her home preparing to entertain a woman's literary club.

BETTINA GIRARD IS DEAD.

Actress Dies in New York Hospital of Acute Pneumonia.

New York, Jan. 9.—Bettina Girard, the actress, daughter of the late General Ordway of Washington, died in Roosevelt hospital Sunday. Notice of her death was given to the coroner's office, which began an investigation. The woman was removed from her apartments Saturday and at the hospital the name of Elizabeth Witter is given. It was stated that her body was claimed under the name of Ordway.

IN FIT OF BLIND RAGE

TRACY (MINN.) YOUNG MAN SERIOUSLY WOUNDS TWO WOMEN AND SUICIDES.

As Result of Dispute Jealous Lover Shoots His Sweetheart and Her Mother, the Latter Fatally, and Then Kills Himself—Shocking Double Tragedy Occurs at Virginia, Minn., Jealousy Being the Motive.

Tracy, Minn., Jan. 10.—In a fit of blind rage after a quarrel with his sweetheart James Hueston, aged twenty-one, drew a revolver, seriously wounded the woman of his affections, Eva Lindsley, aged twenty, fatally shot her mother and then, turning the weapon upon himself, sent a bullet through his heart.

Eva Lindsley's wound is serious, though not necessarily fatal. Mrs. Lindsley had already lost considerable blood and the doctor could hold out little hope of her recovery.

Hueston came to Tracy about a year ago from St. Charles, Ia., and was engaged by Lindsley to do the chore work about the place. He became infatuated with the daughter of the house and as she displayed a liking for him they soon were engaged to be married.

The shooting occurred in the kitchen of the Lindsley home. The lovers were talking together when a dispute arose. Suddenly Hueston drew a revolver and shot her through the side. Hueston then turned his attention to Mrs. Lindsley, who tried to rush to the assistance of her wounded and unconscious daughter. He sent a bullet through her back and she fell to the floor, almost across the prostrate body of her daughter. The man then shot himself. Death must have been instantaneous as the bullet pierced his heart.

KILLS GIRL AND HIMSELF.

Shocking Double Tragedy Occurs at Virginia, Minn.

Virginia, Minn., Jan. 10.—A shocking tragedy, with jealousy as the motive, was committed here during the morning. John Phillips, a woodsman, shot and killed Miss Ruth Phillips and then turned the weapon on himself with fatal effect. The murderer and his victim were of distant relationship. Mr. Phillips sought to court the girl, but she declined to receive his attentions seriously. He was thirty-three and she sixteen years of age.

COLD FATAL TO MANY

FIFTY PERSONS PERISH DURING RECENT SEVERE WEATHER IN GERMANY.

Berlin, Jan. 9.—More than fifty persons were frozen to death in the provinces of East Prussia, West Prussia and Posen during the recent cold period, including two letter carriers, the driver of a post wagon, a policeman and fifteen fishermen.

Nothing has been heard of the lightship stationed off Borkum reef, Hanover, which broke away from her anchorage Friday night during a terrific storm and went adrift. The government has sent out a steamer to search for the missing vessel.

Geneva, Jan. 9.—It is said that twenty-four persons lost their lives in the mountains during the recent blizzard, fourteen of the casualties being on the St. Bernard pass.

POISON TESTIMONY ADMITTED.

Prosecution Scores a Point in Gebhard Murder Trial.

New Ulm, Minn., Jan. 10.—Judge Webber has admitted all the poison testimony in the Koch murder trial which the state tried to get in Saturday. This ruling makes it possible for the state to complete its chain of evidence and adds materially to the strength of the state's case.

Dr. O. C. Strickler, physician and surgeon, with offices in the postoffice block where both Gebhard and Koch had their offices, was the star witness Monday. He told of having a bottle of strychnine tablets taken from his office and said that after the murder of Gebhard he examined Dr. Koch's hands and found three scratches about two inches long on one hand and said that the tip of one of the fingers of the other hand was gouged out.

G. W. Barnes, superintendent of agents of the Minnesota Mutual Fire Insurance company, with offices adjoining those of Dr. Koch, testified at the morning session that he had a typewriter in his office from Aug. 15 to Nov. 1, and H. P. Baird and Percy Livesey, typewriter experts from St. Paul, swore that the box of poison was addressed to Dr. Gebhard on this machine.

FARGO HAS HOT BLAZE.

Five Buildings Burned by Early Morning Conflagration.

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 10.—Fire at 3 a. m. destroyed the Minnesota House, Minneapolis House, Lemieux's shooting gallery, Jones' restaurant and Mrs. Borowsky's secondhand store.

Fifty people are homeless and there were many narrow escapes. Nearly all occupants of the hotels were laboring men, many of whom lost their money and clothing.

Must Remain in Jail.

New York, Jan. 7.—Justice Greenbaum of the New York state supreme court has denied the application of Nan Patterson for bail pending a new trial on the charge of the murder of "Caesar" Young.

WORK OF CONGRESS.

Wednesday, Jan. 4.

Senate—Bill for the admission of two states to be composed of Arizona and New Mexico and Oklahoma and Indian Territory taken up by a vote of 37 to 31, the Democrats voting against consideration.

House—Report of merchant marine committee submitted. Death of Representative Mahoney of Illinois announced and adjournment followed.

Thursday, Jan. 5.

Senate—Joint statehood bill again occupied the major portion of the attention. Mr. Nelson (Minn.) completed his speech in support of it. The omnibus claims bill was read in part but no effort was made to secure action on it.

House—Government's cotton statistics as prepared by the agricultural department discussed at length. Resolution calling for methods used in gathering the information tabled.

Friday, Jan. 6.

Senate—Most of the day occupied in discussing the joint statehood bill. Several bills of minor importance passed.

House—Fortifications appropriation bill passed. Mr. Baker (N. Y.) enlivened the proceedings by attacking President Roosevelt, who, he said, wanted to hold himself up as the "counterpart of Wilhelm II., the great war god."

Monday, Jan. 9.

Senate—After passage of the omnibus claims bill and fixing Jan. 28 for delivery of addresses in memory of the late Senator Hoar the day was devoted to the statehood bill. Mr. Morgan spoke for two hours against the measure.

House—Senate resolution providing among other things for the holding of the inaugural ball in the pension building adopted. On a viva voce vote the resolution was lost, but a roll call enabled those favorable to the pension building proposition to muster their strength and pass it.

Wakeful?
Sleeplessness Is a Sign of Nerve Trouble and Should Be Looked To.

There are three different manifestations of sleeplessness.

First, hardly to sleep a wink all night, second, to lie awake a long time before falling asleep; third, to fall asleep soon, waking up after several hours and then find it hard to sleep again.

They mean that somewhere in the nerve fibres, somewhere in the brain cells, somewhere in the blood vessels that carry blood to the brain, something is radically wrong, and must be righted, or the end may be worse than death.

To right it, take Dr. Miles' Nervine.

Some other symptoms of nerve trouble are: Dizziness, Headache, Backache, Worry, Fretfulness, Irritability, Melancholy, Lack of Ambition.

They indicate diseases which may lead to Epilepsy, Fits, St. Vitus' Dance, Nervous Prostration, Paralysis, Insanity.

Nothing will give such quick and lasting relief as Dr. Miles' Nervine.

"My husband had been sick for weeks, could not sit up to have his bed made. With all the medical help we could get he continued to grow worse. He could neither sleep or eat. Our baby girl was sent away, and all callers barred, because he could not stand a bit of talking. I read of a case of nervous prostration cured by Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. We began giving it to him, and in a few days he was able to be dressed. From that time he steadily improved. Nervine saved his life."—MRS. A. G. HASKIN, Freeville, N. Y.

If you want trade, ask for it. Tell people what you have to sell, and give them reasons why they should buy from you, rather than from the "other fellow." The most effective and far-reaching method of asking for trade is by advertising.

Remarks the Ada Index: "The Crookston Daily Journal has been purchased by Messrs. Crawford and Herkland, of that city, and we notice that one of the political pipe dreamers up there believe the sale to be a plot on the part of the McKenzie-Stephens faction to knock down a few of Halvor's rails within the coming two years. Of course there is nothing in a report of that kind."

J. G Winkejer, of St. Hilaire, has been appointed as a member of the state dairy and food commission, to succeed James A. Wilson, of Thief River Falls. W. H. Blunt, of Thief River Falls, was after the place, but it seems that he failed to consult "the powers that be" before sending in his position, and Mr. Winkejer secured the job. The salary is said to be $1,000 per year and expenses.

Speaker Clague has announced his committee appointments for the present session of the legislature. Representative Simons, of this city, fares well, being made chairman of the committee on banks, and named as a member of the committees on drainage, taxes and tax laws, universities and university lands, census and logs and lumber. The other representatives in this part of the state are also given prominent places on the committees.

Better learn a trade, boys, rather than grow up unfitted for any sort of work. Two stalwart young men slept in the tramp room at the police station the other night because they had not been trained to any employment, while their helpless old father, himself a blacksmith but unable to get a job because of his age, wept over the wife and mother left starving in another city. And yet there is strong and steady demand everywhere for competent men in all lines of work.—Ralph W. Wheelock in Minneapolis Tribune.

Frank E. Packard, who has been connected with both the Crookston dailies for several years past, has purchased the Thief River Falls Press and will take charge of the plant on the 16th inst. Mr. Packard is considered one of the best newspaper men in the north country, and will continue to make the Press an up-to-date paper. The retiring editor, S. W. Bagley, has not announced his intentions, but it is likely that he will not again enter the newspaper field in this section of the state. Sid has made the Press a first-class paper, and will have the best wishes of the boys for a successful future.

Several of the daily newspapers are of the opinion that Lieutenant Governor Ray W. Jones, of Hennepin, and Senator Daniel Shell, of Nobles, will oppose the confirmation of John E. King's appointment as state librarian, when Governor Johnson presents his name this week. Shell and King have had little love for each other for several years, and at the time King's name was up for confirmation as a member of the state board of equalization, Shell bitterly opposed him and succeeded in getting him ousted. The papers state that Jones will oppose him on the grounds of the Courier's antagonism in the recent campaign, and credit the story that the two will make an active fight to have King turned down. It does not look to The Gazette like a Republican senate should in any manner attempt to handicap Governor Johnson by refusing to accept his appointees, and if they listen to the personal grievences of one or two of their members they cannot long hope to hold the respect of their constituents. Mr. Johnson was the choice of the majority of the Minnesota electors and has expressed his choice in naming Editoe King, and in all fairness the senate should confirm the appointments made, regardless of personal likes or dislikes. Red Lake Falls people will trust that they will do their duty, and that Mr. King may take his position in Minnesota's handsome new capitol as soon as it is ready for him.

Greenbush Shooting Affray.

Thief River News: Oliver Mattson, a former resident of this city, was shot and instantly killed at Greenbush Sunday night by Henry McGrath, a carpenter in the employ of the Great Northern. The affair happened at about 10:15 p. m. Mattson was connected with a house of ill fame at Greenbush and on the day which he met his death was crazy drunk. He went to the resort and had considerable trouble with the women, who became frightened and left the place, going to the Great Northern's carpenter's car, where they were admitted. Later Mattson followed them and he was also admitted into the car. He demanded to be given his money, and foreman Vining told him that he did not have any money belonging to him and that if the girls had money belonging to him they would probably return it to him in the morning. Mattson at once hauled out a revolver which he flourished around and told everybody in the car to look out or he would shoot. Henry McGrath then drew his revolver and fire two shots at Mattson. The first shot went wide of the mark, but the second shot hit Mattson just over the eye and killed him instantly. McGrath at once gave himself up to the authorities and the coroner of Roseau county was notified.

Mattson lived in this city for some time and is quite well known here. His parents reside about five miles southeast of town and a brother now lives in this city.

McGrath was taken to Roseau, the county seat of Roseau county, and he will remain in jail until the grand jury meets unless he is able to furnish bonds. The general impression seems to be that they will never be able to convict him of murder.

A coroner's inquest was held Tuesday night. The verdict rendered was to the effect that Oliver Mattson died as a result of a bullet fired by Henry McGrath.

MEET IN FEBRUARY.

Preparations Under Way for Poultry Show at Crookston.

Crookston Times: A large number of enthusiastic poultrymen were present yesterday afternoon at the city hall to attend the meeting called by President Lockman of the Red River Valley Poultrymen's Association for the purpose of completing the arrangements for the annual meeting and exhibition which will be held in the city hall on the 2, 3 and 4 of February and before adjournment was taken everything was put in readiness for the big show.

The fire hall has been secured for the show, and the large room is admirably adapted for the purpose, and should a fire occur on the dates named the cackling and crowing would only augment the regular fire alarm.

C. C. Bowen was elected manager and will have all the details of the arrangements in charge while Superintendent Stanton of the Poultry department of the Experimental station will be caretaker of the birds sent or brought here for exhibit, and his profession fits him admirably for the duties he will discharge.

Mr. Stanton will have a fine exhibit at the show, but the indivual exhibitors will be protected, as none of the birds from the experimental farm will be entered for prizes. It was feared that if they were admitted dissatisfaction might result with the outsider as without doubt the experimental birds would carry off a large number of the first premiums. There will be a long and valuable list, and those who bring their birds will have prizes that are well worth competing for.

County Buys a Court House.

Last Friday morning the Commissioners of Red Lake County purchased of Ernest Buse the building and lots now being used for Red Lake county as a court house, and a contract for deed was entered into. The price paid was $2370, with a mortgage of $1900. Mr. Buse went before the board that day and asked that they either pay $700 per year for the use of the building or buy it at the figure above stated, and the Commissioners decided that the proper thing to do was to purchase the building, and as the money was available a resolution was passed to that effect. This is a move that should have been made several years ago, as the building is adequate for all demands and situated right in the business portion of the city. The county can better afford to own its building than to pay out, year after year, enough rent to pay interest on an investment several times greater than the one made, and the action of the board should meet with the approval of every fair-minded citizen in the county. Thief River Falls is already making plans to fight the action of the board, and the papers this week contain long articles that come far from the truth and are intended to prejudice the people. These must necessarily be left until next week for refutation, as time and space are not available at this late hour to do justice to the case.

BRAY

At the annual meeting held by the Bray Mutual Fire Insurance company in St. Hilaire Jan. 2, 1905, the following were elected to their respective offices, viz: Nels K. Anderson, Pres.; C. P. Swanson, Sec.; Ole Opperud, Treas. Directors: Peter Engelstad, P. A. Hallstrom, Carl Gerlach. The company had good success during the last year, the secretary issuing 96 policies. There were 45 new members, and the company has now 241 policies in force, which amounts to $319,854. Their territory comprises the towns of Bray, Polk Center, Black River, Sanders, Rockebury, River Falls, Red Lake Falls, Wyandotte, North, Norden, Gervais, Nnmedal, Louisville and at their last annual meeting they added the towns of Emardville, Garnes and Equality to their territory.

C. P. Swanson made a trip to St. Hilaire Wednesday after Anton Peterson, who has become a town charge. Anton has been for some time under the care of Drs. Blomburgh and Pleth, who have made a successful operation on his person.

Walter Johnson, the Bray school teacher, arrived from Wylie Saturday evening from his Christmas vacation, to be on duty Monday.

J. C. Keenan has been busy the last two weeks hauling wheat to Wylie.

Mr. and Mrs. O P. Johnson made a visit to Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Milen's, Friday returning Saturday.

Mrs. A. P. Hogstrom drove to St. Hilaire Thursday.

I'll brave the storms of Chilkoot Pass,
I'll cross the plains of frozen glass,
I'd leave my wife and cross the sea,

Educational Department.

Edited Under the Direction of Prof. E. W. Chamberlain.

TO THE TEACHERS OF RED LAKE COUNTY, AND ALL INTERESTED IN THE ADVANCEMENT OF OUR SCHOOLS.

It is with much hesitation that I undertake the responsibility of conducting an educational department in our local papers, and did I not feel certain that the educators of the county and all interested in education would rally to my support I would not have consented even to attempt such a thing.

If I were to name the three institutions in our midst that are most proficient in shaping public opinion, furthering civic improvement, the local papers would surely be in the list; nor have they yet approached to the position they might occupy in this shaping of opinion, yet they are not at fault.

In few places have I found the local papers indifferent to any attitude of civic reform. In many places I have found them begging for some one to aid them in arousing the community to unite actively along some definate line.

As a test of the attitude of our local papers, witness the opening of their columns to us and the desire that we use them to promote the cause of education in our county. It will not be their fault if we fail to make them a power for good to the cause of education in Red Lake county.

In undertaking the directing of this department, I do not promise to become responsible for a column of matter each week in each local paper. I only promise to become what the name implies—a director or supervisor of the work. If the column becomes a successful and continuing department it will be because the educators of Red Lake county rise to the dignity of the opportunity offered them, and furnish the necessary material for the department.

But that you may be prepared to aid in the work I will give a general outline of the manner in which I intend to conduct the department.

At present I think it best to devote one week to the discussion of school work, and will now announce that next week we will take up Language in the grades. The next week will be devoted to History below the High School. I will endeavor to announce two weeks in advance what subject we will take up, I shall not hesitate to clip desirable articles from the educational publications that find their way to my desk.

Teachers and all interested in educational work rally to the support of this most worthy cause. Do not force us to fill the column with long discussions or long articles. Send us a good clear statement of any little device you have found helpful in teaching language in you school. Rural teachers, do not let the department become a city and village school department. Become helpful to one another by telling them thru this department how you met and over-came the trials common to us all. Do not think that because you have only fifteen or twenty pupils in some out-of-the-way place that no cares to hear from you. There are many others in just such places who are daily groping among just such difficulties as you have successfully solved, and they would be pleased to receive the aid.

E. W. CHAMBERLAIN.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists A. L. Reichert.

MEDICAL EXAMINER

Of the United States Treasury Recommends Pe-ru-na.

Other Prominent Physicians Use and Endorse Pe-ru-na.

DR. LLEWELLYN Jordan, Medical Examiner of the U. S. Treasury Department, graduate of Columbia College, and who served three years at West Point, has the following to say of Peruna:

"Allow me to express my gratitude to you for the benefit derived from your wonderful remedy. One short month has brought forth a vast change and I now consider myself a well man after months of suffering. Fellow sufferers, Peruna will cure you."

A constantly increasing number of physicians prescribe Peruna in their practice. It has proven its merits so thoroughly that even the doctors have overcome their prejudice against so-called patent medicines and recommend it to their patients.

Peruna occupies a unique position in medical science. It is the only internal systemic catarrh remedy known to the medical profession to-day. Catarrh, as everyone will admit, is the cause of one-half the disease which afflicts mankind. Catarrh and catarrhal diseases afflict one-half of the people of United States.

Robert R. Roberts, M. D., Washington, D. C., writes:

"Through my own experience as well as that of many of my friends and acquaintances who have been cured or relieved of catarrh by the use of Hartman's Peruna, I can confidently recommend it to those suffering from such disorders, and have no hesitation in prescribing it to my patients."—Robert R. Roberts.

Dr. R. Robbins, Muskogee, I. T., writes:

"Peruna is the best medicine I know of for coughs and to strengthen a weak stomach and to give appetite. Besides prescribing it for catarrh, I have ordered it for weak and debilitated people, and have not had a patient but said it helped him. It is an excellent medicine and it fits so many cases.

"I have a large practice, and have a chance to prescribe your Peruna. I hope you may live long to do good to the sick and the suffering."

Dr. M. C. Gee, writes from 513 Jones St., San Francisco, Cal.:

"Peruna has performed so many wonderful cures in San Francisco that I am convinced that it is a valuable remedy. I have frequently advised its use for women, as I find it insures regular and painless menstruation, cures leucorrhœa and ovarian troubles, and builds up the entire system. I also consider it one of the finest catarrh remedies I know of."—M. C. Gee, M. D.

Catarrh is a systemic disease curable only by systemic treatment. A remedy that cures catarrh must aim directly at the depressed nerve centers. This is what Peruna does.

Peruna immediately invigorates the nerve-centers which give vitality to the mucous membranes. Then catarrh disappears. Then catarrh is permanently cured.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

IN THE LOCAL FIELD.

Zeb Patnode and Mose Emard visited at Crookston from Sunday until Tuesday.

D. B. Bakke was down from Thief River Falls yesterday attending to some business matters.

Miss Grace Iddings returned Monday morning from a holiday visit of two weeks at Radisson, Wisconsin.

Miss Dora Eickhoff came over from Crookston last Friday and has spent the week visiting with her many friends here.

Sumner Orr arrived from Marshall Thursday for a visit with his brother, George Orr, and to look after his property interests in this neigbborhood.

Master Peter Mayhew had the misfortune to quite severly cut his foot while chopping wood last Saturday, and the accident will lay him up for several weeks.

Miss Mayme Erickson departed Saturday evening for New Prague, to again take up her school work, having spent an enjoyable Christmas vacation with her parents and many friends here.

Miss Carrie Tambling arrived from Minneapolis last Friday to take up her work as principal of the high school here. Miss Tambling comes very highly recommended as an educator and will no doubt give excellent satisfaction in her school work here.

Mentor Herald: Herman Camp, the Dugdale hardware merchant, was in the city Friday looking after some private business affairs He informed us that they have trace of the burglars who blew open their safe last August and secured therefrom some $500.00 and that they expect to have the guilty parties brought to justice in the near future.

St. Hilaire Spectator: An important transfer was made last Wednesday when Jens Nelson purchased the interest of his partner, T. J. Thorkelson in the Imperial Drug company. It is the intention of Mr. Nelson to conduct the business alone in the future. Mr. Thorkelson has not yet decided what he will do or where he will go but it is not probable that he will be a citizen of St. Hilaire much longer.

An exchange says that some towns are favorably located to draw trade, but locations alone do not make towns. Live, up to date business men can always add much to a town's prestige. A town may be favorably located for drawing trade, yet if its merchants are satisfied to do business on the cross road store methods, they will find the more enterprising merchants of neighboring towns drawing the trade that they could have held by displaying the same amount of enterprise shown by their competitors.

Attorney H. W. Lee was down from Thief River Falls on business Tuesday.

Miss Eliza Trudo arrived home Saturday from her holiday visit at Detroit.

Frank Freund was a business visitor at Thief River Falls a couple of days this week.

The Odd Fellows will install their recently elected officers at their meeting Saturday evening.

Miss Rose Frankovitz returned Monday from her holiday visit with her parents at Fergus Falls.

Monday afternoon a wreck on the bronch line train was averted only by great good luck. While running be- St. Hilaire and Wylie a break occurred in one of the rails over which the train was passing and a piece several feet in length became entirely detatched. The engine and coaches passed over in safty but the break was made apparent by the decided bump administered to the occupants. The train was stopped and the section men notified.

The following notice comes from the Journal-Radical, of Waseca, this state, and was handed to us by Attorney Farley: "F. L. Farley sends us the holiday number of the Red Lake Falls Gazette. The paper contains twenty-four pages, and is brim full of interesting matter about Red Lake Falls and vicinity. There are numerous cuts and scenes in and nearby the city, business blocks, farm scenes and prominent business men. The paper ought to prove a big advertisement for the place, for by glancing through its pages one cannot help but be favorably impressed and filled with a desire to visit this thriving little city on the Clearwater river in the northern part of the state."

Why We Give Thanks

By
WILLIAM ROSSER COBBE

THE United States of America is the one and only civilized nation upon earth which makes no acknowledgment of God in its constitution or its laws. French infidelity brought to the struggling colonies by the soldiers of Louis XVI., supplemented with reading of Voltaire and Rousseau, together with the powerful influence of Thomas Paine, who subsequently wrote his "Age of Reason," had made shipwreck of the faith of the fathers of the young republic.

While Washington and Hamilton, although in no sense religious, would have assented readily to recognition in some wise of the Deity, Jefferson and other free thinkers opposed the proposition vigorously, and it was signally defeated.

Again and again in subsequent years efforts were made to set apart a day by the nation for thanksgiving, prayer and praise to God for His blessings. No less than three presidents refused outright to recommend such a day, declaring there was no authority for it in the constitution or the laws.

It was not until the civil war, when there was weeping in every household for the loved that had been slain in battle—not until after the signal success of Vicksburg and Gettysburg (in September, 1863), that Lincoln requested the people to commemorate these successes on a given day by heartfelt prayers of thanksgiving and praise to the God of battles and of peace. Mr. Lincoln was not himself a religious man, but he knew the people to be God-fearing, and he had faith in the people, whom he sought to serve as well as to govern justly and righteously.

Let it not be forgotten that while Thanksgiving day, thus inaugurated by Mr. Lincoln, and duly observed every year since that time, has no authority in law. No president has a right to order an observance of Thanksgiving day. He only can request the people to observe such a day. So little is his authority in the matter recognized that his proclamation is supplemented with a proclamation by the governors of the 45 states composing the union. There is no national holiday, neither Fourth of July, nor Christmas, nor Labor day, nor Thanksgiving day, nor Decoration day. The constitution delegates no power to the congress to legislate upon such a subject for the states. A majority of the latter, however, have by legislative enactment, made Thanksgiving day a legal holiday.

Yet, while the voice of the constitution and the laws of the nation are silent concerning God and His watchful care over His people, the inhabitants of the land are God-serving and God-fearing. No other land can show such abundant church accommodations, or so generous provisions for the clergy of these churches. No other nation can point to so many and generous fruits of godly faith and practice as seen in hospitals and asylums for the widow and fatherless and they that have none to keep them. No other country can compare with this in the bigness of contributions by the rich for the relief of the poor.

This is a people whose God is the Lord. When the president makes proclamation, setting apart the last Thursday of November as a day of Thanksgiving, he does it in the confidence that all of the people, without regard to creed or sect, will observe it. He knows that all the great wheels of factories will be stopped, that the great hammers of the shops will be silent, that the places of business will be closed, that the farmers will rest from their toil, and that all the mines will cease their operations in obedience to his request.

Meet, right and proper is it that this spirit should prevail in American breasts, for God has blessed this nation as no other nation of the earth has been blessed. It is first in wealth, manufactures, in mining, in farming. It leads all other nations in foreign trade. It is separated by wide seas from other great nations, so that no great standing army is needed for the maintenance of its peace. Seedtime and harvest never fail within its border, and its people are spared the pestilence that stalketh at noonday and the famine that maketh desolate the remote places of earth.

The closing year has been one of peace and prosperity throughout the land. The products of mine and field have been bounteous. There have been no storms to make afraid and no calamities to excite grief or terror. In recognition of the truth that all good things come from God and that He has been peculiarly generous to this land, there will be general observance of this Thanksgiving day, in the which the people will acknowledge His benefits and praise His mercy and goodness.

Something to Be Thankful For.

Around the richly laden board
  Thanksgiving day we meet,
And render thanks with grateful hearts,
  For what we have to eat;
But always at this time of year,
  When skies are cold and murky,
I'm mostly thankful for the fact
  I was not born a turkey.
—Minna Irving, in Lippincott's Magazine.

Unexpected Attention.

Little Turkey—Mamma, where has papa gone? He seemed so happy because he was being fed so much and so well taken care of.

Mrs. Turkey—Your papa lost his head, like many others who receive unexpected attention.—Baltimore American.

Manual Training a Necessity

By CHARLES ARTHUR CARLISLE.

Manual training and domestic science in public schools, with experimental scientific farming stations in every rural district throughout the nation should come and must come soon.

A boy should be taught the fundamental principles of civic, state and national government; and he should be taught brick-making and brick-laying, plumbing and blacksmithing, wood and metal working, and the various branches of practical commercial service and training, just as he is taught his A, B, C's.

The average boy, who is kept in the ward schools of our cities without crowding, and who takes the regular course in the high school, is usually, at the end of that period, from 16 to 19 years of age. If he had taken a course of mechanics together with his studies of the usual branches, he would step out into the world with some practical equipment for breadwinning. But now he leaves school with no technical knowledge whatever, and if compelled to earn his own living, must begin at the bottom, often for the time being far below others of his age who chose to cut out the last three or four years of school life, according to the regular schedule, in order to enter the factory or office and get an early start in the battle of self-dependence. The school would be vastly more popular with both parents and pupils if the preparatory work was fairly divided between the education of the muscles and the skill of some useful handicraft.

We have, as the people of the nation, before us great problems of which this is only one—but in my judgment it is one of the most important.

Anti-Biblical Hysteria

By the RT. REV. WILLIAM C. DOANE,
Episcopal Bishop of Albany.

No one will dispute the fact that the church today is passing between the Scylla of temerity and the Charybdis of timidity. Men are rushing into speech and print with an apparent love of something bizarre and sensational, rather than devoutly seeking after the truth, all in the way of destruction, rather than to build up something to take the place of that which they are subverting. It is time that serious students of Biblical matters, who have the integrity of the church nearest at heart, should set themselves to resist the hysteria of men who prostitute their positions as authorized teachers pledged to speak of the oracles of God by questioning and denying the truth. Likewise the hysteria of the secular press, which hails with delight and magnified importance an exaggerated certainty of these so-called discoveries which succeed and swallow up one another as bubble displaces bubble on the seething sea. Also the hysteria of the impossible proposition for the emasculation of the Bible and a revision of the creeds, as though these verities to which the Scriptures witness, and which the church for centuries has maintained, could be altered because some form of their presentment antagonizes some crude and passing impression of a so-called critical mind. From the beginning to the end, it must be remembered, the sole purpose of the Bible is to bring men to Christ.

Let men reconsider the modern popular process of Bible study and realize that instead of criticising the Bible, the Bible is really criticising them.

Character Will Always Make Happiness

By REV. W. A. SPOONER,
Warden of New College, Oxford.

WHAT is it we all have in common, no matter what our environments? Life, that glorious opportunity to be, to do, and to grow, is ours. Life, with all its possibilities, the greatness of which we have not dreamed, is actually slipping by without our cognizance, because we are so occupied with the things which we think make us unhappy, and which have grown to tremendous proportions, magnified by our vision.

One can cover up the glorious sun with a penny by holding it close enough to the eye. We can also cover up all our opportunities with the little things which annoy us, if we will.

What matter it if others are rich or famous, so long as we have the one great chance in life which overshadows all these things, and is the only thing which will stand the test of time?

In a few years death will claim the rich, and they must depart, leaving that for which they have labored all behind. But the character goes on for ever.

Happiness being a condition of the mind, yours is the power to place happiness there by creating this condition, which you can do solely by your thoughts.

Thoughts which cause unrest or worry, you must cast out. This is not easy for those who have been accustomed to allow themselves to be constantly annoyed by these things.

Remember, first, to place character above all else, for there is nothing to be compared to it. And determine that, no matter what else you have in life, this you will acquire. This determination will alter your frame of mind, and, when firmly fixed, will change the appearance of conditions and surroundings.

All thoughts which are not character builders you must cast out, and you must view everything in this light. This cannot be done at once, and is only achieved after many trials.

Always see what you have to be thankful for when depressed or unhappy. This mental inventory will make lighter any load. Don't worry about anything, for it does no good, and only obliterates your opportunity for helping yourself.

If you are character building there is nothing that can come to you which cannot be used as a step onward, if looked at in the right light, and anything which will place you a step forward cannot bring harm.

Always look on the bright side of everything, for there is always a bright side to everything if we will but see it.

Cast out all thoughts of anger or rage, and never allow yourself to lose your temper.

School yourself in conquering fear of all descriptions. To him who builds character there is nothing to fear. And just in proportion as you obtain this mental balance you will find happiness everywhere, and life will become a glorious thing, instead of a drudgery, "for what doth it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

BAD TEETH, BAD SOLDIERS

British Recruits Must Hereafter Deposit at Least $15 for Dental Work.

Deficient teeth are not in the future to prevent enlistment in the British army of otherwise suitable recruits. Would-be soldiers found suffering from decayed teeth must, however, be prepared to put down a sum not to exceed $15 towards the expense of fitting them with artificial teeth.

These facts are set forth in a circular by the secretary of the army council. Similarly afflicted men who would be otherwise discharged from the army as unfit for further service, owing to the state of their teeth, are to be retained on the equivalent condition that the sum to be paid the dentist is to be taken out of their pay.

The British Medical Journal, in commenting on this order, says it is a step in the right direction. The Napoleonic dictum that an army marches on its stomach has been so long admitted as a military axiom that it seems strange than only now has effect been given to it.

It is the South African war which has largely contributed to make the reform acceptable, a glaring light having then been thrown upon the losses which the army suffered through the defective mastication of a large number of troops. These troops were kept at the base of supplies or sent home because of the bad state of their teeth, which made it impossible for them to digest the rough food necessarily served out to men at the front.

RUSH OF IRISH TO AMERICA

Consul Stephens at Plymouth, Eng., Says They Are Leaving at Rate of 2,000 a Week.

United States Consul Stephens, at Plymouth, England, says in a recent report:

"The British press has called special attention to the continued, and what they term alarming, flight of the Irish and Cornish to America. Over 22,000 have gone from Ireland alone during the present year, and the exodus; which has received an impetus from the cheap fares, goes on without interruption.

"There is, it is asserted, no greater menace to Ireland's future than this appalling drain by immigration. It is drawing out of the country the best of its peasant class for America, and leaving the undesirables behind.

"Never before have the Irish people manifested such a determination to leave their country. At present they are leaving at the rate of 2,000 per week, and no argument advanced to keep them in their island has the slightest effect.

"The same conditions, though in a modified form, apply to Cornwall. The mining industry at home is dead. In the British colonies conditions are not at all favorable, hence the weekly exodus to America. Those already in the United States send home money as rapidly as possible to assist their relatives and companions in Cornwall to follow."

CHARACTER TOLD BY RAYS

Are Emitted by the Human Body and Differ According to Temperament, Says This Physician.

Experiments conducted over a term of three years form the subject matter of a communication from a physician to a well-known London medical journal, to the effect that the rays emitted by the human body differ in color according to the character and temperament of the person.

The following particulars are given by the writer:

"The rays emanating from a very passionate man have a deep red hue; one whose keynote in life is to be good and do good throws off pink rays. The ambitious man emits orange rays; the deep thinker deep blue; the lover of art and refined surroundings, yellow; an anxious, depressed person, gray.

"One who leads a low, debased life throws off muddy brown rays; a devotional, good-meaning person, light blue; a progressive-minded one, light green, and a physically or mentally ill one, dark green."

The doctor admits his theory is apt to be received with incredulity and amusement, but he asserts it is strengthened by the fact that the color sense of the human race was many thousands of years in reaching its present stage of development.

Gives Up Mansion for Slums.

Robert Hunter, formerly of Chicago, and his wife, the daughter of Anson Phelps Stokes, have taken up their residence in Grove street, in the heart of the lower west side of New York city. They have given up their mansion in Madison avenue and their country home in Norton, Conn., for a two-fold object, to continue the settlement to which both husband and wife have devoted themselves, and because, as Mr. Hunter declares, a home there costs no more than an apartment in a more prosperous district.

Real Need of the Hour.

Now a Texan comes forward with an invention for turning a buggy into an automobile. What is really needed, however, says the Washington Star, is some invention that will prevent an automobile from turning into a repair shop.

Higly, of St. Hilaire, to Cordelia Lacombe, of St. Hilaire; Z. Bregier to Leah Marchildon, both of Red Lake Falls.

The South Side club and several invited friends enjoyed a card party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Gaass Wednesday evening. Progressive euchre was played, Mrs. Wm. Schwalen winning the award for the largest number of games won, while Mrs. Theo LaBissoniere claimed the consolation honors. Refreshments were served and the evening was thoroughly enjoyed by all present.

Thief River News: Simon O'Toole who was arrested upon the complaint of James Mays for stealing hay up near Highlanding, was discharged Monday by Judge Bishop. County Attorney [illegible] investigated the case and found that it was a dispute as to the payment for the hay and told the parties to settle the matter between themselves and not try and use the county as a collection agency.

Mrs. J. C. Wilkinson, who has been very ill with typhoid fever is reported as recovering rapidly, and will be able to be about again in a week or so. The Doctor, who has also had a hard attack of the disease, is reported as gaining, and it is thought that he is now out of danger. The friends of the family will be pleased to learn of their improvement, and trust that they may both be about again very soon.

Berthon & Armstrong announce a remarkable cut-price clothing sale in their front page space this week, and the public will do well to pay attention to their offerings. Red Lake county people never had an opportunity to get better clothing at lower prices than the Red Lake Falls dealers are now offering, and their money will go a long way if expended here at present.

The annual meeting of the First State Bank was held at the bank yesterday, and the affairs of the year gone over. The old officers were re-elected, and everthing was found in first-class order. The growth of the First State has been steady, and to-day it stands as one of the solid financial institutions of the valley. May it continue to prosper is the wish of the people of Red Lake Falls.

Ed. H. Chase arrived from Forest City, Iowa, last Friday and has entered the employ of the Courier office. Mr. Chase will have entire charge of the Courier after Brother King leaves to assume his duties as state librarian, and comes recommended as ably qualified to take care of the business. He was raised in a print-shop and knows the business from start to finish, which makes him a valuable man. Mr. Chase is also a musician of considerable note, and will be of great help to the band organization. The Gazette takes pleasure in welcoming him to our city.

Thief River News: Fr. Charles Cannon, who for a number of years has been the popular pastor of St. Bernards Catholic church left Tuesday for Moorhead where he has accepted a call. It was with genuine regret that the local congregation saw Fr. Charles depart for his new home, but all were well pleased that his new congregation would be much larger and wealthier than the one which he leaves. As a token of esteem Fr. Charles was presented with a purse of $70 by members of his congregation before departing. The new pastor will be Fr Adolph of North Dakota.

A choral union was organized last evening in a meeting at the K. of P. hall, which gives promise of being a popular organization in the near future. Mrs. E. F. Marshall was elected president, Leland Healy, treasurer and Prof. A. Onstad, director, and it will be the purpose of the organization to hold regular weekly meetings for practice. It is desired that all of the people interested in vocal music join this organization, and entertainments, cantatas, etc., will be given during the winter. The regular meetings will be held Wednesday evenings of each week at the K. of P. hall, and everyone interested is requested to attend and join. Red Lake Falls has numerous singers, and the new organization promises to be one of great popularity.

Joseph Lizotte, of Louisville township, came to town this morning to swear out a warrant for an unnamed party, who had been working for him, and who left this morning taking with him a $28 shot gun, $15 in cash and a razor belonging to Mr. Lizotte. The fellow had worked for Lizotte for several days; and after he left this morning it was discovered that the articles above named were missing. Mr. Lizotte followed him as far as Gentilly, but fearing that he would turn on him with the gun he gave up the pursuit and came to town to inform the authorities. Mr. Lizotte does not know the fellows name, any more than he was known as "Fred," and was of Swiss extraction. An effort will be made by the county authorities to apprehend him.

Foresters Install Officers.

The following officers were regularly installed at the meeting of the Catholic Order of Foresters at their hall last Friday evening:

Cheif Ranger, A. P. Tonpin; Vice Ranger, E. H. Normandeau; Past Chief, L. A Kaufer; Recording Secretary, J. R. Fortier; Financial Secretary, J. P. Harren; Treasurer, Oliver Caron; Senior Conductor, Thos. A. Crompe; Junior Conductor, John Atsteadt; Medical Examiner, Dr. I. Lemieux; Trustees, Theo. LaBissoniere, Thos. A. Crompe, A. Robillard; Inside Sentinel, Ildage Baril; Outside Sentinel, John Schmitz; Spirtual Advisors, Frs. Fayolle and Ansgar.

NEW STRAW HAT IS COMING.

Eastern Drummer Makes Announcement of Novel Headgear for Use Next Season.

"There will be a new thing in straw hats next season," said M. F. Frankel, representative of a large eastern hat importing and exporting firm, to a Milwaukee Sentinel man. "It is what we call a spiderweb straw, and it takes 22 of these hats to weigh a pound. They are made in Switzerland and are sailor shaped. They are made so that they cannot be injured by rain. In fact, when they get wet the straw swells and the hat is even better than before. They will sell for about $2. These new hats, or any other hat for that matter, will not cut any figure in the sale of Panamas. A good Panama is always valuable and they will always be in demand. On account of the big demand in the last two years the old supply that had accumulated in the countries where they are made is now exhausted and the hats are harder to get. The prices, however, will not be advanced any, as the retailers always have got a good big price for them. The impression that seems to have gotten about that the Panamas are made under water is merely a delusion. They are made during the early hours of the morning and the late hours of the evening, when the atmosphere is moist and there is a heavy dew. This is on account of the fact that the straw must be wet when handled, or at least damp, so that it will not break, and it is on this account that the hats are so valuable. The natives can only work on the hats about four hours a day, and for the life of you you can't hurry them."

MONKS IN SOLITUDE GO MAD

Queer Fortress Monastery of Mar Saba on the Dead Sea—Women Positively Barred.

"The Prison of Ten Thousand" is the name given by the wandering Arabs of the districts across Jordan to the fortress monastery of Mar Saba on the Dead sea. Not many years ago there were actually 10,000 monks living in this grim and mournful retreat, and even to-day there are more than 1,000 left. The monastery is one of the oldest in the world, having been founded some 1,300 years ago by Euthymius, who lived there in a cave dug in the rocky wall of the Kedron ravine. The fair Empress Eudoxia formed a romantic attachment for this stern anchorite and built near by a tower, which still exists, from which she might watch him at a distance, for, true to his vows, Euthymius utterly refused to see or speak to a woman. Now the tower is inhabited by a watchman who keeps constant guard against the incursions of prowling Arabs. Twice during the past century the place has been raided by hordes from the desert. The monks who live there to-day are the most religious of any in the Greek church. They pass their lives in everlasting penance, with no hope of pleasure and no cheerful incident. Many of them go mad from the horror and desolation of their surroundings. No woman is permitted to come within sight of Mar Saba.

KIWI THE OLDEST OF BIRDS

Devoid of Wings or Tail, But Possessed of Four Toes—Inhabitant of New Zealand.

In New Zealand is found the kiwi, a strange bird of the ostrich family. Ostriches have two toes, but the extinct moas had three toes, so also have the existing emus, cassowaries and rheas or South American ostriches. The kiwi, however, differs from the other struthious birds in having four toes. Further, the kiwi cannot be said to be quite ostrichlike, for in size it is not larger than an ordinary barn fowl. It has a small head, with a large and muscular neck and long, slender bill, with the distinguishing feature that the nostrils are placed close to its tip. The legs are short, but the muscles on the thighs are well developed and the feet are strong and powerful and provided with sharp claws. The kiwi is a bird devoid of any external trace of wings, and there is no trace of tail visible, while it is covered with long, narrow, hairlike feathers, and on the fore part of the head and sides of the face are straggling hairlike feelers.

Corset Relic of Ancients.

The corset has been the theme of much denunciation from doctors, dress reformers and artists. The last-named have adopted the view that it is unnatural and inartistic, destroying the fine lines of the figure. As a proof of this argument, reference has frequently been made to the Greek statues, and the corset has been branded as a modern atrocity. But is it so modern? As a lady writer points out, researches recently made in the ruined cities of South America have brought to light a carving of an Aztec lady as tightly corseted as any woman of to-day. So it would seem that, however unhealthy the corset may be, it has at least the sanction of antiquity.

Ducks Led by a Pigeon.

One of the strangest sights ever seen by sportsmen was witnessed the other day on the duck pass owned by Uri Lamprey, of St. Paul, Minn. Mr. Lamprey and a friend had been shooting for some time when they observed a flock of ducks coming along from the north. The ducks were blue winged teals and at their head was a white bird. "That's queer," said Mr. Lamprey; "I'll take the white bird and see what it is." Both sportsmen fired, both bringing down their bird. Upon examination it was found that the leader of the ducks was a tame white pigeon.

DAIRY NOTES.

(From the Ada Index.)

If wheat raising was laid aside for a few years and the farmers would go into the stock-raising business they would make more money. Now while the price of cattle is low, it would be a good time to buy a few and increase your herd. The past year the wheat raisers have been very unfortunate in this vicinity, but the cow is the stayer.

A little flax seed meal is good feed for the calves and also for the mothers.

Bed your cows and keep them clean, for cleanliness is of great importance for the dairyman.

A lover of stock is the man who will make the money.

Don't neglect your hand separators and think they don't have to be washed regularly. In order to have them clean, for the most of you have them in the house where it is warm, and they will get sour as quick as in the summer, is to give them a good cleaning once a day. You can't expect to deliver the finest cream to your creamery unless you keep you separator clean.

Cool your cream as quickly as possible after skimming and it will keep better.

Every farmer should try and arrange matters so he can attend the Red River Valley Dairymen's Convention, on Feb. 2, 3 and 4. Everyone who attends this convention will reap a lot of good facts that will be of great benefit in the future.

Good pure cream is the only thing to make good butter from. We believe every farmer will agree to this.

A good industrious farmer will never keep a poor cow, as they will take enough interest in the matter to have every cow tested and find out whether or not she pays for herself, and if he finds out she doesn't pay he will get rid of her as soon as possible. This is the way to build up your herd and make money.

Good timothy and clover hay and bran makes good feed for cows, or oats and barley ground will also be a milk producer.

Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists. A. L. Reichert.

THIEF RIVER WRATHY

Action of Commissioners in Buying Court House Taken As a Basis For All Sorts of "Doins."

Last week's Thief River Falls papers each devoted a column or two of space to Red Lake Falls and the county seat question, all on account of the action of the board of county commissioners, who passed a resolution purchasing the building in this city used for court house purposes, and in all the articles the accusation is made that Red Lake Falls has thrown down the gauntlet and courted a county seat war.

Just why the actions of the board of commissioners should be construed as a movement of Red Lake Falls cannot be made plain, and it merely resolves itself down to a point whereby Thief River Falls has shown her hand and will attempt to take the seat of government of Red Lake county—"peaceably if she can, forcibly if she must". Not a one of the three commissioners who voted for the resolution is resident of Red Lake Falls nor do any of them own one dollar's worth of property in the city, and it would appear that the censure of their official acts by the people of Thief River Falls should be confined to the board alone, and not to Red Lake Falls.

For several years Red Lake county has paid an annual rent of $500 for this property, while Mr. Buse, the owner, has rented the two other buildings on the lots for $208 more, making the income of the property purchased $708 per annum. This year Mr. Buse asked $700 rent, and rather than pay that amount the board wisely decided to purchase the property. The deal included all the buildings and four lots on the corner of Second street and Champagne avenue in this city, and is well worth every cent paid for it. Even had the rent only been $500 the other two buildings will rent for $208, which gives the county $700 a year interest on a $4000 investment. The real estate is worth at the least $2000, so that the charges of Thief River Falls that an exhorbitant price was paid are untrue, and it is the opinion of the best people of the county that the commissioners used excellent judgment in acquiring the property, and the county will be the beneficiary as a result of their actions.

A committee of business men at Thief River at once met and decided to fight the action of the board with an injunction, but it appears that they forgot about the old familiar "nigger in the wood pile" and after investigating decided that they would withdraw their opposition to the purchase of the buildings. While the purchase of court house property does not necessarily prohibit Thief River Falls from striving for the county seat, nevertheless the people of the county will undoubtedly take a long time to consider before they decide that the up-river town is entitled to the seat of government. County seat fights are expensive to a great degree, and where the ends are attained satistactorily without a change people are slow to enthuse over a proposition that will cost them dollars and cents. Red Lake Falls bore practically all of the expense of the county division movement, and it was through the efforts of the people here that we were divided from Polk, a movement that proved of untold benefit to every resident and taxpayer. On the other hand Thief River Falls opposed the proposition to create Red Lake county and wanted a county of their own. And had they been successful a greater part of the present Red Lake county would still be in old Polk. It would seem from these facts that the residents of the towns throughout the entire southern half of the county would stand as one to help down the greedy fellows at the other end who proved unfriendly in the hour of need.

During the last eight years the seat of government has been at Red Lake Falls and her qualifications as the logical place for it are the same today as they always were. The county owns its own jail and jail property here, the bulk of the taxable property is in the south half and numerous other points are apparent whereby Red Lake Falls is entitled to the seat of government. With the large amount of new railroad building going on in this section of the country it will be but a few years, at least, until an east road is built from here, and with this in sight the argument in favor of Red Lake Falls is all the more convincing. On the other hand, Thief River Falls offers nothing, not already possessed, and it would seem strange if the people of the county would lend their aid to a greedy scheme to move the seat of government, with no just cause for their action. Much more could be said on the question but as indications are that the up-river fellows will let well enough alone for a few years longer, it is unnecessary to dwell further upon the subject.

Thief River has evidently strained a suspender in her first efforts, and will likely find many a slip before they realize their desires.

Notice of Dissolution of Partnership.

Notice is hereby given that the partnership heretofore existing between Leo Steinert, Theo. Majeres and J. F. SURPRISING CLUB OFFER

The Gazette Secures an Extraordinary Array of Reading Matter For Its Family of Readers.

By an arrangement with the Minneapolis Tribune, The Gazette is enabled to make one of the most liberal clubbing offers ever heard of, and until March 1 will give its readers a chance to take advantage of the oppotunity of securing "something for nothing."

Until that date we will furnish you the following array of papers and premiums: The Orange Judd Farmer, the Threshers' World and Farmers' Magazine, the American Poultry Journal, the twice-a-week Minneapolis Farmer's Tribune, the Woman's World, the Gazette, a multi-colored wall map of Minnesota and a chance on a $75 "Old Hickory" wagon all for the remarkably low sum of $2.00.

The Orange Judd Farmer is one of the greatest agricultural journals in the country and has a large constituency of readers who trust implicity in its ideas of practical farming. Thousands have been made richer by reading this valuable publication. Its regular price for one year is $1.00.

The Threshers' World and Farmers' Magazine is the best publication of its kind in the country. Besides containing valuable information for the threshers, mechanics and farmers, it also has special departments for the boys and girls. The regular price is 50c per year.

The American Poultry Journal is an illustrated monthly devoted to poultry and how to successfully raise it. The regular price of this monthly is 50c per year.

The Farmer's Twice-a-week Tribune, is published at Minneapolis and contains the news of the world boiled down for busy readers. It is one of the best weekly papers in the state and sells for $1.00 per year.

The Woman's World contains many pages of interesting reading for the lady of the house, and is replete with the best productions of literature and art. No home magazine covers the field as thorough. It sells regularly for 50c per year.

The Gazette is known to you all; furnishes the news up-to-the-minute.

The map of Minnesota is the latest edition of the Tribune's popular multi-colored state map and will make a useful and beautiful ornament to any home.

The free chance on the "Old Hickory" wagon is what its name implies. On March 4 The Gazette will raffle this hondsome new $75 wagon and is waiting to make you a present of a chance on it.

Sumed up this proposition is this: Six popular newspapers and magazines, a handsome $3 map and a free ticket on the wagon all for $2, a price never before heard of for such an attractive combination. The offer will positively be withdrawn March 1st, and it would seem that every resident of the county would at once jump at the chance to be in on the deal.

Call at the office and see the map and samples of the papers, or send $1 to pay a year in advance for The Gazette and add $1 for the rest of the combination and we will do the rest. You won't have such an opportunity again for a great many years and probably never.

Forced to Starve.

B. F. Leek, of Concord, Ky., says: "For 20 years I suffered agonies, with a sore on my upper lip, so painful, sometimes, that I could not eat. After vainly trying everything else, I cured it with Bucklen's Arnica Salve." It's great for burns, cuts and wounds. At W. A. Schreiter's drug store; Only 25c.

Notice.

After this week people in need of J. R. Watkins' remedies may call at Wm. Zaiser's in Red Lake Falls. I will call on all of my customers soon.

THEO. W. ZAISER, Agent.

THE CUT IS FINISHED

Contractors Complete Work of Making the Cut for the Great Northern Railroad Extension.

The work on the big railroad cut through the southern part of town, to connect the Great Northern and N. P. railroad tracks, was completed by the contractors yesterday and the steam shovel, dump cars and little engines are being loaded for shipment to Montana, where they will be used in more Great Northern railroad building. The work on the cut has been under way the past three months and a great amount of cutting out and filing in has been done. The cut extends from a point nearly east of Third street clear out to the southern limits of what is known as "Little Canada" and when the ballasting and surfacing crews get through with it will be a substantial improvement.

The company will at once commence the hauling of the gravel for ballasting purposes, and it is stated that 600 cars of gravel will be dumped along the new extension. The track laying crews will also commence immediate operations and it is thought that the new piece of track will be ready for usage within a month.

Nothing has yet been announced as to the way the new train service will be established, but it is generally figured that the the Pelican Rapids extension will immediately be completed and a train service from Greenbush to the Twin Cities inaugurated by way of this city over the N. P. tracks to Winnipeg Junction, and on to the cities through Fergus Falls and St. Cloud.

Whether this is the intention or not, it is an assured fact that the towns along this line will get better train service with the completion of the Red Lake Falls extension and the establishment of service over it.

RUSSIA IS POWERFUL

CZAR TELLS HIS TROOPS NOT TO LET THE FALL OF PORT ARTHUR DISMAY THEM.

Says Russian Strength Grows With Adversity and Asserts the Empire Has Survived Still Heavier Trials. Believes Time Is Coming When God Will Assist Russian Army and Navy to Defeat the Enemy.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 14.—Emperor Nicholas has addressed the following rescript to the army and navy:

"Port Arthur has passed into the hands of the enemy. During eleven months the fight had been going on in its defense. More than seven months its noble defenders had been cut off from the rest of the world. Without any positive assurance of relief they continued to fight and did everything in their power to check the progress of the enemy, sparing neither life nor heart's blood to uphold the honor of the Russian people.

"Russia, with pride and admiration, followed each move in the contest. The whole world was astounded at their gallantry, but daily their ranks were thinned, their powers of resistance diminished and, under repeated attacks by the enemy, they were obliged to give way.

"Peace, honor and undying memory will be the portion of you Russians who have fallen in the defense of Port Arthur. Far from home you have laid your bodies upon alien soil—a sacrifice to the dictates of your own honor and the demands of your emperor.

"My gallant troops and sailors: Do not let this sorrow dismay you. Our enemy is strong and daring. This fight against them occurs 7,000 miles from our home, but Russia is powerful. In the thousand years of its existence there have been still heavier trials, worse and more threatening dangers, but Russia ever arose from trial with renewed force and strength. Do not let your souls be troubled by lack of success and heavy losses. Russian strength grows with adversity.

"With all Russia I join in the belief that the time is coming when God will give strength to our glorious army and navy to arise and break the forces of the enemy."

JAPS TAKE POSSESSION.

Victorious Army Formally Enters Port Arthur.

Port Arthur, Jan. 14, via Tientsin, Jan. 16.—The victorious Japanese army yesterday formally entered Port Arthur. General Nogi, with his staff, entered first through the old town and took his stand in the public square of the new town. The army was represented by one regiment from each brigade. The procession, which was five miles long, was three hours passing the saluting base, after which the troops passed out of the city through the new town. The correspondents then visited the captured city for the first time. The old town buildings were badly smashed by shells, but in the new town the damage was slight. All the shipping in the harbor was badly damaged by shell fire, the warships being practically useless owing to the injuries they had sustained by shells.

Proposals for the surrender of Port Arthur were first made Dec. 29 at a council of war. General Stoessel was in favor of surrender, but some of his general officers were bitterly opposed to it. The regimental officers and the troops were not consulted. The first news they had of the surrender was on Jan. 1, after General Stoessel had communicated with the Japanese.

GENERAL STOESSEL IN JAPAN.

Russian Commander at Port Arthur Arrives at Nagasaki.

Nagasaki, Jan. 14.—The Japanese transport Kamakura, from Port Dalny Jan. 11, with General Stoessel and others on board, arrived here during the day. After a prolonged quarantine inspection Governor Arakawa, with the chief officials of the port, proceeded on board the Kamakura and General and Madame Stoessel, two of the Russian commander's personal staff, seven other officers, two ladies and six orphan children were landed in three steam launches at the Inasa jetty, where they were received by a guard of fifty police and several officers. The Russian general was attired in a gray military overcoat and wore his sword. He looked well and walked with a stately step. Preceded by a few police officers and followed by his retinue General Stoessel slowly wended his way up the hill to a prettily situated bungalow on Inasa hill, where he will be quartered. Half way there some dozens of Russian officers, finding that their late chief was arriving, ran up from all directions and saluted in respectful silence. The party then entered the house.

JAPANESE LOSSES LIGHT.

Russian Casualties at Newchwang Estimated at Three Hundred.

Tokio, Jan. 14.—The Japanese casualties in the recent fighting at Newchwang and other places involved in the Russian raid are estimated at one killed and fifteen wounded, all noncommissioned officers or privates. The Russian total losses are estimated at over 300.

The Japanese report that the supplies of munitions stored at Newchwang and Niuchintun were not damaged.

DR. KOCH ON THE STAND.

Defendant in New Ulm Murder Trial Denies Killing Gebhardt.

New Ulm, Minn., Jan. 17.—Dr. Koch went on the stand in his own defense during the morning.

His appearance indicated a well dressed, prosperous young professional man. After relating the facts of his early life he said that he had lived in New Ulm all his life with the exception of the time he attended dental college. He declared that he and Dr. Gebhardt were good friends and had often exchanged professional courtesies.

In reply to questions of his attorneys Dr. Koch described his movements on the night of the Gebhardt murder and denied being in the office of the murdered man. He told how he had received the injury to his hands and emphatically declared he did not send the alleged bottle of poison to Dr. Gebhardt.

A sensation was created when Attorney Abbott, for the defense, produced in court sixteen handkerchiefs belonging to Dr. Koch, bearing four different markings of his initials, none being exactly like the markings on the handkerchief found in the office of Dr. Gebhardt. When the latter handkerchief was produced Dr. Koch swore he had never before seen it and that it did not and never had belonged to him

FIVE MINERS KILLED.

Overcome by Smoke and Fire in Illinois Colliery.

Decatur, Ill., Jan. 17.—Emil Norr, August Yagusch and Charles Laschinsky and two unknown miners are known to be dead and a score or more of other miners are entombed by fire and smoke in a 600-foot coal mine shaft. Rescuing parties have gone into the mine, but have been unable to do anything on account of the dense smoke. The fire broke out Monday afternoon in the mule stable. Firemen were called out and they took a line of hose down the shaft 600 feet, but were unable to suppress the flames. A mile away is an escapement shaft, and to this most of the miners hastened. More than a score were cut off by the flames and held prisoners. They may be dead. Big crowds surrounded the mouth of the shaft amid intense excitement, but the onlookers were helpless to assist.

PEABODY OPENS FIGHT.

Files Notice of Contest for Governor of Colorado.

Denver, Jan. 12.—Notice of former Governor James H. Peabody's contest against Governor Alva Adams for the office of governor was filed with the legislature during the day.

The complaint sets forth the allegation that the majority of 9,774 for Adams on the face of the returns as finally canvassed was obtained by means of a conspiracy in Denver and several other counties. The legislature is petitioned to open the ballot boxes from a number of precincts in Denver, Adams, Las Animas, Boulder and Conejos counties. It is alleged the frauds in these precincts were so extensive and varied that it would be impossible to segregate the true from the false ballots and the legislature is asked to discard these precincts altogether.

MORE FIGHTING IN SAMAR.

Nine Constabulary Killed in Action Near Maslog.

Washington, Jan. 17.—Lieutenant General Chaffee, chief of staff, has received a cable message from General Corbin, commanding the Philippines division at Manila, saying that he has received the following dispatch from Brigadier General Carter, commanding the department of the Visayas, dated Tacloban, Jan. 14:

"Lieutenant Avery, one Philippine scout and two native employes were wounded in action at Dolores river Jan. 14. Private Austin, hospital corps, was wounded and nine constabulary were killed in action near Maslog, Samar, Jan. 8. Lieutenant Avery and Private Austin arrived here today."

The officer referred to in the above dispatch is First Lieutenant Morton I. Avery of the Philippine scouts.

SENATORS ARE EXPELLED.

Colorado Republicans Unseat Two Democratic Members.

Denver, Jan. 13.—The senate, by a party vote, seated James B. Dick in place of Senator Robert M. Born. Dick was unseated by the Democratic majority during the contest over election of United States senator two years ago.

The senate membership is now twenty Republicans and thirteen Democrats, with two vacancies.

Senator Born refused to give up his seat and was forcibly ejected by the sergeant-at-arms.

Senator Daniel Healy, who was seated two years ago in place of Jesse F. McDonald, now lieutenant governor, was also expelled by a vote of 18 to 15, the same as Born's case.

BIG STRIKE IN GERMANY.

That of the Coal Miners the Most Serious in Country's History.

Berlin, Jan. 17.—The strike of coal miners which broke out Monday is the most formidable affair of the kind that Germany has ever had. There had been no serious trouble in the coal industry since the strike of 1889, but this strike far eclipses the one alluded to, all labor organizations taking part, whereas in 1889 only the Socialist unions were concerned. The present movement has been largely engineered by the so-called Christian unions, which otherwise oppose the Socialist element.

ADMITS HE IS GUILTY

MAN ARRESTED AT PHILADELPHIA RESPONSIBLE FOR DYNAMITE OUTRAGES.

Confesses to Attempt to Blow Up the Statue of Frederick the Great at Washington Last Week and Also Claims Authorship of the Plan to Wreck the British Steamer Umbria at New York City in May, 1903.

Philadelphia, Jan. 16.—"Gessler Rosseau," who was arrested in this city on Thursday with an unloaded infernal machine in his possession, admitted to the police Sunday that he is the man who attempted to destroy the statue of Frederick the Great in Washington last Tuesday, and also that it was he who sent the trunk containing an infernal machine to the British steamship Umbria, at New York in May, 1903. The prisoner, whose right name is not known, made these admissions in the office of Captain Donaghy, of the Philadelphia detective bureau, after he had been identified by persons brought here from New York and Washington for that purpose. He gives no reasons for the attempted outrages except that "there are too many foreign affairs in this country." After having Rosseau under fire all afternoon, the police classed him as an "American patriotic fanatic." The prisoner gave no information voluntarily to the police, he admitting only those things which the police had fastened on him. Both the Washington and New York authorities want the man, and it is probable that he will be turned over to the police of the latter city.

Apprehension of Rosseau.

The apprehension of Rosseau was due to the disappearance of Owen Kelly, a wealthy Irish-American, who is prominent in Irish-American societies in this country. Kelly disappeared on Oct. 25 and from time to time the newspapers particularly of the East, have published articles on the mysterious disappearance. These, the police believe, undoubtedly attracted Rosseau's attention. On Thursday he called on Patrick Kelly, the brother of the missing man, and offered to take him to his brother in New York for $500. He said he and Owen Kelly belonged to secret societies that were organized for the purpose of blowing up British ships in American ports. The valise he carried, he said, contained explosives. Patrick Kelly notified the police and Rosseau was taken into custody. The valise contained an infernal machine of the clock arrangement variety but no explosives.

Rosseau told the police that he had intended making a second attempt to blow up the statue of Frederick the Great.

NEW PLACE FOR BRISTOW.

Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Resigns.

Washington, Jan. 14.—Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Joseph L. Bristow has resigned to take effect on Jan. 20. President Roosevelt issued an order that Mr. Bristow should be appointed a special commissioner to visit the ports on the Atlantic coast of the United States, the Pacific coast and the isthmus of Panama for the purpose of examining into trade conditions with a view to facilitating the transportation trade across the isthmus via the Panama railroad.

Mr. Bristow's decision to accept the special commissionership was hastened, it is understood, by the transfer of the division of postoffice inspectors from the bureau of the fourth assistant postmaster general to the direct control of the postmaster general himself. Mr. Bristow regarded the issuance of the order of transfer of the division as a reflection upon himself.

ROBBERS SECURE $5,000.

Safe of County Treasurer at Wauseon, O., Dynamited.

Toledo, O., Jan. 13.—Robbers dynamited the safe in the office of the county treasurer at Wauseon, O., securing $5,000 of the county funds. The treasurer had deposited $200,000 tax money in the banks of the town, which accounted for so small a sum in the safe. The robbers, four in number, stole a horse and sleigh and escaped.

OPENS A BIG SECTION.

Agreement With Indians of the Shoshone Reservation.

Washington, Jan. 14.—The house committee on Indian affairs has authorized a favorable report on the bill to ratify and amend an agreement with the Indians on the Shoshone or Wind River Indian reservation in Wyoming, which will open to settlement about 1,400,000 acres of land.

COMMISSIONER OF PENSIONS.

Congressman Warner of Illinois Named for Position.

Washington, Jan. 13.—The president has appointed Vespasian Warner to be commissioner of pensions. Mr. Warner is now a member of congress from Illinois.

SENATOR FROM MONTANA.

Thomas H. Carter Elected to Succeed Gibson.

Helena, Mont., Jan. 16.—Thomas H. Carter has been elected United States senator to succeed Paris Gibson, receiving 52 votes.

WORK OF CONGRESS.

Tuesday, Jan. 10.

House—Session given over almost entirely to discussion of the bill reported by the committee on banking and currency "to improve currency conditions."

Senate—Consideration of the joint statehood bill continued, the chief accomplishment being the acceptance of most of the amendments suggested by the committee on Indian affairs.

Wednesday, Jan. 11.

House—Army appropriation bill under consideration all day. An amendment providing that retired officers above the grade of major should not receive the full pay of their grade when assigned to duty with the militia of the several states, said to be directed at General Miles, caused considerable debate.

Senate—Day's session divided between the statehood bill and governmental regulation of railroads. All amendments to the statehood bill except that relating to liquor traffic in Indian Territory were agreed to.

House—Entire session devoted to discussion of the impeachment charges against Judge Charles Swayne of the Northern district of Florida.

Senate—Ship subsidy bill favorably reported and discussed for a time. Executive, judicial and legislative appropriation bill considered at length.

Friday, Jan. 13.

Senate—Legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill passed; also a number of private pension bills.

House—Further consideration given to the impeachment charges against Judge Charles Swayne of the Northern district of Florida. There was a lack of noticeable interest in the case except among a few members.

Saturday, Jan. 14.

House—Resolution agreed to calling on president for information regarding activity of letter carriers. Many private pension bills passed.

Senate—Amendment offered to statehood bill prohibiting polygamy. Philippine railroad bill sent to conference. Bill restoring citizenship of American women who have married foreigners discussed.

Monday, Jan. 16.

House—Debate on the Swayne impeachment case was exhaustive, dealing with many of the legal phases of the charges against Judge Swayne.

Senate—Decided by a vote of 30 to 24 to consider the cross town street railway bill for Washington, but the measure soon gave place to the statehood bill, which was discussed for three hours.

FOUNDERED DURING STORM.

Chief Officer and Twenty-One Men of American Dredger Lost.

Waterford, Ire., Jan. 12.—The steamer Zeno arrived here during the day with the captain and twelve men of the American steam dredger Texas, from Dantzic via Southampton Dec. 12 for Galveston, which foundered in a storm off the Hebrides. The crew entered the small boats, but one containing the chief officer and twenty-one men sank immediately and all its occupants were drowned. The survivors drifted for several days before being picked up.

The survivors, who suffered terribly from cold and hunger, say that just prior to sighting the Zeno they had drawn lots to decide which should be killed to provide food for the rest.

Delaware Deadlock Continues.

Dover, Del., Jan. 16.—The Delaware state senate continues in deadlock. Twelve ballots were taken for president pro tem. without a choice.

GOLDEN NUGGETS FOR SALLOW PEOPLE

BLACK-DRAUGHT STOCK & POULTRY MEDICINE

This great stock medicine is a money saver for stock raisers. It is a medicine, not a cheap food or condition powder. Though put up in coarser form than Thedford's Black-Draught, renowned for the cure of the digestion troubles of persons, it has the same qualities of invigorating digestion, stirring up the torpid liver and loosening the constipated bowels for all stock and poultry. It is carefully prepared and its action is so healthful that stock grow and thrive with an occasional dose in their food. It cures hog cholera and makes hogs grow fat. It cures chicken cholera and roup and makes hens lay. It cures constipation, distemper and colds in horses, murrain in cattle, and makes a draught animal do more work for the food consumed. It gives animals and fowls of all kinds new life. Every farmer and raiser should certainly give it a trial.

It costs 25c. a can and saves ten times its price in profit.

PITTSBURG, KAS., March 25, 1904.
I have been using your Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine on my stock for some time. I have used all kinds of stock food but I have found that yours is the best for my purpose.
J. S. HASSON.

Your Heart.

When Your Heart Fails to Pump Your Blood, Trouble Results.

Have you heart trouble?

You have, if you find it hard to breathe after walking up stairs, exercising, etc. If you have pain in your left side, in chest, back or shoulder. If you suffer from cold extremities, pale face, blue lips, dry cough, swollen ankles.

If you have fainting spells, breast pang, palpitation, redness of the face, discomfort in sleeping on one side.

The only scientific treatment for this whole train of troubles is Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is the prescription of a famous specialist, whose great success in treating obstinate nervous heart disease has made his name pre-eminent in the medical and scientific world.

The medicine will cure you. We know it. We want you to prove it. If first bottle does not benefit, your druggist will give you back your money.

"I have for several years suffered at times with heart trouble. I got so bad I could not sleep half the night, and had to sit up on the side of the bed lots of times to get breath. Three of my brothers have died of heart trouble, and I thought I was going the same way, but about two and a half years ago I got a pamphlet about Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and thought I would try a few bottles. After using them I recovered, and have had better health since then than before for several years. I can heartily recommend them for heart trouble."—REV. JERRY HURT, Pastor Baptist Church, Hurt, Kans.

Red Lake Falls Gazette

L. A. DAUTREMONT, PROPRIETOR
SAM S. HAISLET, EDITOR AND MANAGER

Published weekly, Thursday evening, and entered as second-class matter in the post office at Red Lake Falls.

Official Paper of Red Lake County.

Official Paper of Red Lake Falls.

The Thief River News says that Red Lake Falls cannot bluff them, and that they are not "afraid of the cars" up there. All right, John, but when you get a little spare time come down and we will pilot you through the corridors of RED LAKE COUNTY'S new court house, recently bought and paid for.

Thief River Falls can never hope to win the county seat fight while Jack Eastman is a resident of their city. John's reputation as a "hoodoo" is still with him, and the only time he ever got on the right side was when he shouted for the election of a democratic governor—something that happens about as often as lightning strikes twice in the same place.

Says the Crookston Journal: An active interest in the Red River Valley Press Club which was discussed at some length in the valley papers last fall is again being aroused and it is likely that a meeting of press representatives from this section of the country will be called in Crookston in the near future. The Press Club, wherever installed has been a pleasant factor in the life of newspaper men and would undoubtedly be very successful in the Red River Valley, a community possessing all of the whole souled Quilmen and news harks that it does.

Senator H. J. Miller, in his Laverne Herald, could not resist a "parting shot" at Hon. Joel P. Heatwole in his last week's issue, and says: "The able-looking ex-member of congress from the third district who publishes the Northfield News and the private letters of his confidantes, will not succeed Senator Clapp as United States senator from Minnesota. Not this time, at any rate. That seems to have been settled by the complete victory of Senator Clapp and the overwhelming defeat of Mr. Heatwole in the late senatorial caucus. The grand spectacular candidate was ready, but there was no call for him. He was simply ignored. His defeat was unanimous."

The celebrated Koch murder trail at New Ulm is ended and in the hands of the jury at present. It seems to be the general opinion that Koch will be acquitted or that a disagreement will result, and no one looks for a verdict of "guilty." While the case against Koch was a fairly strong circumstantial one, nevertheless the testimony of the only eye witness to the crime, that Koch did not kill Gebhardt is bound to carry weight enough with the jury to at least cause a disagreement. There are many peculiar points in connection with this case, and while the jury is bound to do its duty according to the evidence, nevertheless it is the general opinion that were the whole truth told their work would have been far easier.

The confirmation of John E. King's appointment as State Librarian is still "in the air" but the senate will take action on it the latter part of this week. There seems to be no doubt but what the appointment will be confirmed, as the daily papers state that Lieutenant Governor Jones and Editor King were brought together in the lobby of the Merchants Hotel at St. Paul the other day, and the hatchet was buried, Mr. Jones stating that he was willing to let the past take care of itself and that he would not offer any objection to the confirmation of King as librarian. Senator Hawkins, of Duluth, who moved to hold up his name would not commit himself, though, but it is more than likely that he will not attempt to carry the matter further. It appears that should the senate refuse to confirm King that he would still get his berth, as Governor Johnson could appoint him to fill the vacancy, but the notoriety thus obtained would not be desirable and Mr. King's friends will trust that all opposition will fade away when his name is presented this week.

Teacher's Association Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Red Lake County Teachers' association will be held at Thief River Falls on Friday and Saturday, January 27 and 28. A good program will be rendered. Several noted educators will be present and address the meeting Friday evening. School boards are requested to allow teachers to close their respective schools on Friday, the 27th, in accordance with the custom of other counties having teachers' associations. Members of school boards are also requested to be present and take part in the proceedings. All parties interested in education are invited to attend and assist in making the meeting successful.

Educational Department.

Edited Under the Direction of
Prof. E. W. Chamberlain.

If all of the teachers in the county were to be asked "what do you consider the hardest subject you have to teach?" I doubt not that most of them would say at once, Language.

Should this be so? Yes and no. If they try to make a separate subject of it and try to spend as much time on it as a special subject, then they may well say "yes," for handled that way it is the hardest subject in the curricutum to interest a pupil in. But if it is used as a medium by which all other subjects are handled, as an instrument for expressing ones thots about his lessons, then it may be called the easiest subject to teach.

What is Language? By language in our schools of course we mean English Language. It is simply the instrument that the English people use to express their thots to one another. Using correct language simply means using the instrument correctly or as the best writers and speakers use it. The laws of our language are not a set of arbitrary laws created by a few men, telling us how to use that instrument, but they are a set of laws carefully compiled telling us how the majority of those best fitted to know actually how used and to use that instrument.

How then is the best way to teach our children to use that language correctly? A careful study of the question will convince us that we must proceed along two lines. It must be treated, first, as a science and then, as an art. The science will teach the child how others use it, and the art will lead them to put into practice what they have been taught. When can they be taught how others use language to better advantage in the lower grades than in connection with the reading lesson? Did you ever stop to think how carefully our lower grade readers are thot out, and how well fitted they are to use as examples of correct language? "But," I hear some of you say, "how shall I use them to teach the correct use of language?" Simply by teaching them how the author used the different words, phrases and clauses; no, I would not teach the technical terms noun, verb, phrase and clause, etc. But I would have them all become familiar with words used in the sentence, and lead them to know with conscious knowledge, the many different thots authors use words for. To illustrate, take the following page from one of our first readers.

The ducks like the rain.

They cannot fly like larks, but they can swim.

The little ducks are as yellow as buttercups.

They like to swim in the brook.

The old duck swims with them sometimes. Sometimes she waits for them on the land.

To carry this work out successfully requires much thot and study on the part of the teacher, much tact and a large knowledge of the mental status of the pupil.

It would hardly do to ask a first-grade pupil at the outset what the author used the word "the" for in the first sentence or the word "like" in the second sentence, but should you ask him what he used the word ducks for, and should you rightly direct your question, you would soon get the answer, "The author used the word ducks to name the things" that like the rain. What did the author use the word like for in the first sentence? The author used the word like to tell what the ducks did. What did he use the word rain for? The author used the word rain to name the thing the ducks liked. What did the author use the word they for in the second sentence. The author used the word they instead of ducks. Now just a few answers I should expect to get. The author used the word little to tell how big the ducks were. He used the word young to tell how old the ducks were. He used the word yellow to show what color. He used the words to swim to show what the ducks liked to do. He used the words "in the brook" to show where the ducks like to swim. He used the words "for them" to tell why the old duck waits, or what the old duck waits for. He used the words "on the land" to tell where the old duck waited for them. He used the word "sometimes" to show when she waited for them. He used the word "waits" to show what the old duck does.

Surely when your children have gone thru the whole list of uses of words in this simple way they know much of the science of language altho they know not one technical term. And is not every answer teaching them the art of using correct language? But more of art in the future. Teachers, try this combining of language with your reading and see if you do not find better results and less worry.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

THE OLDEST MAN IN AMERICA

Tells How He Escaped the Terrors of Many Winters by Using Pe-ru-na.

Mr. Brock's Age is 115 Years.

MR. ISAAC BROCK, BORN IN BUNCOMBE CO., N. C., MARCH 1, 1788.

His age is 115 years, vouched for by authentic record. He says: "I attribute my extreme old age to the use of Peruna."

Born before the United States was formed.
Saw 22 Presidents elected.
Pe-ru-na has protected him from all sudden changes.
Veteran of four wars.
Shod a horse when 99 years old.
Always conquered the grip with Peruna.
Witness in a land suit at the age of 110 years.
Believes Peruna the greatest remedy of the age for catarrhal diseases.

ISAAC BROCK, a citizen of McLennan county, Texas, has lived for 115 years. For many years he resided at Bosque Falls, eighteen miles west of Waco, but now lives with his son-in-law at Valley Mills, Texas.

A short time ago, by request, Uncle Isaac came to Waco and sat for his picture. In his hand he held a stick cut from the grave of General Andrew Jackson, which has been carried by him ever since. Mr. Brock is a dignified old gentleman, showing few signs of decrepitude. His family Bible is still preserved, and it shows that the date of his birth was written 115 years ago.

Surely a few words from this remarkable old gentleman, who has had 115 years of experience to draw from, would be interesting as well as profitable. A lengthy biographical sketch is given of this remarkable old man in the Waco Times-Herald, December 4, 1898. A still more pretentious biography of this, the oldest living man, illustrated with a double column portrait, was given the readers of the Dallas Morning News, dated December 11, 1898, and also the Chicago-Times Herald of same date. This centenarian is an ardent friend of Peruna, having used it many years.

In speaking of his good health and extreme old age, Mr. Brock says:

"After a man has lived in the world as long as I have, he ought to have found out a great many things by experience. I think I have done so.

"One of the things I have found out to my entire satisfaction is the proper thing for ailments that are due directly to the effects of the climate. For 115 years I have withstood the changeable climate of the United States.

"I have always been a very healthy man, but of course subject to the little affections which are due to sudden changes in the climate and temperature. During my long life I have known a great many remedies for coughs, colds and diarrhœa.

"As for Dr. Hartman's remedy Peruna, I have found it to be the best, if not the only, reliable remedy for these affections. It has been my standby for many years, and I attribute my good health and extreme old age to this remedy.

"It exactly meets all my requirements. It protects me from the evil effects of sudden changes; it keeps me in good appetite; it gives me strength; it keeps my blood in good circulation. I have come to rely upon it almost entirely for the many little things for which I need medicine.

"When epidemics of la grippe first began to make their appearance in this country I was a sufferer from this disease.

"I had several long sieges with the grip. At first I did not know that Peruna was a remedy for this disease. When I heard that la grippe was epidemic catarrh, I tried Peruna for la grippe and found it to be just the thing."

In a later letter dated January 31, 1903, Mr. Brock writes:

"I am well and feeling as well as I have for years. The only thing that bothers me is my sight. If I could see better I could walk all over the farm and it would do me good. I would not be without Peruna."

Yours truly,
Isaac Brock,

For a free book on catarrh, address The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

The Spartan Play.

"The Heart of a Hero" is the title of a pretty little drama to be presented at the opera house Friday evening, January 27 by the Spartan literary society of the high school. The proceeds will go to buy new books for the school library. The drama is especially well suited for amateur players, and the players are taking their parts well. It is sparkling with fun from the first, and is also full of pathetic and exciting situations. We hope to have the orchestra furnish music, which will surely tempt you to come. New athletic specialties are being prepared, and Harry Healy will swing Indian clubs with torch effects. This is a most beautiful sight and alone worth the price charged. The prices have been put down to the surprisingly low figure of 15c, 25c and 35c. Come one, come all, and bring us a lot of new books.

A young collie dog twice dragged the bedclothes off of Roberg and scratched the man's hand to arouse him. Roberg twice fell before reaching the door and each time the collie scratched him until the farmer rescued his wife and children, who were unconscious.

DEATH IN A DESERT.

BONES OF TWENTY MEN FOUND IN CALIFORNIA.

Are Discovered in Reclaimed Tract in Imperial Valley — Mute Evidences of Suffering and Starvation.

"Mute evidences of the unspeakable suffering and horrible deaths of some 20 men from starvation were found in the clearing of the land in the imperial valley of California," said A. H. Heber, president of a company which has reclaimed 500,000 acres of the former desert.

"These were the skeletons of 20 men, which were found in little bunches of twos and threes bleached and dried by the fierce desert sun. They constituted the only traces of men who had probably been missing for years, and whose friends never knew their whereabouts.

"Some of these skeletons were found west of what is now Imperial, 15 miles from the foot of the mountains in the open plain. They had evidently been searching for New river, a stream which flows about one month in the year, to drain the desert of its summer rains. Their bones were in little piles a mile from the river. Others were found in the Alamo River valley, on the east side of the Imperial valley, between the sand hills.

"But the saddest find was that of a number of piles of bones which showed that five men had perished at one time from thirst within a hundred yards of each other. These bones were scattered all around, and there were some traces of vehicles in the mountains not far off, where the bones of animals told the tale of starvation which had been the end of the little party."

"This was the only instance in which traces of vehicles were found, and the supposition is that most of the men whose bones were found had been afoot and had probably gotten lost in the desert while looking for their wagons. This thing was not uncommon, for it is almost impossible in the Colorado desert to find directions. While we were laying out the town of Imperial we had an instance of this in the loss of a young Japanese cook. The young fellow was employed in our surveying party and started out one day to find a friend who was employed as a cook in a camp about four miles distant. He lost his way and failed to return. Searching parties were started out to find him. They traced him for six days, but finally entirely lost the trail and had to return to the camp. The Japanese was never heard of and I presume his bones will be found some day."

The Bold Bandit.

"Hello, Freddie! Are you playin' robber?"

"Playin' nuthin'. This is the real thing. I'm waitin' for cook, an' when she comes she'll tell where she hides the pies an' I'll know the reason why."—New York Evening Journal.

Amiable.

"Is Miss Oldly out of the matrimonial market yet?"

"No. But she's on the remnant counter."

Radium Runs Clock.

The radium clock of Harrison Martindale, English physicist, practically gives perpetual motion through the dissipation of negatively charged rays. A small quantity of radium supported in an exhausted glass vessel by a quartz rod, is placed in a small tube, to the lower end of which is attached an electroscope of two long strips of silver. The activity of the radium causes an electric current minus beta rays to be transmitted to the silver strips, which expand until they touch the sides of the vessel, when earthed conducting wires instantly discharge them and they fall together. This is repeated every two minutes, making time in beats of that duration, and, theoretically, the action will continue until exhaustion of the radium—in this case computed to be 30,000 years in the future.

Pedicuring an Elephant.

The tools for trimming elephants' feet are a carpenter's drawknife and a rasp for the soles and a horseshoer's knife and sandpaper for the toe nails. The operator places a beer keg or a strong box behind one huge hind foot, lightly prods the thick ankle with his elephant hook and commands the beast to "Hold up!" Up comes the mighty foot, slowly and heavily, but obediently as the velvety paw of a kitten. The foot is rested on the box or the keg, where it remains while the expert works on it much as a horseshoer pares the hoof of a horse. Great slivers of the horny sole are sliced off until it is cut nearly to paper thickness, when the rasp is used to smooth off. Similarly the toe nails are treated with the knife and the sandpaper, while the big patient stands with swinging trunk and an occasional wag of an ear, too full of satisfaction for utterance. When the turn of the forefoot comes, the great beast is made to lie down on its side and the hoofs are propped up and treated.—McClure's.

A Bird That Is Feared.

The elster (Pica caudata) is a bird that is respected and feared throughout south Germany. It belongs to the raven tribe and is about the size of a dove, with black and white feathers and long, pointed tail. It builds its nest in orchards, and its life is sacred. If it is seen three times in succession on the same house top in a place remote from its home it is believed to be a sure sign of death in that house. If it flies and gives its peculiar cry the sick person is sure to die, but if it does not scream the patient may recover. It is better for the sick person if the bird does not come near. No one could be hired to bother these birds for fear they might seek revenge, and if by chance one of them should die it is a sign of bad luck to the owner of the property where it is found. The bird is a valuable insect destroyer and in this way probably more than compensates for the fear it occasions among the farmers.

Animals Become Insane.

Insanity in the human subject is supposed by some to have no analogue in the lower animals. Yet many cases, according to Dr. Saelison, will lead to the permanent loss of self control. Cattle driven from the country through a crowded town will often work themselves into a frenzy. Horses have gone mad on the battlefield. At Balaklava an Arabian horse turned on its attendant, threw him down and, kneeling on him, attacked him like an infuriated dog. An instance is related of a docile horse suddenly going mad on a hot day. Everything that came in its way it seized in its teeth and shook as a terrier does a rat. A scientist of authority even goes so far as to prove by what appears to be incontestable evidence that cats, dogs and monkeys have been observed to have delusions very similar to those of insane people.—London Globe.

Dividing the Sexes.

While worshiping in a little chapel-of-ease a few miles from Ruthin, on the Wrexham road, the sexes are so strictly divided that they cannot even see one another. The building forms a right angle, in one arm of which the men sit and the women in the other. It was built and endowed by a misogynist of the Stuart period who objected to having his devotions distracted by the sight of the hated sex and, sympathizing with male posterity, stipulated expressly for this division in his deed of endowment.—London Standard.

The Cuban Workman.

The Cuban workman is a kind husband and a fond father of a family usually of patriarchal size. He lives simply. At the bodega he buys his tasajo (jerked beef), rice, vegetables and cheap wine, and very savory are the stews his meek little wife prepares at the one hearty meal of the day, about 5:30 p. m. The Cuban eats but twice daily. He is underfed and overstimulated. He has coffee at 7 a. m., a light breakfast at 11 a. m. and eats his chief meal at twilight.—Southern Workman.

Rapid Typewriting.

An official stenographer, Deming, at Albany, years ago reported court proceedings on a typewriter at the rate of 150 and 170 words a minute. He eliminated the vowels, using consonants only, with a dot to separate words. His typewriter was incased in glass to deaden the noise. The paper was run into the machine from a roll. Lawyers could read the notes.

Happiness.

"I am sometimes accused," writes Sir John Lubbock, "of being too optimistic. But I have never ignored nor denied the troubles and sorrows of life. I have never said that men are happy, but only that they might be; that if they are not so the fault is generally their own; that most of us throw away more happiness than we enjoy."

Too Deserving.

A young village maiden had obtained the modesty prize. "I suppose then, my child," said a Parisian lady addressing her, "you are the most modest girl in the parish?"

"There is not the slightest doubt about that, ma'am, and it's a downright shame I didn't get all the other prizes!"—Paris Journal.

A Hard Proposition.

One of the hardest things for a man to do when he has come home late from the club and tried to go to bed without taking off his collar is to explain to his wife he heard it was a good cure for sore throat.—New York Press.

The man that makes character makes foes.—Young.

PLUMMER

(From the Pioneer.)

S. A. Swanson, Ed Richards and Wm. Erb were business visitors here from Red Lake Falls.

Ole Skafhug this week purchased of Mr. Pleth a corner business lot in Plummer. Mr. Skafhug knows a good thing when he sees it and also knows wherein his money is safely invested.

Andrew Steen of Park River, N. D., returned home last Friday accompanied by Nels G. Nelson. Mrs. Steen who has been quite ill for the past couple of week is reported as improving rapidly.

Deputy Sheriff George Jarman and Wm. Zaiser were out from Red Lake Falls yesterday and went up to the newly named township of Big Bend to post notices incidental to its organization.

Hon. L. C. Simons took advantage of a lull in the preliminary work of the legislature and came up from St. Paul on Thursday to look after the business done in the banks here and at Brooks.

A. Alrick returned on Monday from McIntosh where he was in attendance at the sick bed of his wife and infant daughter. The little one passed away on Friday but Mrs. Alrick is recovering nicely.

Dr. F. F. Fletcher, dentist, of Red Lake Falls, will be at Plummer on the third Monday of each month, and at Brooks on the third Tuesday. He commenced these visits on Monday January 16.

J. E. Buskirk went to Red Lake Falls on Wednesday to secure a pile-driver which he hauled out here on Thursday to use in the construction of the new bridge over the Clearwater river north of town.

Julius Pleth this week sold to Crescentia W. Enderle, of St. Cloud, the following lands: The Theodore Torgeson 160 acres in section 12 in Garnes the Knut Danielson 137 acres in section 14, half mile south of Garnes' post office the east half of section 13, Emardville containing 320 acres, 160 acres in section 31 in Wyandotte, 300 acres in sections 14 and 23 in Garnes and 160 acres in section 15 in Wyandotte. Mr. Pleth does not look for any great boom in land the coming season due to the number of people on the reservation who, no doubt, will prove up this summer and will be glad to get their money back if they can.

The work of moving the creamery buildings from their old location to the newsite on the bank of the Clearwater river here in Plummer is now completed. The last load was hauled on Wednesday and the re-construction crew expect to have their work finished tonight. The building will then be in readiness for the placing of the machinery, which work Wm. Lauritzon, the buttermaker, will begin at once and finish as quickly as possible. To the Pioneer Mr Lauritzon stated that he expected the plant to be ready for work by about February 1, but it will probably not be started until a little later.

That there is quite a demand for both residence and business property in Plummer is very evident from the fact that Mr. Pleth, our townsite agent, has during the last two weeks disposed of 17 lots, and all of them to parties from the centre and southern part of the state. This shows that the outside world is keeping track of us and judging by their investments people now in Plummer are not the only ones who have faith in our good town and country. It may, perhaps, not be out of the way to mention that there are a great many investments worse than to be the owner of a few lots in Plummer, and we would not be surprised to see these very same lots now being sold for $250 and $300 double in value within a year. With the bridge now being built across the Clearwater river north of town and the road east put in good condition next summer or fall, with the territory that legitimately belongs to us there is nothing to prevent Plummer from becoming a town of at least 1,500 inhabitants in less than five years.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists A. L. Reichert.

ST. HILAIRE

(From the Spectator.)

Tom Hovit returned from North Dakota Thursday, where he has been visiting his parents.

Miss Alice Hall and Miss Selina Hoff went down to Crookston last evening to visit Mrs. Demer.

Miss Cora Yahr and Miss Minnie Small returned from their vacation at Minneapolis last Monday.

Crookston papers state that the Jerome bridge at that place, which will be taken down, has been purchased by the farmers living near Huot, in this county. They have been operating a ferry there for a number of years and been in need of a bridge for a long time.

The planing mill will start on its season's work next Monday. Plenty of orders are booked and it will run all winter.

Miss Josephine Gigstad and Miss Mary Hoff returned last Saturday to Grand Forks, where they are attending school.

Nels G. Otternese has been down in Iowa the past week closing up several land deals and is expected home the first of next week.

About twenty members of the Royal Neighbor Lodge at Thief River Falls drove down last Saturday evening and were entertained at cards and supper by Mrs. W. A. Arthur at the Hotel Markham.

On February 7th the people of Plummer will hold an election to see whether they will incorporate as a village. Of course it will carry, and Julius Pleth, the father of the town, should be the first president of the village council.

Postmaster O. F. Post has received instructions to take up the books and discontinue the postoffice of Wyandotte on January 31, making the records a part of this office. It is thought that mail service on the Soo will commence about that time.

Last Saturday at Red Lake Falls, Claude E. Higbie and Miss Cordelia Lacombe were joined in wedlock by Rev. Father Ansgaar. The newly wedded couple are very well and favorably known here. The groom, Dr. Higbie, has been a resident here for over a year and has won the good will of all his associates. The bride is a daughter of Alphonse Lacombe, who has resided here for the past five years and who is one of the pioneer residence of Red Lake county. The happy couple left Saturday evening for Ulen, Minn., where they will visit with Dr. Higbie's parents, after which they will make a trip to Wisconsin, returning here about January 20, when they will commence housekeeping. The Spectator in conjunction with their many friends wishes them all kinds of good luck and a happy and prosperous future.

Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists. A. L. Reichert.

BRAY

C. P. Swanson transacted business at Wylie Thursday.

Albert Johnson returned home from Euclid Friday after being absent about two weeks.

Peter Lindblom is busy lately hauling wheat to Wylie.

A. P. Hogstrom made a trip to St. Hilaire on Thursday.

Chas. Englund lost a valuable mare Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lindblom visited over Sunday with Mrs. Ecklund.

Chas. Lindquist and his brother, Albert, from Polk Centre, spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Johnson of Bray.

Bent Her Double.

"I knew no one, for four weeks, when I was sick with typhoid and kidney trouble," writes Mrs. Annie Hunter, of Pittsburg, Pa., "and when I got better, although I had one of the best doctors I could get, I was bent double, and had to rest my hands on my knees when I walked. From this terrible affliction I was rescued by Electric Bitters, which restored my health and strength, and now I can walk as straight as ever. They are simply wonderful." Guaranteed to cure stomach, liver and kidney disorders; at W. A. Schreiter's drug store 50; price.

The Local Overflow......

Salley sells coal.

Attorney W. A. McIntyre went down to St. Paul Sunday evening to look after business several days

James McAnulty, the venerable father of Superintendent H. T. McAnulty, who has been very sick the past several weeks, is reported as improving at present.

The January band concert will be given on Tuesday evening, January 31. A good program is being arranged, and the concert will undoubtedly be in keeping with the former successful ones.

H. L. Dudley came down from Thief River Falls Friday afternoon and remained until Monday looking after some business matters and visiting friends. "Dud" is to have full charge of the mechanical end of the Thief River Press under Mr. Packard's management, and those who know "Dud" are of the opinion that the new editor has scored a strong point in securing his services.

L. P. Berthon and Father E. Fayolle drove to Hugdale Sunday afternoon and took the train at that place for their trip to the southern part of the country. They will proceed immediately to New Orleans, and from there expect to journey to numerous other places of interests. They went fully prepared to enjoy themselves, and it is a foregone conclusion that they will succeed.

Thief River Press: Ex-County Treasurer O. T. Tandberg and family came down from the Lower Falls Saturday last and will make their home in this city. Mr. Tandberg has been employed as cashier of the First National Bank and has entered that institution to take up the discharge of his new duties. The family formerly resided in this end of the county so the move is simply one of getting back home after a long absence.

As will be noticed elsewhere the program for the February teachers' examinations are published by Superintendent McAnulty in this issue. Mr. McAnulty has arranged to hold these examinations at Red Lake Falls, St. Hilaire and Thief River Falls and in this way all the teachers of the county will be given an opportunity of attending and taking the exams at slight expense. This course of Mr. McAnulty's is a wise one, and should be warmly approved by the teachers throughout the county.

TO DRAIN STATE LANDS.

Plan to Complete System of Needed Ditches To Be Submitted.

A definite and complete plan for the drainage of all swamp lands owned by the state of Minnesota is provided in a bill introduced in the house by Representative A. L. Cole. [illegible] the plan is to be adopted [illegible] drainage board after a [illegible] competent engineer [illegible] submitted to the legislature of 1907, so that the expenditures of moneys appropriated for the construction of drainage ditches may be limited to the furtherance of a permanent, adequate system of drainage.

"The state owns more than 2,000,000 acres of swamp land in northern Minnesota," said Mr. Cole recently, "worth when drained many millions of dollars. Now it is worse than worthless as the swamps retard the settlement of other lands. In Itasca county a man living at International Falls cannot reach the county seat except in winter, without going several miles, owing to the impassable swamp that splits the county.

"The large swamps are mainly in the counties of Aitkin, Carlton, Cass, Itasca, Beltrami, Clearwater, Roseau and St. Louis. Nearly all are in a [illegible]. They are on the table land from which water flows north and south, the dividing ridge between Hudson's bay and the gulf of Mexico. The expense of drainage will be slight compared with the vast tracts that can be converted into as productive lands as can be found in the state.

"To reclaim this vast extent of country a comprehensive system of drainage must be established, and it should be done now before any considerable amount of money has been spent in the construction of single ditches, without reference to the drainage of all swamp lands in that region."

WASHINGTON SCHOOL NOTES.

Carl Buse and Otilila Altstadt, Reporters.

The two weeks of vacation are over now and we are all glad of it.

Winter does not seem to stop the boys from playing foot ball.

Some of the boys and girls of the fifth and sixth grades had their seats changed.

In the sixth grade geography class Mr. Healy bent a glass tube and filled it with mercury. This was a barometer, and with it we found that we were about 3280 feet above sea level. The column of mercury was 26½ inches high.

Edward Beauleau started school in the sixth grade after vacation.

The sixth grade history class are in the period of discovery and exploration.

A week ago Monday Mr. Healy went home at 11:30 because he was sick, and Miss Neiland took his fifth and sixth grade spelling classes.

All of our grades are working hard for the banners for Jan. You grades of the other school will have to watch out.

Mrs. Argue visited our school last week.

Prof. Chamberlain visited our school last week and gave us some questions to look up.

Friday morning the sixth grade had a hard time with their arithmetic.

The stove in room four is very poor. When we turn it on it smokes. When we turn it off it smokes some more.

Isaac Mayhew returned to school after the vacation, after a two month's absence.

The first grade has been busy making carts and goats.

Two new pupils have been enrolled in the fourth grade.

The fifth and sixth grades of the Washington school are going to give a program Feb. 21, 1905.

The pupils were very glad to receive their library books Friday night.

The third and fourth grades of Miss Norby's room lost their banner.

On account of the cold weather many of the smaller pupils were absent from school the first part of the week.

Clara Bourdon and Frank Campbell were absent from school a few days.

Many of the pupils brought their dinners because it was so cold.

Tena Rewertz started school Monday.

The fifth grade drew some maps Monday afternoon, and some of the best ones will be shown on visiting day. We are also saving some of our arithmetic papers for that day.

The sixth grade had to stay after school Monday night for their arithmetic.

For Sale. A pair of heavy bob sleighs. As good as new. Inquire of M. A. Hatten.

I'll brave the storms of Chilkoot Pass,
I'll cross the plains of frozen glass,
I'd leave my wife and cross the sea,
Rather than be without Rocky Mountain Tea. W. A. Schreiter's.

A. Abrahamson was a caller here from St. Hilaire yesterday.

Louis Doucet, Lambert's popular postmaster was a business caller here Monday in the interests of the Lambert-Red Lake Falls telephone project.

T. J. Thorkelson and wife, of St. Hilaire, were visitors here yesterday. Mr. Thorkelson has sold out his business at St. Hilaire and will locate elsewhere.

The members of the Modern Brotherhood of America made President Sam Allard a present of a handsome chair at their meeting last week, in appreciation of his efforts in behalf of the order here. The present came as a great surprise to Mr. Allard, who expressed his appreciation in a neat speech, and remarked that he hoped to live long to be able to meet and work with the members of the Red Lake Falls lodge, M. B. A.

New Bridge at Plummer.

Early in the week a large crew of men were set to work clearing off Minnesota street north and a road alongside the railroad track to the river where the new bridge is being put in. The roadway is now all clear and work on the bridge will be started on Monday, the piledriver and some material being now on the ground, says the Plummer Pioneer.

This bridge is being built mainly at the expense of the business men of Plummer and will prove a great benefit to the town and an equally great convenience to the people of Wyandotte and the reservation.

The list of subscriptions by the business men of Plummer is as follows: Peter K. Olson, $25; H. H. Finrow, $25; Brown & Buskirk, $25; Carlson & Helgeson, $25; Erick Iverson, $10; N. A. Nelson, $5; E. B. Lanager, $25; J. M. Reed, $15; Robinson & Co., $20; Bovey-Shute Lumber Co., $25; Julius Pleth, $25.

Apart from this we will have the contributions of the two elevators which are yet to hear from, and the $290 allowed by the county board, but which may not be available for a long time yet. However, Julius Pleth has charge of the treasury and will finance the work to a speedy finish on a most economical basis.

The work is being done by Brown & Buskirk and all who know their work know that it will be done in a reliable and substantial manner. Plummer is indeed fortunate to have a firm of contractors so well qualified to do the work, and public spirited enough to do it for ordinary wages only, thereby saving the high expense necessary for any outside contractor to bring expert labor here and pay its price.

The thanks of the community is due Commissioner Ole J. Johnson and the other members of the county board for their prompt and liberal aid towards the building of this bridge.

A Prosperous Association.

At the first annual meeting of the Farmers' Produce association held at Gentilly Friday the officers for the year were elected and plans and arrangements made for the opening of a butcher shop in Crookston. The shop will be opened for business there early in February and the association expects to do a large business from the start. The officers elected are as follows: President, Remi Fortier, Gentilly; Vice president Edward Lancto; secretary, Louis Regimbale, Crookston; treasurer, J. B. Dufault, Gentilly; Directors, H. J. Gondren, Gentilly, Cesaire Gervais, Gentilly, Patrick Kelley, Gentilly, Joseph Dufault, Gentilly, Joseph Sauve, Crookston.

BIG DAYS AT CROOKSTON.

Hoticultural and Dairy Men's Convention and Poultry Show.

February 2, 3 and 4 will be the three biggest days in Crookston this winter, and will mark the holding of the Horticultural and dairymen's conventions and the Poultry show in the order named, though as a matter of fact the poultry show will continue during the entire three days.

The horticultural convention will be conducted by a representative from the State Agricultural College and plans have been evolved to make the convention the biggest one of the kind ever held in the Red River Valley.

The Dairymen's convention is being looked after by Mr. Joel G. Winkjer, manager of the big and successful creamery at St. Hilaire. He is one of the most practical men in the business and is thoroughly versed in the conditions in the Red River Valley and those attending the convention will get the full benefit of all his experience.

Conductor Lockman, president of the Poultrymen's Association, assisted by Ralph Kirsch are getting up the premium list and interested poultrymen will be here from all parts of the northwest to participate with their fancy birds.

The three conventions are for the benefit of the Red River Valley and as energy is being used with the necessary ability there is no doubt that the convention will be very successful. Following is the program for the Dairymen's convention on Feb. 3;

The Diamond Cure.

The latest news from Paris, is, that they have discovered a diamond cure for consumption. If you fear consumption or pneumonia, it will, however, be best for you to take that great remedy mentioned by W. T McGee, of Vanleer, Tenn. "I had a cough, for fourteen years. Nothing helped me, until I took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which gave instant relief, and effected a permanent cure." Unequelled quick cure, for throat and lung troubles. At W. A Schreiter's drug store; price 50c and $1.00, guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

The Three Minute Bread Mixer

Is a Mixer, Kneader and raiser combined.

The Three Minute Bread Mixer is a simple machine about the size of an ordinary pail. There is a handle on top and the rest inside of it mixes the Bread in THREE MINUTES.

This Simple Machine is Guaranteed to mix and knead bread Perfectly in Three Minutes....

It is so simple that a child can operate it. All that there is to do is to put in the liquid and flour, turn the crank three minutes. This kneads the dough into a compact-ball. Put in a warm place to raise. We have these mixers on our conter, where they can be easily seen, and will be pleased to show them.

Notice of Contest of County Seat Removal.

To Whom It May Concern:

Whereas, a notice signed by Chas. M. Evenson, Lars Backe, D. N. Winton and others, dated January 25th, 1905, has been posted, published and given, in the County of Red Lake, stating that it is the intention of said signers and others to circulate a petition the object and prayer of which will be that the county seat of said county of Red Lake be changed from the City of Red Lake Falls to the City of Thief River Falls, which is situate in Township 154, north of Range 45 west in said county and state; and proceedings have been begun to effect such change:

Now, Therefor, Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, legal voters of said county, with other legal voters thereof, desire to, and will contest such proposed removal of the county seat of said county from its present location to said City of Thief River Falls, and to that effect, will, with other legal voters of said county, on Saturday, the 18th day of February, A. D. 1905, begin the circulation of a Remonstrance among the legal voters of said county, addressed to the Board of County Commissioners thereof, remonstrating against, and objecting to the removal of the county seat of said county from the City of Red Lake Falls to the City of Thief River Falls aforesaid, and to any further proceedings in said matter; and will take such further steps as may be necessaay in the premises.

RIVER BANKS SLIDING

Great Northern Contractors Driving Piles To Keep New Cut From Covering Up the Tracks.

After removing hundreds of tons of dirt from the big cut for the Great Northern extension in this city, and filling in the big slide along the banks of the Clearwater river, the Great Northern officials have arrived at the conclusion that it is useless to keep on piling up dirt only to have it slide into the river, and in a few days will have a big pile driver located here to drive immense piles the entire length of the slide, in an attempt to hold the dirt from going out and leaving the tracks suspended in mid air.

The piles are now at St. Hilaire, and are extraordinairly long, as short piles would be of no use, it being neccessary to have the piles long enough to reach through the soapy strata to the solid sub strata in order to get anything to tie to.

The Great Northern and Northern Pacific have been put to enormous expense by the unstable character of the banks of the Red, Red Lake and Clearwater rivers. In Crookston the Great Northern was compelled to dump several carloads of rock in the river near the depot before the bank stopped sliding. At Grand Forks the Northern Pacific experienced the same trouble, several fortunes being expended before a road bed was finally constructed which would not slide continually and even now there is a steady, though almost impreceptible movement of the tracks toward the river.

At the brick yards and saw mill in Crookston the same trouble was met, and several of the largest buildings in Grand Forks facing west on Third street are gradually sliding toward the river enough so that some of them are decidedly out of plumb.

CONCERT ON TUESDAY

February Entertainment By The Red Lake Falls Concert Band To Be A Hummer, With a Big "H".

The program is arranged for the February concert by the Red Lake Falls band, and it is the confident expectation of those in charge that this will eclipse all former entertainments by this organization.

The program includes a brilliant mixture of band numbers, introducing several new light and popular numbers and a beautiful selection from Verdi's grand Il Trovatore, conceded to be one of the greatest pieces of music ever composed.

Aside from the band numbers will be two excellent recitations, one by Miss Lucy Hunt, and one by J. D. Marshall, both of which will furnish a diversion from the usual program. Between halves a laughable and characteristic farce in one-act, entitled "Remember Benson" will be put on by three male characters, which makes another feature new and novel.

There are no travelling organizations that put up a better class of entertainments than those put on by the band, and every resident of the city should make it a point to attend. The reserved seats, to others than subscribers, will be sold at the usual price of 50c, the general admission price being 25c and children 15c. This brings the concert within reach of all, and the people should see that a packed house greets the boys next Tuesday evening.

The following is the program as prepared:

PART ONE.

1. March.......................Clark
"Belle of New York"
2. Caprice.......................Losey
"Dance of the Fireflies"
3. Recitation.......................
"Sister and I"
Miss Lucy Hunt.
4. Selection from "Il Trovotore".......Verdi
5. One-act farce comedy.......................
"Remember Benson"

PART TWO.

6. "Pickininies Patrol".........Laurendeau
7. Selection..............Theo. M. Tobani
"Daughter of the Regiment"
8. Recitation.......................Wallace
"Ben Hur Chariot Race"
J. D. Marshall.
9 March.......................Wenstein
"Eleven O'clock Toast"

Remember the date and everyone make it a point to attend.

History Repeats Itself.

In regard to the court house question, and the action threatened in regard to municipal affairs at Thief River, the News of last week says:

"We have one Henry W. Lee up here whose time is not just now fully occupied and who says he can do a little investigating at the county seat if the people there desire to have him go down. Red Lake Falls will soon find that there is more than one way to skin a cat."

Which reminds us that the "one Henry W. Lee" arrived here Tuesday noon armed with a long-winded legal injunction restraining Treasurer Hansen from paying the warrant drawn in favor of Ernest Buse for the purchase of the property. The warrant had been paid, however, prior to the arrival of the varnished cars, and "one Henry W. Lee" and his injunction proceeded to return to Thief River Falls, there to rest serene until we meet again. In this connection the thought is brought to mind that "the King of France, with 40,000 men, marched up the hill—and then marched down again."

The Die Is Cast!

Thief River Falls Will Petition For Removal of County Seat of Red Lake County.

The long expected county seat war is here at last, and Thief River Falls has been compelled to show her hand, with the result that Tuesday of this week notices were posted throughout the county, signed by a committee of Thief River business men, which announce that on Saturday, February 11 they will commence the circulation of a petition requesting and praying the county commissioners to move the seat of government from Red Lake Falls to Thief River Falls.

This is the opening gun of what promises to be a fight to the finish, and while it has been expected for years Thief River Falls kept putting it off in the hopes that the boom lightning would strike them and enable their much inflated town to acquire that "which it long had sought, and mourned because it found it not."

There is not a plausible reason in the world why Thief River Falls should be made the seat of government of Red Lake county, and a general opinion is expressed that it is merely a scheme to bring an enormous expense on the people of the county to benefit a few individuals at the up-river municipality. If the court house could be moved without a cent of expense to the taxpayers, there would still remain no just reason for such a proceeding, and when it is proven that it means the placing of Red Lake county far in the hole again financially, as well as a substantial increase in the taxes of the citizens, there will be but slight interest taken, and the people will by their ballots, put a damper on the aspira- of the town on the north.

The county is now for the first time in its history, on practically a cash basis, and from the fact that they now own their own court house property and will not have to incur a great amount of extra expense in the future, the present conditions will be rapidly improved, which will necessarily mean a substantial reduction in the taxes of the entire county. A removal at this time would mean an enormous expense, and we would immediately go back to the system of paying interest compounded several times on all warrants paid, while the now overburdened taxpayer would be called upon to put up for it. Could it be proven that the removal of the seat of government to Thief River Falls would be in the smallest measure beneficial to the county, no objection would be raised, but when it is simply a plan to get something out of the taxpayers to help out a town that proved unfriendly in the time of need, the scheme is indeed a a flimsy one, and will not stand with the voters.

Red Lake Falls people bore the expense of creating Red Lake county—which was an enormous one—and by their efforts untold benefit has resulted, and it would not seem that the people would prove ungrateful without just cause or provocation. The voters will undoubtedly look out for their own interests and if they do this the outcome will not be unfavorable to Red Lake Falls.

KING GETS HIS BERTH

Senator Hawkins Withdraws Opposition To Editor King's Appointment as State Librarian.

Editor John E. King is in receipt of a message today announcing that the Senate this morning confirmed his appointment as State Librarian.

When the Senate convened today Senator Hawkins who had previously moved to hold the appointment, took the floor and stated that while he had found that Mr. King's paper had criticised Lieutenant-governor Jones before and after election, that in accordance with Mr. Jones' wishes the opposition to this appointment was withdrawn, and the Senate immediately confirmed the appointment of King as Librarian.

This will be pleasing news to Mr. King's friends here, and throughout the entire state.

He will assume his new duties at St. Paul about March 1—or as soon as the library is moved into the new capitol.

Big Time At Plummer.

The Woodmen of Plummer are planning on having a big blow-out and general good time at their town on Saturday evening of next week, and the Red Lake Falls degree team and others will go out to help them manipulate the goat. A class of a dozen or more candidates will be taken into the order that evening, and after the work a banquet will be enjoyed. The Plummer camp is looking forward to a good time and will have it without doubt.

ClimaticCures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists A. L. Reichert.

SUNDAY'S RIOTING AT ST. PETERSBURG ENDS IN DEATH TO MANY PEOPLE.

CROWDS REFUSE TO OBEY ORDERS

DEADLY VOLLEY OF BALL CARTRIDGES FOLLOWS TWO VOLLEYS OF BLANKS.

WHOLE CITY IN A STATE OF PANIC

FIGHTING PROCEEDS SIMULTANEOUSLY IN SEVERAL DIFFERENT PLACES.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 23.—The first blood in the Russian revolution has been shed.

Sunday thousands of Russian workingmen, with their wives and children, gathered in the streets leading to the palace square.

The movement toward the square began early in the morning. The people found all the bridges leading to their objective point closely guarded by strong bodies of troops, but by twos and threes they crossed the Neva on the ice, hurrying to the palace square, where they believed Emperor Nicholas would meet them and receive their petition.

The emperor was not there. Instead the people were met by thousands of troops, massed in solid squares.

Then the crowd began to abuse the soldiers. Every move of the troops was met with hisses and cries.

Finally the order was given to clear the crowds away. The horse guards charged. Shrieks of the wounded resounded for a time. Then came silence.

Again the crowd refused to obey an order to disperse. Then two companies advanced. The commanding officer ordered the crowd to disperse. The people refused. The troops fired a volley with blank cartridges; then another. Still the crowd did not move. Then followed a deadly volley with ball cartridges. At least one hundred people fell. Firing was repeated and corpses strewed the ground in every direction. Blood flowed down the streets in streams.

Then the crowd fled, denouncing the soldiers as "murderers and murderous dogs."

The police ordered out sleighs to care for the dead and heartrending scenes were witnessed as the dead were recognized by relatives. Men, women and children had fallen before the volleys of the soldiers.

FIVE HUNDRED LOWEST ESTIMATE OF THE DEAD.

The scene was repeated at other points until the number of dead and wounded is variously estimated to be from 500 to 5,000 persons.

At the Putiloff works the scenes resembled a sham battle. There the workmen facing the troops when the order was given to fire threw themselves upon their faces on the ground. The troops fired on them as they lay prostrate.

Men and women, infuriated to frenzy by the loss of loved ones, cursed the soldiers while they retreated. Men harangued the crowds, telling them that the emperor had failed them and that the time had come to act. Men began to build barricades in the Nevsky Prospect and at other points, using any material that came to hand and even chopping down telegraph poles.

Fighting meantime continued at various places, soldiers volleying and charging the mob. The whole city was in a state of panic. Women were running through the streets seeking lost members of their families. Several barricades were carried by the troops.

Towards 8 o'clock in the evening the crowds, exhausted, began to disperse, leaving the military in possession. As they retreated up the Nevsky Prospect the workmen put out all the lights.

With darkness it was feared the mob might begin to loot and pillage and even burn, but beyond the breaking of a few windows in the Nevsky Prospect and the pillaging of fruit shops little disorder was reported. Most of the theaters were closed.

SOLDIERS SPARE LIFE OF FATHER GOPON.

There was a very dramatic scene at the Narva gate when Father Gopon, in golden vestments, bearing aloft an ikon and flanking two clergymen carrying religious banners, approached at the head of a procession of 8,000 workmen.

Troops were drawn up across the entrance. Several times an officer called upon the procession to stop, but Father Gopon did not falter. Then an order was given to fire, first with blank cartridges. Two volleys rang out, but the line still did not waver.

Then, with seeming reluctance, an officer gave the command to load with ball cartridges and the next volley was followed by shrieks and cries of the wounded. As the Cossacks followed up the volley with a charge the workmen fled before them, leaving about 100 dead or wounded.

It was evident that the soldiers deliberately spared Father Gopon. One of the clergymen by his side was wounded, but he escaped untouched and hid behind a wall until the Cossacks passed and he was then spirited away by workmen.

The estimates of the number of dead and wounded continue to vary greatly, as at least a majority of the killed and wounded were carried off by their comrades. Few of these taken to the hospitals have been reported. The official account of the rioting by no means indicates the total of killed and wounded. From careful investigation by the staff of the Associated Press it appears that the estimate of 500 cabled seems liberal.

EMPEROR IS COMPLETELY PROSTRATED BY GRIEF.

Emperor Nicholas is completely prostrated by grief. He is represented to be almost in a state of collapse over the situation. In the meantime everything awaits his decision. All the schools are closed.

St. Petersburg has often witnessed rioting, clearing the streets of demonstrators and Cossack charges with whips and sabres, but the bloodshed of Sunday is unparalleled in its history and the many stories of brutality told by the populace seem to have convinced them that a programme of deliberate blood letting was planned to overawe the strikers. This is most indignantly denied by the authorities, who protest most earnestly that they regret that the situation compelled such stern measures. They say order had to be restored or the city would have fallen into the hands of the mob.

The sale of petroleum has been forbidden by the police to prevent the possibility of the strikers attempting to destroy the city by fire.

The authorities have advised the factory owners not to admit the men, as they had stolen a lot of dynamite bombs and might destroy property.

No newspapers have appeared since Friday except the Official Messenger, containing the government decrees, which is printed under military protection at the office of the State bank, where the bank notes are issued. Official accounts of Sunday's affair were posted on all the bulletin boards. Strikers who came to read spat upon them.

SPREADS TO MOSCOW

OUTBREAK AT ST. PETERSBURG PRECIPITATES STRIKE AT THE OLD CAPITAL.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 24.—The most startling feature in the situation now is the news that several factories in Moscow have closed and that the workingmen in the old capital of Moscow are repeating the tactics of their fellow workmen of the new capital, marching from shop to shop and mill to mill, demanding that the establishments be shut down. The whole city is reported to be in a state of great excitement over the news of the bloodshed here Sunday which has precipitated immediately the strike that had been planned for Wednesday. Moscow has more workmen and less troops than St. Petersburg and besides is just now the heart of the Liberal movement and the danger of bloodier occurrences there than have been witnessed here are proportionately greater. A rising at Moscow is also more likely to have greater results industrially and politically than that in St. Petersburg.

ADMIRALTY WORKS BURN.

Russia's Great Naval Plant at Sevastopol in Flames.

Sevastopol, Jan. 24.—The vast admiralty works here are ablaze.

The fire broke out shortly after the second signal for work was given at 7 a. m. The flames burst simultaneously from different parts of the works and the whole building was so quickly enveloped that men in the upper part barely escaped by jumping out of the windows. Energetic measures prevented the flames extending to the docks. The fire was under control at 1:30 p. m. The cause of the fire is unknown.

JURY FAILS TO AGREE

NO VERDICT RENDERED IN SENSATIONAL NEW ULM (MINN.) MURDER TRIAL.

New Ulm, Minn., Jan. 21.—Dr. George R. Koch must stand another trial for the alleged murder of Dr. L. A. Gebhardt.

The jury, after being out forty-one hours, came into court at 9:40 a. m. and announced its inability to agree upon a verdict. Judge Webber thereupon discharged the jury.

Not since the twelve men retired to deliberate on the case has the jury indicated a desire for further instruction from the court nor has a single word leaked from the juryroom to indicate how the members stood on the question of conviction or innocence.

As near as can be ascertained the jury stood nine for acquittal and three for conviction.

Attorney Brown, in the interest of the defendant, made a motion for an immediate new trial. This the court denied on the grounds that General Childe, the prosecuting attorney, did not desire immediate retrial.

AGAIN APPEAL CASE

HARRIMAN AND PIERCE TAKE SECURITIES CASE TO FEDERAL SUPREME COURT.

Presentation Consists of a Formal Filing of Briefs, the Principal Contention of Which is That the Stock Held by the Securities Company Should Be Returned to Original Owners—If Petition Is Granted Entire Case Will Be Reviewed.

Washington, Jan. 24.—The petition of Edward H. Harriman and Winslow S. Pierce, the Oregon Short Line Railroad company and the Equitable Trust company, for a writ of certiorari to the circuit court of appeals for the Third circuit in their proceedings against the Northern Securities company was presented to the supreme court of the United States during the day by Attorney W. D. Guthrie of New York. The presentation consisted of a formal filing of briefs, the principal contention of which was that, following the different government suits against the Northern Securities company, there should have been a complete restitution of stock rather than a pro rata distribution. If the petition is granted the effect will be to cause a review of the entire case by the supreme court.

SITUATION STRAINED

UNCLE SAM MAY BE COMPELLED TO USE FORCE IN DEALING WITH VENEZUELA.

Washington, Jan. 21.—The information respecting the situation at Caracas received by the state department from Minister Bowen in a cablegram of Thursday's date is to the effect that President Castro has made a proposition for the settlement of the asphalt claims and other issues between the United States and Venezuela of a nature that makes it impossible of acceptance by our government and, being notified of that fact and having left the capital for an indefinite period, he has terminated the negotiations at least for the time being. The effect of this action is to place the relations between the United States and Venezuela under a decided strain. However, there is no intention on the part of the administration to act with undue haste and though it is now almost certain that some action of a compulsory nature will in the end be forced upon our government this will not occur until every resource of diplomacy has been exhausted.

ON THE FIRST BALLOT

GOVERNOR LA FOLLETTE NAMED FOR SENATOR BY WISCONSIN REPUBLICANS.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 24.—Governor Robert M. La Follette was Monday night, in the Republican caucus, chosen for United States senator to succeed Joseph V. Quarles. The governor received 65 votes out of 107 on the informal ballot, which upon motion, was made formal. Upon a motion to make the nomination unanimous a few members arose to their feet and voted against it. Following is the detailed vote:

La Follette—Senate, 15; assembly, 50—65. Quarles—Senate, 3; assembly, 23—26. Charles M. Webb—Assembly, 4; senate, 6—10. John J. Esch—Senate, 2; assembly, 2—4. W. D. Connor—Assembly, 1; senate, 1—2.

BANK FORCED TO CLOSE.

Run on Ohio Institution Follows Suicide of Cashier.

Columbus, O., Jan. 24.—As the result of a run on the East End Savings bank of this city, following the suicide of Cashier Charles H. Houseman, the directors closed the bank and later placed it in the hands of a receiver.

News of Houseman's suicide caused a panic among the depositors of the bank and the frenzied crowd which struggled around the doors of the bank, seeking to withdraw deposits, became so large that the police were called to preserve order.

The run had been in progress less than two hours when the directors met and decided to close the bank themselves.

SMOOT CASE NEARLY ENDED.

Expected That Investigation Will Be Concluded This Week.

Washington, Jan. 24.—The senate investigation into the protests against Senator Reed Smoot will be closed this week.

The cross-examination of Senator Smoot resulted in an absolute refusal to testify in regard to the endowment ceremonies. He also asserted that it was not his business to call to account President Smith of the Mormon church, because Mr. Smith had admitted to the committee that he was living in violation of the laws of the land. Three other witnesses refused to divulge the character of the endowment ceremonies.

WORK OF CONGRESS.

Tuesday, Jan. 17.

Senate—The unusual spectacle of a United States senator explaining on the floor of the senate charges made against him in a court of law in his own state was witnessed when Mr. Mitchell of Oregon spoke of the indictment returned against him by an Oregon grand jury. He strongly denied the charges and branded his accusers as liars.

House—With an agreement reached to vote on the Swayne impeachment articles Wednesday at 3:30 o'clock business in the house was carried on a high pressure for more than five hours

Wednesday, Jan. 18.

House—The twelve articles of impeachment against Judge Charles Swayne of the district court of the Northern district of Florida adopted. The speaker was authorized to appoint seven members to present the case to the senate and conduct the impeachment proceedings before that body.

Senate—Mr. Stone of Missouri made an address relative to alleged frauds at recent election. Statehood bill discussed at some length.

Thursday, Jan. 19

Senate—Consideration of the statehood bill continued and Mr. Stone spoke for two hours in opposition to it. The bill for the remuneration of the American fur sealers who suffered losses because of their suppression also was debated at some length, but no action was taken.

House—Consideration of the army appropriation bill concluded. A vigorous attack was made but to no avail on the army transport service by Mr. Humphrey of Washington.

Friday, Jan. 20.

House — Army appropriation bill passed after an amendment had been adopted providing that hereafter retired army officers assigned to the militia of the several states shall not receive any pay or allowance additional to their pay as retired officers where such pay and allowances exceed those of a major. Indian appropriation bill considered for balance of day.

Senate—Messrs. McCreary and Bate spoke in opposition to the statehood measure. Fur seal indemnity bill also considered.

Saturday, Jan. 21.

Senate—Day devoted to listening to eulogies upon the late Senator John J. Ingalls of Kansas and to the consideration of the bill making appropriations for fortifications. Just before adjournment notification was received from the house that that body had named managers to conduct the impeachment proceedings against Judge Charles Swayne of Florida.

House—Indian appropriation bill approved and several hours devoted to paying tribute to the late Senator John J. Ingalls of Kansas.

Monday, Jan. 23.

Senate—Fortifications bill passed after rejecting amendment providing for insular fortifications. Effort to fix a date for voting on statehood bill fails.

House—Day devoted entirely to consideration of bills relating to the District of Columbia.

FOR ATTACK ON MITCHELL.

Mine Workers' Organization Expels Delegate Randall.

Indianapolis, Jan. 21.—Robert Randall, delegate to the United Mine Workers' convention from Dietz, Wyo., who charged President Mitchell with having sold out to the operators during the recent Colorado strike, was expelled from the organization during the day by the national convention.

Red Lake Falls Gazette

L. A. DAUTREMONT, PROPRIETOR
SAM S. HAISLET, EDITOR AND MANAGER

Published weekly, Thursday evening, and entered as second-class matter in the post office at Red Lake Falls.

Official Paper of Red Lake County.

Official Paper of Red Lake Falls.

Subscription: $1.00 per Year

Some of our Polk county residents who have bought land in Red Lake county are anxious to get moved upon their claims, so as to take part in the county seat scrap that is coming on between Thief River and Red Lake Falls, says the Gully Sunbeam.

Congressman Steenerson has been advised by the secretary of the interior at Washington that a per capita payment of $170,000 will be made on June 17 to the Red Lake Indians. This money comes from the first payment of settlers on lands opened in the Red Lake reservation last summer.

The first issue of the Thief River Falls Press under the management of Frank E. Packard came to hand on time last week, and if the pace set is any criterion, Red Lake county will not be neglected in the newspaper line. Mr. Packard is a thorough newspaper man, and his Press will be a power for good in this section of the state. Here's ho!

The Thief River Press remarks: The Bemidji Pioneer says that if a general primary law is passed the coming winter there will be no more democrats and the republican party will be so completely demoralized that none but republicans can get office. It is not materially different from that unhappy state stanc at the present time. As witness the troubles of editor King at the present time.

The Thief River Review discovers that we have something wrong in "our midst" down here, and suggests a removal of the court house to cure it. It might be suggested that the easiest way to remove troubles from "our midst" is by a surgical operation, and this can be attended to much easier than a court house removal, if the Review is really in earnest.

Red Lake Falls will hold her regular city election in the fall of the present year, and it may be expected that campaigning will begin any old time. The next few years promise to be strenuous ones in the towns and cities of Red Lake county, and good men should be picked early to look after our welfare. There is lots of good timber to select from, and we will all probably have lots to say about it during the coming summer.

Advertising has reached that point in a business man's life where the successful merchant figures as much on his expenditure for printer's ink as he does for his store rent and clerk hire. A merchant in a neighboring town, says an exchange, states that his advertising last year cost him forty cents on every hundred dollars worth of merchandise sold. He used a half page together with a good showing of local liners and was represented in every issue of the leading papers. This year he has contracted for a full page and declares that he shall continue to advertise as long as people continue to read newspaperr. The biggest and best merchants in the world believe in newspaper advertising. The man who ignoras it may succeed for a time, but he will have to give way to the competitor who makes use of his opportunities.

THE COUNTY SEAT WAR.

Red Lake county people will now enjoy the distinction and privileges of indulging in one of those useless and expensive luxuries—a county seat fight—and it can be depended on that there will be something doing around these parts for several months.

Looked at from any standpoint such a contest is not in the least a desirable thing, and it is unfortunate that the county should be forced to bear these troubles while yet in its infancy. Tax burdens have been heavy upon the people of Red Lake county since being set off from Polk, but under the economical administration enjoyed the past few years, the county has cut down its expenses to a marked degree and today is making strides which will result in a substantial reduction of the annual amount each property owner is required to pay.

Having arrived at this desirable state, it is indeed unfortunate that the people will be forced to bear an enormous expense to settle a dispute of one town over another, and while the expense will not be as great if the seat of government is left intact, yet Thief River Falls' action in this matter will cost the people a neat snm before it is settled.

The writer had the privilege of living in a county in southern Minnesota which has enjoyed two of these contests, and knows from experience that it means much more than the people realize. In the county in question the seat of government was not located at a desirable point from any standpoint, and while the town attempting to wrest the honors possessed untold advantages, the people twice voted in favor of the county seat town and did not care to take on the expense of moving the seat of government, with the result that it is today located permanently at the town originally named.

In Red Lake county Thief River Falls cannot lay claim to one advantage over Red Lake Falls, and as long as the people will not gain by the removal, it would indeed be strange if they incurred the heavy expense connected with such a proceedure.

Red Lake Falls is responsible for Red Lake county being what it is today and it is not expected that the people will prove ungrateful in this hour of excitement.

It is plainly evident that friend Eastman's ribs wont take on a great amount of fat from public money received during 1905. John's "divy" in the county combine won't furnish an ante in the game he is accustomed to, while his bid for the city printing at Thief River Falls was turned down by the council last week, and the contract given to the Press. It is faintly rumored that friend John is not very jovial these days—probably as a result of these conditions.

Lieut.-Gov. Jones has appointed Senator W. W. Dunn, of St. Paul, chairman of the senate committee on temperence, Senator Dunn is, and for many years has been, the attorney for leading wholesale and retail liquor interests of St. Paul. Though the senator is recognized as an able and fair-minded man, his appointment will naturally subject him to much adverse criticism and has already called forth some pretty strong language from leading temperence workers of the state. The best thing Mr. Dunn can do is to refuse to serve on the committee; if he is to remain at the head of the committee, he should sever his connection with the breweries and saloons, remarks the Warren Sheaf.

Forty new brick business blocks, eight opera houses 'steen stories high, numerous Normal schools, a countless number of wholesale houses, besides forty-one railroad divisions are what Thief River Falls is to have immediately. With all this prosperity hitting them at one fell swoop, isn't it strange that they are trying to bust their suspenders to get a measly little court house located in Greater Thief River Falls (sic.)

George P. Jones, familiarly known as "Jones, of Rock," who was candidate for Clerk of the Supreme Court on the Democratic ticket two years ago and candidate for congress in the second district last year, has applied for an auctioneer's license in Jackson county, in the southern part of the state. Jones' aim was high enough but the mark he has hit illustrates forcibly that the falling of the mighty is still a commen occurrence.

Editor Irve Townsend, of the Gary Graphic, waxes warm in his last issue because some neighboring paper has saw fit to call Gary a "warm" town, and Brother Townsend devotes half a column of space in telling the outside world what Gary really is. He winds up as follows: "It has had just one arrest during the last year, and having no use for them, has no marshal and no constables. It has no saloons, no drunkards, no paupers, no deadbeats and only one democrat, and as far as we can learn every concern in town is prosperous." Good for Gary.

County Treasurer Karl M. Hansen is just now under the ban at Thief River Falls, and all kinds of vengence is threatened him by "one Henry W. Lee," the up-river disturber. Because Mr. Hansen did not refuse to pay the warrants drawn for the purchase of the court house until after the arrival of the train on Tuesday, he is condemned to eternal disgrace, and is now counted as one of the Review's newly created Red Lake Falls "ring." Karl performed his duty as he saw it, and cannot be commended too highly for refusing to be a party to the grafting schemers up the river.

According to advices in the dailies one of the leading wagon manufacturers of the east is looking for a place in Northwestern Minnesota to establish a wagon factory in order to be better able to supply the demand in this part of the world. The plant to be installed will be a large one, and it would seem that the commercial club would be up and doing, in order to get Red Lake Falls' claims to being the right place presented along with the rest of the towns in the Valley. We have all the advantages required, but we can't expect to get things unless we go after them.

Editor Latta, in his Plummer Pioneer concludes that the "rottenness in politics" is not all in fancy, and cities the Hanson-Moreau election contest as a result. He says: "One hundred and one votes in six precincts in Red Lake county were found to be illegal by Judge Grindeland in the Hanson-Moreau election contest, and one precinct had 37 of them. This is the finding of the court. According to this the judges of election were incompetent or careless or both, Thirty-seven illegal ballots could hardly be cast in one precinct if the judges were competent and careful. No wonder the people talk about the rottenness of politics."

Remarks an up-to-date exchange: Drink water and get typhoid; drink milk and get tuberculosis; drink whiskey and get the jim-jams. Eat soup and get Bright's disease; eat white flour and get appendicitis; eat beef and encourage apoplexy, eat oysters and acquire toxemia; eat meat of any kind and you get indigestion or some kind of germ disease. Eat vegetables and weaken the system; eat deserts and take on paresis. Smoke cigars and secure catarrh; smoke cigarettes and die early. Drink coffee and tea and obtain nervous postration; drink wine and you get the gout. In order to be entirely healthy, one must eat nothing, drink nothing, smoke nothing, and before breathing one should see that the air is properly sterilized.

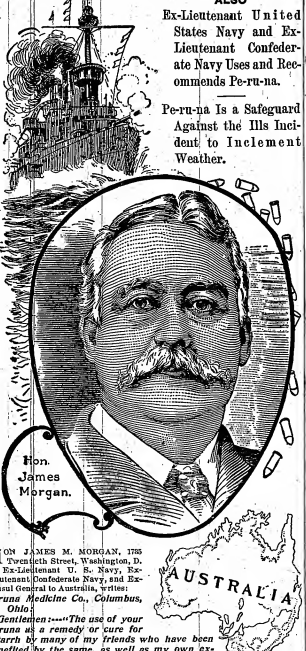
Ex-Lieutenant United States Navy and Ex-Lieutenant Confederate Navy Uses and Recommends Pe-ru-na.

Pe-ru-na Is a Safeguard Against the Ills Incident to Inclement Weather.



HON JAMES M. MORGAN, 1735 Twentieth Street, Washington, D. C., Ex-Lieutenant U. S. Navy, Ex-Lieutenant Confederate Navy, and Ex-Consul General to Australia, writes:

Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio:

Gentlemen:—"The use of your Peruna as a remedy or cure for catarrh by many of my friends who have been benefited by the same, as well as my own experience as to its efficacy and good tonic properties causes me to recommend it to all persons, and you are at liberty to use this endorsement and my photograph if it will give any force to same."—James M. Morgan.

Catarrh of the Head Which Affected Hearing Cured by Pe-ru-na.

Mr. J. Emile Tanguay, No. 332 John St., Quebec, is Secretary of the Jacques Curling Club of Quebec, one of the leading sporting clubs in the city. Its members are composed of young men of the best families. He writes:

"Last winter I caught a severe cold which developed into a severe case of catarrh of the head, affecting my hearing especially. My eyes ran, my system seemed to be generally clogged up. I was advised by a club friend to try Peruna, and did so at once. To my delight I found a change set in for the better within three days, and in eight days I was entirely well."J. Emile Tanguay.

Mr. Adolph Koehler, President of the North Side Turnerschaft, writes from Clark and Leland Ave., Chicago, Ill.:

"It is with pleasure that I endorse Peruna as a first-class medicine especially for catarrhal affections of the throat and lungs. I have used it with much benefit and several of my friends have been cured of catarrh entirely where Peruna was used."—Adolph Koehler.

"Nothing Better Than Pe-ru-na for Catarrhal Troubles," Says Congressman C. P. Dorr.

C. P. Dorr, Hotel Johnson, Washington, D. C., Ex-Congressman from West Virginia, writes:

"I can cheerfully recommend Peruna to anyone who wants a safe and permanent cure for catarrh. For throat, lung and catarrhal trouble there is nothing better than Peruna."—C. P. Dorr.

Colds Lead to Chronic Catarrh.

A common cold is acute catarrh, which quickly becomes chronic catarrh if allowed to remain.

Every cold snap leaves in its trail thousands of cases of catarrh, many of whom for want of an effective remedy, will suffer from this disease the rest of their lives.

Is there anything that can be done to prevent all this?

In the first place, Peruna used at the proper time will prevent taking cold. In the second place, Peruna will cure a cold in from two to five days.

Again, Peruna will cure catarrh quickly in the first stages, and finally Peruna will also cure chronic catarrh, if used properly and persistently.

Peruna kept in the house and properly used will therefore not only act as a safeguard against the ailments which result from sudden cold waves, but will also prove a sure remedy for this class of ailments.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Peruna can be purchased at any first-class drug store for $1.00 per bottle.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. We Will Buy

A 50c. Bottle of Liquozone and Give it to You to Try.

We want you to know about Liquozone, and the product itself can tell you more than we. So we ask you to let us buy you a bottle—a full-size bottle—to try. Let it prove that it does what medicine cannot do. See what a tonic it is. Learn that it does kill germs. Then you will use it always, as we do, and as millions of others do.

This offer itself should convince you that Liquozone does as we claim. We would certainly not buy a bottle and give it to you if there was any doubt of results. You want those results; you want to be well and to keep well. And you can't do that—nobody can—without Liquozone.

We Paid $100,000

For the American rights to Liquozone. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, after proving, in thousands of different cases, that Liquozone destroys the cause of any germ disease.

Liquozone has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. It is not made by compounding drugs, nor with alcohol. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. The result is a Liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissue, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Every physician knows that medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE

Default having been made in the payment of sixteen dollars which became due April 21, 1904, and is due and claimed to be due at the date of this notice, upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Manne Hamner, a single man, mortgagor, to Merchants State Bank of Red Lake Falls, mortgagee, bearing date the 9th day of April, 1903, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the county of Red Lake, State of Minnesota, on the 15th day of April A. D. 1903, at 3 o'clock p. m. in Book 26 of Mortgages on pages 429 and 430, and whereas, pursuant to the terms and conditions of said mortgage, by reason of said default, the whole principal sum of said mortgage, to-wit $96.00, did on the 22nd day of April 1904, become at once due and payable and was so declared by Merchants State Bank of Red Lake Falls; and whereas, there is actually due and claimed to be due and payable at the date of this notice the sum of ninety-six dollars with interest thereon at the rate of ten per cent per annum since April 21, 1904, and the further sum of forty-eight dollars, with interest thereon at the rate of six per cent per annum since April 21, 1904, the latter amount being for interest paid by said Merchants State Bank of Red Lake Falls, under the terms of said mortgage upon a prior first mortgage of eight hundred dollars, to H. A. Poritz, default having been made in the payment of same and said amount, by said mortgagor, and whereas the said power of sale has become operative and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise, to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof:

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage first described will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, to-wit: Southwest quarter of section one [1] in township one hundred fifty one 151 north of range forty three 43 west in Red Lake County Minnesota which sale will be made by the sheriff of said Red Lake County, Minnesota at the front door of the courthouse in the city of Red Lake Falls in said county and state on the 28th day of January A. D. 1905, at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of $96 and interest as aforesaid and $48, and interest as aforesaid, and taxes, if any, on said premises, and a reasonable attorney's fees as stipulated in said mortgage, the same being hereby stated to be twenty-five dollars and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

RUSSELL SAGE QUITS

LITTLE BY LITTLE THE OLD MAN LETS GO.

Not the Miser Generally Represented—Rigid Economy Necessary in Early Life Becomes a Habit—Given to Advising.

From New York comes the intelligence that Russell Sage, the greatest money lender that the world ever saw, is frequenting his office less and less, sometimes an entire month separating his visits, and that in a short time he will retire altogether from the financial swirl and strife of money-getting.

All the enormous transactions which less than a year ago the great financier would trust to no hands but his own are now being manipulated by clerks, not even the name Russell Sage entering into the deals. It is not hard for one to guess the reason for the action of Mr. Sage in casting business to one side and retiring to private life. The fact is his iron constitution is beginning to feel the wear and tear which constant attention to office duties necessitates, and after so many years of steady labor the old gentleman is himself forced to admit that his fighting days are practically over.

RUSSELL SAGE

Many persons who have achieved their information concerning the character of Russell Sage from hearsay declare that the man has been a miser all his life, and neither wealth nor old age would ever be sufficient excuse to cause his retirement from the business world; but, although some time ago it seemed that their declarations were very true, it is now certain that Mr. Sage believes that he has enough of this world's goods, and intends to step out.

And another fact. The great financier, as much as his transactions would seem to point to it, never was a miser in any sense of the word. His policy was to eliminate from his schedule all fads and fancies, and never to buy anything the purchase of which he might have cause to regret. This fact is illustrated by his declaration, at the time when the tariff issue was so widely talked of, that the suit which he wore cost him only $8.50, and he was not ashamed to wear it, because it served as an index to his position on the great question, namely, that low duties made cheap clothing.

Russell Sage made it his policy to turn everything which came his way into money, and was always willing to lend anybody cash, providing the proper security was forthcoming. His friends tell a story about him and his money-making instinct. He had received an advertisement from a theatrical firm inclosing a check for four cents to pay for the time which he was obliged to spend in reading it carefully. The same sort of a letter was sent to thousands of other New Yorkers, but it is recorded that the only check which was cashed was that made out in Mr. Sage's name.

A secret of the success of this great money-lender is that although he was happy to have others borrow from him, he was never during his whole career known to ask pecuniary aid of any person. His economy has always been manifest in things of small value, as his nature at one time rebelled at the thought of paying three cents for a one-cent paper. The incident occurred one evening after working hours when he was bound for his train. He had reached the depot and found that from the nickel which he handed the newsboy he had only received two cents in change. He immediately retraced his steps and demanded the correct amount from the boy.

Russell Sage always has a bit of advice at the end of his tongue for any young man who may be near to receive it. He believes in the church, and declares that every one should give to the Christian movement as much as he or she can consistently afford.

Greed for money, although it finds a place in this great man's make-up, is not supreme in his nature. Throughout his life Mr. Sage has always enjoyed a fine physique, and along with this came his love for out-of-door pleasures. He has been a horse fancier since the first day that he was considered old enough to sit astride one of the animals, and, in fact, has owned several equines which were declared to be fairly fast.

Between his schemes for money-making run many morals and the texts for many sermons which any preacher would be proud to set before his congregation. Russell Sage may be compared to the country banker, whom David Westcott so neatly describes, and regarding his joy at turning transactions into money and his love for thoroughbred horses, the author seems to have had the money-lender in his mind when constructing his characters.

NEWS IN MINNESOTA

EVENTS OF A WEEK THROUGHOUT THE STATE.

Fire at McIntosh destroyed Harstad & Son's general store and the Southmayd grocery and meat market.

A. C. Wallin, editor of the Arlington Enterprise, committed suicide there by shooting. No cause for the act is known.

Fire of unknown origin totally destroyed the flour mill of Kueper Bros. at Rice Station and partially burned the Rice saw mills.

Four-year terms for county officers were advocated at the annual meeting of the Minnesota State Sheriffs' association in St. Paul last week.

E. H. Molstad, the Winnipeg Junction saloonkeeper, has been acquitted at Moorhead of the charge of murder. The jury was out less than three hours.

Burglars entered the residence of H. A. Towne at Minneapolis and made away with three sacks filled with booty estimated to be worth about $1,800.

Theodore Bunker, aged forty-seven, a prominent St. Paul undertaker, committed suicide by taking poison. Financial trouble is thought to have prompted the act.

The Bank of Clitheral, Otter Tail county, has suspended. It is owned by E. P. Walstar and his embarrassment is due to having too much money tied up in real estate.

The Duluth and Iron Range and the Duluth, Missabe and Northern roads have doubled their orders for steel cars and locomotives to increase their ore handling facilities this year.

Mayor Taylor, Mankato's 412-pound mayor, has filed as a candidate for reelection, and will head the Democratic ticket. His opponent will be George Pond, president of the board of trade.

Senator Nelson has secured the passage in the senate of a bill granting a condemned cannon to the Minnesota state university. The cannon is to be a memorial of the Spanish war and will be placed on the campus.

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of A. P. Loutzenheizer, paying teller of the First National bank of Duluth, charging him with the embezzlement of a package containing $10,000. Loutzenheizer has been missing since Dec. 20.

The house committee on military affairs has authorized Representative Stevens to report favorably his bill providing for granting a condemned bronze cannon to be used in the manufacture of a memorial for the new St. Paul armory.

Louis Mellberg, a single man, thirty-five years old, living in Grove City, was run over and instantly killed by the westbound Great Northern flyer a mile east of Atwater. It is supposed that he had started to walk home along the railroad tracks.

State Auditor Iverson and State Treasurer Block have returned from Northern Minnesota, where they have been conducting stumpage sales. Mr. Block says the sales were very successful and that more than $30,000 worth of stumpage was sold.

William Nettleton, one of the founders of Duluth and West Superior and pioneer resident of Spokane, Wash., accidentally fell from the Great Northern bridge west of the latter city, a distance of 130 feet, into the river below and was killed instantly.

The burning out of nine big transformers at the water power house of the Rapid Transit company at Minneapolis Thursday completely demoralized the entire East Side and interurban car lines and caused a loss to the company of nearly $60,000.

Plans are under way for the construction of a new state prison at Stillwater. The project will be investigated by a special joint legislative committee, consisting of five representatives and four senators, including the chairmen of the prison committees in the house and the senate.

Warnings have been issued by Dairy and Food Commissioner Slater to manufacturers and dealers in syrups and molasses that his department has discovered that glucose was being used in the preparation of the articles and threatens prosecution if the practice is continued after Feb. 1.

Robert Jennings, a lineman in the employ of the Duluth General Electric company, broke two ribs in a remarkable manner. He fell a distance of thirty feet from a pole and his left knee broke two of his ribs. He sustained a terrible shock, but the physician entertains hope of his recovery.

James A. Martin will be the next postmaster at St. Cloud, the recommendation for his appointment having been filed by Representative Buckman. Harvey G. Wire the retiring postmaster, has been removed from office on charges made by patrons of the office and sustained in the report of the postoffice inspector.

Carrying his aged and frightened mother in his arms a half crazed youth was stopped by a Salvation Army officer at Minneapolis just as he was about to throw her into a hole he had cut in the ice. The lad broke down when asked to explain his conduct and declared that he and his mother were starving to death and he was going to throw her in the river and jump in himself.

James Welsh, the night watchman at Mountain Iron, is in the county jail in Duluth awaiting the action of the grand jury on a charge of having broken into Andrew Anderson's saloon and helping himself to $100 in cash and $50 worth of jewelry. Under the statute relating to such cases Welsh cannot obtain bail. An officer of the law charged with a crime cannot be admitted to liberty under bond.

Returning the Presents

By ARNOLD GOLSWORTHY

SOPHIE MEADOWS sat in the little parlor at the back of her mother's shop and gazed dismally out into the garden where the last brown leaves were falling from the limes to the soggy footpath below. The scene was not altogether an unsympathetic one for Sophie, since she was sad at heart that dull, misty afternoon. Indeed, there were signs that she had been crying; and when Sophie cried, her nose grew very red indeed, and a woman will not incur a risk of that sort without the most acute provocation. In the spring it had all been so different. David Trotter, who managed the village flour mill for his father, and who was besides a most eligible young man in every way, had asked Sophie to be his wife, and the earth seemed so fair to her then. The song of the skylark had a new meaning for her at that time, and the swallow's nest that was building in the eaves over her window developed, from a great nuisance, into a pleasing and blessed allegory. Summer had been spring intensified; and the brightness of life had seemed quite dazzling. And now everything was cheerless and damp, the sun was cold, and the fire of true and only love had spluttered out and left Sophie with a bruised heart and a red nose.

Everybody knew it was David's—that is, Mr. Trotter's—fault; or, at least, everybody to whom Sophie had mentioned the matter. Sophie's mother had perhaps not quite grasped the full meaning of the awful crisis in her daughter's bright young life. The good soul had even spoken lightly of it, affecting to treat it as a mere lover's quarrel, and that at a time when Sophie had been seriously considering whether she ought to go into a nunnery or just pine away and die in the back parlor at home. Sophie knew for a fact that David—or, rather, Mr. Trotter—had been seen flirting with Faith Duker, the creature who set her cap at everybody. The thing had been seen in the village; and after a likely bit of scandal had gone the round of a village like Dunstead, its own mother would not have recognized it at the finish. David had gone so far as to meet the creature a second time by appointment, and that, of course, capped his iniquity. Everybody knows that no self-respecting girl can put up with goings-on like that. It would not have mattered so much if he had admitted his error, and had endeavored to earn forgiveness by a fitting display of contrition. But David had had the effrontery to deny the charge, and had actually punched young Harper about dreadfully for just casually mentioning the matter to a circle of friends at the Blue Anchor. Which just show you the true character of people like David—I should say, Mr. Trotter. And yesterday Sophie had taken her pen in hand, and after laboriously studying the dictionary so as to be sure that she had got the long words right, had intimated to Mr. Trotter in cold and dignified terms that all was now over between them, and he would receive per bearer the presents he had made her, and henceforth they were strangers for evermore. Amen.

On other days Sophie would have been helping her mother in the shop; but to-day she could do nothing but sit and watch the leaves fall. As it grew dusk she got up and lit the lamp. There was her knitting on the table. The woolly squares hanging from the needles were the foundations of a pair of socks that had been intended for—him. Now, of course, they would go to the heaven via the parish church and the missionary society. No doubt the heathen would be more appreciative, though perhaps woollen socks in the tropics might be a little trying to the untutored savage mind. And then—

"Sophie!"

It was the voice of Mrs. Meadows, calling from the shop. And a moment later the good soul put her head into the parlor, and added:

"Sophie! It's David. He's come to see you."

Sophie started to her feet. This was the last straw. David—that is to say, Mr. Trotter—had been given to understand that his presence was no longer agreeable to her and in spite of that he had had the effrontery to call upon her once more.

"Tell him I don't want to see him, mother," she said. "After what's 'appened I don't want to speak to him again."

Mrs. Meadows turned back to her shop; but before she could repeat the portentous message, David was already at the parlor door. Mrs. Meadows smiled significantly and preceded him into the room. She was about to retire again, discreetly, when Sophie stopped her impatiently.

"Don't go, mother," she said, with the imperiousness of the spoilt child that she was.

David was a big, rosy-cheeked fellow with plenty of confidence. The last was made evident by the deliberate way in which he put his hat on a chair, and then lifted a couple of brown paper parcels on the table. With a quiet "Good evening" addressed to Sophie, he proceeded to deliberately untie the string of one of the parcels. The knot was a little hard, and as no one spoke, the embarrassing silence was becoming intolerable. Finally, David looked up.

"You sent back the few little presents I 'ad gave you," he said, gazing directly in front of him and addressing the opposite wall straight in the eye, "an' so, o' course, I'm bringin' back those what you gave me."

"You could ha' sent 'em back," snapped Sophie. "There wasn't no need for to bring 'em yourself."

"Well, you see," said David, addressing the wall with the assistance of his index finger, with which he beat time to his measured words, "a man ain't some'ow so careful as what a woman is. Leastways, I s'pose that's what it is. Now, the things you sent back to me, they was all spick and span, just like new, and——"

"Do for Faith Duker, p'raps," commented Sophie, rather bitterly.

David affected not to be conscious of the interruption.

"These 'ere slippers, for instance," he said, "which you worked for me. I 'adn't 'ad 'em long before my little fox terrier got at one of 'em, and before I could get it away from 'im, he'd eaten one of the pink roses and a couple of the forget-me-nots."

Mrs. Meadows was surprised into a ridiculous guffaw. Then, conscious apparently of the impropriety of her conduct, she evaded her daughter's eye and became absorbed in contemplation of the ceiling. David could hardly help echoing this little outburst of encouragement with a grin of his own; and Sophie set her teeth together and felt that was fighting the whole world single-handed and alone.

"Then," continued David, "there's these 'ere braces."

Sophie turned her head away sharply. It was doubtful whether, in her altered relationship with Mr. Trotter, braces were things that could be discussed with propriety. The articles in question were luridly embroidered in red and blue upon a green background, and in anything like sustained silence they might have been relied upon to speak for themselves. It was evident, however, from their present condition that they had been more decorative than useful; and David's attempt to strengthen the weaker parts by the addition of a piece of stout string had done nothing to enhance their artistic beauties.

David, remarking Sophie's attitude out of the corner of his eye, placed the poor mangled remains of the braces reverently on the table, and gazed at them with a sigh, as if he regarded them as still beautiful, even in death. Then he produced a pair of woolen socks from his parcel.

"These 'ere," he said, "o' course they've bin in wear a good deal and—"

"I didn't give 'em to you for to keep under a glass case," protested Sophie, her bitter feelings softened a little by the fact that he had been glad to make use of her present.

"No; quite so," said David, turning and addressing her for the first time. "Only, you see, when you've got to give things back again—"

"I don't want them back," said Sophie.

"Well, there don't seem to be no choice about it, as far as I can see," replied David. "And as I couldn't give 'em back with 'oles in 'em, and I didn't like to let no one else touch 'em now, I tried to mend 'em up a bit myself. You'll see—"

Mrs. Meadows guffawed again. And finding her mirth not so easy to check on this occasion, she fled precipitately into the shop, and left the young people alone. Sophie frowned at the interruption, but the next moment she found herself half smiling at David's dilemma. This big, rough fellow's confession of his helplessness was not displeasing to her. It showed her at least that there were times when she would be missed, and the reflection softened her a little.

David passed the socks along, and indicated with his finger the spot where his handiwork was to be seen. A huge, lumpy blotch of red wool that had been laboriously grafted on to a gray background, it did not need to be pointed out. It caught the eye at once, and absolutely riveted the attention. Sophie felt the corners of her mouth breaking down, and, finally, unable to resist the ludicrousness of the absurd incongruity, she burst into a peal of derisive laughter.

"I never was much of a 'and with a needle," David explained, smilingly. Then, as if realizing that Sophie's mirth was a distinct sign of encouragement, he leaned across the table and said, in a tone of gentle protest: "See what a mess I should make o' things if you give me up."

Sophie stopped laughing and looked at him sternly.

"There is—Faith Duker," she said.

"Not for me, there ain't," he said, scornfully. "An' I can't make out what you keep on about the gal for. I don't suppose I've spoke a dozen words to 'er. Father give 'er people a job mendin' the sacks at the mill, but the work's done now and—"

"But Mrs. Green said that Bobby Harper told 'er—"

"Yes, I know. An' you give my compliments to Bobby 'Arper, an' ask 'im what 'e's got 'is left eye shut up for. As for old mother Green, scandalmongerin' is 'er business when she's got no drinkin' to do. You don't want to go listenin' to a parcel of old gossips like that. S'pose you let me keep the things you gave me. Come now, that's a bargain. And the things I gave you—"

"I—I returned them," faltered Sophie, as her right hand mechanically sought the finger of her left hand that only yesterday had been decorated with a gold ring set with two pearls and a garnet.

David turned to the second parcel on the table.

"I brought 'em back on the off-chance," he said. "Shall I undo the string?"

By way of reply, Sophie took her scissors from the mantelpiece behind her, and reaching across the table, cut the string in several places. Then she looked up at David's face and laughed.

And Mrs. Meadows, coming into the parlor abruptly to see if David was still there, remarked that she was very sorry to have interrupted, but hadn't, of course, had the least idea that everything was going so well.—London Black and White.

BIG BOOM IN TRADE.

OUR COMMERCE WITH MEXICO GROWING FAST.

Canada Alone Takes More Goods from United States Than the Southern Republic—Variety in the List of Exports.

Washington.—Figures have been compiled by the department of commerce and labor, through its bureau of statistics, regarding the commerce between the United States and Mexico.

These figures show the exports from the United States to Mexico have grown from $13,000,000 in 1890 to $46,000,000 in 1904, speaking in good round terms, and that the imports into the United States from Mexico have grown from $23,000,000 in 1890 to $44,000,000 in 1904. Thus the exports to Mexico in 1904 were three and one-half times as great as in 1890 and the imports from Mexico practically twice as great as in that year.

An even more interesting fact is found in a comparison of the figures of Mexican trade with the United States with the total trade of Mexico. These shows that the imports into Mexico in the latest year for which information is available the United States supplied 59 per cent. of the total imports and that of the exports from Mexico 76 per cent. was sent to the United States.

The principal classes of merchandise forming American exports to Mexico are iron and steel manufactures, coal, unmanufactured cotton, lumber, unmanufactured wood, cars and carriages, breadstuffs, wood manufactures, chemicals, drugs and dyes; copper and manufactures thereof, mineral oils, provisions and leather and manufactures thereof.

The principal articles imported into the United States from Mexico are fibers, mostly sisal grass; copper pigs, bars and ingots; lead in ore and base bullion; hides and skins, coffee and cattle.

Mexico takes from the United States a larger share of her total imports than any other country in the world, except Canada, which takes 60 per cent. of her imports from the United States, and Mexico sends to the United States also a larger share of her exports than any other country in the world, except Cuba, whose exports during the fiscal year 1904 80.6 per cent. went to the United States, as against 76 per cent. of the total exports of Mexico sent to this country.

While figures showing the percentage of Mexican imports supplied by the United States and the percentage of Mexico's exports sent to the United States are not available for earlier years, it is well known that the United States have rapidly increased the share which they supply of the imports into Mexico and the share which they take of the exports from Mexico.

This increase has been especially marked since the construction of railroads entering Mexico from the United States. Prior to the construction of railroads between the United States and Mexico the share of Mexico's imports supplied by the United States ranged from 20 to 30 per cent., against the 59 per cent. of the present time, as above noted; while the share of Mexico's exports sent to the United States was about in the same proportion. The effect of direct rail communication between the United States and Mexico is also illustrated by the fact that the Central American states, which can only be reached by water, as was the case with Mexico prior to the construction of railways connecting the two countries, now take 43 per cent. of their imports from the United States as against the 59 per cent. which Mexico takes of her imports from us.

GETTING READY FOR DEATH

Eccentric Kentucky Man Constructing His Coffin and Making All Necessary Preparations.

Louisville, Ky.—Eccentric Isaac Perry, who lives near Jeffersonville, and is 95 years old, has begun his preparations for death. He is having a granite monument, 16 feet tall, built, to be placed over his grave. The base will be large enough to cover his casket, and special orders for the arrangement of the shaft have been made. In addition to the date of birth, death, and an appropriate inscription, he will have a receipt from the manufacturer chiseled on the stone showing that at the cost of the pile has been paid.

At his home he has a choice lot of well seasoned walnut lumber, from which he is making himself a coffin, taking his time at the work, so that the box will be perfect in its construction. It is to be all hand work, and it is his desire to try it before he lays down his earthly burden, to see if it is wide enough to turn over in when the day of resurrection arrives. He does not go about his work with an air of bravado, but has undertaken the task in an earnest way.

Mr. Perry has never married, because he does not like women, the only one he ever thought he could make his wife having acted so independently with him that he broke off his friendship with her. He lives with a nephew. Several years ago he started to build a large house, but abandoned the project after the house had been nearly completed, and in this half dwelling he lives. He is well off, and his farm is rich in cement stone.

RAPE AS A FORAGE CROP.

A Suggestion That Will Prove of Value to the Farmer During Next Summer's Heat.

Every year during the hot months, when much of the pasture has dried up and the corn is not yet in condition to feed, many a farmer says: "If there is such a thing as a crop that will grow and furnish green succulent food at this season, I will certainly try and have a field of it next year."

There is such a crop, and it may be well during these winter days to post yourself concerning it, to determine on a field, find where you can obtain the seed, and be in all readiness so as not to be cheated out of another year. The crop referred to is rape, and is growing in favor each year. In some ways this resembles the turnip plant; however, the root is stringy and does not in that respect resemble the turnip, which is bulbous. The leaves and stems of rape are the only portion of the plant that are valuable, but the feeding value of them has placed this crop ahead of many others as a pasture crop, and especially for hogs and sheep. It makes a slow growth at first, but after it gets fairly started, it shoots up rapidly, and on good soil makes a most astonishing growth. A yield of ten tons per acre is a common report, while from the Wisconsin station comes a report of nine and three-fourths tons from a half acre.

The plant does best on deep, rich, warm loam. It grows but slowly on stiff clays, but will grow fairly well even on clays and sandy soils, provided it is well supplied with plant food. Making such a luxuriant growth as it does, it should receive at the time the soil is being prepared 200 pounds per acre of a fertilizer containing four per cent. nitrogen, seven per cent. phosphoric acid and six per cent. actual potash. If such a compound cannot be secured, the phosphoric acid can be secured in the form of acid phosphate, or ground steamed bone, and the potash from muriate of potash. These can be supplied before the seed is sown, and the nitrogen applied in the form of nitrate of soda as a top dressing afterwards. It also grows well on old muck soils; on such land the nitrogen can be omitted, but a liberal amount of potash must be used, since those soils are very deficient in that element.

It might be mentioned in this connection, says the Farmers' Review, that let the crop be rape or what it will, astonishing results come from the use of potash on these muck and "bogus" soils, which are oftentimes classed as unproductive.

In preparing the field for the rape crop, the ground should be plowed about as deep as for corn and well harrowed. All vegetable matter should be carefully buried and the ground rolled to make an earth mulch, which is so valuable in retaining moisture. Possibly the best results follow broadcasting and covering with a light harrow. If drilled, ordinary turnip drill can be used. The amount of seed sowed per acre is from three to five pounds if sown broadcast, and two or three if with drills. A very satisfactory way is to sow it in the corn at the last cultivation. While it may slightly interfere with the cutting up of the corn, it makes a splendid feeding ground for pigs and lambs before the corn is taken off, and a general pasture afterwards. The stock can be turned on it after it is eight or ten weeks old. Care must be exercised in turning sheep to it, that they do not eat their fill until they are somewhat accustomed to the crop, or bloating may follow. The stock should not be allowed to eat it too closely, as it will sprout up again and make a pasture of longer duration unless nipped off close to the ground. It is a good idea to have two lots of it, and let the stock eat on one awhile, then change to the other and give the first a chance to make a new growth. The best variety is the dwarf Essex, which has a good root and branches out heavily. The leaves commence to branch near the surface of the ground and extend in most every direction, until the surface of the ground is hidden by a mass of foliage from one to three feet high, according to soil and season. If well supplied with plant food, it will do well during the dry season and into the late fall, furnishing an unrivaled pasture for sheep, pigs and even cattle, and a crop the farmer will find in many ways to be highly profitable.

INSECT DAMAGE IN SEED.

How Barrels May Be Utilized to Thoroughly Fumigate the Grain.

If one has not time to make a substantial box for fumigation of seed grain for insect destruction, barrels may be utilized for the purpose, says Farm and Home. Get two tight, strong barrels, such as coal oil barrels, and make water tight. Put in the seed to be fumigated, cover with a blanket and close fitting cover. Before covering pour carbon bisulphide, which is explosive, over the grain, at the rate of three to four ounces per 5 bushels of grain. If it is not desirable to pour this poison on the grain, set a saucer on it, and pour the poison in the saucer. Place a small block near the saucer to hold up the blanket one or two inches higher, lay blanket over barrel, and place cover securely in place and weight with stone. This will kill the weevil in peas and beans.

Messrs. and Mesdames Joseph Ducharme, Evangelist and Michel Quesnell drove to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Prudhomme, of Gentilly, Sunday evening for supper and all were feasted in a manner that will long be remembered.

Miss Kate McAnulty returned to her school Sunday evening after an over night visit with her parents in Red Lake Falls.

Carpenters August Marin and Joseph Lachance, of Red Lake Falls, and Charlie Charlebois, of McIntosh, are now busy finishing up Evangelist Quesnell's house, which will no doubt be a very attractive residence when the up-to-date [illegible] conclude their work.

Messrs. Alphonse and Albert La[illegible] of St. Hilaire, visited at the home of their grandfather Ephraim Morinville, a few days of last week.

Miss Maria Robillard, of Red Lake Falls, visited with friends and relatives a few days of last week.

Mrs. M. Quesnell was a guest of friends in Red Lake Falls a few days of last week.

M. Quesnell took advantage of the good sound roads and hauled a few cords of cord wood to the Falls last week.

Ovila Robillard hauled hay to Red Lake Falls last week.

Mrs. E. Quesnell visited a day last week with her mother, Mrs. A. Jolly.

Mr. and Mrs. Adelard Laurent served an elegant supper to quite a number of their friends Monday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Prudhomme, of Crookston.

The Misses Bertha and Zelia Quesnell were guests at the home of their uncle, Michel Quesnell Sunday afternoon.

Adelard Laurent, Delphis Champoux, Louis St. Ives, Regis Gagnon and ladies spent Sunday evening at Joseph Champoux's.

Ed. and Harvey St. Ives and Horace Laurent returned home Sunday evening from Crookston after a few days visit with friends and relatives. A good time is reported.

E. Quesnell and daughter, Bertha, drove to the Falls Monday to do some shopping.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. History in the Lower Grades.

United States History is a subject of great importance to the American citizen, and a subject that can not be given too much attention in our public schools. It is of so much importance that it ought not to be dropped in the eight grade, but be made compulsory to all high school pupils.

The average eight grade pupil's mind is not able to grasp the facts and retain them to a sufficient degree as to make them useful and beneficial in life. A seventh grade pupil can with previous drill in history do as much. Furthermore United States history can not be taught to the best advantage and understanding without some knowledge of the history of our mother country. English history is a subject that can not be grasped in a year by any of the best of students and yet we attempt it in one half that time in the Sophmore year of high school. An eigth grade pupil could do as much with it in a year and then have foundation enough to aid him in a thoro study of U. S. history in the high school.

It is therefore a good plan to touch upon history in general both of England and United States in the fifth grade, taking the subject up as a reading course, make a thoro study up to and thru the Revolutionary war in the sixth grade and complete it in the seventh. That will leave room for a years study of English history in the eigth grade. With this as a foundation the pupil will be well prepared to make a thoro study of United States history in the high school and he will be able to comprehend and retain the facts.

For our sixth grade work we are using a book which was bought as a supplementary reader, entitled the "Thirteen Counties." The author has put the facts down in story rather than text book form; but they are all there and with proper treatment can be brought before the mind of the pupil in a logical and clear manner. In order to do this we have after thoroly reading and studying the text in class, skipped about in the book gathering the facts in a logical outline. That the public may see what we are doing, we publish a portion of the outline.

Harry Anderson and Clara Bourdon, Reporters.

It may interest some people to know how many scholars there are attending the Washington school. The following is the number by grades: first grade, 29; second grade, 32; third grade, 25; fourth grade, 16; fifth grade, 25; sixth grade, 16. The total number in regular attendance is 143. Of this number 69 are girls and 74 are boys.

The schools are planning on a visiting day on which every one will be given a chance to visit and examine the work which will be displayed in the high school building.

Hurrah for another holiday! Don't forget George Washington's birthday.

Being that the eighth grade of the Lafayette school had a half holiday on Friday afternoon, Hazel Healy visited the fifth and sixth grades of the Washington school.

All the pupils of the "A" class in Miss Hennemuth's room had to stay after school Monday for spelling.

Two pupils had to stand on the floor this week for whispering.

The fifth and sixth grades are planning on selling $20 worth of tickets for the high school play on Friday night. We hope that you will take a ticket when asked.

The "A" class of the second grade are reading "Aunt Martha's Corner Cupboard."

Last Friday the Second grade pupils made Chinamen. We doubt if "Yen" would know himself should we present him with one of our Chinamen. Doubtless he would feel hurt for in most cases his eyes are very much like the white man's.

The Second grade will study the Eskimo as a type of the brown face.

Joseph Tschirhart was absent on account of a funeral.

Last Thursday the Sixth grade had a test in History and the papers will be shown on visiting day.

Clara Bourdon was absent Friday.

Lloyd Moran has returned to school after a week's absence.

Austrid Kindseth is absent on account of sickness. We hope she will soon recover and be able to take up her studies again.

While ringing the first bell on Monday the clapper of the bell broke and had to be immediately fixed in order to ring the last bell.

Judith Rue cut her finger quite badly while sharpening her pencil.

Will Fight Them To The Finish

Enthusiastic Meeting Held At Which It Is Demonstrated That Red Lake Falls Will Go Some In County Seat Scrap.

The meeting called at the city hall last Thursday evening for purpose of forming plans to present the case of Red Lake Falls in the county seat controversy, was most enthusiastically attended, the hall being crowded to the doors.

The object of the meeting was to get an organization perfected to handle the affairs of Red Lake Falls in the fight that is to come, and everything passed off smoothly and harmoniously. Mayor Duffy was made chairman of the meeting, and several addresses were made, plainly indicating the feeling that exists here, and all expressed themselves in favor of going into the fight with a determination to win.

Not much actual business was done, other than the passing of a resolution favoring the appointment of a "steering" committee to be composed of nine members who would have entire charge of the Red Lake Falls side of the case, and arrangements were made for the appointment of such a committee, after which the meeting was adjourned until such time as the committee saw fit to call it again.

Red Lake Falls people stand as one in regard to the county seat question, and are ready to put in all the time necessary to show the people of the county the folly of helping out Thief River Falls in her desires to benefit herself at the expense of the taxpayers. Everything will be done to show the voters wherein Red Lake Falls has worked for them and their interests, and there can be no question but what the actions of the people here will bring results.

Tax payers are slow to respond when asked upon to pay out money to satisfy some greedy corporation and the heavy expense that will necessarily be incurred in moving the seat of government will cause the voters to think a long time before taking such a step.

Red Lake Falls has no factions or cliques, and will stand as one and impregnable in the interests of the best town of the county.

Get onto the band wagon, voters.

Notice of Contest of County Seat Removal.

To Whoe It May Concern:

Whereas, a notice signed by Chas. M. Evenson, Lars Backe, D. N. Now, Therefor, Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, legal voters of said county, with other legal voters thereof, desire to, and will contest such proposed removal of the county seat of said county from its present location to said City of Thief River Falls, and to that effect, will, with other legal voters of said county, on Saturday, the 18th day of February, A. D. 1905, begin the circulation of a Remonstrance among the legal voters of said county, addressed to the Board of County Commissioners thereof, remonstrating against, and objecting to the removal of the county seat of said county from the City of Red Lake Falls to the City of Thief River Falls aforesaid, and to any further proceedings in said matter; and will take such further steps as may be necessaay in the premises.

Injunction That Failed To Enjoin

After Listening to the Argument of City Attorney Boughton Judge Watts Quashes Temporary Injunction Restraing Payment On County Warrants.

The hearing on the temporary injunction issued by Judge Watts last week, restraining the treasurer of Red Lake county from paying the warrants drawn in favor of Ernest Buse, was held at Crookston Tuesday evening, City Attorney Chas. E. Bougton representing Ernest Buse County Attorney Germo the county and Messrs. Richardson and Lee, of Thief River, representing that place.

The hearing was held in the chambers of Judge Watts, and according to repute was a brief and to the point affair. City Attorney Boughton arose and moved that the injunction be granted and the motion for a permanent injunction denied, and stated to the Judge his reason for such action, and after a few moments consideration the Judge granted the motion, and issued an order quashing the temporary injunction and denying the prayer for a permanent one.

The whole thing took but a few moments, and only city attorney Boughton and Mr. Lee had to do any talking, Mr. Boughton's argument being so strongly backed by law that the Judge immediately took action.

There perhaps wasn't anything very startling about this proceedure, only from the fact that the up-river papers had tried the case last week and had it all figured out wherein they had the matter cinched and the commissioners on the run. They evidently went by the statements of this "one Henry W. Lee," whose theories are pretty to look at but lack the necessary qualifications to make them stick, and forgot about the "one Charles E. Boughton" down here, who forgets more about law every day than this "one Henry W. Lee" ever knew.

Just what the next move of Thief River Falls will be in the matter remains to be seen, but the opinion of the best authorities is that the commissioners in no wise exceeded their authority in the purchase of the county buildings, and that when the arguments are made on the merits of the case the Judge will so decide.

Red Lake county has her own court house buildings and the people here would like to have every voter look into the thing carefully and see if the purchase was not a wise one on the part of the commissioners and one that meant money in the pockets of every tax-payer. If they do this they will easily see that it was, and fight sly of petitions that will mean a greatly increased expenditure.

BIGAMIST AT THIEF RIVER.

Too Many Wives Cause Trouble For Up-River Town Resident.

Crookston Times: At Thief River Falls a warrant was sworn out for the arrest of Martin Peterson of that city by an alleged former wife. The woman came here from Northland, in Kittson county, and gave the name of Mrs. Martin Culbranson some ten years ago. Some seven years ago she alleges that her husband suddenly disappeared. A short time ago she learned that he was living here with another woman and that he was going under the name of Martin Peterson.

Peterson went to Thief River Falls about that time and was married some five or six years ago to Miss Caroline Dreson. One child has been born to them.

Mrs. Culbranson arrived there Friday and satisfied herself that her missing husband was none other than Martin Peterson. She secured a warrant for his arrest on a charge of bigamy, the warrant being issued by Judge Bishop of the municipal court. The warrant was put in the hands of Sheriff Linnihan, but Culbranson, alias Peterson, fled. It is said that he is now safe in the wilds of Canada.

Mrs. Culbranson has left for her home, believing that her recreant husband was safe from the stormy arm of the law.

Payment Made.

Thief River News: The first payment to the Red Lake band of Indians of money realized from the eleven townships was made Tuesday. There is some $115,000 in the fund but only $60,000 was paid out. Only the adults received money and the remaining $55,000 will be held in trust for the children when they become 18 years of age. This was a great disappointment to the old Indians, as they have heretofore drawn their children's share. A large number of Indian traders were at the Agency and thing have been lively up there this week. Each adult received a little less than $90.

Honors for Minnesota Boy.

The Yale foot ball team met Wednesday of this week, after two months of deliberation, and elected Thomas Leonard Shevlin, of Minneapolis, captian for 1905. Shevlin was elected on the first ballot. His election was unanimous. Shevlin prepared for Yale at the famous high school of Pottstown, Pa. He came to Yale with Morgan Bowman, who is now base ball captain. In his freshman year Shevlin won the position of right end on the 'varsity eleven. He also was a hammer thrower on the 'varsity track team and right fielder on the 'varsity base ball team in his freshman year.

He thereby won triple 'varsity honors, which Bowman also won that same year, and which only a few athletes have won in all Yale's atheltic history. In his sophomore year Shevlin again played right end on the 'varsity eleven, and represented Yale on the track team. He was sent to England with the Yale track team last July. He is the second best hammer thrower in the Intercollegiate Athletic association.

McGarth Discharged.

Thief River News: Henry McGarth, the man who shot Oliver Mattson at Greenbush a few weeks ago, was found not guilty by the Rosean county jury and has been discharged. It was not thought at any time that McGarth would be convicted of any offence.

McGarth was in the city Tuesday, having come down from Greenbush and he took the train for his home in Minneapolis.

Big Check for Bonds.

Auditor Ford received a check for $6122.83, the first of the week, from the U. M. Stoddard Co., of Minneapolis, being for the proceeds of the sale of the bonds for celebrated Ditch No. 21. The bonds were sold early in January and the returns were prompt in coming.

Richardson Declared Mayor.

The Supreme Court last week handed down its decision in the Kratka-Richardson mayorality case at Thief River Falls. The court holds that Ira C. Richardson was duly elected, and sustains the decision of Judge Grindeland.

It will be remembered that Kratka was elected on the face of the returns. Richardson contested and was declared elected by the district court. The case was taken to the supreme court where it has been for almost a year, being fully decided last week. In the meantime Mr. Richardson qualified and then resigned, and Louis Hanson was appointed in his place by the council and acted as mayor in a very satisfactory manner up to about two months ago, at which time he resigned and since that time the office has been filled by Acting Mayor Harlow. F. A. Grady represented Kratka and Judge Montague, of Crookston, Richardson.

Public Is Aroused.

The public is aroused to a knowledge of the curative merits of that great medicinal tonic, Electric Bitters, for sick stomach, liver and kidneys. Mary H. Walters, of 546 St. Clair Ave., Columbus, O., writes: "For several months, I was given up to die. I had fever and ague, my nerves were wrecked; I could not sleep, and my stomach was so weak from useless doctors' drugs, that I could not eat. Soon after beginning to take Electric Bitters, I obtained relief, and in a short time I was entirely cured." Guaranteed at Schreiter's drug store; price 50c.

Injunction That Failed To Enjoin

Minnesota Historical Society

The hearing on the temporary injunction issued by Judge Watts last week, restraining the treasurer of Red Lake county from paying the warrants drawn in favor of Ernest Buse, was held at Crookston Tuesday evening, City Attorney Chas. E. Bougton representing Ernest Buse County Attorney Germo the county and Messrs. Richardson and Lee, of Thief River, representing that place.

The hearing was held in the chambers of Judge Watts, and according to repute was a brief and to the point affair. City Attorney Boughton arose and moved that the injunction be granted and the motion for a permanent injunction denied, and stated to the Judge his reason for such action, and after a few moments consideration the Judge granted the motion, and issued an order quashing the temporary injunction and denying the prayer for a permanent one.

The whole thing took but a few moments, and only city attorney Boughton and Mr. Lee had to do any talking, Mr. Boughton's argument being so strongly backed by law that the Judge immediately took action.

There perhaps wasn't anything very startling about this procedure; only from the fact that the up-river papers had tried the case last week and had it all figured out wherein they had the matter cinched and the commissioners on the run. They evidently went by the statements of this "one Henry W. Lee," whose theories are pretty to look at but lack the necessary qualifications to make them stick, and forgot about the "one Charles E. Boughton" down here, who forgets more about law every day than this "one Henry W. Lee" ever knew.

Just what the next move of Thief River Falls will be in the matter remains to be seen, but the opinion of the best authorities is that the commissioners in no wise exceeded their authority in the purchase of the county buildings, and that when the arguments are made on the merits of the case the Judge will so decide.

Red Lake county has her own court house buildings and the people here would like to have every voter look into the thing carefully and see if the purchase was not a wise one on the part of the commissioners and one that meant money in the pockets of every tax-payer. If they do this they will easily see that it was, and light sly of petitions that will mean a greatly increased expenditure.

BIGAMIST AT THIEF RIVER.

Too Many Wives Cause Trouble For Up-River Town Resident.

Crookston Times: At Thief River Falls a warrant was sworn out for the arrest of Martin Peterson of that city by an alleged former wife. The woman came here from Northland, in Kittson county, and gave the name of Mrs. Martin Culbranson some ten years ago. Some seven years ago she alleges that her husband suddenly disappeared. A short time ago she learned that he was living here with another woman and that he was going under the name of Martin Peterson.

Peterson went to Thief River Falls about that time and was married some five or six years ago to Miss Caroline Dreson. One child has been born to them.

Mrs. Culbranson arrived there Friday and satisfied herself that her missing husband was none other than Martin Peterson. She secured a warrant for his arrest on a charge of bigamy, the warrant being issued by Judge Bishop of the municipal court. The warrant was put in the hands of Sheriff Linnihan, but Culbranson, alias Peterson, fled. It is said that he is now safe in the wilds of Canada.

Mrs. Culbranson has left for her home, believing that her recreant husband was safe from the stormy arm of the law.

Payment Made.

Thief River News: The first payment to the Red Lake band of Indians of money realized from the eleven townships was made Tuesday. There is some $115,000 in the fund but only $60,000 was paid out. Only the adults received money and the remaining $55,000 will be held in trust for the children when they become 18 years of age. This was a great disappointment to the old Indians, as they have heretofore drawn their children's share. A large number of Indian traders were at the Agency and thing have been lively up there this week. Each adult received a little less than $90.

Honors for Minnesota Boy.

The Yale foot-ball team met Wednesday of this week, after two months of deliberation, and elected Thomas Leonard Shevlin, of Minneapolis, captian for 1905. Shevlin was elected on the first ballot. His election was unanimous. Shevlin prepared for Yale at the famous high school of Pottstown, Pa. He came to Yale with Morgan Bowman, who is now base ball captain. In his freshman year Shevlin won the position of right end on the 'varsity eleven. He also was a hammer thrower on the 'varsity track team and right fielder on the 'varsity base ball team in his freshman year.

He thereby won triple 'varsity honors, which Bowman also won that same year, and which only a few athletes have won in all Yale's athletic history. In his sophomore year Shevlin again played right end on the 'varsity eleven, and represented Yale on the track team. He was sent to England with the Yale track team last July. He is the second best hammer thrower in the Intercollegiate Athletic association.

McGarth Discharged.

Thief River News: Henry McGarth, the man who shot Oliver Mattson at Greenbush a few weeks ago, was found not guilty by the Rosean county jury and has been discharged. It was not thought at any time that McGarth would be convicted of any offence.

McGarth was in the city Tuesday, having come down from Greenbush and be took the train for his home in Minneapolis.

Big Check for Bonds.

Auditor Ford received a check for $6122.83, the first of the week, from the U. M. Stoddard Co., of Minneapolis, being for the proceeds of the sale of the bonds for celebrated Ditch No. 21. The bonds were sold early in January and the returns were prompt in coming.

Richardson Declared Mayor.

The Supreme Court last week handed down its decision in the Kratka-Richardson mayorality case at Thief River Falls. The court holds that Ira C. Richardson was duly elected, and sustains the decision of Judge Grindeland.

It will be remembered that Kratka was elected on the face of the returns. Richardson contested and was declared elected by the district court. The case was taken to the supreme court where it has been for almost a year, being fully decided last week. In the meantime Mr. Richardson qualified and then resigned, and Louis Hanson was appointed in his place by the council and acted as mayor in a very satisfactory manner up to about two months ago, at which time he resigned and since that time the office has been filled by Acting Mayor Harlow. F. A. Grady represented Kratka and Judge Montague, of Crookston, Richardson.

Public Is Aroused.

The public is aroused to a knowledge of the curative merits of that great medicinal tonic, Electric Bitters, for sick stomach, liver and kidneys. Mary H. Walters, of 546 St. Clair Ave., Columbus, O., writes: "For several months, I was given up to die. I had fever and ague, my nerves were wrecked; I could not sleep, and my stomach was so weak from useless doctors' drugs, that I could not eat. Soon after beginning to take Electric Bitters, I obtained relief, and in a short time I was entirely cured." Guaranteed at Schreiter's drug store; price 50c.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

RUSSIAN MOVE FAILS

Kuropatkin Defeated in His Effort to Capture Sandepas and His Proposed Offensive Movement Is Abandoned. No Official Estimate of Losses Has Been Given Out, but Thousands on Both Sides Were Killed or Wounded.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 31.—General Kuropatkin's attempt to break through the Japanese left wing and outflank Field Marshal Oyama's position on the Shakhe river, seems to have failed entirely. Few details, however, are available beyond the information contained in the official dispatches. Field Marshal Oyama, as at the battle of the Shakhe river, appears to have answered the Russian advance with a counter offensive movement, but no great disposition was shown to carry the war far into the territory held by the Russians.

At the war office there is an inclination to lay the chief blame for the failure of the movement to a sudden change of the weather to intense cold, 20 degrees below zero with a high wind, which drifted the snow and rendered it hazardous to expose the troops to camping in the open plain and also impeded the transportation of guns, supplies and the wounded.

Too Hard a Nut to Crack.

The operation entrusted to the Second army under General Grippenberg was the capture of Sandepas, which once in Russian hands would serve as a pivot for a flanking movement against Field Marshal Oyama, but Sandepas proved too hard a nut to crack and the Japanese, taking advantage of the repulse of the Russians, hurried up their reinforcements and assumed the offensive on the Hun river as well as along the railway and the Great Mandarin road.

The Russians, however, appear to have been completely successful on the defensive, repulsing all the Japanese attacks. Under the circumstances General Grippenberg decided not to undertake to storm Sandepas which is situated in a flat country, therefore more difficult to take than a position in a hilly country.

Owing to flat trajectory and the enormous penetration of modern projectiles the capture of the outer line of trenches on Thursday entailed heavy casualties. There is no official estimate of the losses, but it is expected that some thousands on both sides were killed or wounded.

DRIVEN ACROSS HUN RIVER.

Two Divisions of Japanese Defeat Four Divisions of Russians.

General Oku's Headquarters, Jan. 29, via Fusan, Jan. 31.—Two divisions of Japanese troops attacked Pebowski and drove four divisions of the Russians across the Hun river. Six hundred Russians were captured.

One Russian division made several attacks on Sentanpu to the east, but was driven back with a loss of over 4,000.

The Japanese bombarded the entire Russian line. The Russians replied feebly, showing little activity.

CASUALTIES ARE HEAVY.

Total Losses in Recent Fighting Fifteen Thousand.

Tokio, Jan. 31.—The casualties during the fighting at Chenchiehpao and Heikoatai are estimated at 5,000 on the side of the Japanese and 10,000 on the Russian side.

WORSE AT WARSAW

STRIKE CONDITIONS IN THAT CITY SAID TO BE GROWING MORE SERIOUS.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 31.—While there seems to have been a complete restoration of order in St. Petersburg and Moscow conditions at Warsaw continue to go from bad to worse. Estimates of the killed and wounded in consequence of collisions between mobs and soldiers place the number at 160. The bakers being on strike, bread is at famine prices in Warsaw and attempts to break into stores there have caused numerous collisions with the military. The finding of revolvers of uniform make on many of the rioters arrested affords confirmation of recent reports that revolutionary agitators have been smuggling arms in anticipation of an outbreak. It is asserted that the official report of the dead through the recent conflict between the strikers and troops at Riga is far short of the actuality, many having perished in an attempt to cross the river on the ice when the soldiers opened fire, the ice breaking and the water engulfing the fugitives.

QUIET AT ST. PETERSBURG.

Interest Transferred From That City to Warsaw.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 31.—The day here was passed in perfect quiet. Interest has been transferred to Warsaw, Lodz and Libau, where a state of siege has been proclaimed.

CAPTURED IN NEW YORK.

Police Arrest Johann Hoch, Badly Wanted in Chicago.

New York, Jan. 31.—Johann Hoch, who it is alleged married twenty women, was arrested at a boarding house in West Forty-seventh street Monday night by central office detectives. He admitted his identity, although when first arrested he gave the name of Henry Bartels.

At the Forty-seventh street station, where he was taken, he said:

"I'm Hoch and a much abused man."

"How abused?" he was asked.

He had nothing to say. He gave his name of John Joseph Adolph Hoch, said he was forty-five years old, a mechinist living at 6430 Union avenue, Chicago. He is arrested on a charge of bigamy and upon abandonment. Hoch is known under the names of Alfred Hecht, Albert Busetherg, Joseph Hoch, Jacob Hoch and Adolph Brumm.

Hoch stated that he had not been married twenty times. He said that he had been married only twice and that his first wife is still alive.

Mrs. Katherine Kimmerl, the landlady, said Hoch engaged board on Saturday and had not been in the house twenty minutes when he asked to be allowed to peel potatoes for her. Monday he proposed marriage and then she told the police. She said the men talked a great deal to her Sunday and became much interested in her, she thought. She reported the matter to the police and Hoch's arrest followed.

LOSS OVER HALF MILLION.

Fire Occurs in Wholesale District at Omaha.

Omaha, Jan. 30.—The fire which started in the wholesale district of this city late Saturday night was the most destructive in the history of Omaha. The total loss will exceed $500,000 at the most conservative estimate.

A half block was burned over, but the immense buildings contained great jobbing stocks, which is responsible for the enormous loss. The buildings, valued at $200,000, were owned respectively by the Mercer and Millard estates. No definite figures have yet been obtained on insurance, but the stocks of goods were generally covered by insurance up to the 90 per cent limit.

A more disastrous conflagration was only prevented by the heroic efforts of the entire fire department of Omaha, which was reinforced by several engines, hose wagons and other equipment from South Omaha and Council Bluffs.

DR. KOCH OUT ON BAIL.

Second Trial of Murder Case to Be Held at Mankato, Minn.

New Ulm, Minn., Jan. 28.—Dr. George R. Koch, charged with the murder of Dr. L. A. Gebhardt, has been released on bail, Judge Webber fixing the amount of his bond at $20,000, which was furnished and approved by the court.

The state objected to the release of the prisoner, but Judge Webber decided that in view of the excellence of Koch's conduct while in jail and of the fact that he made no attempt to escape, while he might easily have done so, it was entirely proper to admit him to bail.

The matter of a change of venue and a second trial was also arranged. The new trial will be held in Mankato in February. The term of court opens Feb. 7 and the Koch case will come up as soon as the regular calendar is disposed of.

ALONZO WHITEMAN ARRESTED.

Captured at His Mother's Home at Danville, N. Y.

Buffalo, Jan. 28.—Alonzo J. Whiteman, who made a sensational escape from Detective Sergeant Albert Solomon and Detective Field by jumping through the window of a moving train at Dunkirk on Sept. 27 last, was recaptured at the home of his mother in Danville during the day. He was taken after an exciting chase and only submitted to arrest when covered by revolvers. He is locked up at police headquarters here on the charge of forgery and grand larceny.

VALUED AT OVER $3,500,000.

Largest Diamond Ever Discovered Found Near Pretoria.

Johannesburg, Transvaal, Jan. 27.—The largest diamond ever discovered has been found near Pretoria. The stone weighs 3,032 carats and is said to be a pure white diamond of good quality. It is locally valued at $3,500,000 to $4,000,000. The famous Kohinoor, which is valued at $600,000, weighs 123 carats, though it is said to have weighed 900 before it was cut. There is immense excitement here and at Pretoria as a result of the discovery.

MAY SETTLE COAL STRIKE.

German Operators Agree to Accept Verdict of Commission.

Essen, Prussia, Jan. 27.—The coal mine owners have reached a decision that probably will result in a settlement of the strike. They determined to inform the government that they would accept any judgment a parliamentary commission might render after an inquiry into the grievances of the miners and that the owners immediately remove the grievances.

Record for Hundred Miles.

Ormond, Fla., Jan. 30.—A world's record for motor cars has been made for 100 miles. H. W. Fletcher, driving an 80-horsepower car, covered the distance in 1 hour 26 minutes and 28 seconds, an average of 48 2-5 seconds a mile, and beating all other contests by about 3 minutes.

AGAINST BEEF TRUST

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT DECIDES PACKERS GUILTY OF CONSPIRACY.

Opinion Is Handed Down by Justice Holmes and Concurred in by All the Associate Justices—Injunction Issued Against the Packers Under the Sherman Anti-Trust Law in the Trial Court Continues in Force.

Washington, Jan. 31.—The supreme court of the United States has decided the case of the United States vs. Swift & Co., known as the beef trust case, charging conspiracy among the packers to fix prices on fresh meats, etc. The opinion was handed down by Justice Holmes and affirmed the decision of the court below, which was against the packers.

In his opinion Justice Holmes discussed at length the various contentions of the packers and disposed of them individually. He admitted that some of the charges were less specific than desirable, but said this was necessarily true on account of the vast extent of the field covered. He added that sufficient had been shown to prove continuous offenses and offenses of such a nature to justify the proceedings. The opinion continues the injunction granted against the packers under the Sherman anti-trust law by the lower courts. The opinion was concurred in by all the members of the court.

Summarizing the bills Judge Holmes said:

"It charges a combination of a dominant proportion of the dealers in fresh meat throughout the United States not to bid against each other in the live stock markets of the different states; to bid up prices for a few days in order to induce the cattlemen to send their stock to the stockyards; to fix prices at which they will sell and to that end to restrict shipments of meat when necessary to establish a uniform rule of credit to dealers and to keep a black list; to make uniform and improper charges for cartage and, finally, to get less than lawful rates from the railroads to the exclusion of competitors."

The opinion continues the injunction granted against the packers under the Sherman anti-trust law by the lower courts. The opinion was concurred in by all members of the court.

A COMBINATION BILL

THAT TO BE REPORTED TO LOWER HOUSE BY COMMERCE COMMITTEE.

Washington, Jan. 31.—The house committee on interstate and foreign commerce by a party vote Monday authorized a favorable report to the house on a bill extending authority to the interstate commerce commission to fix rates, increasing the size of the commission from five to seven members and creating a "court of transportation." The bill is a combination of the Esch-Townsend measure with amendments taken from the Hepburn bill.

LOWER COURT SUSTAINED.

Machen, Lorenz and the Groffs Must Go to Prison.

Washington, Jan. 31.—The supreme court of the United States has denied the application of Machen, Lorenz and the Groffs for a writ of certiorari in the case against them charging conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with the postoffice department irregularities. The effect is to leave standing the decision of the court of appeals of the District of Columbia finding them guilty as charged.

Machen, Lorenz and the Groffs were sentenced to two years' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $10,000 each.

There will be no further effort to delay the execution of the sentence of the District supreme court, from which the defendants appealed successively to the District court of appeals and then to the supreme court of the United States.

GRANTS HARRIMAN PETITION.

Supreme Court to Hear Case Involving Control of Northern Pacific.

Washington, Jan. 31.—The supreme court of the United States has granted the petition for a writ of certiorari in the case of E. H. Harriman and others vs. the Northern Securities company, growing out of the former decision of the court relative to the distribution of the stock of the Securities company.

The effect of granting the writ is to bring the case to the supreme court for review. The argument is set for Feb. 20.

IN CRITICAL CONDITION.

President of Oberlin (O.) Bank Will Not Live to Stand Trial.

Oberlin, O., Jan. 28.—President C. T. Beckwith of the defunct Citizens' National bank is reported to be in a very serious condition. Beckwith has been ill with heart trouble ever since the close of the bank and has gradually grown weaker. It is believed by his physician that he will not live to be tried on the charges against him.

WORK OF CONGRESS.

Tuesday, Jan. 24.

Senate—Arrangements for the trial of Judge Swayne of Florida were perfected by the swearing of the senators for the trial, the representatives of the house were recognized for formally presenting the articles of impeachment, and a motion summoning Judge Swayne to appear was adopted.

House—District of Columbia appropriation bill again occupied attention. Mr. Clark of Missouri, in a characteristic speech, said that more money was being paid Washington policemen to crack the skulls of the people than was paid to school teachers to improve what was in the skull.

Wednesday, Jan. 25.

Senate—Heated debate occurred over provision in army bill prohibiting extra pay or allowances to retired officers assigned to active service with state militia. Opponents of the amendment declared it was aimed directly at General Miles and was most unfair. No final action was taken. Some 200 pension bills were passed.

House—District of Columbia and military academy appropriation bills passed. Agricultural appropriation bill reported.

Thursday, Jan. 26.

Senate—Army appropriation bill passed after modifying the provision concerning the assignment of retired army officers to active service with the militia organizations. The effect of the change is to relieve General Miles from its application.

House—Agricultural bill under consideration, but the debate turned principally on the topic of restricting railroads in the matter of freight rates, the Hepburn bill forming the basis of the discussion.

Friday, Jan. 27.

Senate—Swayne impeachment case considered, attorneys for the judge securing a week's time to make complete response to the charges. The trial was fixed for Feb. 10. Discussion of statehood bill resumed.

House—Agricultural appropriation bill passed without material amendment. Army bill sent back to committee.

Saturday, Jan. 28.

Senate—Eulogies upon the character of the late Senator George F. Hoar of Massachusetts practically engrossed the entire day.

House—In a session of less than two hours 373 pension bills were passed and the naval and diplomatic appropriation bills were received for the calendar.

Monday, Jan. 30.

Senate—Agreement reached to vote on statehood bill before adjournment on Tuesday, Feb. 7, the amendments to be considered on that date under the ten-minute rule. Mr. Teller spoke in opposition to the bill.

House—Conference report on the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill adopted. As agreed to the bill carries $29,132,434. Postoffice appropriation bill taken up.

BILIOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION CURED BY THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

Because the liver is neglected people suffer with constipation, biliousness, headaches and fevers. Colds attack the lungs and contagious diseases take hold of the system. It is safe to say that if the liver were always kept in proper working order, illness would be almost unknown.

Thedford's Black-Draught is so successful in curing such sickness because it is without a rival as a liver regulator. This great family medicine is not a strong and drastic drug, but a mild and healthful laxative that cures constipation and may be taken by a mere child without possible harm.

The healthful action on the liver cures biliousness. It has an invigorating effect on the kidneys. Because the liver and kidneys do not work regularly, the poisonous acids along with the waste from the bowels get back into the blood and virulent contagion results.

Timely treatment with Thedford's Black-Draught removes the dangers which lurk in constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and will positively forestall the inroads of Bright's disease, for which disease in advanced stages there is no cure. Ask your dealer for a 25c. package of Thedford's Black-Draught.

Red Lake Falls Gazette

L. A. DAUTREMONT, PROPRIETOR
SAM S. HAISLET, EDITOR AND MANAGER

Published weekly, Thursday evening, an entered as second-class matter in the post office at Red Lake Falls.

Official Paper of Red Lake County.

Official Paper of Red Lake Falls.

Subscription, $1.00 per Year

Those interesting and comprehensive documents, the financial condition of the various counties of Minnesota, comprise a greater part of the space of most country newspapers these days.

The county seat fight has had one good effect, at least. The long-suffering readers of the Thief River Falls News are at least getting some reading matters these days, and while John's ravings are not taken seriously all this helps some.

Maybe if friend Eastman—who seems so worked up over the money that has been spent in Red Lake county—would return all the cash he has received as his rake-off on the county printing during the past few years, that the treasury would be helped some. But, then, it makes a difference whose ox is bored.

The Redwood Falls Gazette, Julius Schmal's bright paper, is more interesting than ever these days, if such a thing is possible. Editor Schmal is chief clerk of the Minnesota house of representatives and his readers and the exchange are being let in on the inside of the doings of that august body, by his weekiy contributions to his paper.

The proposition of making two or even three counties out of Itasca is being advocated with the claim that if the county were divided up so as to give a county seat to Koochiching, Grand Rapids and Deer River, there would be enough territory for the three. Itasca county is the second largest county in the state, and is rich in undeveloped agriculture resources and has great timber wealth says the Aitken Age.

Says the Ada Index: Public Examiner Sam Johnson has at last been placed where he cannot take advantage of his official position to get even with his enemies. Gov. Johnson has given the position to Peter Kerst, of St. Paul. The Minneapolis Journal, always so interested in the welfare of the dear people, seems to think the governor made a serious mistake in letting Sammy out. The campaign of vilification is over, dear Journal. Cease kicking.

In the senate last Tuesday Senator Stephens, of Crookston, introduced a new drainage commission bill which provides that the commission having charge of the drainage shall consist of the governor, auditor and secretary of state. The bill appropriates $75,000 annually for the next two years to be spent for the drainage of the land. It was introduced in response to the general demand in the northern part of the state that valuable be reclaimed by the construction of big ditches.

The Thief River Press seems to be worrying a great deal over the bill introduced in the present session of the legislature, providing that money in sinking funds of counties may be invested in real estate mortgages. The Press is unduly alarmed, and its charges that Red Lake Falls people bad everything to do with the introduction of such a bill comes a long way from the truth. The bill merely provides that county auditors may invest money accumulated in the sinking fund in first mortgages, and has nothing in the world bearing on the present case in Red Lake county. The Gazette has taken the pains to interview several of the leading financiers and money loaners of the city in this matter, and finds them all opposed to it, so if Thief River Falls is really afraid of the bill and needs help to fight it we can probably help them.

The Gazette and the Courier of this city will have the fight of Red Lake Falls to bear in the matter of publicity, as against the five other newspapers of the county—three at Thief River Falls and one each at Plummer and St. Hilaire. The Spectator and the Pioneer have already begun pouring broadsides into Red Lake Falls, but the reason for their action is not apparent. Both their home towns are so situated that the county seat removal to Thief River Falls will prove of detriment to them, and why the newspapers should let personalities usurp their better judgment, is not just understood. The combined circulation of The Gazette and Courier here, however, exceeds that of all the other county papers, so while the fight may seem at a glance one-sided it isn't really so much so as some people would like to have it. The Gazette believes that Red Lake Falls has earned her title to the seat of government of the county for all years to come, and will be found battling along these lines until the last shot is fired.

Two or three of the county papers quite severely critized Commissioner Ole Johnson last week, because he signed the warrants drawn for the purchase of the court house property, prior to the serving of the injunction, and allege all kinds of conspiracy. Just why Mr. Johnson is deserving of criticism in this matter is not plain. Fifteen days had elapsed from the time the warrants were drawn, and as the law provides that these shall be signed at the expiration of this time, Mr. Johnson was only doing his duty in signing them, when asked to, and no bold, bad men approached him and forced him in the dead of night, either. Something more substantial than broad charges of conspiracy, robbery, gang rule, etc., will have to be produced by the Thief River hackers in order to disabuse the idea that Thief River Falls' only purpose in bringing on this fight is to better their own condition at the expense of the public.

It makes no difference how many medicines have failed to cure you, if you are troubled with headache, constipation, kidney or liver troubles, Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea will make you well. W. A. Schreiter.

LOOK INTO THIS, BRETHREN.

Editor Julius Schmal, of the Redwood Falls Gazette, chief clerk of the house of representatives of Minnesota, advises the newspaper boys of Minnesota not to sign the orders sent out by the Northwestern Newspaper Union for law supplements, and admonishes those who did sign to cancel their order. Mr. Schmal is "next" to what is being done, and his reason for this advice is logical. He says:

"The Northwestern Newspaper Union is engaged in sending out blanks to publishers seeking to bind the latter on the publication of the 1905 session laws.

We advise the publishers to refrain from signing the cards until the meeting of the state association, and if they have signed to cancel the same.

If the code submitted by the revision commission is to become a law, the publication of the same will more than exhaust the appropriation and the Newspaper Union will "hog" the entire amount, and probably have a bill for extras.

Delay of cancellation will not hurt and it may be the means of bringing "Hog" Dobson into submitting a reasonable proposition based upon the probable publication of the code. Look into this matter at once."

AN ABLE REPRESENTATIVE.

Moorhead Independent: Congressman Steenerson is leading the attack against the portion of the post office appropriation bill giving the Spreckle branch of the sugar trust $45,000 bonus for carrying mails to some small islands in the Pacific.

Recently he had a hearing before Land Commissioner Richards on his proposal that the commutation privileges he extended to settlers on ceded lands in Minnesota whose entries were made after the passage of the free homes act.

Mr. Steenerson said in adoption of the measure would be a simple act of justice to settlers who are compelled to occupy their land in accordance with law same as their neighbors who enjoy the benefits of the free homes act. He said that such settlers ask only for the right to commute, and that for the present at least they would be satisfied with this.

Secretary of the Treasury Shaw has recommended to congress that he be permitted to refund the duty paid on wheat actually used for seed. This will be done at the suggestion of Representative Steenerson, who called Secretary Shaw's attention to the shortage of seed wheat in the west on account of the rust in wheat during the past year. Secretary Shaw finds that the drawback principle cannot be applied to wheat, and that grass seed only is admitted duty free.

Editor Packard, while a good fellow and capable newspaper man, is certainly butting in strong on the county seat question, and for one so new in the county seems to be making some broad statements. Of course he must be expected to fight the Thief River Falls' side of the case, and use all honest means of helping his town, but his last week's paper spreads broad-cast a lot of stuff that comes far from hitting the mark and will prove a boomerang to Thief River Falls. Red Lake Falls has many things to advance in the county seat matter that will show where we stand, and the voters should not pay a great amount of attention to "hot air" blasts until they investigete where they eminate from.

The wages for woodsmen are not quite so high this year as in past seasons. The men are sticking pretty close to their jobs this winter too, and so far as the labor question is concerned the loggers are having no trouble at all. There seems to be a disposition on the part of the big logging operators to have the men come to their terms instead of having a crew in camp working, one crew going to town and another crew going to camp, as was the rule for several years in this locality. The timber owners figure that if the men will not work for reasonable wages and stay through the season they had better curtail the annual cut. This makes work scarcer and the men stay says the Bemidji News.

We Offer $1,000

For a Disease Germ That Liquozone Can't Kill.

On every bottle of Liquozone we offer $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. We do this to assure you that Liquozone does kill germs.

And it is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease. It is this fact which gives Liquozone its worth to humanity; a worth so great that, after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, we paid $100,000 for the American rights. And we have spent over one million dollars, in one year, to buy the first bottle and give it free to each sick one who would try it.

Acts Like Oxygen.

Liquozone is not made by compounding drugs, nor is there any alcohol in it. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. This process has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research.

The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is an absolutely certain germicide. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

Liquozone goes into the stomach, into the bowels and into the blood, to go wherever the blood goes. No germ can escape it and none can resist it. The results are inevitable, for a germ disease must end when the germs are killed. Then Liquozone, acting as a wonderful tonic, quickly restores a condition of perfect health. Diseases which have resisted medicine for years yield at once to Liquozone, and it cures diseases which medicine never cures. Half the people you meet—wherever you are—can tell you of cures that were made by it.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

During the year 1904 only eight assessments were levied in the M. W. A. lodge. Assessments were skipped for the months of February, April, October and November. This proves the new rate to be all that was promised, and it makes such a favorable record that every member is more than pleased with the change.

Thief River Press: Wm. A Murphy left over the Soo Monday evening for a week's business trip to the Twin Cities in the interest of his firm, Murphy & LaBree. Mr. Murphy will select his line of vehicles while in the cities and predicts a brisk business in fine turn-outs in this city during the coming season.

Frank E. Hunt is expected home today from his trip south. Mr. Hunt did not find the south as pleasing as he anticipated, and during the whole time he was away did not feel as well as he did when he left. We of this northern zone may sometimes think that a little more than our merited share of cold weather is accorded us, but still the fact is brought out many times during the year that for a healthy place to live, Northern Minnesota is unexcelled.

A man in Indiana in returning home from hunting the other day found his neighbor just leaving the house, and being of a jealous nature, drew his gun and filled the man's leg with fine shot. A law suit followed and it was learned that the man was there to borrow the local paper. The law suit cost $75 and the doctor bill was $25 and $1 would have saved the trouble.

McIntosh Times: Fertile implement dealers are already commencing to reach out for the spring trade, and with their colleagues in business are using large blocks of space in their local paper to secure the publicity desired. It is such enterprise as this that makes Fertile one of the best towns, and its paper one of the best local papers in country, and there are others that might profit by following their example.

L. E. Metgar tendered his resignation as assistant manager or the Red Lake Falls and Crookston Milling companies yesterday and left in the afternoon for Spokane, Washington, and will look over the west with a view of locating. One cayote will hang around a camp at night and create the impression that a pack of at least twenty big wolves are looking for a chance to eat the campers. But investigation will reveal that a single cayotte is lean, hungry and cowardly, and that he does not weigh over fifteen pounds. Likewise one kicker in a town will create the impression that there is much indignation against every respectable citizen and measure.

A crowd of friends very pleasantly surprised Mr. and Mrs. W. P. O'Brien at their home Monday of this week, the occassion being the seventh anniversary of their wedding. Cards furnished the amusement, and Mrs. John A. Duffy carried off the honors, while Mrs. L. A. Kaufer secured the least numbers of games and was given the booby prize. Refreshments were served, and a most enjoyable time was had by those in attendance.

Auditor Ford has received a shipment of pamphlets for distribution from Senator Knute Nelson, treating various subjects of interest to the farmer, and asks that all interested call on him for one. The packages contain a pamphlet on each of the following subjects: Cream Separators, making live stock pay, meat on the farm, cow care and feed, care of milk, etc. They are interesting reading and farmers can undoubtedly secure valuable pointers by reading them.

Mr. and Mrs. George LaBissoniere arrived here Tuesday morning from North Yakima Wash., for a visit with their son, Theo., and numerous relatives and friends. Their coming was wholly unexpected, and to say that the family were surprised would be putting it very mildly. The old people stood the journey well, and seemed immensely pleased to get back to the old familiar scenes. Mr. LaBissoniere is a very entertaining talker and during his stay will without doubt convince his friends of the attractions of the state of Washington as a place of abode, and as he brought several things along to prove it—among them being a box of beautiful Washington apples which he picked early in the winter—his task will undoubtedly be an easy one. Mr. and Mrs. LaBissoniere will remain about a month and it is safe to presume that every minute of their visit will be enjoyed by their numerous relatives and friends.

The Sunday School of the Presbyterian church will give a ragball social Friday evening, February 3, at the church parlors. Every lady is requested to bring her name securely wrapped in a ragball. These will be auctioned off to the highest bidder for partners for supper. Don't miss it.

The Minneapolis Journal states that the year 1904 was the coldest year on record in Minnesota. This was due to the long, cold spring and comparatively cold summer. There were killing frosts twenty days later than usual in the spring, and one day earlier than the average in the fall. The average temperature for the year was about 54 above zero.

Once upon a time a newspaper man went to church and after much deep reflection studied out the reasons that brought people to the house of worship as follows: Some go to weep, while others go to sleep; some go to tell their woes, others go to show their clothes; some go to hear the preacher, others like the solo screecher, boys go to reconnoiter, girls go because they 'orter; some go for reflection; precious few to help collection.

Theif River Press: The residents of new towns along the Soo are registering some very vigorous kicks for lack of mail service Asst. Supt. Bradford having charge of the railway mail service visited the points along the new line several months ago. On Nov. 1st he recommended that a regular mail service be established from Glenwood to Thief River Falls and on Dec. 1st recommended that the service be established on the Soo to the Canadian border. Thus far, however, nothing has been done, and the people are beginning to wonder why and have communicated with Congressman Steenerson for the dilatory tatics being pursued.

St. Hilaire Spectator: H. C. Clarke, the Crookston Lumber company's treasurer, was here last Wednesday looking over the many improvments being made in the saw mill and seemed well pleased with the work being done. He also informed us that the company were seriously contemplating putting in a hot pond here for next winter. If this is done, and Mr Clarke seems to think it very probable, they will rail in the logs, coming by the way of Tilden and Red Lake Falls. This will necessitate building a spur track from the planer to the river by the saw mill. A large box will be built in the river at the foot of the log slip and steam pipes put in. This will enable the mill to run all winter and will increase the capacity of the mill at least one-third. By so doing this the company would be able to turn out special orders at any time. Here's hoping the work will be done.

The city council meets this evening.

The work of driving the piling for the big cut is progressing nicely, and will be hurried through to completion.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Cromps welcomed the arrival of a brand new boy at their home today. Congratulations are in order.

Rev. I. T. Aastad from Thief River Falls will hold services in the Norwegian Church next Sunday at 10:30 in the forenoon. All are cordially invited to attend.

Governor Johnson has announced all but fifteen of the state boiler inspectors, The inspector for this district has not yet been named, but likely will be within a few days.

This morning was the coldest of the winter, the local thermometers registering as low as 45 degrees below zero. But then, dont despair, it will be summer time in the sweet bye and bye.

Dr. J. C. Wilkinson announces that he will be able to resume his practice the first of next week, after his five weeks' lay-off on account of his illness. This will be good news to the doctor's friends, who will be glad to hear of his entire convelescence.

Mr. and Mrs. Al. J. Poullot welcomed the arrival if a fine baby boy at their home her Tuesday evening. The young man is their first born, and to say that he was royally welcomed isn't half expressing it. May he live long as a comfort to his fond parants.

We are just opening up our new stock of St. Cecilia women's Shoes. This famous shoe will again command the admiration and appreciation of those who will wear it. $3 50 is the price. The Ananimo at $3.00 is as good as many so called $3.00 shoes.—Theo. LaBissoniere.

The play "The Heart of a Hero" by the Spartan society of the high school, given at the opera house last Friday evening, was largely attended and thoroughly enjoyed. Every part was carried out in a creditable manner, and the library fund was helped out to a considerable extent.

John E. King expects to go down to St. Paul next week to look after the renting of a house and get ready to assume his duties as State Librarian. Ed. H. Chase, who has been here for several weeks, will assume complete control of the Courier, and will undoubtedly make a success of the work. Ed. is one of the sort of fellows that makes many warm friends, and the people here are pleased to count him as a permanent fixture. The Gazette wishes both Mr. King and Mr. Chase unbounded success.

H. H. Tompkins, of Mankato, general agent for the Mankato Mutual Insurance company, was a visitor here yesterday, attending to some personal matters and looking after the interests of his company. Mr. Tompkins is one of the jolliest fellows on the road, and possesses a "gift of gab" that makes him a welcome caller anywhere. Red Lake Falls has had the reputation of having the champion wind-slinger of the state—Register of Deeds Jeffers—and while Mr. Tompkins was here the two were brought together in a talk-fest contest for the benefit of several of the boys. The contest was fast and furious from the start, and while the Gazette reporter failed to hear the finish competent witnesses state that the Mankato talker was put in the clear, and Jeffers holds his well-earned honors as the best talker in the North Star state.

Good Band Concert.

The January band concert by the Red Lake Falls band was given at the Metropolitan opera house Tuesday evening of this week, and in spite of the extremely cold weather a good-sized crowd turned out to listen to the program prepared. The band selections embraced two heavy and classical compositions and several lighter selections and marches, and each was received with enthusiastic applause. A clarinet solo by Prof. A. Gustad and recitations by J. Drew Marshall and Miss Lucy Hunt were the specialities. Mr. Marshall rendered Wallace's "Ben Hur Chariot Race" in a most excellent manner, while Miss Lucy Hunt rendered "Sister and I" in a very pleasing style, both of the young people acquitting themselves very creditably. "Remember Benson" a one-act farce also furnished a little diversion. The work of the band shows that excellent progress is being made, and that the people appreciate this fact is evidenced by their attendance and applause of the efforts of the members.

WASHINGTON SCHOOL NOTES.

Edith Hansen and Dora Bourdon, Reporters

The sixth grade had an examination in Geography Wednesday afternoon.

The fifth grade are studying the northern states of the Mississippi Valley in Geography.

Mr. Healy started to read a new book called "Silent Pete" to the sixth and fifth grades.

The boys who play football came in quite late Wednesday at recess, so the teacher took away the ball for the last few days of the week.

In the sixth grade history test some of the papers were very good and will be shown at the visiting day.

The fifth and sixth grades did well in selling tickets for the play which the High School gave Friday night, although we did not sell $20 worth as planned, we sold $11.60 worth.

The little children enjoy their recesses sliding down hill.

Dora Bourdon was absent Friday.

Monday morning it was quite cold in the room so we had to go through some exercises to warm up.

The fifth and sixth grades had an examination in Language Friday morning covering three months work.

There was great excitement going on in school last week on account of selling tickets.

On Thursday afternoon there was no one absent nor tardy. Wonderful!

The third and sixth grades won the banner for attendance last month but the fifth and fourth grades lost theirs.

Thursday afternoon many of the boys came in late at recess again and are to stay in all the recesses till Thursday.

The sixth grade received their geography examination papers Friday afternoon and were very disappointed in their marks, the lowest one being 16 and the highest 89. They will be kept for visiting day.

Matthew Kotschevar returned to the sixth grade Monday morning, He left our school the first week of October. We are glad to see him back again.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of Twelve dollars, thirty cents which became due Nov. 1st, 1903, and of twelve dollars which became due Nov. 1, 1904 and which is due and claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain Mortgage, duly executed and delivered by August C. Spilker and Ottilie Spilker, his wife, as mortgagors, to James A. Egan, Mortgagee, bearing date the 25th day of October 1902, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the county of Red Lake, State of Minnesota, on the 6th day of January 1903, at 8:30 o'clock A. M., in Book 26 of Mortgages, on page 263, and whereas, pursuant to the terms and conditions of said mortgage, by reason of said default, the whole principal sum of said mortgage outstanding and not already remitted or paid or settled for, towit, one hundred twenty dollars thirty cents, did on the first day of November, 1903, become at once due and payable, and was so declared by said James A. Egan; and whereas, there is actually due and claimed to be due at the date of this notice, the sum of $120.30, with interest thereon at the rate of ten per cent per annum since October 25th 1902, together with the further sum of one hundred four dollars, with interest on $52 thereof at the rate of ten per cent per annum since November 1, 1903, and interest on $52 thereof at the same rate since November 1, 1904, the said $104 being for interest paid by said James A. Egan under the terms of said mortgage, and pursuant thereto, upon a prior first mortgage of $800 to the Union Central Life Insurance Company of Cincinnati, O., default having been made in the payment of same and said amount, by said mortgagor together with the further sum of $30.83, with interest thereon at the rate of ten per cent per annum since December 1st, 1904, being for interest paid by said James A. Egan under the terms of said mortgage upon a prior mortgage of $100 to the Union Central Life Insurance company, default having been made in the payment thereof by said mortgagor, and whereas the said power of sale has become operative and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof;

Now, Therefore, Notice is Hereby Given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said Mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage first described will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage towit: The north half of the northeast quarter and southwest quarter of northeast quarter, of section ten and southwest quarter of southeast quarter of section three in township one hundred fifty-one [151] north of range forty four [44] in Red Lake county, Minnesota, which sale will be made by the sheriff of said Red Lake county Minnesota, at the front door of the courthouse in the city of Red Lake Falls, in said County and State on the 17th day of February, A. D. 1905, at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of $120.30, and $104, and $30.83 and interest as aforesaid, and taxes, if any, on said premises, and a reasonable attorneys fees as stipulated in said mortgage, the same being hereby stated to be twenty five dollars and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

Dated Jan. 5th, 1905.

A CHILD'S LIBRARY

NEW YORK SHOWS INTEREST IN THE SMALL READER.

Modern Study of Youth Provides Wisely—Experts Help the Parent in Selection of Books and Papers.

For some little time libraries here and there have set apart a "Children's Room," a place made attractive with pictures, flowers, berries, wild grasses, low shelves, low tables, and comfortable small chairs. Now modern interest in the child has brought forth a library all for children.

It is called The Child-Lore library, and is situated at 54 East Fifty-ninth street, New York, in the center of a residence district wherein dwells folk of goodly wealth. Why, it is asked, should this somewhat-on-the-order-of-missionary enterprise be put in the midst of wealth and fashion, and the answer is that the children of the rich as well as those of the poor need guiding in the matter of literature. And the Child-Lore library, not confining itself by any means to the people of its immediate neighborhood, sends forth to public school and community-groups collections of carefully chosen reading matter, and thus escapes the criticism of aristocratic leanings.

"Rich mothers and poor mothers both are so engrossed with duties, often real, often imaginary, that were it not for outside assistance the little child in the family of each distracted parent would be sadly neglected. And both are very fortunate that there is offered them the expert help of the ones in charge of this new enterprise for directing young readers.

The lady at the head has had much experience in teaching children, and says now she is very glad to be able to do her teaching with lightness of touch; unknown to the attendants at the library study their tastes; unknown to them gently lead them in a better path. Once a week, on Saturday morning, there is held what is called the children's hour, when a flock of little ones and those not yet too grown up to be ranked as children, gather under the wing of the director, and, in informal assembly, "swap stories." It is not a meeting where elders hold the floor, but where even the wee-est is encouraged to entertain the company. These mornings are of value in many ways; here one can get indication of honest preferences; one can help timid ones to have faith in their own tastes, and one can find occasion for the word of advice the mothers are anxious to have bestowed.

It is doubtful if many parents, no matter how devoted to the right training of their children, have even a passing acquaintance with juvenile literature, and when called upon to purchase a book of this class, are all at sea as to selection. To be sure, there is any quantity to choose from; but right there is the trouble—so much quantity and so little quality. There is a great mass of juvenile reading offered, but a lot of it is only pictures and good printing. At least, this is the verdict of the Child Lore library. And this library is indorsed by no less personages than John Burroughs, hater of shams; Mary Mapes Dodge, beloved editor of the St. Nicholas, tried and true friend of children; Laura E. Richards, who writes books that children are very fond of; Kate Douglas Wiggin, of "Kindergarten and Birds' Christmas Carol" fame; Hamilton Mabie, a man who knows what's what in the book world, and others interested in giving children the proper book pebulum.

A GREAT READER.

Modern study of the child looks zealously to physical welfare, and, of course, the Child-Lore library is not behindhand in this matter. A specialist on the fumigation of books has charge of fumigation of volumes in this library, and every book is fumigated on its return to the library. It is thought this precaution is especially necessary in children's libraries, as most children's diseases are contagious, and contagion lurks in the home of the rich as well as in that of the poor. Children's circulating libraries have been held in the past rather dangerous, because of the spread by their means of contagion; but fumigation removes this evil.

In regard to the aims of the new library, the lady who has direct charge made this statement to a representative of the New York Sun: "Pedagogy tells us that the science of education is the science of interesting. If a child is ever aroused and interested, he can and will interest himself. That is the secret of the success of the Child-Lore library; it helps the child to help himself."

ANNE THAYER.

Overdoing It.

"Yes, I married John because he was such a quiet man in his ways."

"And are you happy?"

"No; he's too quiet."

"In what way?"

"He even takes off his shoes when he comes up the hallway late at night."—Chicago Daily News.

TO DINE ON HORSE.

QUEER MEAL IS PLANNED FOR FRENCH MINISTER.

Cabinet Officer Will Be Guest of Honor at "Hippophage" Fete Which Takes Place in Paris—Equine Food Becomes Popular.

Paris.—Some of the tasks of the French ministers are hard indeed. They can scarcely ever refuse to preside over any fete connected with an industry or trade from which a certain recognized section of the French people gain their livelihood. For example, M. Trouillot, the minister of commerce, has had to accept an invitation to be present at the "hippophage" fete.

The eaters of horse flesh are to be present in full number, but particularly the horse meat butchers and the class of middlemen who find, sell, or kill the poor animals in question.

The speechmaking, in which the minister of agriculture will also participate, will be followed by a "grand banquet," at which horse meat and various preparations from it are to have the place of honor on the menu; and after the banquet a grewsome demonstration is to be made, after the fashion of the Chicago stock yards, of the time it takes to transform a living equine into a succulent (?) succession of "beef" steaks.

The final tidbit on the programme of the day is the unveiling of a statue to the veterinary doctor, Decroix, who was the determined propagator of the horse meat doctrine in France, who claimed that it was scientifically better food than that of other animals, and who was influential in getting the consent of the French government to the establishment of horse meat butcheries.

The consumption of this article of food has greatly grown in Paris during the past few years, for the price of other meat has steadily risen. During the last six months 5,000 horses, mules or asses have been thus slaughtered for the Paris market.

TO MOVE INDIAN CEMETERY

Remains of Many Noted Chiefs in Kansas City, Kan., to Be Interred in Other Places.

Kansas City, Kan.—The remains of more than 500 Wyandotte Indians are to be exhumed in Huron cemetery, one of the oldest Indian burying grounds in this city. They are to be taken to various places in Kansas and the Indian territory for final burial.

The old burial ground contains two acres of land and is desired for business purposes. It is valued at more than $100,000. The sale of the cemetery was finally determined upon at a meeting of Wyandotte Indians. It has been held in trust by the United States government since 1853, and the cemetery lots will be sold under the direction of the secretary of the interior.

Many noted Indian chiefs and leaders are buried there. More than 300 members of the tribe now in the Indian territory will attend the ceremonies being arranged for the removal of the bodies. They will again worship under the old oak and elm trees under which their fathers met more than half a century ago, and which still stand in the heart of the business district of the city. Many of the bodies will be taken to another old Indian cemetery at Quindaro, Kan.

The people of Kansas City, Kan., have long been trying to persuade the Indians to remove their dead from the center of the business district. The graves have been neglected, fences torn down, and paths made across the unmarked graves. This had much to do with inducing the Indians to remove their dead.

TREES CARRY MESSAGES.

Maj. Squier of the Signal Corps Makes Important Discovery in Wireless Telegraphy.

San Francisco.—Maj. George O. Squier, of the United States signal corps, has made an important discovery in wireless telegraphy. He has found that trees may serve the purpose of marconi's metallic feelers, or antennae, as they are called, and that tree trunks, while serving as masts or towers, also serve as wires to bring the electro-magnetic currents down to the earth.

The healthier the tree the better it serves as a conductor for the highly oscillating currents. The leaves of trees or of plants behave precisely as if they were made of metal, and they will transmit these oscillations from the ground surrounding them through their leaves.

At Fort Mason Maj. Squier attached his telegraphic apparatus to the trees and communicated with the wireless station on Alcatraz island, about two miles distant.

The major claims great advantages for this system of tree telegraphy in army field operations over any high mast, tower, or balloon system. Maj. Squier found that vegetation was stimulated by a moderate amount of electricity, and was killed by heavy shocks, just like animals.

BEEKEEPER NOT A FARMER

Iowa Judge Reaches This Conclusion After Long Deliberation in Bankruptcy Case.

Sioux City.—Judge H. T. Reed, of the federal court for northern Iowa, has issued an order which amounts to a decision that a keeper of bees is not a farmer and cannot escape the bankruptcy law. The decision is given on an order to declare Bert A. Aldrich, of Smithfield, a bankrupt.

Augustus Christie, of Rodney, filed a petition to have Aldrich declared a bankrupt. He said that Aldrich owed him $500, and had committed an act of bankruptcy in transferring 160 colonies of bees to A. E. Aldrich on January 4, 1904.

In his answer Aldrich explained that the transfer of the bees was made to satisfy a note covered by a chattel mortgage. He said further by his attorneys that he was a farmer and as such could not be declared an involuntary bankrupt.

In reply to this it was set forth that Aldrich was an apiarist and not a farmer. The attorneys declared that such an amount of bees as Aldrich kept would warrant the decision that he did not farm for a living, but was a keeper of bees.

When the case came up before C. L. Roy, referee in bankruptcy, much of the hearing was on bee culture. Aldrich said that he owned about 185 stands of bees.

Judge Reed deliberated on the question of bees and bee culture, and also the art of farming. In the end he decided that Aldrich could not hide behind the allegation that bee culture was farming. Aldrich was adjudged a bankrupt.

ALCOHOL FOR CONSUMPTION

Dr. Wiley Says It Has Been Used to Great Advantage in Cases of Tuberculosis.

Philadelphia.—Diet as a factor in the prevention and cure of consumption, the negro race problem, child labor question in southern mills and a number of other themes of equal interest formed the basis of some of the many papers read before the American Association for the Advancement of Science in session here recently.

Dr. W. H. Wiley, chief chemist of the department of agriculture, said that among the food material which has justly attained a high position as nutriment for persons troubled with tuberculosis is alcohol. Most commonly it is used in the form of beer, wine, whisky and brandy, he said. In many maladies, he said, whisky and brandy have apparently been used to great advantage and doubtless such is the case in tuberculosis.

Edward L. Blackshear, of the Prairie View state normal and industrial college, of Texas, discussed "Some Survivals of Primitive Racial Instincts in American Negroes." As a solution for the race problem he suggested simply education, experience and the scattering of negroes over the country.

Prof. A. J. McKelvey, assistant secretary of the national child labor committee, read a paper on "Child Labor in Southern Mills." He said there were more children under 16 years of age working in the factories of Pennsylvania than there were in all the southern states put together. It was his opinion that child labor was not a sectional but a national evil.

MANUEL LISA'S ROMANCE.

Once Noted St. Louis Fur Trader's Indian Marriage Recalled by His Daughter's Death.

Trenton, Ill.—Mrs. Rosalie Ely, aged over 90 years, is dead at her home here. She was the oldest daughter of Manuel Lisa, who was prominently connected with the early history of St. Louis from 1812 to 1815. Her mother was an Indian woman of the Omaha tribe.

Lisa's life was a romantic one. He was born of Spanish parents in New Orleans in 1772. He became a great fur trader, with headquarters at St. Louis, about 1807, and made long trips up the Missouri river.

A pathetic romance is connected with Lisa's Indian marriage. His wife was a beautiful woman of the Omaha tribe, and bore him two children—a girl, Rosalie, who later became Mrs. Ely, and a boy named Raymond—the latter born in 1816. When Lisa was removing to St. Louis from up the Missouri in 1817 he brought Rosalie with him, to the great grief of her Indian mother. Subsequently he also took the boy from her to be educated in St. Louis. Lisa gave valuable presents to his Indian wife, but refused to allow her to come with him and her children to St. Louis, though she was inconsolable over the separation.

In 1818 Lisa married Mrs. Mary Hempstead Keeney, widow of Joseph Keeney, and daughter of Stephen Hempstead. He lived happily with her until his death, and she survived him nearly 50 years. She died at Galena, Ill., in 1879.

Was Oldest Postmaster.

Herman H. Knippenberg, said to be the oldest American postmaster in point of continuous service, is dead at his home in Femme Osage, St. Charles county, Mo. He had been postmaster there for 55 years, also running a general store, and had accumulated a good deal of property. He was appointed by President Filmore. Mr. Knippenberg was born in Germany 80 years ago, but came to this country when a lad.

SPORTS AND ATHLETICS

A sad record was established during the year 1904 in the number of fatalities that occurred in the sporting world—one that has never been equaled. Nine men were killed on the baseball field, two of them by lightning. Sunstrokes and lightning victims have heretofore been a rarity on the ball field, but that year seems to have been an exception. Two accidents of the year occurred in Pennsylvania, one at Indiana and the other at Cherry Hill. In the first Grove Thomas, a Cincinnati boy, was hit by a ball during play and instantly killed. Hiram Williams met a similar death in the other. The saddest feature of both accidents was that the young wives of the players were witnesses to their husbands' terrible deaths. The men who met natural deaths in baseball this year number 11. Probably the most noted of all was James (Chip) McGarr, who died in an insane hospital at Worcester, Mass., on June 6. He was an old-time National league player, and was known throughout the United States. Another well-known player that passed to the great beyond was Ben (Shorty) Fuller, formerly shortstop for the New Yorks. There were two suicides recorded. Hugh Higgens, a well-known amateur player of Louisville, killed himself on March 16. Dan Mahaney took his own life at Springfield, Mass., on January 31. In the turf world the most prominent men to leave this earth were William C. Whitney, who died in New York city, of the effects of an operation, on January 29, and J. Malcolm Forbes, the noted breeder of trotting horses, who died on his estate at Milton, Mass., on February 19. Others of note were Senator J. S. O'Brien, of Stillwater, Minn.; C. E. Jeffers, the Louisville horseman, who was in partnership with Johnny Fay, and David Nagle, an old-time California horseman. In the harness world death claimed George Fuller, known far and wide as a reinsman; Sam Moreland, of Covington, and Uncle Billy Hughes, of Sedalia, Mo. The best-known jockey to die this season was Andy Hamilton. He breathed his last in France on February 1. Hamilton was born in this country, and, although black in color, was at one time considered the best in America. The death of Caesar Young in New York city took from the ranks of the American bookmakers one of the best in the business. His death is still fresh in the minds of the general public, seated beside Nan Patterson, an actress, on Saturday, June 5. The most conspicuous figure to be taken from the boxing world by death was James E. Kennedy, the New York promoter of athletic sports. He died on an elevated train in Brooklyn on April 30. Tommy Warren was the only boxer of prominence to die since the first of the year. There have been three deaths in the prize ring, but none of the victims were known outside their home city, and, like all cases of this kind, their deaths were due to lack of training and not from punishment dealt out by their opponents.

Wm. C. Whitney.

A prominent point winner on the cinder path left the field to his rivals when the retirement of Harry Hillman, Jr., was announced recently. Young Hillman, who is a member of the New York Athletic club and of the Thirteenth regiment, of Brooklyn, and who won a number of firsts and seconds in the Olympic games at St. Louis last summer, has retired from athletics on account of failing health, and will take a good rest. Hillman was considered one of the best hurdlers in America and was the champion quarter-miler of the east. Representing the New York Athletic club, he entered in the 440-yard run at Olympic games, June 4, coming in a close second to D. H. Meyers, of Buffalo, and helping the New York Athletic club win the 45 points which made it second among the clubs represented. In August and September at the Olympic championship meet Hillman broke the 400-meter hurdle record, making the distance in :53 flat. Waller, of the Milwaukee Athletic club, was second, following the eastern man by less than a yard, with Page four yards back and Varnell, of the C. A. A., fourth. The 400-meter dash was also won by Hillman in :49 1-5. On September 1, when James D. Lightbody, of the C. A. A., won the 800-meter race from representatives from Germany, New Zealand, Canada and the United States, Hillman won the 200-meter hurdles in :24 3-5, with F. Castleman, of the Greater New York Athletic club, second. The time established a new Olympic record and gave the New Yorker three championships for his summer's work.

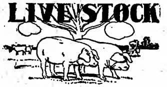
Senator Lightner, of South Dakota, has introduced an anti-football bill, the most rigorous of its kind yet proposed in any legislature. He would instantly suspend from school any player who injures another, make fraudulent registration for purpose of playing football a misdemeanor, and hold the president of the college equally guilty with the student.

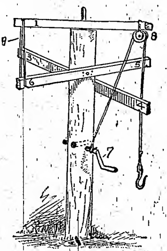
LIVE STOCK



HOG HANGERS.

Device Easily Constructed Which Will Accommodate Four Animals at a Time.

I have seen several illustrations of hog hangers in the Ohio Farmer, writes a correspondent of that paper, but only for a single animal. I send sketch of a plan for hanging any number from one to four. Set up a post six by six inches. No. 1 in the cut is a swinging device at top of post; it swings over cross-bar 3-4. Use pulley No. 8, with one-half-inch rope 12 feet long, with hook. Bore one-inch hole through post both ways, to insert one-inch rod, with crank (No. 7), which can be changed as desired, to hang on 3, 4, 5 or 6. No. 9 is a one-half-inch rope to hold swinging-bar down. This rope can be moved when swing-bar is wanted over the other cross-bar.



HANDY HOG HANGER.

BREEDING DRAFT FILLIES.

A Scotch Practice Which Might Be Imitated Successfully by American Stockmen.

French, English and Scotch farmers and horse breeders generally breed their draft fillies at two years old, and by generous treatment they develop good, large size at three, when they have a colt, and they have learned to work and earn their keep. Farmers' Advocate says: A noticeable feature in connection with the recent importation of 50 Clydesdale fillies was that the two-year-olds had all been stinted before leaving Scotland. Inquiry disclosed the fact that this is a common practice in that country of good draft horses. On this side it is a very rare thing to breed a filly before she is three years old, although, with our early maturing stock and comfortable stables, the main reason why it is not done is simply force of habit, or a vague impression that immature mares will not produce strong foals. Scotchmen raise the best of horses, and breed their fillies at two years old. Why should we not breed a year earlier, and make use of one of the best years in the brood mare's life? Of course, it is redundant to say the filly should be well grown and in thriving condition, and should be kept so. Too often the two-year-old fillies are not given the advantage they deserve, because they are supposed to be big and able to forage for themselves, and are only growing anyhow, and, consequently their third year is not remarkable for development. If early breeding is followed by greater care and more liberal treatment, perhaps the ill-effect supposed to result from breeding at an earlier age might be entirely avoided. It is not too late to try breeding the two-year-olds this season, and some valuable experience may be gained from it.

HINTS FOR BREEDERS.

Cleaner and more sanitary milk is the demand of the hour.

The pens where the hogs are kept should be always bright and dry.

A miss is as good as a mile when the old cow kicks at you; and when you kick at her it is better than five miles.—Farm Journal.

Fight shy of the "family cow" which Jim Jockey declares the mention of selling "starts 'ther ole woman to cryin,"—that cow will not suit you.—American Dairyman.

Too close confinement and too heating foods bring about the abnormal condition in sows that often results in the sows eating their young.

The United States department of agriculture has some very good bulletins on clean production of milk, and men interested in the matter should see that their friends send for them.

Whitewash.

Whitewash is to some extent an antiseptic and should be freely used about cow stables. The stables that are whitewashed twice a year are cleaner and brighter appearing than those that receive no attention of this kind. Whitewash is also very cheap.

Special Harness Room.

The more careful owners of horses and equipments have a special room for the harnesses, where they may be kept from both ammonia gas and from dust. This room should be near the horses, to prevent carrying the harnesses back and forth.

Educational Department.

Edited Under the Direction of
Prof. E. W. Chamberlain.

While language is from the teachers' stand-point perhaps the most difficult subject, from the stand-point of the pupil, history perhaps is the great bugbear. That this is so few will deny. That the fault is inherent in the subject some will claim but none should believe. Who or what then is to blame? The pupils? No. The teachers? In part. The books? Yes, largely. The system? Mostly.

What is history? Largely biographical narration. Did you ever see a child who was not interested in a story? Most certainly no. Then the pupil or the subject cannot be to blame. Let us look at the question from a psychological point of view. The education of the child should be conducted along a line that recognizes the three groups of classification of the mental powers of man. The course of study should be so arranged as to be in harmony with the best development of the three classes of powers. That our courses of study are not so arranged all will admit. Now courses of study create a demand for books. As the right kind of books are not demanded they are not published. Herein do we find the cause of the dislike for history.

The three classes into which the mental powers may be put are acquisitional, assimilation and expressional. Now a consideration of these three powers will show you that with a developing child they must proceed in the order named. Facts must be acquired before they can be assimilated. They must be assimilated and worked over into our own mental grasp before they can be expressed.

A study of the child mind shows that these powers do develop in the order named. It also shows that each power is most active and does its work most easily when it is in the stage of most rapid development. Now our greatest students of psychology declare that acquisitional faculty of the mind developes fastest between the ages of one and ten years; that the assimilation faculty developes most rapidly between the ages of ten and eighteen years and that the expressional faculty developes most rapidly between the ages of eighteen and thirty years.

Now since during the ages of acquisitional powers are most active, while between ten and eighteen the assimilation powers are most active, and between eighteen and thirty the expressional powers are most active.

It will be impossible in the space at my disposal to discuss at length needed changes in our curriculum. But if you will stop to think about the nature of history you will see that it is largely acquisitional in its character. Then if you will remember that the acquisitional faculty is most active before ten years you will see that history should be largely presented during these years. To do this would require a decided change in the manner in which we present the subject. Here the books become at fault.

The fault that most conscientious pupils find with history is that there is such a sameness in all of the books from the simplest to the highest. The complaint is a just one. Take any set of outline histories and you will find them taking up Columbus, Captain John Smith, George Washington, etc., and in really the same order. During the use of the first book you did not hear complaining but when they see their second book and turn page after page, day after day and read of the same men, do you wonder that they become disgusted? Not at all. The wonder is that we can keep them at work at all. You ask me what I would have? I answer: Our history story told in simple child language and in large outline with simplest connecting incidents. Also the boyhood of our great men with just a simple statement of what made them famous. These books to be carefully arranged by a competent person and graded to be used as supplimentary reading for the second, third and fourth grades.

Then for the fifth, sixth and seventh grades a set of three outline histories written by the same person or by competent colaborators each with a different working theme, and each simply referring to the persons or incidents of the preceeding books, and adding new persons and incidents necessary for the elaboration of the working theme. At the same time I would have the simplest story of English and French history told in supplementary readers for the fifth and sixth grade.

This would bring the purely acquitional work at the time when that power of the mind is most active in its development, and it would also bring the elementary assimilative work at a time when the assimilative faculty of the mind is becoming active.

In the eighth grade give a brief outline study of English history, and Ancient and Modern history in the first and second years in High School.

This would finish a splendid foundation for a year's good solid work in United States history and civics in the third year of High School at a time when the expressional power of the mind are becoming active.

These changes in the system and books would I feel certain remove most objectionable features from the study of history and at the same time make the work easier for the pupils and furnish better mental description.

Now what is there left for the teacher? I believe that the above mentioned changes will of themselves remove most of the faults now attributed to the teacher. But at the same time they will make possible nearly as many new faults.

In this system the teacher must be the life and fountain head of inspiration for the whole class. She must have a large and comprehensive grasp of the whole subject as it is treated in the books used by the pupils. She must have her work reduced to a decided system, so that she can easily discover and quickly refer to any former person or incident that is connected with the lesson in hand so closely as to constitute a cause for the present incident. If she does this carefully and systematically she will conduct the best review possible while she keeps the instinct of the child at a fever heat by causing him to be constantly meeting and renewing acquaintances with his old friends.

How interesting it is to meet with old friends under such conditions. I fully believe that with proper preparation on the part of the teacher such a system and such books would make a new subject out of history, and furnish our pupils much better fitted for citizenship. We cannot make the change at once but if we all set our faces towards the right we will win in the end.

HENS' TEETH.

Now Don't Smile But Just Read How You Should Supply the Fowls with False Ones.

"As scarce as hens' teeth" is a common saying, from which comes the idea that hens have no teeth. This is true only so far as teeth in the mouth are concerned. Hens have false teeth, and the owner of the fowls is called upon in the winter to act as dentist, says Farmers' Review. The hen has the advantage of the human being in this. When her teeth get old she digests them and gets a new lot. Her teeth are really very numerous and may be made out of bone, crockery, flint, quartz, and even glass. The principal thing is to give her enough of the size she can best use. Many of the ailments among fowls are caused by the lack of grit in the winter time.

When the ground is uncovered and not frozen, it is comparatively easy for the fowls to find enough large-sized gravel to supply the gizzard with material for the grinding of food that comes to it. When fowls are killed and the gizzards are found to be filled with a very fine, gritty material, or none at all, it may be known that there is great and imperative need for the supplying of grit at once. The worst feature about it is that the fowls begin to droop and get sick, and the farmer never mistrusts that the real cause of the trouble is the lack of grit.

That hens' teeth are false, and that, in the winter, man must supply them should not be lost sight of, and every person that reads this article should ask himself the question if his fowls have been fully supplied with grinding material. When the ground is covered with snow it may be necessary to purchase commercial grits in the market.

KILLING AND PLUCKING.

The Best Methods of Preparing the Fowls for the Most Desirable Markets.

It is well to make the bird fast for 12 hours or more before it is killed, in order that its crop and other organs may be quite empty. The best way to kill a bird is to sever the main artery in the roof of the mouth. When this is done the bird quickly bleeds to death. As soon as cut it should be hung head down, to allow the blood to run out of the body. Immediately after the bird is dead, and before the animal heat has left the body, the feathers should be plucked out, pains being taken to remove all the pin-feathers and not to tear the skin.

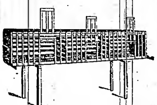
The feathers come out more easily if the carcass is put in boiling water for a few minutes; but this method, although very common, injures the wholesome look of the skin and, it is believed, makes the flesh decompose more quickly. Dry picking is therefore far preferable and should be insisted on.

If a bird is to be kept before using, it should be put in a cool place to drive out all the animal heat, which, if left in, might hasten decomposition. Some poultry men put the plucked birds into cold water, which serves the double purpose of cooling them and of making them look plumper. There may be no objection to it if the water is clear and they are left in only a few minutes, but if they are allowed to soak until they swell beyond their natural size it is certainly fraudulent and probably injurious. A still more objectionable way of plumping birds is by blowing them out. This is bad enough when a bellows is used, but when, as is often the case, the dresser blows direct from his mouth it is disgusting and dangerous.—Farm and Home.

FOR FATTENING FOWLS.

How Crates Best Adapted to This Purpose May Be Made by the Farmer.

We herewith illustrate a foul-fattening crate, used at the Ontario agricultural college. This crate is 6 feet 6 inches long, 18 to 20 inches high and 16 inches wide. It is divided into three compartments, each holding from four to five birds, according to the size of the chickens. The crate is made of slats, except the ends. The slats are usually 1½ inches wide and five-eighths of an inch thick. The slats in front are run up and down and are two inches apart to allow the chickens to put their heads through for feeding. The slats on the bottom are three-fourths of an inch apart, so as to admit of the droppings passing through to the ground. Care should be taken not to have the first bottom slat at the back fit closely against the back, as this will hold the droppings. The feeding and watering are done by means of a trough in front running the entire length of the coop. This trough is from two to three inches deep and is made of three-quarter inch lumber.



THE FATTENING CRATE.

Fatten the Old Fowls.

About two weeks before the time for clearing off the old fowls a more fattening ration should be fed. The meat or beef scraps should be doubled, and the grain food should be almost wholly cracked or whole corn. Of course, they should not be allowed to range much. A fowl that is running at large cannot get into really good eating condition.—Inland Poultry Journal.

ST. HILAIRE

(From the Spectator.)

Prof. O'Brian has received word that Mrs. O'Brien, who has been visiting her mother at St. Paul, is sick with a bad attack of pneumonia.

C. L. Dobnar and John Eastman, of Thief River Falls, were here last Thursday feeling the public pulse in regard to the county seat matter.

Robert Fritz was down from Thief River Falls on Monday bidding his friends good-bye. He and his family left on Wednesday for Rainy River.

Nels K. Anderson has prepared and is circulating a petition for a rural delivery route to start from here and cover the western part of Rocksbury and Sanders townships.

Peter Dainard received his household furniture last Monday, it having been on the road from Rainy River since last November. The custom house was responsible for most of the delay.

Postmaster Post has received instructions to advertise for bids for a star route from here to Hazel, and those who wish to work for the government can get a job even if the pay is not what it should be. This would indicate that it will be some time before the Soo gets a contract for carrying the mail.

Red Lake Falls was represented here last Wednesday night at the Firemen's ball by Dr. J. E. Argue and wife, J. B. Armstrong and wife, Misses Lillian Buse and Melvina Allerd and Messrs. Harry Healy, Ernest Buse, Arthur Mercier, Ernest Gerlach, Roy Wilford and Sylvan Hall.

A petition is being circulated among the business men to raise money to hire a leader for the boys' band. J. G. Winkjer has had charge of the boys for the past six months and they will be without an instructor when he leaves. We understand that they will secure Prof. Oostad, of Red Lake Falls, one day a week. Prof. Oostad is a capable instructor and he would be a great help to them.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists A. L. Reichert.

GOLD AT FERTILE.

Rich Deposits Discovered In Sand Hills Near There.

Fertile Journal: Have we deposits of gold lying hidden under our very eyes? is a question that is agitating the minds of a few of our citizens who have been let in the secret but who are keeping it mum as possible. For a year or more a certain citizen of Fertile has done considerable exploring and prospecting within a few minutes walk of Fertile and we learn that his labor has not been in vain—gold was found—the rich yellow dust that all human kind is striving so hard to hoard up is lying here within easy grasp and only waiting an opportunity to be carted to the government mint. Samples were sent below to be analyzed and the returns were such as to make the heart of the sender leap with joy. He let a few of his friends in on the secret and in some manner it leaked out and in this manner the writer got hold of the discovery.

It is probable that spring will see considerable work being done in the vicinity of the sand hills, where the gold is said to be hidden, and it is probable that gold deposits will be discovered in numerous parts of the locality, but the question remains as to the paying quantities.

Hicks February Predictions.

The weather forecasts of Rev. Irl R. Hicks promise much inclement weather during the month of February. The first storm period commenced the 4th, followed by cold clearing weather, prevalent in this section and Eastward to the Atlantic coast. The second storm period is central on the 8th and 9th which will be followed by a rapid change to high barometer and cold unhappy weather. From the 12th to the 16th a marked atmospheric depression will be prevalent, and along with this blizzards may be looked for throughout the northern portion of Minnesota. The fourth storm period which is central from the 19th to the 21st will be characterized by a drop in the barometer and northern sections will be visited by fierce blizzards, followed by cold clear atmospheric conditions.

The fifth storm period is caused by the earth and vulcan equinoxes with the moon at the last quarter. This will naturally produce weather irritations, constantly including spits and squalls of rain and snow. Such tendencies will be decidedly increasing during the last days of the month. The barometer will fall and wide areas of rain and snow will make transits over the entire country. While these storms are still in progress in the eastern sections the north and south will be visited by high barometer and clearing cold weather.

POPULATION INCREASED.

List of Births and Deaths for Red Lake County in 1904.

Red Lake county has gained a considerable in population during the past year according to the reports of various officers on the number of births and deaths. The following is the list by towns:

	Births	Deaths
Red Lake Falls city	41	8
Thief River Falls	69	19
St. Hilaire	19	13
Black River	4	0
Bray	4	2
Emardville	12	3
Equality	19	4
Garnes	3	1
Gervais	7	0
Lake Pleasant	7	4
Lambert	12	1

Poplar River	12	2
River Falls	12	4
Rocksbury	9	5
Sanders	2	3
Terrebonne	27	9
Wyandotte	5	0

The totals are 321 births and 92 deaths, a good showing for a county of our size. On with the good work.

A Touching Story

is the saving from death, of the baby girl of Geo. A. Eyler, Cumberland, Md. Review Sells Out.

A deal was announced at Thief River Falls this week, whereby the Thief River Falls Review, which has been conducted by McDonald Bros. for the past year and a half, becomes the property of Frank E. Packard, of the Press at that place. The Review will be discontinued after this week, the subscription list and business to be merged with that of the Press. The presses, machinery, etc., will be sold by Mr. Packard to the different newspapers in this part of the state and Thief River Falls will hereafter have but two newspapers. The third paper in a town the size of the up-river Falls has never been a proposition that would appeal to most people, and the move of the Press in cutting down the field to where it belongs was a wise one. McDonald Bros. have not as yet announced their intentions, but it is likely that they will go back to Iowa.

Doin's at Plummer Saturday.

The degree team and a number of the members of the local camp of Modern Woodmen will go to Plummer Saturday evening of this week, where they will assist the Plummer camp in adding a bunch of recruits to their ranks. About twenty applicants are ready to take their tussel with the Woodman goat, and there is no question but what the Red Lake Falls degree team will manipulate him to suit the most anxious. The Plummer people will entertain the members of the Woodcraft and a good time is being looked forward to.

Funke Slugs Superintendent.

Brakeman Frank Funke, who has been running on the T line for the past several years, has resigned his job, and Red Lake Falls people will no longer be greeted with his daily smile. The reason for his action in quitting was the outcome of [illegible] with the assistant superintendent of the Great Northern at Crookston last week, and the Journal tells it as follows:

"Funke, it appears, had not been very well during the past few days and had applied for thirty days' lay-off during which he intended to visit friends in the south. A relief man was ordered to this city to take his place and arrived in the person of Will Lemon. Lemon did not know that he was supposed to go out that morning and the result was "no brakeman on hand for the north train" when departing time came. Will Andrist was pressed into service, however, just before the train started and just as Funke appeared upon the scene to see how his "relief" was getting on. Funke arrived in time to get the full swing of Assistant Superintendent St. John's anger at the non-appearance of a brakeman for the train and hot words between the men flew fast and furious. Then when in the first-class coach of the train, the scuffle proper began and it is said that Funke came out, if anything, a bit the better in the deal, before he was pulled away from the superintendent. Later Funke wired his resignation and announced his intention of quitting the railroad with its strenuous life for good. He will go to Arkansas to engage in the logging business with a brother and will move his family from this city."

Should Sue Lee.

Henry W. Lee, the fellow who does the disturbing stunts for the up-river city, is just now engaged in trying to make people believe that the county officers are dishonest and not performing their duties but forgets about something that affects his own case. Mr. Lee enjoys the distinction of being court commissioner of Red Lake county and has held the office and accepted the fees for the past two years. The law expressly provides that the court commissioner live at the county seat and this Mr. Lee has failed to do, thereby violating one of the laws of the state by accepting fees for an office which he has no right to. The county officers of the county should turn around and sue Lee for breaking the law.

The Question Now Before the House

A Few Facts Relative to County Seat Removal, and the Contentions of the Up-river Aspirants for Glory at Public's Expense.

We believe that a few statements of the foundation facts relative to the county seat question would be appreciated by the tax payers and voters of the county at this time. To that end we wish to call the attention of every tax payer in the county to the following facts which he can easily ascertain are reliable.

In the first place, we want to warn our readers against the buncombe that is being dished up by the papers of Thief River Falls and which has for its purpose the deceiving of the voter. When you read in the columns of the Thief River papers statements that while they may not directly charge malfeasance in office against the present and past county officials, nevertheless, such is the import of the various articles that have for the past two weeks been appearing in the Thief River papers. Just for a minute consider the present county officials, also those who have served you in the past and see if you can believe the statements of these papers. If our county officials are such a class as the Thief River papers would have you believe, and if they have squandered the money of the tax payers of Red Lake county for the past eight years, why have the simon-pure people of Thief River (notice the name with which the town above is named) brought these matters to light before? We have had a grand jury in session twice a year in most years, many of our readers have been members of these bodies, and we ask why have not these alleged irregularities been brought before that tribunal? The only matter of irregularity that has ever been brought before the grand jury was when in the spring of 1903 "one Henry W. Lee", of Thief River, (the man who does things, you know) came before the grand jury and attempted to get the members of the city council of Thief River, the mayor and the city clerk indicted for misappropriating the funds of the city of Thief River Falls. The reason is very plain as to why no purported disclosure of the alleged rottenness of the county government has been made, and that is, that none exists or has existed. The only rottenness that has existed is that at Thief River Falls, and which one of its own citizens attempted to right. The same condition of things exists there yet. And still that is the town, voters, that comes before you today and cries, "stop thief!" and wants you to turn the rascals out. In the light of these facts, and knowing the character of the gentlemen you have seen fit to place in charge of the county affairs do you believe the malicious statements of the Thief River boomers? In all sense of fairness you can not. And when they stand convicted of falseness in one thing, as they now stand, you will look with many doubts upon any statements that they may ask you to believe in this fight.

Thief River is simply attempting to pull the wool over the eyes of the people of Red Lake county and hopes in this manner to get the voters to move the county seat to their town and thus build up Thief River at the expense of the tax payers of the county. And what do they offer in return? In the first place they hold up their hands in horror at the business proposition of buying a building that has been as an investment paying its owner 15 per cent per annum, and in the next breath ask you to sign a petition for an election that will mean a cost of at least $2500.00 the county. Is that reasonable or logical? But that is not all. After you have paid $2500.00 for your election, then if Thief River is successful you will be obliged to dig up for the safe removal of the fixtures, safes and records of the county. And then you will witness the spectacle of the county abandoning $10,000.00 worth of property now owned at Red Lake Falls. Can you afford this Mr. Taxpayer? Is it a reasonable proposition that you are asked to assent to?

Then too, there is another side of this question as to the removal of the county seat which we feel in all fairness you should consider. Who is it that is responsible for the formation and existence of Red Lake county? The people of Red Lake Falls alone bore the expense and the work for eight years fighting Polk county through the courts, elections and legislature, and finally through their efforts Red Lake county was, in the fall of 1896, organized. All the time that Red Lake Falls was fighting for the formation of Red Lake county, Thief River Falls was in league with Crookston attempting by means fair or foul to prevent the formation of Red Lake county. Thief River threw her weight and influence towards keeping what is now Red Lake county in Polk county, and if she had been successful you, farmers of Red Lake county, would be compelled to travel many miles to Crookston to transact your county business. When the vote was taken upon the proposition to organize Red Lake county but 9 votes were cast for the proposition in Thief River Falls.

Consider these matters when you are asked to sign the petition for the removal of the county seat. And if you are willing to believe the statements of a town that has stood for what Thief River has in the past—then sign it. Or if you want to increase your taxes and abandon property of the county to assist in building up Thief River—then sign the petition. Or, if you want to assist the town that tried in every manner to defeat the formation of Red Lake county, and at the same time rob the town that stood by you in the time of need—then sign the petition. But if you believe in standing for what is right and for keeping down the tax burdens of the county, and if you believe in rendering honor to whom honor is due then turn down the proposition of Thief River in the same manner that Thief River turned you down when you were trying to organize Red Lake county.

GOLD AT FERTILE.

Rich Deposits Discovered In Sand Hills Near There.

Fertile Journal: Have we deposits of gold lying hidden under our very eyes? is a question that is agitating the minds of a few of our citizens who have been let in the secret but who are keeping it mum as possible. For a year or more a certain citizen of Fertile has done considerable exploring and prospecting within a few minutes walk of Fertile and we learn that his labor has not been in vain—gold was found—the rich yellow dust that all human kind is striving so hard to hoard up is lying here within easy grasp and only waiting an opportunity to be carted to the government mint. Samples were sent below to be analyzed and the results were such as to make the heart of the sender leap with joy. He let a few of his friends in on the secret and in some manner it leaked out and in this manner the writer got hold of the discovery.

It is probable that spring will see considerable work being done in the vicinity of the sand hills, where the gold is said to be hidden, and it is probable that gold deposits will be discovered in numerous parts of the locality, but the question remains as to the paying quantities.

Fiendish Suffering

is often caused by sores, ulcers and cancers, that eat away your skin. Wm. Bedell, of Flat Rock, Mich., says: "I have used Bucklen's Arnica Salve, for Ulcers, Sores and Cancers. It is the best healing dressing I ever found." Soothes and heals cuts, burns and scalds. 25c at Schreiter's drug store; guaranteed.

To Cure Constipation Forever.

Take Cascarets Candy Cathartic. 10c or 25c. If C. C. C. fail to cure, druggists refund money.

Hicks February Predictions.

The weather forecasts of Rev. Irl R. Hicks promise much inclement weather during the month of February. The first storm period commenced the 4th, followed by cold clearing weather, prevalent in this section and Eastward to the Atlantic coast. The second storm period is central on the 8th and 9th which will be followed by a rapid change to high barometer and cold unhappy weather. From the 12th to the 16th a marked atmospheric depression will be prevalent, and along with this blizzards may be looked for throughout the northern portion of Minnesota. The fourth storm period which is central from the 19th to the 21st will be characterized by a drop in the barometer and northern sections will be visited by fierce blizzards, followed by cold clear atmospheric conditions.

The fifth storm period is caused by the earth and vulcan equinoxes with the moon at the last quarter. This will naturally produce weather irritations, constantly including spits and squalls of rain and snow. Such tendencies will be decidedly increasing during the last days of the month. The barometer will fall and wide areas of rain and snow will make transits over the entire country. While these storms are still in progress in the eastern sections the north and south will be visited by high barometer and clearing cold weather.

Peculiar Disappearance.

J. D. Runyan, of Butlerville, O., laid the peculiar disappearance of his painful symptoms, of indigestion and biliousness, to Dr. King's New Life Pills. He says: "They are a perfect remedy, for dizziness, sour stomach, headach, constipation, etc." Guaranteed at Schreiter's drug store, price 25c.

POPULATION INCREASED.

List of Births and Deaths for Red Lake County in 1904.

Red Lake county has gained a considerable in population during the past year according to the reports of various officers on the number of births and deaths. The following is the list by towns:

	Births	Deaths
Red Lake Falls city	41	8
Thief River Falls	69	19
St. Hilaire	19	13
Black River	4	0
Bray	4	2
Emardville	12	3
Equality	19	4
Gervais	7	0
Lake Pleasant	7	4
Lambert	12	1
Louisville	11	3
Norden	11	6
North	10	3
Numedal	6	2
Polk Center	8	0
River Falls	12	4
Rocksbury	9	5
Sanders	2	3
Terrebonne	27	9
Wyandotte	5	0

The totals are 321 births and 92 deaths, a good showing for a county of our size. On with the good work.

A Touching Story

Review Sells Out.

A deal was announced at Thief River Falls this week, whereby the Thief River Falls Review, which has been conducted by McDonald Bros. for the past year and a half, becomes the property of Frank E. Packard, of the Press at that place. The Review will be discontinued after this week, the subscription list and business to be merged with that of the Press. The presses, machinery, etc., will be sold by Mr. Packard to the different newspapers in this part of the state and Thief River Falls will hereafter have but two newspapers. The third paper in a town the size of the up-river Falls has never been a proposition that would appeal to most people, and the move of the Press in cutting down the field to where it belongs was a wise one. McDonald Bros. have not as yet announced their intentions, but it is likely that they will go back to Iowa.

BADGER.

(Too late for last week.)

Misses Jennie and Rosana LaBissoniere returned to their home Monday after a two weeks' visit with friends and relatives here.

A crowd of merry-makers from around here pleasantly surprised Mr. and Mrs. Thomas LeBissoniere at their home Saturday evening. Dancing was the pastime of the evening and a better time could not be had.

Rev. Father Tapiu's housekeeper, Mrs. Dupont and son Telesphore, visited at the home of Evangelist Qussoell a few days of last week and were taken back home Friday evening by a few friends.

Damasse LaChance is back from his pleasant trip in Canada. He drove to the Falls Monday, on business and shook hands with friends.

An up-to-date dinner was held at the home of Damasse LeChance Sunday.

Mr. Fedime Gregoire and lady, of Gentilly, visited at Ovile Robillerd's Sunday.

Will St. Ives, of Crookston, drove to Terrebonne Sunday morning and was accompanied by Rev. Father Boucbard, who heard mass on account of Father Tapio's absence.

Homer and Henry Laureot, of Terrebonne spent Sunday evening at M. Quesoell's.

Mr. and Mrs. George, Messers Archid and Herbis and Miss Blumie Queenelle, all of whom reside towards Mentor, visited at M. Quesnell's over Sunday returning home Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. St. Ives, daughter Emma and son William spent Sunday evening at Evangelist Quesnell's.

Mr. and Mrs. Rustid Robillard, of Red Lake Falls, visited at D. LaCheoce over Sunday and took in the elaborate dinner.

Little Johnny, the eldest son Joseph Dandeoean was reported as quite sick last week.

Mrs. Robert Quesnell, of mentor, was taken sick last week and Mrs. A. Laursot, mother of Mrs. Quesuell, was called for Friday.

Masters Eli and Harvey St. Ives called on friends here Sunday evening.

Miss Anuie Ducherme is expected home from Lambert where she has been working for her sister, Mrs. Philip La Courciere, for the last two months.

Mrs. O. Rodillerd was on the sick list last week, but is well at present.

Evangelist Qussoell was a business caller at the Falls last Saturday.

WASHINGTON SCHOOL NOTES.

The school missed Laura Porter three days last week. She is very seldom absent.

A large number of our pupils were absent a part of Thursday morning, for church.

Last Friday night was library night and many pupils stayed for books, more than there were books to supply. It is too bad our library for the Washington school is not larger.

The boys' week of recesses is now over and the foot ball is again being kicked about the grounds.

Last Friday morning both the fifth and sixth grades were surprised with an Arithmetic test.

The fifth grade has finished the study of the Plateau States.

Our pupils are beginning preparations for a program to be given the day before Washington's birthday.

The fourth grade is studying our country, taking up the location of the new towns and railroads.

Edmund Porter has left school for a month.

The fifth grade has dropped history for the time being and spent that time of the afternoon with arithmetic.

Our second grade have become canoe builders and as a result of their handy work many very nice birch bark boats have been made.

The sixth grade geography class began the study of the distribution of plants this week.

The primary room which as a rule is filled to overflowing has dropped down to a small number during the cold months of the winter.

As long as there is snow on the hill, nothing stops the small boys from sliding.

Tuesday was so windy that it was hard to keep the building warm. It blew so strongly that the building fairly swayed.

Mr. Aitan, the state school inspector, made a visit to our building last week.

The fifth grade language papers recieved and some of us found out what we didn't know.

This is the week of report cards and the faces of the pupils are smiling or scowling according as the marks are high or low.

Our reporters failed to be wide awake enough to gather news and the principal declares that if it happens again the names of the lazy ones will be published.

is the saving from death, of the baby girl of Geo. A. Eyler, Cumberland, Md. He writes: "At the age of 11 months, our little girl was in declining health, with serious Throat Trouble, and two physicians gave her up. We were almost in despair, when we resolved to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. The first bottle gave relief; after taking four bottles she was cured, and is now in perfect health." Never fails to relieve and cure a cough or cold. At Schreiter's drug store; 50c and $1.00 guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

Public Is Aroused.

The public is aroused to a knowledge of the curative merits of that great medicinal tonic, Electric Bitters, for sick stomach, liver and kidneys. Mary H. Walters, of 546 St. Clair Ave., Columbus, O., writes: "For several months, I was given up to die. I had fever and ague, my nerves were wrecked; I could not sleep, and my stomach was so weak from useless doctors' drugs, that I could not eat. Soon after beginning to take Electric Bitters, I obtained relief, and in a short time I was entirely cured." Guaranteed at Schreiter's drug store; price 50c.

LEAVENED BREAD

Has Been Man's Constant Mainstay From Time Immemorial.

Some writer has said that "The first miller emerging from his savage state, with no thought save hunger, plucked the wheat from the stock, and, using his teeth for millstones, ground the first grist for a customer who would not be denied—his stomach." Thus gaining experience by test in the food line, it would be only natural for this miller to lay up a quantity of grain against an hour of need. Just when he commenced grinding his wheat in the rude stone mortar and moistening the flour preparatory to baking it in the ashes of his camp fire, and just when it was found that an old piece of dough in a fresh batch made it better or "leavened" it, is beyond the reach of historians. Certain it is that though the principle was the same thousands of years ago as it is to-day, it has remained for the makers of Yeast Foam to supply a yeast with all the true leavening powers minus the properties that produce sour, "runny" or soggy bread. This is the yeast that took the first grand prize at the St. Louis Exposition, and revolutionizes the bread making in every home where it is used because much better bread can be made with it from any flour.

Yeast Foam is purely vegetable, being made of the best malt, corn, hops and other healthful ingredients. The factory is also the cleanest and best equipped in the world. This yeast is the only kind that preserves in the bread all the delicious flavor and nutritive value of the wheat. The bread made with it is always sweet and wholesome and stays moist until used. Forty loaves of bread can be made from one 5c package. The makers of Yeast Foam are giving out a new book called "Good Bread; How to Make It." This little book, invaluable in its way, has twenty-six illustrations in colors, and tells how to make all kinds of bread, biscuits, buns and rolls, as well as containing other recipes which will be found invaluable in the home. The way of preparing the different recipes is very clear and comprehensive. The book will be sent free to any one sending their name and address, with a request for same, to the Northwestern Yeast Company, Chicago, Ill. Every woman who bakes should secure a copy.

GOLDEN NUGGETS FOR SALLOW PEOPLE

KILLED BY ASSASSIN

PROCURATOR GENERAL OF FINLAND SLAIN IN HIS HOME AT HELSINGFORS.

Murderer Secured Admission to Official's Residence Disguised as an Officer of the Army and Immediately Opened Fire on His Victim—Assassinated Man Very Unpopular Because of Pro-Russian Tendencies.

Helsingfors, Finland, Feb. 7.—Senator Johnsson, procurator of the Finnish senate, and procurator general of Finland, was assassinated in his own residence at 11 o'clock Monday morning. The murderer, who was disguised as an officer of the army, sent in a card bearing the name "Alexander Gadd" and was at once admitted. After entering the room he faced the procurator general, drew a revolver and fired four shots in quick succession. Each shot took effect and Johnsson fell and died almost immediately. Johnsson's son, hearing the firing, came to his father's assistance, but the murderer fired at him, wounding him slightly. The assassin was at once arrested.

The assassin, who was wounded by Johnsson's son, was removed to the surgical hospital, where he lies guarded by police, answering no questions and evidently unconscious. His recovery, however, is thought to be certain.

Johnsson was a Finn, but was very unpopular because of his pro-Russian tendencies.

SEVERAL FACTORIES RESUME.

Situation at Lodz, Russian Poland, Not So Critical.

Lodz, Russian Poland, Feb. 6.—A few factories were enabled to partially resume work during the morning through the return of some of the employes. The majority of the strikers, however, are still out and attempts are being made to prevent workmen from returning to their employment. Soldiers are guarding the factories and they do not permit malcontents to enter. No disturbances are reported to have occurred.

Later several conflicts occurred between Cossacks and strikers at the Geiner factory, where the latter sought to intimidate the men returning to work. A Cossack and a workman were killed and fifteen strikers were wounded.

TWENTY STRIKERS KILLED.

Continuous Conflicts Occurring at Kalisz, Russian Poland.

Warsaw, Russian Poland, Feb. 6.—Advices from Kalisz say the strike situation there is serious. There are continuous conflicts between the military and the strikers. Twenty of the latter have been killed and many strikers and others wounded.

RUSSIANS INTRENCHING.

Situation Comparatively Quiet in Vicinity of Changtan.

Tokio, Feb. 6.—Official announcement is made that everything is quiet in the vicinity of Changtan with the exception that the Russians are strenuously intrenching.

The Russian force which attacked Chitnitzu Feb. 4 retired northward Feb. 5.

On the afternoon of Feb. 4 and the morning of Feb. 5 the Russian artillery west of Tanshen shelled Machuantzu mountain and vicinity.

Small bodies of Russian infantry attacked but they were repulsed.

Before abandoning Songchin, in Northeastern Korea, Jan. 24 the Russians burned all their stores.

It is thought that the Russians intend to abandon all operations in Northeastern Korea.

THIRD PACIFIC SQUADRON.

Nebogatoff's Division Will Leave Russia Feb. 14.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 4.—The Third Russian Pacific squadron, commanded by Admiral Nebogatoff and consisting of the battleships Nicolai I., General Admiral Apraxina, Admiral Oushakoff and Admiral Seniavin, the cruiser Vladimir Monomach and the auxiliary cruisers Russ and Xenia, will leave Libau about Feb. 14. The delay in the departure of the squadron is due to the placement of artillery.

SITUATION IMPROVING.

Traffic Resumed on Railroads in Russian Poland.

Warsaw, Poland, Feb. 4.—The employes of the Vistula railroad shops have resumed work. Traffic has been resumed on the railroads.

The strike in the Sosnovice district has spread to the railroad men and other classes of workmen. The men remain quiet.

The shops have been reopened at Kalisz, although the strike continues there.

BELGIAN STRIKE SPREADS.

Work Completely Suspended in a Number of Collieries.

Charleroi, Belgium, Feb. 6.—As a result of the decision of the miners' congress to declare a general strike work has been completely suspended at eight collieries and there was a partial strike at thirteen others. Work is proceeding as usual at twelve collieries.

PRACTICE CONTINUES

PRESIDENT ISSUES ORDERS REGARDING SECTARIAN EDUCATION OF INDIANS.

Says Existing Laws Grant Authority for Action Taken and Instructs the Secretary of the Interior to Renew Contracts—Indians Unquestionably Entitled by Moral Right to Use Their Trust Moneys as They Desire.

Washington, Feb. 4.—President Roosevelt has sent a letter to Secretary Hitchcock on the subject of authority for granting contracts for the education of Indians in denominational schools.

The president says that inasmuch as the legal authority exists to grant the request of the Indians unquestionably they are entitled by moral right to have their moneys used to educate the children at the schools they choose. The president directs that the interior department continue the practice unless congress directs otherwise or the courts hold that the decision of the department of justice to this effect is wrong. The president also urges the passage of the Lacey bill authorizing the allotment of annuities in severalty to the Indians in the same way as their land is allotted.

HOUSE BEGINS DEBATE.

Freight Rate Legislation Subject of Discussion.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Following weeks of hearings and consideration by the committee on interstate and foreign commerce as well as urgent recommendations of the president on the subject, the house of representatives Monday began debating the proposed legislation looking to the regulation of railway freight rates. This action was taken only after determined opposition by the Democrats, led by John Sharpe Williams of Mississippi, the minority leader, to the adoption of a rule which would shut out the opportunity to amend the bill. Two Republicans, Messrs. Southwick and Vreeland of New York, voted against the rule, and one Democrat, Gaines of Tennessee, voted for it. Otherwise party lines were tightly drawn.

Messrs. Townsend (Mich.), one of the authors of the bill under consideration, and Richardson (Ala.) occupied the remainder of the day in discussing it, both sounding a note of warning to the railroads that unless they joined hands with congress in the matter the people would demand more drastic legislation.

FAVORS HAY-BOND TREATY.

Senate Committee Approves Reciprocity Convention.

Washington, Feb. 4.—The senate committee on foreign relations has authorized a favorable report on the Hay-Bond reciprocity treaty. It was amended in a number of important particulars.

The treaty will be reported by Senator Lodge, who has heretofore opposed it. The amendments meet the objections raised by the New England fishing interests. The treaty provides for reciprocity in products of the United States and Newfoundland.

While it is agreed that the amendments shall not be made public until those proposed by the United States are approved by Premier Bond it is understood that they provide for the admission of fresh fish, frozen fish and coal in the United States free of duty and Newfoundland gives a reduction of duty on all articles of American manufacture.

CREDITORS TO SELECT TRUSTEE.

Further Proceedings Necessary in Chadwick Bankruptcy.

Cleveland, Feb. 4.—The ten days allowed Mrs. Chadwick under the law to file with the bankruptcy court a list of her creditors, together with the amount of their claims, expired during the day without action on the part of Mrs. Chadwick. Referee Remington will at once notify all the known creditors of Mrs. Chadwick to meet here, probably on Feb. 16, to elect a trustee to take permanent charge of the Chadwick estate.

FOURTEEN WIVES ON HAND.

Enthusiastic Welcome for Hoch on Reaching Chicago.

New York, Feb. 4.—Detective Loftus of Chicago, who came here to get Johann Hoch, said after the prisoner had been remanded that Superintendent of Detectives Shippy will have fourteen women at the depot in Chicago when Hoch arrives there, who will attempt to identify the man as their husband.

LEAPS INTO BLAZING OIL WELL.

Sensational Suicide of West Virginia Wife Murderer.

Marietta, O., Feb. 4.—After shooting his wife Linza Owens committed suicide by burning himself in a blazing oil well near Wick, in Tyler county, W. Va. Having set fire to the gas fumes Owens leaped headlong into the flames.

Will Arbitrate Dispute.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—The strike of lumber teamsters, which for a week has paralyzed the business of fifty lumber companies in Chicago, has been settled in conference. The men are expected to return to work at once. Arbitration of the wage demands of the drivers is agreed upon.

OLD SETTLER WRITES.

Swan Anderson, Formerly of This County, Talks About Washington.

In last week's St. Hilaire Spectator is printed an interesting letter from Swan Anderson, formerly a resident of Red Lake county, and well-known here, which on account of Mr. Swanson's wide acquaintance in this neighborhood will be interesting to Gazette readers. The letter follows:

CLEARBROOK, WASH.,
Jan. 28, 1905,

DEAR SIR AND FRIENDS:

I will hereby renew my yearly custom by writing you a few lines upon the conditions out here and of the Red Lake county people I have met of late. The heading of my letter shows that this is the middle of winter, but by the looks of the grass and bushes it appears as if it were the latter part of May. We have had no snow so far this winter with the exception of Dec. 22, when we got one-half inch of snow, which layed 24 hours, and on Jan. 10, 11, 12 it was cold, the thermometer running down to 10 above zero. I felt the cold then worse than I used to in Wylie when it was from 10 to 20 below zero, but as those three days was the only time we had as much as a frost this winter it is not to be grumbled about. It rains occasionally but never very hard, and the rain is always warm.

Last October Mrs. Anderson and I drove to Blaine, a distance of 20 miles, to visit your former barber, J. H. Penno and his family; the Spectator's old manager-printer, Will Peters and his family, and Mrs. Harris and children, and we found them all in perfect health and doing well. Mr. Penno gave us a 10-mile drive along the shores of Puget Sound, which pleasure can best be understood by your coming out here and taking the same trip.

On Jan. 8, I took a lay-off and went to Tacoma on a visit. There I met Phil. Kaufer, formerly editor of the Red Lake Falls Gazette, who is now conducting a book and stationery store on Tacoma Ave. The chat with him was interrupted by a steady stream of customers coming and going and he seemed to be doing a good business. Next I visited my old merchant, Ed. Gerceau from Red Lake Falls, who has a very nice dry goods store in South Tacoma and is doing a good business. He escorted me through the Northern Pacific machine shops, a concern similar to the shops at Brainerd, Minn., and it was very interesting to see.

Then I went down to Puyallup, 15 miles from Tacoma, where I met Patrick McNerthney and Thos. H. Dargen and their families, from Red Lake Falls. They have very nice homes and are well contented, and financially are doing very well as they are in the hop business, and hops have been a bonanza these last few years. Dargan has realized from ten acres of hops on the poles $7,500 for the last three years' crops. Pat McNerthney set out 6 acres of hops last year and will plant more this spring. On account of those prices in hops land has advanced from $100 per acre to $250 and even up to $400 per acre. This hop business is a sort of gambling. In 1891 hops sold in the same valley for 75c to $1 a pound. Everybody want in for hops; some bought another additional hop yard by mortgaging their old yard and homes and in 1893, during the panic, hops went down to 4c a pound and the poor-house which is situated two miles east of Sumner, right in the midst of the hop valley, numbers more Hop Kings today than from any other line of occupation. However, I don't mean to say that there is any danger in hop culture today as the prices are yet moderate—about 28c to 30c a pound—and our country is on a good commercial standing, the only speculative point is in the paying of ten times more for an acre of land than it can be had for at other places. We have better land at Clearbrook and in the same climate. A small yard two miles from my home last year brought $3,000 from seven acres, which is a better rate than they can show in the Puyallup valley, and land can be had here for $10 to $100 per acre, according to improvements on it.

It is very interesting to note the improvements going on on the coast. From Clearbrook to Seattle, a distance of 75 miles, I noticed all along the road an activity something like it was in Polk and Red Lake counties during the years 1880 to 1884, during which time I might say that the two counties were almost entirely settled up. In spite of so much unlike country—you all know how easy it is to make a home or a farm on a prairie—but here it is, or has been, all timber, where it takes plenty of both labor and patience; but still it is settling very fast, probably from that when they get here they are, so to speak, at the edge of the Pacific Ocean and can get no further, and the beauty of it is we are having no boom whatever. We are in a glorious climate and have good markets, and can raise everything we want. There is very little time for a farmer to be idle here as the ground is open all the year 'round.

I will close by saying that we are all well in my family and send our best regards to our many old friends and readers of the St. Hilaire Spectator.

Yours very truly,
SWAN ANDERSON

Fiendish Suffering

ST. HILAIRE

(From the Spectator.)

Joel G. Winkjer commenced work as a Dairy and Food Inspector the first of the month. He was at Crookston this week assisting at the Dairymen's convention.

Manager Pettibone and James Foss had a hurry-up call very early Monday Monday. The water pipes at the planer started to freeze and they had to turn out at one o'clock with a crew of men.

About twenty-five prospective teachers started in yesterday morning to take the state teachers' examinations at the school house. Prof. O'Brien has charge and the examinations will conclude this evening.

A deal was concluded last Thursday whereby the Crookston Lumber Company becomes the owner of the dwelling owned by T. J. Thurkelson. The house will be enlarged and fitted with modern improvements and will be used in the future as a residence for the manager of the saw mill. Mr. Pettibone will move up his family and take possession about April 1st.

A petition was circulated last week asking the trustees of School District No. 102 to organize it into an independent school district. The trustees have the matter under advisement and will probably call an election for the near future. The state superintendent has been written to in regard whether the change will affect the special law which gives one-half of the liquor licence of the village to the school district. If this is not changed it is very probable we will change to an independent district.

Hon. L. C. Simone came up from St. Paul last Saturday and spent a short time looking over the affairs at the Merchants State Bank.

George L. Anstin, the new buttermaker, has taken charge at the creamery and takes to the work like an old hand. Mr. Austin ran the creamery at Red Lake Falls last year and comes here with good recommendations.

Hon. Marcus J. [illegible], the Red Lake Falls miller, was a [illegible] here last Tuesday.

Frank Grady, the Red Lake Falls' attorney, was a business visitor here Thursday.

THAT TELEPHONE LINE.

Considerable discussion has been indulged in about town the past week in regard to the proposed telephone line to Terrebonne, Brooks, Lambert Plummer and the other towns out east, and it seems to be the genenal opion that some action should be taken looking to the construction of the line.

There are numerous reasons wherein a telephone connection with the towns in this part of the county is a thing greatly to be desired, and as the opportunity has presented itself it seems that no harm could be done by looking into the matter carefully before deciding to give up the attempt.

It is true that the proposed line would mean considerable expense to the towns affected before it was finished, but if we expect to keep abreast of the world it would seem that an effort might at least be made to evolve a plan whereby the line could be built, thereby adding an improvement that would result in untold benefit to Red Lake Falls and the surrounding country.

Other cities have met and conquered more difficult problems than this one, but not without a little effort on the part of those interested, and the general opinion is that this proposition should not be let go until it is too late to do any good.

What say you, gentlemen? Cannot something be done?

The teachers of the county when assembled here last week petitioned the state superintendent of public instruction to Red Lake county a training school. Their action was timely and other pressure should be brought to bear to give the county a training school this summer, says the Thief River Press.

If you will look on your calendesr for 1905 you will find that the year begins and ends on Sunday. If you will trace the incident to its next conclusions you will find that this will not occur again until 2015, one hundred and ten years hence. There will be fifty-three Sundays in this year so it ought to be the best year of the century.

Here is another condition that the newspaper man too often meets with. "Whenever any enterprise is sprung in a town for its benefit the first thing its promotors do is to secure the help of the local papers to carry out the project. Yet, as is often the case, the same promoters, when the editor comes to them to seek an ad, they do not see how it will benefit them any to use the columns of the paper, all because as they generally put it, they have been in business so long that they are known by everyone, consequently they turn the editor down, only to seek him out again when they have another pet measure to advocate and want the public to get next. Reciprocity should be more freely practiced."

Distort Facts To Help Their Cause

Thief River Falls People Attempt to Deceive the Voters By Twisting Facts and Figures Affecting Tax Levies.

The newspapers of Thief River Falls were last week filled with "pipe-dreams". Fearful shoutings and muttered imprecations against the good people of Red Lake Falls filled the desert air around the crooked up-river city. The dreadful fear that Thief River wouldn't get everything in sight caused the editors to see visions of high taxes, grafting and other kindred ills; visions which burst like a bubble under the pin-prick of truth.

The News printed a long statement on taxation, claiming that in 1903, Red Lake county paid the highest county taxes in the state,—46 mills, and that the county officers, and especially Red Lake Falls, were responsible for this.

Here is the actual levy of taxes for county purposes made in 1903, taken from the official records.

County Revenue Fund	5.	mills
Poor Fund	.64.	"
Road and Bridge	.9	"
Bond and Interest	1.5	"
Courthouse and Jail	.5	"
Special Bond and Interest	.23	"
Total	8.77

Which makes a total of eight mills and a fraction over, instead of 46 as stated in the News. In 1902, the county levy was eight and four tenths mills, instead of 42 and six tenths as stated in the News.

The figures given in the News are arrived at by adding together all the state, county, ditch, city, village, township and school taxes, and averaging them. Any school-boy knows that the county officers have nothing whatever to do with levying the state, city, township, village and school district taxes. They are levied by the respective local authorities, sent to the county auditor, and he has to place them on the tax-rolls. Yet the far-seeing editor of the News attempts to foist this weak lie upon the people, hoping to deceive the tax-payers. He goes further. He blames Red Lake Falls for levying county taxes. Yet no man from either the city or township of Red Lake Falls has ever been a member of the County Board which controls all county business and levies taxes for county purposes.

But Thief River Falls has always had a resident member on the county board, and in every instance when he was present at the levying of the taxes, the Thief River Falls member voted for the tax as levied.

In 1903, nearly six mills of the tax levied was ditch assessments charged only against the farms benefited by the ditches, and not paid by the tax-payers in general. And in 1903, the largest part of that 46 mills which is so worrying the Thief River papers, was levied right in their own town, by their own city council and school board.

That year the city council of their city levied a tax of fourteen mills, and their school district, thirty mills.

And that is what they are trying to lay on the shoulders of the county officers, and make the tax-payers believe was done by order of Red Lake Falls.

Voters, when they insult you by trying to make you believe such trash, will you favor them in their effort to boom their town at your expense?

Red Lake county has been run as economically as any county in the state. It started out with no money or property, and at the start was made to bear the burden of nine thousand dollars of the indebtedness of Polk county, Yet in 1903, fifty two counties in the state raised more money by taxation than Red Lake county: and there are eighty four counties in the state. In 1902, fifty seven counties raised more money by taxation than Red Lake. These statements include all taxes extended on the tax-rolls in those years. Yet the Ananiases who have been resurrected at Thief River Falls, would have you believe that Red Lake stands out as a warning to all mis-doers.

Why don't they talk of their own high taxes? Why don't they tell of the twenty nine thousand dollars of the tax payers money illegally wasted away by their own city officials last summer?

If they would but stick to the truth, and all the truth, there would be such revelations as would open the eyes of their own tax-payers.

ARE THEY CONSISTENT?

A howl resounding down through the valley at a tremendous pace comes from Thief River Falls during the past week to the effect that Red Lake Falls has made the county a great deal of expense during the time the county seat has been located here, and as a remedy for this supposed to exist evil they ask that the people assist them in moving the seat of government to their ambitious burg at the county's expense.

Letting the people be their own judges as to the expense Red Lake Lake Falls has made the county, we cannot help but comment a little on the recent actions of these "holier than thou" fellows up the river, who by word of mouth advocate a change on the grounds of economy, but who by action advocate a policy in direct opposition to their holler, and if the people of the county cannot easily comprehend their game it is because they are not possessed of that quality of sense accorded them by everyone.

During the past two weeks, City Attorney H. W. Lee, of Thief River Falls, has instituted two suits against officers of the county of Red Lake which will mean an expenditure of a great many dollars of the public's money to defend, and while no one even at Thief River Falls takes Mr. Lee seriously, nevertheless the taxpayers will be obliged to bear their share of the heavy expense in fighting through the courts the actions he has been urged by the people of Thief River to bring against the county. Each of the suits will be tried in court, and when the outcome is noted it will be found that instead of fighting to save the taxpayer, Thief River Falls is doing all in her power to add to the burdens already borne.

Does it look to you, voter, as if a town that will unneccessairly thrust a big hill of expense upon your shoulders merely for a little notoriety would in any manner attempt to better conditions if given the seat of government? Their actions haven't proven it, and your influence should be used to see that they are given no further chance to better their own condition at the expense of you individually.

Commissioner Ole Johnson goes into a lengthy explanation in last weeks Plummer Pioneer in regard to the recent controversy over the signing of the warrants drawn in favor of Ernest Buse for the purchase of the court house property. Ole's explanation was uncalled for, inasmuch as everyone familiar with the law in the case knew that he was only doing his official duty in signing them after the fifteen day limit had expired, as was everyone else connected with the transaction. Why waste good space, Ole, to contradict statements made by fellows who would swear their own mother into perdition to further their own interests? It is better to be right than to be a resident of Thief River Falls.

Only nine times in two and a quarter centuries has Easter fallen as late as it does this year. Only five times in this period has it come later in the spring than it does during 1905, and it is never possible for it to fall more than two days later than April 25, and only twice does it come on this day of the month. During this period it comes three times on April 24th, and four times on the 23rd. This year Easter Sunday will be celebrated on April 23. This is the latest date since 1886, when it came on April 25, the latest date possible.

The Crookston newspaper bunch will have to get a hustle on and look to their laurels or their reputations as the prize string fiends of the Valley will be wrssted from them. A newspaper that can build four railroads, twenty brick blocks, move a county seat and get a ball club franchise in the National League all in one week will certainly make them go some and that's what Editor Frank Packard, of the Thief River Press done last week. Get into the game, you fellows in Crookston, or we will disown you.

A change in the management of one of Red Lake Falls business institutions was announced last week, when Ed. H. Chase, of Forest City, Iowa, leased a half interest in the Courier of this city, and took charge of the management of the paper. Mr. Cease will look after the business end, and take care of the local work, while Mr. King will conduct the editoral portion from his home at St. Paul. The Gazette wishes the new firm success.

"The world of medicine recognizes Grip as epidemic catarrh."—Medical Talk.

LA GRIPPE is epidemic catarrh. It spares no class or nationalty. The cultured and the ignorant, the aristocrat and the pauper, the masses and the classes are alike subject to la grippe. None are exempt—all are liable.

Have you the grip? Or, rather, has the grip got you? Grip is well named. The original French term, la grippe, has been shortened by the busy American to read "grip." Without intending to do so a new word has been coined that exactly describes the case. As if some hideous giant with awful GRIP had clutched us in its fatal clasp. Men, women, children, whole towns and cities are caught in the baneful grip of a terrible monster.

The following letters speak for themselves as to the efficacy of Peruna in cases of la grippe or its after effects.

After Effects of La Grippe Eradicated by Pe-ru-na.

Mrs. Fred Weinberger, Westerlo, Albany County, N. Y., writes:

"Several years ago I had an attack of la grippe which left my nerves in a prostrated condition. Then I had another attack of la grippe which left me worse. I had tried three good physicians but all in vain. I gave Peruna a trial. In a short time I was feeling better and now I am as well as anyone."—Mrs. Fred Weinberger.

Hon. James R. Guill of Omaha.

Hon. James R. Guill is one of the oldest and most esteemed men of Omaha, Neb. He has done much to make it what it is, serving on public boards a number of times. He endorses Peruna in the following words:

"I am 68 years old, am hale and hearty, and Peruna has helped me attain it. Two years ago I had la grippe—my life was despaired of. Peruna saved me."—J. R. Guill.

A Relative of Abraham Lincoln.

Mr. Silas S. Lincoln, who resides at 918 I. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., has the honor of being third cousin to Abraham Lincoln. He writes:

"I had la grippe five times before using your medicine. Four years ago I began the use of Peruna, since which time I have not been troubled with that disease. I can now do as much work at my desk as I ever could in my life. I have gained more than ten pounds in weight."—S. S. Lincoln.

Pe-ru-na Not Only Cured La Grippe but Benefited the Whole System.

Miss Alice M. Dressler, 1313 N. Bryant Ave., Minneapolis, Minn., writes:

"Last spring I suffered from la grippe and was partially cured but the bad after effects remained through the summer and somehow I did not get strong as I was before. One of my college friends who was visiting me asked me to try Peruna and I did so and found it all and more than I had expected. It not only cured me of the catarrh but restored me to perfect health, built up the entire system and brought a happy feeling of buoyancy which I had not known for years."—Alice M. Dressler.

An Actress' Testimonial.

Miss Jean Cowgill, Griswold Opera House, Troy, N. Y., is the leading lady with the Aubrey Stock Co. She writes the following:

"During the past winter of 1901, I suffered for several weeks from a severe attack of grippe, which left a serious catarrhal condition of the throat and head.

"Some one suggested Peruna. As a last resort, after wasting much time and money on physicians, I tried the remedy faithfully, and in a few weeks was as well as ever."—Jean Cowgill.

A Southern Judge Cured.

Judge Horatio J. Goss, Hartwell, Ga., writes:

"Some five or six years ago I had a very severe spell of grippe, which left me with systemic catarrh. A friend advised me to try your Peruna which I did, and was immediately benefited and cured. The third bottle completed the cure."—H. J. Goss.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

Nine Nations

Now Use Liquozone. Won't You Try It—Free?

Millions of people, of nine different nations, are constant users of Liquozone. Some are using it to get well; some to keep well. Some to cure germ diseases; some as a tonic. No medicine was ever so widely employed. These users are everywhere; your neighbors and friends are among them. And half the people you meet—wherever you are—know some-one whom Liquozone has cured.

If you need help, please ask some of these users what Liquozone does. Don't blindly take medicine for what medicine cannot do. Drugs never kill germs. For your own sake, ask about Liquozone; then let us buy you a full-size bottle to try.

We Paid $100,000

For the American rights to Liquozone. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, after proving, in thousands of different cases, that Liquozone destroys the cause of any germ disease.

Liquozone has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. It is not made by compounding drugs, nor with alcohol. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissue, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Every physician knows that medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

A number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Spillane gathered at their home Monday evening and enjoyed the evening at cards. Prizes were awarded and Mrs. H. J. Kaufer carried off the honors as the most skillful player. Refreshments were provided.

Editor Frank E. Packard, of the Thief River Falls Press, was a caller here last Friday on some business matters. Mr. Packard is making things go some in the newspaper line at the up river town, and promises to exceed his present gait when he gets under full head of steam.

Crookston Journal: S. M. Sivertson, manager of the Red Lake Falls and Crookston Milling companies who spent Saturday in the city drove out to Red Lake Falls Sunday with the mail carrier. The drive across the country at this time is an exceedingly long one because of the closing of the old R. L. F. Road and in cold weather it is anything but agreeable. The road from Gentilly on goes straight east to the N. P. tracks at Perrault rather than northeast as heretofore to Red Lake Falls. The increase in distance amounts to nearly half a dozen miles but the roads are considerably better because of the sandy nature of the country traversed.

E. B. Howes spent Sunday with his best girl at St. Paul.

Miss Margaret Pehle has commenced an apprenticeship at the Courier office.

Rob. McGinn, one of Thief River's prominent citizens, was a business caller here Tuesday.

The Busy Store has an attractive ad in today's Gazette, calling attention of the readers to their attractive display of wash goods.

Ralph Green came in from Equality yesterday to attend to some business matters, and make some further arrangments for the big Woodman blowout at Plummer Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. King will go down to St. Paul the first part of next week to look up a house and make preparations for moving to that city permanently the latter part of the month.

The Gazette meant its congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Crompe last week in all earnestness, but Tom says that the new arrival objects to being called a boy, so we hasten to make amends. May she live long and prosper.

Thief River Press: Emil Zeh who for several years past has been employed at the Brick Store has severed his connection with that institution and accepted a position with the Golden Rule Store where he will have charge of the grocery department. Mr. Zeh is an efficent salesman and the Golden Rule is to be congratulated upon securing his services.

The story is told that a woman alighted from a train at Rock Valley and inquired of the only loafer on the platform, where she could obtain a hotel. The loafer grinned and informed her that he guessed she would have to bunk with the station agent. "Sir" she indignantly replied, I'd have you understand that I am a lady." The lounger looked at her a moment and then casually remarked, "Well so's the station agent."

Thief River Press: Last week a business deal was closed whereby the Prichard-Stone company sold the Thief River creamary to Gulmon & Peterson. George Gulman and Casper Peterson are both practical creamerymen of wide experience. Mr. Gulman was for some years assistant professor in the dairy department of the state agricultural school at St. Anthony. Mr. Peterson has bean for sometime in charge of the co-operation creamery at Bratsburg and Filmore counties. They will take active charge of the creamery at once and will open it for business about Feb. 15.

The Odd Fellows were agreeably surprised last Saturday evening after their session, by their wives coming to the hall armed with good things to eat and the inclination for a few hours social session. Cards were played and a good time was had.

Wood For Sale—I have for sale, cheap, a quantity of green poplar poles close to town. The poles are cut and piled up, a good load to a pile, and handy to get at. Do you want some? P. O. Fioan, at the Bank of Red Lake Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. George LaBissoniere and Merchant Theo. LaBissoniere went out to the eastern part of the state Monday evening to spend a week or ten days visiting with relatives and friends. They will visit at Grand Rapids, Blackduck, Cass Lake, Bemidji and went expecting to have a good time.

The Gazette's remarkable clubbing offer of six great papers and two premiums all for $2 is still in force. A great many Red Lake county people have taken advantage of the offer within the last two weeks, and you will always regret it if you don't get this collection of good things before it is too late.

H. H. Zaiser drove to St. Hilaire Monday and took the train from there in the afternoon to spend the night at Thief River Falls. The Gazette has heard rumors as to an attraction for Helmuth at the upper town, but after due investigation refuses to commit itself one way or the other. Helmuth returned Tuesday and looked happy enough to be intervied on the subject.

Dr. N. M. Watson received a message from Port Williams, Ontario, Tuesday, announcing the death of a brother at that place, and the Doctor took the train that afternoon to arrive there in time to attend the funeral and look after some other matters. The deceased was a young man who had just finished college, and had a bright future before him, and his sudden demise came as a great shock to his relatives and friends. The Doctor will be absent a couple of weeks.

Eus Normandeau and Arthur La Fontaine returned Monday morning from their five weeks' visit amid the old home scenes in eastern Canada, where they visited with relatives and old-time friends at Montreal a greater part of the time. Mr. Normandeau reports himself as enjoying his vacation immensely, and says that the visit there has given him a longing to return to his boyhood scenes to spend the remainder of his days. The people there are prosperous and happy, and during his visit he took occasion to look over the industrial situation carefully and found everything in excellent shape.

LEAVENED BREAD

Has Been Man's Constant Mainstay From Time Immemorial.

Some writer has said that "The first miller emerging from his savage state, with no thought save hunger, plucked the wheat from the stock, and, using his teeth for millstones, ground the first grist for a customer who would not be denied—his stomach." Thus gaining experience by test in the food line, it would be only natural for this miller to lay up a quantity of grain against an hour of need. Just when he commenced grinding his wheat in the rude stone mortar and moistening the flour preparatory to baking it in the ashes of his camp fire, and just when it was found that an old piece of dough in a fresh batch made it better or "leavened" it, is beyond the reach of historians. Certain it is that though the principle was the same thousands of years ago as it is to-day, it has remained for the makers of Yeast Foam to supply a yeast with all the true leavening powers minus the properties that produce sour, "ropy" or soggy bread. This is the yeast that took the first grand prize at the St. Louis Exposition, and revolutionizes the bread making in every home where it is used because much better bread can be made with it from any flour.

Yeast Foam is purely vegetable, being made of the best malt, corn, hops and other healthful ingredients. The factory is also the cleanest and best equipped in the world. This yeast is the only kind that preserves in the bread all the delicious flavor and nutritive value of the wheat. The bread made with it is always sweet and wholesome and stays moist until used. Forty loaves of bread can be made from one 5c package. The makers of Yeast Foam are giving out a new book called "Good Bread; How to Make It." This little book, invaluable in its way, has twenty-six illustrations in colors, and tells how to make all kinds of bread, biscuits, buns and rolls, as well as containing other recipes which will be found invaluable in the home. The way of preparing the different recipes is very clear and comprehensive. The book will be sent free to any one sending their name and address, with a request for same, to the Northwestern Yeast Company, Chicago, Ill. Every woman who bakes should secure a copy.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of twelve dollars, thirty cents which became due Nov. 1st, 1903, and of twelve dollars which became due Nov 1, 1904 and which is due and claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon a certain Mortgage, duly executed and delivered by August C. Spilker, and Ottilie Spilker, his wife, as mortgagors, to James A. Egan, Mortgagee, bearing date the 25th day of October 1902, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the county of Red Lake, State of Minnesota, on the 6th day of January 1903, at 8:30 o'clock A. M., in Book 26 of Mortgages, on page 263, and whereas, pursuant to the terms and conditions of said mortgage, by reason of said default, the whole principal sum of said mortgage outstanding and not already remitted or paid or settled for, to-wit, one hundred twenty dollars thirty cents, did on the first day of November, 1903, become at once due and payable, and was so declared by said James A. Egan: and whereas, there is actually due and claimed to be due at the date of this notice, the sum of $120.30, with interest thereon at the rate of ten per cent per annum since October 25th 1902, together with the further sum of one hundred four dollars, with interest on $52 thereof at the rate of ten per cent per annum since November 1, 1903, and interest on $52 thereof at the same rate since November 1, 1904 the said $104 being for interest paid by said James A. Egan under the terms of said mortgage, and pursuant thereto, upon a prior first mortgage of $800 to the Union Central Life Insurance Company of Cincinnati, O., default having been made in the payment of same and said amount, by said mortgagor together with the further sum of $30.53, with interest thereon at the rate of ten per cent per annum since December 1st, 1904, being for interest paid by said James A. Egan under the terms of said mortgage upon a prior mortgage of $100 to the Union Central Life Insurance company, default having been made in the payment thereof by said mortgagor, and whereas the said power of sale has become operative and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof:

Now, Therefore, Notice is Hereby Given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said Mortgage, and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage first described will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage towit: The north half of the northeast quarter and southwest quarter of northeast quarter, of section ten and southwest quarter of southeast quarter of section three in township one hundred fifty-one [151] north of range forty four [44] in Red Lake county, Minnesota, which sale will be made by the sheriff of said Red Lake county Minnesota, at the front door of the courthouse in the city of Red Lake Falls, in said County and State on the 17th day of February, A. D. 1905, at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of $120.30, and $104, and $30.53 and interest as aforesaid, and taxes, if any, on said premises, and a reasonable attorneys fees as stipulated in said mortgage, the same being hereby stated to be twenty-five dollars and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale as provided by law.

Dated Jan. 5th, 1905.

BRIBERY NOW CHARGED.

Senator Mitchell of Oregon Indicted Once More.

Portland, Ore., Feb. 2.—Senator Mitchell has again been indicted by the federal grand jury on a charge of bribery, which also indicted State Senator George C. Brownell, a leading Republican politician and lawyer, on charges of subornation of perjury.

The indictment against Mr. Mitchell alleges that while a senator from Oregon he accepted on seven different occasions sums of money aggregating $4,200 from a timber land dealer, Frederick R. Kribs, for services rendered in inducing Congressman Binger Hermann, then commissioner of the general land office at Washington, to expedite, make special and approve certain applications for public lands and recommend the issuing of patents to the lands.

AGED BANKER DEAD.

President Beckwith of Oberlin, O., Passes Away.

Oberlin, O., Feb. 5.—C. T. Beckwith, president of the defunct Citizens' National bank of this city, died at 10:45 o'clock Sunday night after two days of unconsciousness, during which dissolution was expected at any moment. Only the family surrounded the death bed of the banker. Mr. Beckwith was about sixty-five years of age.

On Dec. 14 last the federal grand jury in Cleveland returned five indictments against Beckwith upon the charge of violating the national banking laws in connection with the loans made to Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick by the Citizens' National bank of Oberlin, of which deceased was the president.

From the day of his arrest Beckwith's health failed rapidly as a result of worry over his trouble. He frequently declared during his illness that he wanted to die. For several days prior to his death he refused to take food in any form. Death resulted directly from heart trouble.

The death of President Beckwith may materially weaken the cases of forgery and conspiracy to misapply bank funds, now charged against Mrs. Chadwick.

TEN WOMEN KILLED

SLEIGHING PARTY STRUCK BY LOCOMOTIVE AND NOT AN OCCUPANT ESCAPES.

Hornellsville, N. Y., Feb. 2.—A sleighing party from the Universalist church of Hornellsville was struck by a Pittsburg, Shawmut and Northern locomotive near Arkport Wednesday evening. Ten occupants of the sleigh were killed and all the rest were seriously injured. All the dead and injured are matrons. The dead are: Mrs. Mary Gillette, Mrs. Charles Thomas, Mrs. Eugene Shaw, Mrs. Joseph Hallett, Mrs. C. C. Graves, Mrs. [illegible] Moore, Mrs. Ruth Patchen and Mrs. [illegible] Robinson, Mrs. J. Coates and [illegible] Green.

The injured are: Mrs. [illegible] Rowley, Mrs. Dann and Mrs. [illegible] Clark.

The pilot of the locomotive struck the sleigh with great force, reducing it to splinters and hurling the women in all directions. Every one of the thirteen women in the sled was killed or injured.

Other members of the party in two other sleds hurried back to the assistance of their unfortunate companions, and the train backed up to aid.

REBELS ARE DEFEATED.

Argentine Government Soldiers Rout Insurgents.

Buenos Ayres, Feb. 7.—Government troops attacked the rebels, who had fortified themselves at Mendoza, at dawn Monday. Soon afterwards the rebel leaders and officers fled to the mountains and the men surrendered unconditionally. The rebels had sacked the local branch of the National Bank of Buenos Ayres and seized $300,000. Numerous arrests have been made and the city is now quiet.

It is rumored that the dead at Mendoza number more than 100.

Late information shows that the insurrectionary movement is now restricted to Cordoba. Generals Wintter, Benaides, Garcia and Roca, with largely superior forces, are surrounding the city.

The insurrection is admitted to have been a failure and the government now has matters well in hand.

HILL CONTROLS THE ERIE.

Secures Missing Link in Great Transcontinental Line.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—It is reported that the purchase by J. P. Morgan and James J. Hill of 100,000 shares of Erie stock in London, with what they have bought in New York, gives them absolute control of the Erie road and that it will be made the Atlantic end of the Hill system of roads.

The purchase, it is said, is intended as an offset to the combination of the Vanderbilt and Harriman interests and will place the North Pacific coast lines on an equality with the Harriman system in competing for transcontinental traffic. Hill, it is further asserted, had this purchase in view when he obtained control of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton and Pere Marquette systems.

LADRONE LEADERS KILLED.

Five Filipinos Disposed of by the Constabulary.

Manila, Feb. 4.—A force of constabulary, commanded by Lieutenant Mohlar, has killed five sub-leaders of the ladrones of the island of Negros and beheaded Papa Isio, their leader.

Papa Isio was called the scourge of the islands. For ten years he has engaged in pillaging the haciendas and kidnapping farmers for ransom. A reward of $2,000 was on his head.

THREE CHILDREN DROWNED.

All of Them Perished by Breaking Through the Ice.

Brownston, Pa., Feb. 5.—Three children were drowned here Sunday. The finding of a hole in the ice in Wenger's dam led to the discovery of the tragedy.

The victims were children of George W. Hoeffner, Edwin, aged seventeen; Lizzie, aged eleven, and John, aged nine.

ONE GIRL WHO CAN THROW

Fair Cashier in Chicago Lunch Room Acquires Skill by Tossing Cash Checks Into Aperture.

In a certain lunch room in the downtown section of Chicago the young woman cashier disproves the oft repeated statement that a girl can't throw a stone and hit the side of a barn. This girl has acquired a wonderful precision in throwing cash checks into a small aperture in the top of the cash desk. There is a row of openings in the top board of the desk, one opening for each denomination of check that she handles. There is probably a quarter inch of wood separating each aperture. When a patron of the room lays down his cash and his check the girl takes the check in the palm of her hand and deftly fires it into the opening. The denomination of the cards is indicated by the color, and she fires a red card into the red box every time. From the open money drawer in front of her to the row of openings the distance is over 12 inches. In many instances she makes a throw and drops the coin into the proper apartment of the money drawer almost in the same motion. The cards are thrown flat, not edgeways, as one might suppose. Letter clerks in the postoffice attain a wonderful proficiency in throwing letters, but they send them into boxes with the edge cutting the air. The girl in the lunchroom fairly slams the pasteboards into the proper holes, rarely, if ever, missing her mark.

GERMAN WAR ON PHTHISIS

Rules for the Guidance of the Victims of Tuberculosis Sent to State Department.

Consular Clerk Murphy, of Frankfort, sends to the state department the "measures for preventing the spread of consumption" recommended by the city authorities. Every consumptive and every person who coughs should take care that it is received in spittoons or similar vessels containing water or, still better, chloride of lime or salt water. Such liquids prevent freezing and also the drinking of the water by animals. These cuspidors should be two inches high and eight to ten inches in diameter. They should have smooth, slightly curved edges and should be made of smooth glass, porcelain, china or enameled iron. They should contain water to a depth of four-fifths of an inch. As the water evaporates more should be added. The cuspidors should be cleansed daily with boiling water. Consumptives should give especial attention to cleanliness. The sitting rooms and bedrooms of consumptives should have only such curtains, bed coverings and the like as can be easily washed. There should be no carpets. The entire floors of such rooms should be washed daily, and even in winter the rooms should be properly aired daily for at least one hour. Uncooked milk may become a transmitter of consumption. The public is warned against its use.

LIFE-SAVING DOGS OF WAR.

Excellent Test of Their Capabilities Given Before English Army at Wimbledon.

An interesting demonstration of what dogs trained in ambulance service can do in war time in aid of the wounded has been made at Wimbledon, England. Two highly trained dogs, one of them three parts collie and one part Eskimo, and the other also collie with the same strain of retriever, took part in the exhibition. Round the dogs was strapped a sort of harness bearing the Red Cross badge and fitted with pockets on each side containing triangular bandages and round the neck hung a keg of spirits. The members of the ambulance corps present proceeded to carry out a series of displays in which the dogs found men supposed to be wounded lying on the heath, invisible to the spectators, and, having found them, gave tongue. The ambulance then picked up the wounded man and completed the first aid, which by the dog's help he had been able to give himself. Dogs trained for this purpose are in use in Herreroland, west Africa, with the German troops in the field, and there are also many with the Russian army in Manchuria.

WANTS LLAMAS FOR RANCH.

Man Visits Zoo and Asks Many Questions Concerning the South American Animal.

A visitor to the zoological garden a few days ago made so many and so pertinent inquiries about the llamas kept there that the curiosity of the keeper in charge of that particular part of the garden was aroused, says the Philadelphia Press. He finally asked why the questions were being asked. The man, who refused to give his name, said that, if he could get the animals at anything like a reasonable figure, he thought of making the experiment of stocking his ranch in the west with them. From letters written to South American friends, he said, he had learned that he could probably get a sufficient number for the experiment at a cost of not more than $30 each. As they are fairly good wool growers, he said that there ought to be more profit in them at this price than the same number of sheep. In his opinion the fleece of the llama is as good as that of the camel for manufacturing purposes.

Obtained from Elephants' Graves.

It is stated that a large percentage of the supply of ivory is obtained from "elephant cemeteries"—spots met with here and there in the jungle, where elephants have resorted for centuries to die. A scientist, however, points out that very few of these spots seem to have been discovered by travelers, and scarcely any record of them is to be found in books of travel.

SAYS EYE IS KEY TO ILLS.

Many Diseases, Declares Physician, Can Be Laid to Strain on This Organ.

The proposition of a western physician to cure drunkenness by spectacles seems to be simply a variation of Dr. George M. Gould's theory that very many of the physical ills of life are due to eye-strain and may be overcome by correcting this defect, says the New York Globe. The latter, a well-known writer on medical subjects, of Philadelphia, has recently published two volumes of "Biographic Clinics," in which he endeavors to prove that the ill health of Carlyle, Huxley, Browning, George Eliot, Wagner, Spencer and several other famous people was due simply and solely to eye-strain. The volumes are interesting, but not by any means convincing, and have been received somewhat skeptically by the profession. The common symptoms of eye-strain are, according to Dr. Gould, headache, insomnia, biliousness, nervousness, dejection, "indescribable suffering," cessation of all symptoms if the eyes are rested, and final spontaneous cure at about the age of 60, when the paralysis of accommodation occurs. He states that an abnormally large proportion of criminals have serious defects of the eyes, and 98 per cent. of the epileptics he examined suffered from astigmatism. Brain fag and migrain or sick headache are nothing more than eye-strain, and may be absolutely cured by glasses, and even temporarily relieved by a few drops of belladonna, which dilates the pupil and paralyzes accommodation.

GRAPES FRESH ALL WINTER

French Device Preserves Them for the Palate of the Epicure. in This Line.

A clever French process by which vine growers in France are able to market fresh outdoor grapes all through the winter is thus described. Bunches of the finest grapes when ripe in autumn are cut in such a way that to each bunch a piece of the vine five or six inches long remains attached. From this piece the stems of the bunch hang, an arrangement vitally necessary to the success of the operation. A large number of wide-mouth bottles, filled with water, is ranged in a cellar and in the open end of each is inserted the pieces of vine stem, the bunches of grapes hanging outside. The grapes do not touch the water, but are thus supplied with moisture through the vine stem, which is immersed in water. By this process choice varieties of table grapes are kept in perfect condition for the whole winter. The temperature of the cellar is uniform and moderately low and care is taken daily to supply the bottles with the water lost by evaporation. Fruit thus carefully tended is somewhat costly, but there are many patrons who willingly pay two dollars a bunch for the delicacy of fresh grapes in midwinter.

WHERE THEY DRINK BLOOD

La Villette, France, Is the Home of the Borgian Repast, a Consumption Cure.

Norman W. Dodge, a resident of Washington, D. C., has just returned with his wife from a three months' visit to Europe. While in France he visited La Villette, and in speaking of that visit Mr. Dodge described what is known there as the Borgian repast, a supposedly sure cure for consumption and anema. "I went to La Villette chiefly to see this Borgian repast," he said to the New York Globe. "I shall never forget it. To me it was a most revolting sight and in some ways pathetic. In the killing house I literally waded through blood. There were young girls and old men in the slaughter house, drinking the warm blood. All were anemic and in most cases consumptive. A slaughterman told me that this practice is a general one. Many of the wealthiest in Paris go down every morning to the slaughter house, he said, and the price they get varies from five cents to $1 a glass. As a cure for debility, too, and loss of appetite, especially, it is recommended by most of the leading physicians of France."

HAVE MANY WEATHER SIGNS

Dwellers in the Country Do Not Need Any Costly Barometers—Scorn an Ignoramus.

Country people have a great contempt for those who cannot tell what the weather is going to be till they have looked at their expensive barometers or seen the weather indications in the morning paper. They have so many simple ways of finding out what they wish to know about the weather and are so accustomed to doing this that they make the observations almost mechanically. Ask one of them how to do this and he will give you a long list of simple weather gauges. For instance, if you are a smoker look at your cigar tip. If it burns with a clear, red glow the day will be fine, but if it has a charred end that refuses to burn brightly take your umbrella. If a slipper creaks it is sure to be fine; if it is silent it will be damp. In damp weather newspapers are easily torn, gloves contract and are difficult to put on, matches will not light easily, silk hats become dull, awning cords are tight, boot laces snap and a score of inanimate things tell to the initiated that there is rain to come.

Bread from Pompeii.

The best examples of old Roman bread have been found at Pompeii, a town that was destroyed by an eruption of Vesuvius in the year 78 A. D. Forty-eight loaves were dug out of one bakeshop.

EVENTS OF A WEEK THROUGHOUT THE STATE.

Mrs. H. P. Hall, wife of the veteran Minnesota newspaper man, died suddenly at St. Paul.

The state annual encampment of the G. A. R. will be held this year in St. Paul March 8 and 9.

Arthur Paulson, fifteen years of age, was sentenced at Henning, Otter Tail county, to five days in jail for smoking cigarettes.

Fire of unknown origin totally destroyed the barn of the Hotel Bartch at Elba, two cows and one horse perishing in the flames.

Judge Vivian Prince of the municipal court of Eveleth has been acquitted of the charge of drunkenness. The jury was out forty-five minutes.

Caught between two coaches and unable to extricate himself Olaf Mortensen, a car inspector for the Minneapolis and St. Louis road at St. Paul, was slowly crushed to death.

Axel R. Brostrom, on trial at Minneapolis on the charge of having defrauded the Minneapolis Dry Goods company out of $15,000 by means of forgeries, has been found guilty.

Scott Purdy of Dakota village, Winona county, was instantly killed three miles below the village by his horses dashing in front of a freight train on the Milwaukee and St. Paul road.

The dwelling occupied by Math Pavlesick and family at Ely was destroyed by fire early Saturday morning and two of the Pavlesick children were burned to death before they could be rescued.

Marion Robinson, a private in Company G, Twenty-eighth infantry, stationed at Fort Snelling, was run down and killed by a Milwaukee train near Minneapolis. The remains were badly mangled.

Reports received by the state board of health show that the smallpox epidemic still remains in Stearns county. Of a total of eighty-four cases reported from the entire state forty-five are in Stearns county.

Returning home from a barber shop where he had been shaved, August Lindgren, a St. Paul painter, retired to bed, complaining to his wife of feeling ill, and when she went out of the room, shot himself through the head.

McCorthy Bros. company of Duluth, for local and outside people, have purchased the old Imperial mill property in the Zenith City. The price is about $250,000. The property has been idle four years. Grinding will be resumed.

Lying face downward upon a bed of glowing coals Paul Waschenberger, aged seventy-two years, was found in the smokehouse at the rear of his home in St. Paul by his son. Although he was horribly burned he will probably live.

Plans for a big rescue home between St. Paul and Minneapolis were revived in the Northwestern conference of the Salvation Army held in Minneapolis last week and the project has been actively taken up by the higher officers of the army.

The annual meeting of the Minnesota Editorial association, which will be held in the council chamber, St. Paul, Feb. 16 and 17, will be opened by an address of welcome from Governor Johnson, a past president and a present member of the association.

Within the past six weeks the fortunes of holders of Soo common stock living in Minneapolis were increased by about $3,000,000, according to conservative estimates, the stock touching par on Thursday last. In 1900-1901 Soo common sold at 15 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Cole Younger is not satisfied with the terms of his pardon and has written a letter to Governor Johnson asking that the prohibitive feature of the pardon be taken out and an absolute pardon substituted. The pardon granted to Cole Younger specifies that he must not return to Minnesota.

The Excelsior council has granted F. E. Kenaston, E. J. Phelps and their agents a franchise to operate an electric railway along the village streets, and an electric line from Minneapolis to Excelsior, Excelsior to Chaska, Chaska to St. Peter and thence to Mankato, is now practically assured.

Mayor Silverson of New Ulm has appointed F. A. Alexander as city attorney to succeed H. N. Somsen, brother-in-law of Dr. G. R. Koch, who has resigned. The appointment was confirmed by the council. It is said that Attorney Somsen will locate in some Western city as soon as the Koch trial is disposed of.

The supreme courtroom of the old capitol at St. Paul, the scene of hundreds of legal battles during the last quarter of a century, has had its last case. With the conclusion of the October term of the court the judges discontinued their sittings in the old chamber and in the future it will either be deserted or used for other purposes.

According to figures prepared by the state bureau of labor slaughterhouses are the most dangerous places in which to work, and railroads next. Its report for the months of October, November and December show that a total of 230 accidents occurred to workmen in the state during that time, and that there were twelve accidental deaths.

Albert Hyers, a farmer living near Carmel, Red Lake county, was found dead in his yard by Louis Kittieson, a neighbor. According to the story told by Kittieson he had been visiting Hyers and had left for home about 9 o'clock in the evening. Shortly after reaching home he heard rifle shots in the direction of Hyers' place. Returning there he found Hyers' house in flames and the body of Hyers on the ground near a window of the house.

BILIOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION CURED BY THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

Because the liver is neglected people suffer with constipation, biliousness, headaches and fevers. Colds attack the lungs and contagious diseases take hold of the system. It is safe to say that if the liver were always kept in proper working order, illness would be almost unknown.

Thedford's Black-Draught is so successful in curing such sickness because it is without a rival as a liver regulator. This great family medicine is not a strong and drastic drug, but a mild and healthful laxative that cures constipation and may be taken by a mere child without possible harm.

The healthful action on the liver cures biliousness. It has an invigorating effect on the kidneys. Because the liver and kidneys do not work regularly, the poisonous acids along with the waste from the bowels get back into the blood and virulent contagion results.

Timely treatment with Thedford's Black-Draught removes the dangers which lurk in constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and will positively forestall the inroads of Bright's disease, for which disease in advanced stages there is no cure. Ask your dealer for a 25c. package of Thedford's Black-Draught.

Nerve Fag.
If You Waste Your Nerve Energy, After Awhile You Will Suffer For It.

You can waste nerve force by excess, over-work, worry, anxiety, etc.

You can weaken yourself by not eating proper food or securing sufficient rest to renew the nerve energy you use up.

The proper treatment, in addition to good phosphatic food, such as whole meal bread, prepared cereals, etc., is Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine.

This is as truly a brain and nerve food as any food you could eat, and besides, furnishes strength and tone of its own, which goes to the weakened nerve system, and sets it to rights.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is a refreshing, revitalizing tonic food-medicine for the brain and nerves. It reconstructs worn-out nerve tissue and fills your languid brain with new life and vigor.

Dr. Miles' Nervine has made so many marvelous cures, of people so sick the doctors thought they were incurable, that it is today the standard medicine in many thousands of American homes.

The first bottle is guaranteed to help you, or druggist returns your money.

"The extreme heat, close confinement and intense mental strain incident to the banking business, has caused me to suffer with nervousness and insomnia. It gives me pleasure to say that I have used Dr. Miles' Nervine with very satisfactory results in the treatment of these affections. I am now on my fifth bottle, and eat and sleep well, in fact have almost forgotten that I possess nerves."—R. L. DALBY, Asst. Cashier, State Bank, Texarcana, Ark.

Educational Department.

Edited Under the Direction of Prof. E. W. Chamberlain.

How can the educational department of our local papers help our schools? Perhaps in no other way so well as by creating a large, healthful school sentiment and by leading the patrons of our schools to see what are the real difficulties that pupils, teachers and school boards have to meet with in the schools.

Doubtless no greater misconception is extent than the that that the school men of our state are resting on their oars believing that they are in the right course and need only to drift on to a great victory. Those who believe that do not know what the men having the future of our schools at heart really think and feel about it. Few people are satisfied less with the results attained than the school men of the state. They are not even content, yet they believe they are doing all that public sentiment will accept. But the public is not satisfied. Some demand one thing and some demand another. The real difficulty of the school men is to hold the helm so as to steer thru the rushing waters of these demands and keep from being wrecked on some of the precipitous demands or grounded on some of the shallow ones.

Believing that a healthful school sentiment will do more to build up a good school than any other one thing and believing that it is the function of the local papers to create that sentiment, I have arranged to have a number of articles written by representative business men on various subjects, and will this week present some that have been given to me in answer to the question, "What shall be the aim of discipline in our schools?"

We will try and present other subjects at different times, and request any and all to feel free to answer any question that may appear in this department of the local papers.

The following was contributed by E. E. McIntire, Superintendent of the Crookston schools:

Good government, in school, is, at the same time, a condition and corollary of success. The personnel of the organizing and teaching force of the school, including the superintendent and his corps of instructors, stands in the same relation to the school as the general of an army and his subordinate officers do to the men under their command and control. The moral of the army is the all essential quality for a successful campaign. Without capable leadership, and careful attention to the details of formations and movements, and implicit obedience to commands, and full compliance with well planned regulations for the health and safety of all, no military enterprise could possibly hope for success, unless a worse condition of affairs prevailed on the opposite side. The army and its officers are not for the ends of discipline, but for the purpose of winning victories and destroying enemies. The Army of the Potomac under General McClellan was an example of the finest disciplined military organization ever seen on the American continent. Its leader was a genius as a disciplinarian, but as a man of action, as a fighter, he signally failed. Grant was a strict disciplinarian and one who was capable of using the organization, which, under his wise direction, had been brought to the point of high efficiency, as an instrument in crushing the power of the Great Rebellion and saving the Union.

An army without good organization and rigid discipline would degenerate immediately into a rabble that would destroy itself without even giving the enemy time to strike a well directed blow. Good discipline in the military world is the most essential prerequisite of success.

A teacher who devotes all of his energies to organization and discipline is falling short of his high calling. He must be something besides a mere martinet, if he expects to keep his school abreast of the times. While good government is as essential in the school, as in the military sense, it is aimed at only as a means to a still higher end.

Good discipline means economy of energy and time, on the part of the scholars, as well as the teachers. Where there is good order every one knows his place and keeps it; every one knows his duty and does it. In the absence of good discipline we find disorder of every degree; and this means confusion, inattention, interference, friction, chaos, pandemonium, subversion of authority, loss of position, change of teachers in the midst of a term or every other year, general degeneracy on the part of the school, a waste of public funds, and a train of evils that cannot be measured, and the effects of which can be overcome only by the lapse of time and under the most careful and skillful later management.

We do not find truly effective work in the school that is turned over to the scholars, where whispering is countenanced and where a happy go-lucky, go as you please, the devil-may-care kind of a way is found to prevail. The teacher of such a school is, invariably, an advocate of self government on the part of the scholars, and what she is proud to boast of, within her precincts, as the "hum of industry".

Only weaklings will approve such theories, and those who do deserve to be looked upon with misgivings in selecting candidates for the important responsibilities of the teaching profession.

Teachers of strength and stamina keep the reins of government in their own hands. Those who wink at acts of disorder do so because it is not in them to rule with firmness and wisdom.

No lecturer of repute would stand before an audience that did not pay him respectful attention.

The great violinist, who was at one time discoursing one of his most entrancing selections upon his violin in the presence of an enraptured audience. The door opened and a belated and thoughtless ticket holder sought his seat. The great musician, conscious of the break in the chord of sympathy by which he held his listeners spell-bound, became motionless, with his bow upon the strings of his instrument, his large, noble face following the disturber in his progress around the room, chastising every jarring footfall with an inexpressible look of anger that flashed from his eyes, until the intruder had gained his seat, to the relief of every one. Without close and sympathetic attention to the lessons and instruction the teacher is essaying to give, but little benefit can be derived by any one; and certainly the teacher cannot do his best unless he has the rapt attention of all.

There must be perfect continuity of thought on the part of both the instructor and the school. The current of thought will flow properly while the circuit is intact; but with things running to suit the pleasure and caprice of the children, even the teacher who knows his subject has but little chance for success in presenting it to his class.

The self respecting teacher, the truly good teacher, will first put his school in running order and then devote himself to the problems of instruction.

Where the pupils rule there is no school; where the teacher compromises with the pupils there is less than half a school; only where the teacher is indisputably supreme is there the perfect school.

The sound maxim of political science, that the best government governs least, applies equally well in the school-room. A county superintendent once asked a boy what kind of discipline his teacher had in school, received the reply that she did not have any. On visiting that school, he found that the boy had unconsciously paid his teacher the highest possible compliment for she had splendid order and the boy had never thought it was discipline. The ideal is to have obedience and quiet without rules or punishment, but this ideal is rarely attained. Severity of discipline often over-reaches its mark. Too many rules and constant nagging are sure to result in lawlessness and disorder.

Now the aim of discipline can best be determined by recalling the purpose of education, for discipline is beneficial only so far as it promotes that aim. In the first place we do not maintain our schools to amuse our children, hence the pleasure of the children should not be consulted. Nor is the school a place to learn the greatest possible number of facts although many parents and some teachers still think so. According to modern Pedagogy the aim of education is development of character, and training the pupil to think. The same thought expressed from the stand-point of political science is that the school is the place where citizens are trained.

The state maintains the public school for public welfare and the therefore the old Athenian idea of the state training its citizens is pertinent to our subject. In fact in the public school the foreigner first comes in contact with Americanism through his child, who acts as interpreter. The essential quality of citizenship is not intellectual, but moral. Respect for law and for the rights of others are of the utmost importance in every law abiding community, and also in the school-room. The teacher who succeeds in teaching these two lessons renders the highest possible service to her country by making good citizens but she also solved the question of order.

The "spoiled child" entering first grade, willful and selfish is an anarchist in the making. That boy or girl will make trouble for every teacher as long as he is in school, unless one of them loves him enough to teach him to obey, and to respect the rights of others. The earlier this is done the easier and more effective the lesson.

The purpose of education then is to develop character and to train the mind. Discipline is essential part of that training and is worthy of the teacher's best thought. Tryanny in the school room breeds lawlessness as rapidly as in Russia. Reason and tact and kindness will go far in treating the most refractory cases, and when once the better side of the child's nature is awakened, the treatment will be easy and the cure sure.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists A. L. Reichert.

Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendent on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size 75c. At all druggists. A. L. Reichart.

SOO SURVEYS FINISHED

Plans For Early Work on New Line West Through Dakota are Completed.

Crookston Times: Chief Engineer Clement of the Soo railroad arrived in the city Friday evening and spent Saturday here. Saturday evening he left for St. Paul, having completed the surveys for the extension that will be built west of Thief River Falls the coming summer. Speaking of the proposed line Mr. Clement said: "The line has been surveyed west of Thief River Falls for a distance of about 200 miles to a point north of Minot, where it connects with the Soo branch running north from Minot. Work will be commenced on grading from Thief River Falls early in the spring and the line, for some distance into North Dakota will be completed next summer."

The road will cross the Red River nearly directly east from Ardoch, N. D., which is nine miles distant and is just north of Grandle, on the Minnesota side. The work on the bridge has been commenced and everything that can be done towards its construction during the winter will be completed, though the superstructure will not be put in place till the iron can be shipped by rail after the track is laid to that point. Regarding the proposed line from Duluth to Thief River Falls, which rumor has been busy about for some time past, Chief Engineer Clement stated that so far as he knew the Soo had never made any survey of the route and he did not believe that the South Shore had.

He believed eventually the road would be built as a connection with Duluth was necessary from the Red River Valley by the Soo and the roads with which it affiliated.

Mr. Clement will spend a good portion of the coming summer in this section in connection with the construction work that will be going on along the Soo extension during the entire year.

Regarding the Soo at Winnipeg Mr. Clement said the fast train was now making the run from St. Paul in fifteen hours and that next spring this would be cut down at least a full hour. The rails the entire distance are the 80-pound variety, and he says the road bed is excellent for being new, and will permit great speed being made.

Those Good People Up Stream.

Thief River Press; The annual report of Judge J. N. Bishop of the municipal court filed with the city clerk this week, shows that this court is the source of considerable revenue to the city. During the year 1904, the month of December not included, lines to the amount of $1,511.55 were collected and turned into the city trersury. The lines for the month of December, which were not paid until January 2, 1905, amounted to $150, so that the total for the year was $1,661.55. The municipal court is all right.

Oats To Be Scarce.

Thief River News: Oats will probably be a scarce article in this section in the near future. The St. Anthony and Dakota Elevator company, which has a line of elevators in this section of the state, one being located in this city, has taken the contract to deliver 500,000 bushels of oats to the Japanese government, and it is said that other elevator companies have similar contracts. Farmers who have oats to spare will be quite sure to get good prices.

PLUMMER INCORPORATES.

Election Tuesday of Last Week Nearly Unanimous.

Red Lake county's hustling new town out east, voted to incorporate Tuesday of last week, the proposition carrying nearly unanimously. The total vote was 27 for incorporation and 3 against.

Tuesday, March 14, has been designated as the day for the first election, when the newly incorporated village will elect their first set of officers, consisting of a president of the council, three trustees, recorder, treasurer, two justices, and two constables.

It is likely that Julins Pleth, the townsite boomer and all around hustler, will be the first president of the council, and the honor will be one well bestowed if such is the case.

PLUMMER AS HOST.

Crowd of Red Lake Falls Woodmen Attend Blow-Out at New Town

The degree team and some twenty members of the local camp of Modern Woodmen drove out to Plummer last Saturday afternoon, and that evening helped the Plummer boys show a large class of candidates through the mysteries of Woodcraft in a fitting manner.

The class numbered over a dozen and the work put up by the Red Lake Falls team is reported as being strictly up-to-date and entirely satisfying. A large crowd of people from neighboring towns was there and the event was a gala one for the Plummer people, and all report an enjoyable time.

THEIR PETITION IS OUT

Thief River Falls Boomers Working the Public for Help In Their Greedy Scheme to Benefit Themselves.

The petition of the committee at Thief River Falls asking the commissioners of Red Lake county to call an election for the purpose of voting on the county seat removal is being circulated throughout the county by the Thief River bunch this week, and an attempt will be made to secure 60 per cent of the voters' names on the petition.

The work is being carried on all through the county, and the progress is said to be slow and unsatisfying to the gang up there.

The people are not so enthusiastic over the matter as the up-river gang would have you to believe and fail to see wherein they will be benefited by the removal of the court house. They also look at the expense feature, and there are few residents of the county outside of Thief River Falls who are anxious to bring a big bill of expense upon themselves in order to help out a selfish municipality.

Everybody in Thief River Falls including all those who have been dead for the past forty years, is signing the petition, but outside of that the work has not been on the fireworks order.

DAIRY MFETS IN MARCH

Arrangements Made for Three Meetings Under the Auspices of the State Dairy Association.

Three interesting dairy meetings are to be held in Red Lake county early next month, and the farmers of this part of the county are promised some treats in the way of talks on practical dairying, etc.

The meetings are booked to occur as follows: Red Lake Falls, March 2, at 10:30 a. m.; St. Hilaire, March 4, at 10:30 a. m.; Wylie, March 3, at 1 p. m. Among the prominent speakers to be present will be Dairy Inspector Joel Winkjer, of the state department, Prof. James A. Wilson, also in their employ, and W. H. Blunt, the successful creamery man of Thief River Falls. Local speakers will also be present and it will be the aim of the department to make these meetings of great benefit to the people of this neighborhood.

Every farmer living anywhere near the places of these meetings should begin planning on attending, as in no other way can so many valuable pointers on this important question be obtained. These meetings will be free to everybody and there is not a reason in the world why the attendance shouldn't be enormous.

Evangslastic Meetings.

Miss Anna E. Smith and Miss Nellie Read, evangelists employed by the Minnesota Synod of the Presbyterian church, will hold revival services in this city at the Presbyterian church, beginning on March 19th. These two attractive young women have been remarkably successful in their work and have had a large hearing wherever they have been. Miss Smith was at Thief River Falls last year, and at Crookston two years ago. Miss Smith begins another union evangelistic campaign in Crookston next Sunday. It is very fortunate that the local church has been able to secure these two evangelists, and it is hoped that there will be a great awakening among the Protestant people of this community. It is expected that these special services will last two weeks. This early announcement is made that all may arrange to be present. Mark the date, March 19 to April 3. It is during Lent.

DIRT FOR ARGUMENT

Gang Favoring Thief River Falls Use Underhand Methods.

Plummer Pioneer: Has Red Lake Falls got a lead-pipe cinch on the auditor? If not, why did he issue that warrant for $1,370 in payment for the courthouse before it was due? "Boodle" or "graft" are not to be thought of in connection with the transaction. We just want to know why he did it.

The above from the Plummer Pioneer of last week is a fair sample of the arguments of the opponents of Red Lake Falls in the present county seat fight, and is intended to convey the impression that Auditor James E. Ford has been guilty of a heinous crime in paying the warrants drawn in favor of Ernest Buse for the purchase of the court house property here.

The Gazette does not believe for one moment that any sane reader would take the least stock in such argument, but in case one or two might do so, it takes the liberty of informing the Pioneer what it seems anxious to know, but doesn't endeavor to find out before it publishes such dirt as the above.

After the fifteen day limit had expired on all the warrants issued by the auditor on bills allowed by the commissioners at the January session, Mr. Ford wrote to Chairman Johnson requesting him to come to the county seat and sign the orders, as several parties were pressing him for the money due them. Mr. Johnson replied that he was so busy that he was unable to get away that week, and to accommodate a private individual here not in any way connected with the court house purchase, Mr. Ford drove to Plummer to have Mr. Johnson sign the warrants and took along all that were issued at the January meeting, and on which the time limit had expired. Mr. Johnson willingly signed them all and Mr. Ford drove back with the warrants ready for payment.

The next morning Mr. Buse presented a warranty deed for the court house property and demanded his pay and in accordance with the resolution of the board Mr. Ford turned over his warrants, NOT BEFORE THEY WERE DUE, however, as if the anxious Pioneer will refer to the resolution authorizing the purchase of the court house buildings it will find the following wording:

"Therefore, be it resolved, That said offer of said Ernest Buse be and the same is hereby accepted, and that the sum of $2370.00 be and the same is hereby appropriated out of the funds available for such purposes, and that a warrant be drawn by the county auditor and the chairman of this board for the said amount, to be paid to said Ernest Buse on presentation by him of a good and sufficent warranty deed of said premises, and an abstract of title of said premises showing good and sufficent title thereto".

January 26th was merely set as a time limit in the resolution of the board in order that Mr. Buse would have sufficent time to prepare his deed and abstract, and did not in any way affect the payment after the fifteen day limit had expired provided Mr. Buse did present his abstract prior to that time, so that in paying the warrants Mr. Ford was not violating his official duty one iota, and in fairness to him and to the people at large the Pioneer should so inform its readers.

Fairness in matters of this sort is a virtue that should be sought after by all newspapers, but Mr. Latta didn't show this spirit in his last week's paper.

Mail On the Soo.

Plummer Pioneer: Postmaster Finrow has received advices from the postoffice department to the effect that on March 6th the Soo line will commence carrying mail on this line between Detroit and the boundary line. On that date our old tri-weekly mail service from Red Lake Falls will be discontinued and we will have a daily railroad mail service instead. It is expected that the mail for the country postoffices east of here will shortly be distributed from here which, in addition to the daily mail service, will mean much to the business interests of Plummer.

IN THE NEW QUARTERS

Sortedahl Land, Loan & Abstract Company Move Into Their Handsome New Brick Structure.

The Sortedahl Land, Loan and Abstract Company have moved their banking and abstract business into their new brick edifice at the corner of Main and First streets, the change being made Monday, and are now nearly settled in their handsome new home.

The building is one of the handsomest and most modern in the city and is one that reflects credit upon the enterprising firm that now occupy it. It is a two-story brick building, 25x50, and is built of handsome pressed brick, the outside being finished off in a very artistic manner. The interior of the building is a model of neatness and convenient arrangement. The finishings of the woodwork and floors are in hard maple beautifully polished, and the walls and ceiling are decorated with elaborate paper and paint.

The front room on the ground floor will be used as the banking apartment and the new banking room fixtures are very elaborate. The counters and furniture are in golden oak and arranged for the convenience of the officers and the public. In the immediate front end of the building is the small but handy private office, where patrons of the bank and the officers can transact their business handily and conveniently. The banking room contains a commodious steel lined vault in which are located the time lock safe and the filing cabinets and private deposit boxes. This vault is one of the latest make and is absolutely fire proof, so that the papers and valuables of people using deposit boxes are safe from destruction.

In the rear is a large room to be occupied by the abstract and land departments and here also is the arrangement convenient and up-to date. The abstract and land departments will be separate from the banking room, which is a feature long desired by the company.

The second story is fitted up for office purposes, the two handsome front rooms being occupied by Messrs. Germo and Farley. Two other large rooms comprise this story, with the closets and wash room.

The building is heated with a modern hot water heating plant and electric lighted throughout, and a more thoroughly up-to-date establishment cannot be found in any city in the state.

The Gazette congratulates the company on the enterprise exhibited, and trust that it may flourish until the present roomy quarters are much too small.

NEW LAW FIRM.

Attorneys Germo and Farley Form Partnership for Legal Practice.

The announcement is made today of the forming of a partnership for the practice of law between County Attorney Thomas Germo and Fred L. Farley, two of the active attorneys of Red Lake Falls, to be known as Germo & Farley, and the new firm are ready for business in their handsome new suite of offices in the Bank of Red Lake Falls block.

County Attorney Germo is a young man of exceptional ability and has practiced in this city for several years past, building up a large clientage, and owing to his largely increased business by reason of his election to the office of county attorney has associated with him a partner in the person of Mr. Farley.

Fred L. Farley, the junior partner, came here from Waseca last summer and during his residence here has made a great many friends. He has practiced in the Minnesota courts for the past twelve years with great success and will make a valuable associate to Mr. Germo.

The Gazette trusts that the newly formed partnership may be mutually beneficial.

JULIUS PLETH'S LETTER

Prominent Real Estate Man Gives Voters of His Neighborhood His Views on Court House Removal

During the past few days Julius Pleth, of Plummer, has sent out a lot of circular letters in which he states his views on the county seat question. The letter in full is as follows:

Plummer, Minn., Feb. 7, 1905.

My Dear Sir:—

The county seat fight is getting warmer every day, which I wish were the case with the weather, and the day for the signatures on petitions from Red Lake Falls and Thief River is fast approaching. I trust you will pardon me for writing you in regard to my views on the matter. Being a citizen of Plummer, which at present time is your nearest railroad town, I believe I have reason to take it for granted that our interests in the growth and welfare of Plummer in a measure are mutual, and as to a possible depreciation in land values in your section of the country by reason of the removal of the county seat from its present location to Thief River Falls, I again claim that in this respect I am equally interested with you, as today I own and control in the following townships: River Falls, 360 A.; Wyandotte, 1120 A.; Emardville, 480 A.; Garnes, 1280 A.; Equality, 800 A.; and I thoroughly believe that should the county seat be taken from Red Lake Falls it would prove detrimental to this section of the country and that land values would suffer, while if Plummer could be made county seat of the present Red Lake county, or a division thereof, prices of land would raise in the above named townships from $3.00 to $10.00 per acre.

Let it not be forgotten that Plummer is located almost in the center of the county, is growing fast, and that the surrounding country is being settled rapidly, and it is not an impossibility that this county, (which has happened in many other counties in this and other states) will within the next five or ten years be divided and that Plummer would then become the county seat of the east half of the county. This is not an impossibility, but well worth considering and the question arises, where would be the better place to keep the county seat till such a time? in my opinion there can be but one answer, viz: Red Lake Falls, and my answer would be forever there. We now have a jail and a court house at Red Lake Falls representing a few thousand dollars and personally I am not anxious to have my taxes increased as the present court house building will answer for a good many years to come, as it has for the past eight years, and there will be no use for them to try to erect a new court house at the expense of the county, which means your pocketbook and mine as well. From any of the five named townships we all know we have good graded roads leading to Red Lake Falls, while those leading to Thief River Falls the greater by several miles, so in that respect there can be no argument. Personally I do not wish to favor either of the contesting towns and am free to admit that I have no particular love for Red Lake Falls, nor for that matter, for Thief River Falls, as I am for Plummer now and all time. But of the two evils choose the lesser evil, and I believe that by signing the petition for Red Lake Falls, (and should it come to a vote, to vote the same way,) we are doing that which for the present and the future is for the best interests of Plummer and surrounding country.

Very truly yours,
JULIUS PLETH.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. WARROAD WANTS G. N.

Ambitious Roseau County Town Making Hustle for New Line.

Warroad business men and the citizens are out for the extension of the Greenbush line next summer and spring and intend to exert every possible endeavor which might influence the road to take hold of the matter immediately.

The business men call attention to the mutual interests of the twin cities and the territories adjacent to the Lake of the Woods and the Rainy River, complaining that at present the goods brought from the twin cities must be received by way of Winnipeg, making a seemingly unnecessary long haul.

Greenbush, the terminus of the Great Northern extension, is located southwest of Warroad. Between the two tows are Roseau and Roosevelt, two good trading points that would be touched by the extension. It is claimed that Mr. Hill promised the people of Roseau he would extend to their town some time ago if they would help him with certain legislation. The line was extended to Greenbush and excuses made for not extending the remainder of the distance. If the line touched Roseau there is no doubt but what it would be pushed on to Warroad.

A great many people would like to see a road built into this country, which is constantly growing richer.

Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. VALLEY PIONEER DEAD.

J. B. LaBree, of Thief River Falls, Passes Away Monday.

J. B. LaBree of Thief River Falls, one of the oldest settlers in the State of Minnesota and at one time the owner of a tract of land now comprising the city of St. Paul, passed away Monday noon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Nat Campbell.

Mr. LaBree, during his fifty-two years of residence in the state, had accumulated his portion of worldly goods as well as a host of warm friends who have sympathized with the family during the long illness caused by a cancerous growth which preceded his illness and from which it was never expected he would recover. During his illness the deceased was cared for by his children in a faithful manner at the Campbell home in that city and his last days on earth were as peaceful and pleasant as his condition would permit.

Deceased leaves twelve children to mourn his death, among them being Mrs. Nat Campbell of Crookston, Mrs. John Rodgers and W. J. LaBree of Thief River Falls.

It is over fifty-two years since Mr. LaBree Sr., took up his homestead on what is now part of the city of St. Paul.

Deceased was 61 years of age. The funeral will be held from the Catholic church at Thief River Falls at 10 o'clock tomorrow.

It makes no difference how many medicines have failed to cure you, if you are troubled with headache, constipation, kidney or liver troubles. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea will make you well. W. A. Schreiter.

REFORMS NECESSARY

RUSSIAN MANUFACTURERS ASK AUTHORITIES TO HEED DEMANDS OF PEOPLE.

Declare Present Movement of a National Character and Deeply Rooted and Assert That Repressive Measures Are of No Avail—Thirty-three Persons Killed and Thirty-six Injured in Rioting at Sosnoviee.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 11.—The Society of Russian Iron Masters, representing $500,000,000 of capital, has memorialized M. Witte, president of the committee of ministers, on the labor question, pointing out that the attitude of the people is a warning "that no repressive measures will end the deeply rooted national movement of the Russian people."

The iron masters further declare that normal relations between the workmen and their employers are only possible with a system of government based on justice and with the participation of both employers and employes in legislation, equality for all before the law, inviolability of domicile, the right to hold meetings and strike protection for workers against the attacks of strikers, freedom of speech and press and universal compulsory education.

OFFICIAL REPORT OF RIOTING.

Thirty-three Killed and Thirty-six Injured at Sosnoviee.

Lodz, Feb. 11.—The governor, in an interview with the correspondent of the Associated Press, said:

"My official reports from Sosnovice show that thirty-three persons were killed and thirty-six wounded, eighteen of whom were seriously hurt, in the conflict at the Katherinen iron works on Thursday. The trouble began when a large body of striking miners tried to force the furnace men of the iron works to put out the fires and join the strike. The mob became violent, broke down a fence and forced an entrance into the works, which were guarded by two companies of infantry. The officers ordered the crowd to leave but they refused. Suddenly a striker drew a large knife and rushed at an officer. The soldiers then fired on the mob, which immediately fled, leaving the dead and wounded."

The governor added that no other shooting had been reported and that quiet had been restored in the city. There are 50,000 men on strike in the Sosnovice district.

SITUATION MUCH IMPROVED.

Russian Strike Disturbances Pass the Acute Stage.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 13.—The strike situation, according to reports from the interior, is everywhere improving, even in Poland. Here all danger of a renewal of an acute stage seems to have passed. All the works with the exception of the Putiloff iron works and two others have resumed work.

The imperial ukase summoning a joint commission of masters and workmen, chosen by themselves, to investigate the causes of discontent among the laborers, was posted at all the works, creating a favorable impression.

The government has increased wages at all the government shops and also the pay of the railroad employes by 15 to 20 per cent. In addition the minister of finance has taken a bold step in recommending to the committee of ministers the formation of labor associations protecting the interests of the workmen.

NINETY-FOUR PERISH

JAPS DROWNED BY THE SINKING OF A SMALL STEAMER AT OSAKA, JAPAN.

London, Feb. 14.—A dispatch from Kobe, Japan, to the Express reports that the small steamer Natorigawa collided with the harbor works at Osaka on Sunday and sank, and that ninety-four persons were drowned.

RUSSIANS DRIVEN OFF.

Japanese Capture an Eminence South of Changehichia.

Tokio, Feb. 11.—The Japanese captured an eminence south of Changchichia on Thursday morning, Feb. 9, driving off two companies of Russian infantry. The Russians have continued shelling Field Marshal Oyama's center and left since Thursday last.

The Russian dead, who were buried after the battle of Heikoutai, totalled 2,000.

The Japanese on that occasion captured 2,000 rifles.

MRS. CHADWICK'S TRIAL.

Case Will Be Called at Cleveland on March 6.

Cleveland, Feb. 9.—The trial of Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick in the United States district court has been set for Monday, March 6. She will be tried before Judge R. W. Tayler. The date for beginning Mrs. Chadwick's trial was agreed upon at a conference between Judge Tayler and District Attorney Sullivan.

TREATIES HELD BACK

PRESIDENT WILL NOT PRESENT AMENDED CONVENTIONS TO FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

Chief Executive Considers Senate Changes as a Virtual Rejection of the Spirit and Purpose of the Agreements and Says the Action of the Upper House of Congress Is Serious Blow to the Cause of Arbitration.

Washington, Feb. 14.—President Roosevelt will not present the arbitration treaties, as amended by the senate, to the countries with which they were negotiated. In reply to numerous inquiries by representatives of the press at the state department Secretary Hay made in substance the following statement:

"The president regards the matter of the general arbitration treaties as concluded by the action of the senate on Saturday. He recognizes the right of the senate to reject a treaty either by a direct vote in that sense, or indirectly by changes which are incompatible with its spirit and purpose. He considers that with the senate amendments the treaties not only cease to be a step forward in the cause of general arbitration, but are a step backward, and, therefore, he is unable to present them in this altered form to the countries with which we have been in negotiation."

The treaties were received at the White House during the day and, following the usual procedure, they will be recorded and forwarded to the state department. They will then be sent to the library, where, in accordance with the statement issued by Secretary Hay, they will remain.

FREIGHT RATES BILL

ESCH-TOWNSEND MEASURE GOES THROUGH THE HOUSE BY A LARGE MAJORITY.

Washington, Feb. 10.—After nearly four days of discussion the house Thursday by a vote of 326 to 17, passed the Esch-Townsend bill providing for the regulation of freight rates. The negative vote was made up of eleven Republicans and six Democrats.

The closing hours of the debate were occupied by Messrs. Williams of Mississippi, the minority leader, and Hepburn of Iowa, chairman of the committee which reported the bill. Mr. Williams, while supporting the minority measure, even though he said he knew it could not pass, complimented the Republicans for bringing in a bill which was much better than he expected would come from them.

The speech of Mr. Hepburn was rather in defense of himself. He said that his deeds and acts were a sufficient answer to the "lies" and "slanders," which had been heaped upon him. The bill known as the Hepburn bill he said, had been prepared by the attorney general and he only yielded to this colleagues on the committee on the Esch-Townsend bill because he did not want the committee to be the target for scribblers, who wanted sensational headlines. He devoted some time to a strong presentation of the merits of the majority's measure.

A bill was passed authorizing the construction of a dam across Rainy river, Minnesota, by the Rainy River Improvement company, as successors to the Koochining company.

LAND FRAUD CASES.

Senator Mitchell and Congressman Hermann Indicted.

Portland, Ore., Feb. 14.—The United States grand jury late Monday returned an indictment charging United States Senator Mitchell, Congressmen John N. Williamson and Binger Hermann and others with having conspired to have created the Blue Mountain forest reserve in Eastern Oregon, with the intent to defraud the government of public lands and of also conspiring to obtain possession of more than 200,000 acres of public and school lands located in several states, of the value of over $3,000 000.

Indictments also were returned by the federal grand jury against Former United States Attorney John R. Hall, Private Detective H. P. Ford, Former Major H. L. Reese, Deputy Sheriff John Cordano, A. P. Caylor, local grain broker, and Saloonkeeper Fred Simpson.

The charge against Hall, Reese, Ford, Cordano and Caylor is that they conspired to defeat the ends of justice by attacking the reputation of District Attorney Heney with the object of having him removed from office.

PLUMMER

(From the Pioneer.)

A. P. Tonpin and Harry Healy were out from Red Lake Falls on business early Tuesday morning and returned home before noon.

A.O. Letvig, the St. Hilaire well digger has been busy here all the week cleaning out and putting new pipes in Julius Pleth's artesian well.

C. M. Evenson and D. P. O'Neill came down from Thief River Falls Wednesday to put in a few good words among the people here on behalf of their end of the county seat fight.

The Misses Josie and Marie Brekke had a narrow escape from injury while driving into town on Tuesday. The team took fright and ran away breaking down the rig. Fortunately both young ladies escaped without further damage than a few slight bruises and a good sized fright.

A good sized crowd attended the ragamuffin Ball last Saturday evening and a good time. The prizes for the most appropriate costumes were awarded to Miss Bertha Steen and Henry Rose.

Buttermaker Lauritzon was highly pleased with the Dairyman's convention at Crookston last week. He says the best feature of the entire convention was Dr. V. Pleth's address on tuberculosis in cattle and its relation to man.

At the meeting of the creamery association on Monday last it was decided to make a canvass among the shareholders and ascertain just how much cream will be available for the creamery on March 1st. If sufficient can be obtained the creamery will be started on that date. If not the opening will be deferred until the 15th.

A. J. Riebe arrived on Saturday from Hewitt, Minn., and has opened up a first class harness shop in the Adolph Nelson building on Central Ave. Mr. Riebe knows his business thoroughly and has a fine outfit for doing work. Every job done by him is guaranteed to be strictly first class and this being the case he is sure of a liberal patronage from the start.

H. Ogard was up from Ada on Wednesday and purchased lots 5 and 6 of block 6 on which he will shortly erect a fine warehouse and office and with his brother engage in the machinery business. To the Pioneer Mr. Ogard stated that he expected to commence building in about fifteen days and that he would be ready before spring to supply the wants of the farmers in this vicinity with everything they may need in the way of implements and machinery.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

A FAKE OFFERING.

Thief River Falls hopes to fool the voters by promises which cannot be fulfilled. Circulars are being spread broadcast throughout the county containing a resolution of the city council of that city to the effect that the city hall building "will be" furnisbed the county at a nominal rent of ten dollars for ten years. The cunning people of that city know that the city council could not give away public property that way. They know that anyoue owning property in Thief River Falls—any kicker—could object, and cause the District Court to issue an injunction forbidding the carrying out of the proposition. But they hope that the voters of the county are so ignorant that they won't find this out before voting. They trust the old saying "There's a sucker born every minute". Read their offer. It says "will be." When? How? Is there any lease, bond, cash or other security put up to secure to you voters the performance of their offer. Suppose you by vote do change the county seat to Thief River Falls in the hope of having a free court house there and a week after one of their notorious kickers or one of their cunning "boomers" who would like to see a fine new court house built there, gets an injunction to prevent the council giving away the building, what are you going to do about ft? Spend fifty thousand dollars to build a court house there of course. That is what they want, to work you by their tricks and then say, "Well we meant to give you our city hall but we've just found out that it is illegal." Don't you know that Thief River is full of kickers who would he glad of a chance to enjoin.

When an election was held several years ago to vote bonds for court house purposes, the Thief River Falls people succeeded in defeating it hy using the argument with the voters that "the present court house is good enough." Yet now, when the commissioners accepted the truth of that argument, and bought the present court house at a reasonable price, the Thief River hoomers shout at once, "It's no good! Not worth buying." Will the voters be fooled a second time by such reasoning.

Harry Ives' Spectator has become as mum as an oyster editorially in regard to the county seat matter. The Gazette is of the private opinion that friend Harry is "wid, us" first, last and all the time, and that when the time for action arrives he will be found battling on the side of the people as against the private boomers who want tbe earth with a good fence.

Says the Princeton Union: "Sammy Johnson is a good saver. He saved the State hundreds of thousands of dollars, and saved enougb in three years out of his salary ($3500 per year) to pay all his old debts and start a bank in Minneapolis."

Speaking of extravagance, the Thief River Falls people did not think it was extravagance when they received sums amounting to over two thousand dollars for bridges in their own city aud vicinity. They were not thinking of the taxpayers interests when they asked and received from the county hoard two hundred and fifty dollars for the Thief River Falls Fair in 1903, and again in 1904.

Bob Dunn's Princeton Union never lets a chance slip by to hit ex-governor Van Sant a smash, and the latest one is as follows: "Governor Johnson has wisely determined not to go on any junketing trips during the session of the legislature. Governor Johnson's predecessor never was kuown to decline an invitation to a feed, barn-raising, dog-fight or slugging match—provided no admission fee was charged. But then Governor Johnson is not ail gas and abdomen there is some gray matter located under his thatch."

The Thief River Falls News comes to hand this week dressed up in such swell togs that it is hard to recognize it. Friend Eastman purchased a large amount of the Review material and has made his paper a model of neatness and chuck full of live reading matter. John is to be congratulated on his enterprise, and the Gazette trusts that he may reap a bushel of shekels every day in the year. Thief River Ealls now has two of the best papers in the valley, and the people there should show their appreciation by better patronage than they have given them in the past.

Brother Packard jumps up and smites the Gazette editor last week because we accused hin of buting in on the county seat matter before he got his feet warm, and accuses us of the horrible crime of heing young. We will have to plead guilty, Frank, although had we known in advance of this present rumpus that it was a crime to be youthful we should have strained a suspender to have been 'borned" a few years earlier, in order that the Methuselean scribe of the Press would give us credit for knowing where we are at. But tben, Frank, most all big boys like to be nagged at by the kids, so you sbould not get mad at one little josh.

And now what do you think. The Gazette has incurred tbe displeasure of the recently launched Plummer Pioneer, and last week friend Latta proceeds to publish to world what he thinks of tbe Gazette's "standing". Cbarly wields a pen equal in power to a four-ton sledge hammer, and the Gazette hastens to withdraw from the field before it becomes too badly scarred to be recognizable. Charley's Wasbington band press would become so bot turning out tbose borrible tbrusts tbat he would be unable to use it if we didn't call quits, and in order to avoid such a calamity we are forced to meekly retire from the arena.

WHAT ABOUT IT, VOTER?

A few years ago the farmers in the northern part of Polk county refused to vote for county division becanse the county seat of tbeir new county would be at East Grand Forks, the most lawless city in northern Minnesota.

What about Thief River Falls? All last summer the county jail was full of criminals from Tbief River.

Gambling was the favorite and common diversion there. Houses of ill-fame flourished. Assaults on the street were frequent. A man was shot down in cold blood by a policeman, and a coroner's jury passed it up as only an incident (not accident.)

A man was murdered and his flesh found rotting from his bones a little way out from the city.

Another man was found dead by the roadside a month or so ago, and as nobody was seen to kill bim, tbey called it an accident.

A year or so ago an innocent Jewish or Syrian peddler was passing along the city streets in broad daylight and one of the citizens took a shot at him for sport, and nearly killed tbe poor fellow, and tbough everybody in town knew tbe guilty man and all the facts, he got off clear, and the poor peddler had to pay for a long sojourn in tbe hospital.

There are sixteen saloons in the town, and each one sells so much "booze," they can afford to pay and do pay one thoussnd dollars license per year.

That is the kind of a town they want to move the county seat to. Where a man's life is not safe in broad day-ligbt, even from a policeman. Where graft, murder, thieving and prostitution run riot in the public streets. Where one grafter can and has beld up several officials and made them pay him five or six hundred dollars to keep his month shut about them. Where one grafter holds up a whole class of business men for ten dollars apiece for "protection."

Such things are common, well-known there, and tolerated. To such a nest of graft and corruption they are asking the farmers to move the county seat. Perhaps they would like to "divy up" the county funds.

THE MAN OF THE HOUR.

The Cass Lake Times is another one of the valley papers that throws boquets at Congressman Halvor Steenerson of this district. The Times says:

"We are not surprised that Steenerson bas taken a prominent position in the house. Halvor is a first-class lawyer, he is energetic and able to grasp any proposition that may be brougbt to his notice. We admire bis energy, his desire to do things that have been left undone for many years, and have confidence that he will not rest until he can see clearly an opening for the common man whom he has always claimed as a brother. He is now clearing away the underbrush which has been permitted to grow up until it almost hides the rights and priveleges guaranteed the people, and when this job has been done to his satisfaction he will be known as and edtitled to the epithet, the greatest "Commoner" of the American congress. Nor have we any fear tbat he will desist at the investigation of the millionaire lobbyists who swarm the halls of the national legislature; he is too proud to be bribed and too thoroughly interested in the present situation to swerve one point from the greatest good of the people of the whole nation. He is beartily in sympatby with President Roosevelt in his attemp to ameiorate tbe burdens of a suffering multitude and we sball look for no criticisms of bis acts except from those wbose profits and stealings be is attempting to cut off."

And now the irrepressible Henry W. Lee, wbose zeal somewhat outruns his ability, has started an action to enjoin the county treasurer from collecting any of last years county taxes. Apparently he would bave tbe county run its business on wind, as be does bis own. Failing to find any client wbo would stand for bis work, be appears, himself, in tbe role of plaintiff. Oh, Henry, Henry, if tbis old world was only a place where no taxes were to be paid except into your own pocket, wbat a Heaven it wonld be!

AN UNPREJUDICED VIEW.

Tbe Gully Sunbeam, published just over the Polk county line, last week contained a very able editorial in regard to the county seat fight in this county, and The Gazette takes the liberty of reproducing it for tbe benefit of our readers. Tbe Sunbeam says:

"Thief River Falls seems to be ready to profit by tbe labor done by Red Lake Falls, to get the county of Red Lake estahlished, altbough they were knifing tbe proposition to set off Red Lake county from Polk in 1893. At the time the bill was passed by the legislature in 1893 for tbe division of counties we put on the best pert of tbat winter, in company with J. T. Knight, of Red Leke Falls, lobbing for the passage of tbe bill. At that time when the citizens of the present county seat were putting up their good hard casb to pay the expenses or making the fight for county division, the citizens of Tbief River Falls were sulking in their tents and doing wbat they could to assist Crookston to defeat the measure. Now after Red Lake Falls won the fight tbey are ready to step in and receive tbe benefit of another's labor. Tbe voters of Red Lake conuty bad ought to consider the justice of the two rivals for the county seat of that county, and give credit for the establishment of the county to Red Lake Falls, and allow them to keep the county seat thereof."

Thief River Falls may start all kinds of underhand suits to prevent justice being done, but when our people by good, honest, open, hard work defeat them in court, they begin to shout "thieves, trickery," immediately.

Leoora Garceau and Henry Lundquist, Reporters.

The fourth and fifth grades of Washington scbool are going to work hard this month and try to get the banner away from the fourth and fifth grades of the Lafeyette school. They will have to work some to beat us next month.

The second grade made Chinemen, and eome of them were kept for visiting day et the high school.

Walter Garceau visited the Washington school Moodsy morning.

The fifth grade will hegin studying the United States' dependencies this week.

Ines Hanson could not use their Valentine box in the second grade. We are sorry to hear that Ines is sick.

The A class of the second grade have hegun to read the last story in Aunt Martha's Corner Cuphoard.

Edward Hunt and Donald Marshall were sick.

Wednesday the out side door hlew shut and locked and there were a few of the boys that were late at recess.

Gisla Helm is absent on eccount of sickness.

There has heen quite a number of tardiness this week on account of cold weather.

Last Thursday Prof. Chamberlain visited our school and he and Mr. Healy tried a new experiment in reading. The fifth and sixth grades all read at the same time. The pupils were paired off in twos and they read aloud to one another. In this way every one had a chence to read about half an hour, where they usually have two minutes. It was a little like a Chinese school hut it worked well.

Freda Schultz has been ahsent for a few deys on account of sickness. This is tbe first time she hes been absent or tardy this year.

Lucy Mathias and Robert Poirer were also ahsent a half day last week for the first time this year.

Last Friday the sixth grade did not have their geography lesson so they had to take the same lesson over again Monday.

Last Friday was library night. Mr. Chamberlajn sent us over some more hooks so we had a plenty to supply all.

Tuesday Feb. 14th was Valentine day and all tbe rooms hed post offices. Many nice valentines were sent.

HAPPY AND HEALTHY.

A Beautiful Canadian Girl Saved From Catarrh of the Lungs by Pe-ru-na.

MISS FLORENCE KENAH.

Miss Florence E. Kenah, 434 Maria street, Ottawa, Ont., writes:

"A few months ago I caught a severe cold, which settled on my lungs and remained there so persistently that I became alarmed. I took medicine without benefit, until my digestive organs became upset, and my head and back began to ache severely and frequently.

"I was advised to try Peruna, and although I had little faith I felt so sick that I was ready to try anything. It brought me blessed relief at once, and I felt that I had the right medicine at last. Within three weeks I was completely restored and have enjoyed perfect health since.

"I now have the greatest faith in Peruna." F. E. KENAH.

WOMEN shnnld beware of cnntracting catarrh. The cold wind and rain, slush and mud nf winter are especially conducive to catarrhal derangements. Few wnmen escape.

Upon the first symptnms nf catching cold Peruna should be taken. It fortifies the system against colds and catarrh.

The following letter gives one young woman's experience with Peruna:

Miss Rose Gerbing is a popular society wnman nf Crnwn Point, Ind., and she writes the following:

"Recently I took a lnng drive in the conntry, and being too thinly clad I caught a bad cnld which settled nn my lungs, and which I cnuld nnt seem to shake off. I had heard a grent deal nf Peruna for colds and catarrh and I bought a bottle to try. I am pleased that I did, fnr it brought speedy relief. It only took about two bottles, and I cnnsidered this money well spent.

"Ynn have a firm friend in me, and I nnt only advise its use to my friends, bnt have purchased several bottles to give to thnse withnnt the means to buy, and have noticed without exception that it has brnught abont a speedy cure wherever it has been used."—Miss Rose Gerbing.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the nse of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement nf ynnr case and he will be pleased to give ynn his valuable advice gratis.

We Paid $100,000

For Liquozone, Yet We Give You a 50c. Bottle Free.

We paid $100,000 for the American rights to Liquozone; the highest price ever paid for similar rights on any scientific discovery. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, in this country and others. We cured all kinds of germ diseases with it—thousands of the most difficult cases obtainable. We proved that in germ troubles it always accomplishes what medicine cannot do. Now we ask you to try it—try it at onr expense. Test it as we did; see what it does. Then yon will use it always, as we do, and as millions of others do. Yon will nse it, not only to get well, bnt to keep well. And it will save nearly all of your sickness.

Kills Inside Germs.

Liquozone is not made hy componnding drugs, nor is there alcohol in it. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—hy a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. This process has, for more than 20 years, heen the constant subject of scientific and chemical research.

The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to yon. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, pnrifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

There lies the great valne of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot he taken internally. Medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease. It is this fact that gives Liquozone its worth to humanity. And that worth is so great that we have spent over one million dollars to snpply the first bottle free to each sick one we learned of.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

Mr. and Mrs. Mose Ducharme, of Lake Pleasant township, welcomed the arrival of a fine new son and heir at their home last Friday. The Gazette extends congratulations.

No school was held at the Lafayette building in this city Monday morning on account of the extremely cold weather. It was impossible to get the rooms sufficiently heated to allow the regular work to be done. but by noon the difficulty was overcomed and school work was resumed in the afternoon.

Crookston Journal: Despite the forty below zero weather Sunday, Oscar Fredricks of the Scandia bank spent Sunday with friends at Red Lake Falls. Mr. Fredricks has quite a number of very warm friends at the Falls and graces the lively up river city with his genial presence very often. The thermometer there Sunday went clean down to the bulb and forgot to come up until sun-up.

Work on the piling of the big railroad cut has been suspended a few days this week on account of the engine on the pile driver being out of commission. and a new engine will be shipped here to finish the work. The work has not been proceeding very rapidly owing to the difficulty in driving the piles in the frozen ground, and it is likely that several weeks more will be required to finish the work. Train service will be established over the new line as soon as the work can be finished but from the present outlook it will be after the robins have made their annual appearance.

S. L. Lewis was a business caller at Crookston Tuesday.

The M. B. A.'s enjoyed a pleasant dance after their lodge work Monday evening.

The wives of the members of the local camp of Mudern Woodmen gave them a pleasant surprise after the work was over at last night's session by going to the hall and spending several hours in dancing and merrymaking. A first-class time is reported.

Mrs. N. J. St. Aubin has been having a severe time with an attack of the grippe the past couple of weeks, and has been confined to her bed constantly. She is reported as improving at present, and her friends will hope that she may soon be able to be about agsin,

The Metropolitan opera house will be the scene of a grand ball next Tuesday evening, when the young men of the city will entertain the ladies in retaliation of the pleasant leap year party given them a year ago. Elaborate arrangements are being made for the event and it is expected that the party will eclipse any former attempt at entertainment in the city.

Senator Stephens of Crookston, has introduced a bill of importance to the lumbermen on the Red Lake river. The bill provides that logging and and boom companies may acquire booms and dams in streams, shore rights, and right-of-way, and may improve streams for general logging, provided navigation is not interfered with.

Crookston Journal; City Clerk A. P. Toupin of Red Lako Falls was a visitor in the city last evening. Mr. Toupin reports the county seat fight as a dead number and believes the strife will be shortly terminated at the special election, should one be held, or possibly before. He thinks the Thief Riverites will experience great difficulty in securing the signatures of 60 per cent of the voters of the county.

Hans Amunson, one of Rocksbury's prominent farmers, was a visitor at the county seat and found time to call on The Gazette. Mr. Amunsun lives on the route of disputed ditch No 21 which has caused su much controversy among the people of his neighborhood, and tells the Gazette that the ditch is about completed. He is of the opinion that the outlet will be of great help to the farmers living along the route, and thinks that the strongest opponents to the construction of the ditch will live to see where they were wrong in not favoring its construction. Mr. Amunson, in talking of county seat matters, said that of course the majority of the people of his neighborhood favor Thief River, on account of its nearness to them, but that they were not enthusiastic over the proposition and felt that the large expense that will be incurred was a useless waste of the county's cash.

Blackduck American; Mrs. George Brunelle and son, and T. LaBissoniere of Red Lake Falls; Mrs. Mcreau of Mentor and Geo. LaBissoniere of Yakima, Washington, are here for a visit with the families of Cash Brunelle and J. A. Bray. The latter met the party at Bemidji.

Thief River Press: The Great Northern commenced carrying mail Monday to the new towns along the Greenbush line. The inhabitants of the towns along the line have waited patiently for the service. Its advent will bring them in daily communication with the outside world instead of three times a week as heretofore.

Crookston Times: J. A. McDonald of McDonald Bros., who were publishers and editors of the Thief River Falls Review till its sale to the Thief River Press last week, arrived in the city Friday evening to accept a position as foreman of the Times job department. Mr. McDonald is one of the most competent job men in the northwest and has a wide circle of friends in Crookston who will be glad that he has located in Crookston.

Crookston Times: Sunday's Minneapolis Tribune contains an excellent out of the seven children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Bray of Blackduck, all handsome vigorous looking products of northern Minnesota. Mr. Bray is a brother of Nap Bray of this city and the Bray boys of Red Lake Falls, who are exhibiting the picture with more than ordinary pride. It appears that several weeks ago Mr. Bray sent to President Roosevelt one of these photographs, receiving in return one of the president and bearing his autograph. Accompanying the picture was a letter from the president thanking him for the picture sent him by Mr. Bray and extending his hearty congratulations and best wishes for their happiness and prosperity. It is needless to say that Mr. Bray is an ardent admirer and supporter of the president's views, not only politically hut as regards race suicide as well.

Mrs. E. F. Marshall will entertain the Ladies Aid society of the Presbyterian church at her home next Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 22. A ten cent lunch will be served from 4 until 6. All are invited.

Rubert Bourdon came home for a few days last week, the surveying crew of which he is a member having taken a short rest from active duty. He returned to Thief River Falls Saturday to commence work on the Soo line west from there.

Thief River Press: Judge Bishop was informed today that the books for the issuing of citizens papers, had been shipped from St. Paul yesterday. It will only be a few days until he is issuing papers and making full fledged citizens.

A party of friends very pleasantly surprised Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Kaufer at their home Monday evening, the occasion being Mr. Kaufer's birthday anniversary. Cards were played and the evening was spent in a most enjoyable manner, and the assembled guests joined in wishing Mr. Kaufer many more happy anniversaries.

A report is current that Bemidji is to have another large saw mill. C. A. Smith, of Minneapolis, one of the biggest lumber owners in the state is said to be planning to move his large Minneapolis mill to that place early in the summer, and saw his logs there instead of sending them to Minneapolis by river.

Masters Clifford Hall and Marcus Marshall gave a joint birthday party at the Hall home north of the city last Friday evening, about twenty-five of their young friends being in attendance. The young people were entertained with games and other amusements, and thoroughly enjoyed the evening. Elaborate refreshments were served them by Mrs. Hall, and all wished the young gentlemen hosts many happy returns of the day.

Mrs. Charles N. Bourdon, of this city, received a telegram last Thursday announcing the death of her brother, John Ralph, at his home at Nepwa, Manitoba, 130 miles west of Winnipeg. The cause of death was heart disease with which deceased has suffered for several years, and the past summer was in a critical condition several times during which his relatives were summoned to his bedside. Deceased was 50 years of age, the oldest in the family. He has three sons in the mercantile business, and leaves his family in very comfortable circumstances. He had been a resident of Nepwa for the past 20 years but was known here also, having visited in this section of the country several times in the past few years.

We have several fine farms for rent. Sortedahl Land, Loan and Abstract company.

We are just opening up our spring line of black goods. Come in and see all the latest—Theo. LaBissoniere.

The Violet club met with Mrs. Frank Jeffers Saturday afternoon. Covers were laid for ten, and an enjoyable time was had.

P. K. Olson, one of the wide-awake Plummer business men, was a caller here on business Tuesday. Pete is doing a big business at the new town out east, and has many friends here that are glad of it.

Merchant Theo. LaBissoniere, Mr. and Mrs. George LaBissoniere and Mrs. George Brunelle arrived home last Friday from their visit with friends over in the eastern part of the state. They report an enjoyable time.

Harry B. Healy spent Sunday with his Grand Forks friends. Harry has not been as frequent a caller at the city by the Red during the winter as of yore, but promises to make up for lost time when the roses bloom again.

The Knights of Pythias gave a farewell party to Mr. and Mrs. John E. King at their hall Monday evening, and a large crowd was present. Progressive cinch was the feature, Mrs. King carrying off the honors. Refreshments were served.

A necktie party and dance will be held at the M. B. A. hall Friday evening of this week. The ladies are requested to bring an envelope containing their names and a necktie. Good music will be furnished and a good time assured all who attend.

Prof A. Onstad went up to St. Hilaire Monday and that evening took charge of the newly organized band at that place as instructor. The professor will make regular weekly trips to that place hereafter, and it is a foregone conclusion that the new band will make rapid progress under his tutelage.

The next monthly band concert by the Red Lake Falls band will be given on the evening of Friday, the 24th. inst. and arrangements are made for a delightful evening's entertainment. Several band numbers, solos and recitations will comprise the programe, and it is expected that the concert will immensely please the public. The complete programme will be published next week.

The past week has been one to keep the oldest inhabitant guessing to find its equal in the history of northern Minnesota. Several infant blizzards have been on the tapis, and the thermometer has been down among the pictures pretty nearly all the time. The only fellows who have dared to smile have been the wood venders and coal dealers. The prophets are already predicting an early spring, and the most of us think that we have earned it.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. O'Brien entertained the South Side club and their "worser" halves at a progressive cinch party last Saturday evening, and a first class time is reported Mrs. L. A. Kaufer easily distanced all the rest of the players and carried off the head prize, while Mrs. H. J. Kaufer's score card bore the least marks and she took the consolation honors. Instrumental and vocal music furnished part of the entertainment, and refreshments were served.

Dividing the Sexes.

While worshiping in a little chapel-of-ease a few miles from Ruthin, on the Wrexham road, the sexes are so strictly divided that they cannot even see one another. The building forms a right angle, in one arm of which the men sit and the women in the other. It was built and endowed by a misogynist of the Stuart period who objected to having his devotions distracted by the sight of the hated sex and, sympathizing with male posterity, stipulated expressly for this division in his deed of endowment.—London Standard.

The Cuban Workman.

The Cuban workman is a kind husband and a fond father of a family usually of patriarchal size. He lives simply. At the bodega he buys his tasajo (jerked beef), rice, vegetables and cheap wine, and very savory are the stews his meek little wife prepares at the one hearty meal of the day, about 5:30 p. m. The Cuban eats but twice daily. He is underfed and overstimulated. He has coffee at 7 a. m., a light breakfast at 11 a. m and eats his chief meal at twilight.—Southern Workman.

Rapid Typewriting.

An official stenographer, Deming, at Albany, years ago reported court proceedings on a typewriter at the rate of 150 and 170 words a minute. He eliminated the vowels, using consonants only, with a dot to separate words. His typewriter was incased in glass to deaden the noise. The paper was run into the machine from a roll. Lawyers could read the notes.

Happiness.

"I am sometimes accused," writes Sir John Lubbock, "of being too optimistic. But I have never ignored nor denied the troubles and sorrows of life. I have never said that men are happy, but only that they might be; that if they are not so the fault is generally their own; that most of us throw away more happiness than we enjoy."

Too Deserving.

A young village maiden had obtained the modesty prize. "I suppose then, my child," said a Parisian lady addressing her, "you are the most modest girl in the parish?"

"There is not the slightest doubt about that, ma'am, and it's a downright shame I didn't get all the other prizes!"—Paris Journal.

A Hard Proposition.

One of the hardest things for a man to do when he has come home late from the club and tried to go to bed without taking off his collar is to explain to his wife he heard it was a good cure for sore throat.—New York Press.

WORK OF CONGRESS.

Tuesday, Feb. 7.

Senate—Joint statehood bill passed. As passed the bill provides for admission of the states of Oklahoma, to be composed of Oklahoma and Indian Territory, and New Mexico, with Arizona eliminated.

House—Freight rate bill under consideration. Mr. McCall (Mass.), in opposing the proposed legislation, declared that it was not to be imagined that the supreme court would stand between the government and its victim, following that utterance with the statement that the courts usually reflected the policy of the party in power.

Wednesday, Feb. 8.

Senate—Hour's time spent in connection with the house of representatives in canvassing the presidential vote. Remainder of the session was devoted to executive business.

House—Question of freight rate regulation considered for five hours. As on the previous days of the debate both Republicans and Democrats claimed the credit for originating the present legislation.

Thursday, Feb. 9.

House—Esch-Townsend bill for the regulation of railroad rates passed by a vote of 325 to 17.

Senate—Day devoted to discussion of the agricultural appropriation bill, but the measure was not completed at the time of adjournment.

Friday, Feb. 10.

Senate—Swayne impeachment case resumed and real work of the trial begun. Several witnesses testified concerning hotel bills paid by Judge Swayne while holding court in Texas. The senate decided to devote the time between 2 and 5 each day to the Swayne inquiry.

House—Four hundred and thirty-three private pension bills passed in an hour and a half. Bill providing a government for the canal zone considered for a short time.

Saturday, Feb. 11.

Senate—Members administered what was designed to be a stinging rebuke to President Roosevelt and Secretary Hay for seeking, as the senate views the situation, to obtain the privilege of making agreements with foreign nations without submitting them to the senate for approval. The word "agreement" as used in article 2 of the arbitration conventions was eliminated and the word "treaty" substituted by a vote of 50 to 9.

House—Number of bills passed, including several relating to steamboat inspection.

Monday, Feb. 13.

House—Session enlivened by a bitter personal debate between Messrs. Sullivan (Mass.) and Hearst (N. Y.). Mr. Sullivan heaped upon Mr. Hearst a tirade of denunciation while the latter by implication charged Mr. Sullivan with complicity in a murder.

Senate—Ten witnesses examined in the Swayne impeachment trial. Remainder of the day devoted to consideration of the agricultural appropriation bill.

EXTENSIVE COLD WAVE.

Low Temperature Experienced Over Immense Area.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—Not during the past six years has the equal of the present cold weather been experienced in the West, and in many places no such low temperatures have been recorded since the establishment of the weather bureau. The area of the cold wave extends from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico, and from the Rocky mountains to the Atlantic. The line of zero weather is about in the latitude of Memphis, but all through the South freezing weather is reported. In the North the mercury has registered anywhere from zero to 45 degrees below, the latter mark being scored at Richland Center, Wis. Trains everywhere in the West and Northwest are from two to twelve hours late and because of the packing of the fine snow in the cuts, it is expected that it will be several days before the roads are able to restore the schedule time even if the weather moderates.

Although details are lacking it is estimated that about a score of people have lost their lives, the majority of the fatalities being in the Southwest, where distances between houses and towns are great, and shelter hard to find.

SIX DEAD, MANY HURT

DISASTER IN A MICHIGAN MINE CAUSED BY TERRIFIC EXPLOSION OF DYNAMITE.

Calumet, Mich., Feb. 9.—Ten thousand pounds of dynamite stored underground in a magazine at the eighth level of No. 3 shaft of the North Kearsarge branch of the Osceola Consolidated mine exploded, killing half a dozen men and injuring many others. One body has been recovered and at least five men are buried in the mine. They are dead beyond the slightest doubt. A drill boy who was burned by escaping steam is dying. The hospital at the mine is crowded with injured men and the mine officials are besieged by relatives of the injured and missing miners. As all the openings into the mine are sealed the fire will eventually be smothered, but when it will be possible to open any of the shafts cannot be said.

The force of the explosion was felt for miles around and men working in portions of the mine some distance from the scene of the explosion were knocked down by the concussion.

The cause of the disaster is shrouded in mystery and may never be discovered, as William Pollitt, Jr., the man who was in charge of the powder, was probably blown into a thousand pieces. No tangible trace of him has been found.

IN FAVOR OF AMERICA.

English Privy Council Renders Decision in Gaynor-Greene Case.

London, Feb. 9.—The privy council rendered its decision during the morning in the Greene-Gaynor case in favor of the American government.

The council reversed the two judgments of Justice Caron of Quebec, rendered Aug. 15, 1902, and ordered the respondents to pay the costs of the appeal.

The decision simply reverses Justice Caron's judgments and leaves Greene and Gaynor under remand as before Justice Caron intervened.

John F. Gaynor and Benjamin D. Greene were indicted in Savannah, Ga., Dec. 8, 1899, charged with embezzlement and defrauding the United States government, together with Captain Oberlin M. Carter, in the performance of government contracts for the improvement of the Savannah river and other river and harbor work in that district, the illicit profits being estimated at $2,000,000.

BOTH PETITIONS REFUSED.

Mrs. Edwards and Samuel Greason May Have to Die.

Philadelphia, Feb. 14.—Unless the board of pardons, which meets in Harrisburg on Wednesday, recommends the commutation of the death sentences of Mrs. Kate Edwards and Samuel Greason, colored, of Berks county, the woman and her alleged accomplice will be hanged on Thursday of this week in the Reading jail for the murder of John Edwards, her husband.

The case came before the supreme court finally Monday on two petitions, one by the woman, in which she held Greason blameless of the murder of her husband and prayed that he be given a new trial, and another by Greason, in which he asked for a reopening of his case on the ground of newly discovered evidence. Both petitions were refused.

ADMITS MARRYING THIRTEEN

But Johann Hoch Denies Killing Any of His Alleged Wives.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—Confronted by living witnesses of his duplicity, at the coroner's investigation Friday, into the death of Mrs. Walcker-Hoch, his last victim, Johann Hoch, the much-married man, according to the police, has admitted his marriage to thirteen women in the past ten years. Eight of these women who at one time bore the name of the alleged bigamist, are now dead, but Hoch declares they died natural deaths and is firm in his denial that he poisoned any one of them.

During the investigation Jacob J. Ness of Cincinnati identified Hoch as the man he had known in that place in 1896 and who married two German widows under the name of Schmitt.

THE NEWSPAPER MUSE.

Here's to the Muse with the ink-stained hands
Who greets us from day unto day;
Who only asks what her worth commands,
With a song for life's wearisome way.
The Muse who is eager to soothe some smart
In the crowd where the soul grows weak,
Who sings the song that is in her heart—
The Muse with a smudge on her cheek.

She's a home-bred lass, with a home-spun gown,
But her speech rings tender and true,
While the gaudy Muse of the pompous town
Seeks to dazzle each stranger's view.
'Mongst those who have stirred men to their best
And bidden them toil and seek
She's fondest by far and the faithfullest,
The Muse with the smudge on her cheek.

As the Dryad remote in some sylvan scene
Loves the woods' melodiousness,
She loves the clink of the type-machine
And the rhyme of the printing press.
And sometimes she whispers into your mind
What you've striven so long to speak,
And she's worth all else that you've left behind,
The Muse with a smudge on her cheek.

A VILLA IN ITALY

IT WAS the last day of March. The signora, attended by her friends was sitting in the cosy library. As she glanced down the columns of the evening paper this short announcement caught her eye: "For sale. The villa of the Count Soragna."

She clasped her hands.

"Just what I have been wanting so long," she cried. "I will go to-morrow and look at the place."

"It has been for sale for five or six years at least," observed one of her friends. "It must be frightfully spider-webby by this time."

"A few spider webs are easily brushed away," replied the signora, who was already busy finding directions as to how to reach the Soragna villa.

"Yes, but the real point of my remark was that if no one has taken the house in that length of time it cannot be very desirable."

"I refuse to allow the point. I am sure that it is only jealousy on your part because you did not find the advertisement yourself," and the signora smiled triumphantly.

The next morning among the rare travelers at the north station at Milan was a lady, tall and distinguished looking. She was evidently accustomed to admiration, for she did not appear to notice the glances universally bestowed upon her, and her whole attention seemed centered in the little guide book in her hand.

"Six months of country life, amid absolute solitude," the signora thought, as she took her seat in the train.

The Villa Soragna was situated in the very midst of the Alpine foothills. There were no towns, scarcely even villages, nothing but woods and fields in the neighborhood. The signora had found her ideal at last.

Not that the signora was an enemy of mankind. On the contrary, she loved her fellow creatures, sometimes in particular, but always in the abstract, as behooves all good Christians. But there were times when she felt an irresistible need to see people from a distance in order to love them more.

The almost empty train ran swiftly on its way, and the signora amused herself when the swift glimpses of the villas dotted here and there upon the road.

"I am sure that mine will not be like any of those," she said with a shrug of her beautiful shoulders. "If they were built by a machine they could not be more alike."

When the train stopped and the signora had descended from her compartment she turned to one of the three hackmen who pressed around her and asked:

"Can you take me to the Villa Soragna?"

"The Villa Soragna!" repeated one of the men, hesitating slightly, as if recalling something he had forgotten.

"Do you not know the way?" said the signora quickly.

"Yes, indeed, Excellency, it is not very far."

"Very well! Let us start," and the signora hastened to take her seat in the rough country coach awaiting her.

"This is certainly the solitude for which I longed," she thought as the peasant drove slowly along the winding road. "I think I could love my fellow creatures very dearly if I was allowed to gaze at them from this remote corner of the world."

At length the wagon stopped before an iron gateway which opened upon a long avenue, leading to a long stone villa, surrounded by graceful trees.

"Is this the Villa Soragna?"

"The same," replied the driver, laconically.

As she spoke a man appeared at the gate.

"You wish to see some one at the villa?" he inquired, raising his hat politely.

The signora smiled in quick appreciation.

"The villa itself, please," she said. "Is it not for sale?"

The man looked at her closely, scrutinizingly, until the signora felt almost abashed. Then slowly opening the door, he said:

"Enter."

The carriage drove lumberingly up the beautiful avenue, shaded by tall Lombardy poplars, now faintly tinged with green. Seen closer, the villa was even more beautiful than from a distance, and the signora drew a long breath of pleasure as she murmured:

"How lovely it is here!"

As she stood on the threshold the stranger who had admitted her appeared again.

"If you will permit me, signora, I will serve as your guide," he said. "I am the steward."

The signora was conscious as a vague feeling of disappointment at the man's words. Surely, she thought, that air of birth and breeding belonged to some one of a higher station. He made her think of Titian's famous "Portrait of a Gentleman," which she had long admired in the Pitti Gallery.

"The proprietor does not live here?" she asked.

"The count is absent," replied her companion, opening the door and standing aside for her to enter.

As the signora went from one beautiful room to another she was more and more delighted. The combined elegance and simplicity of the whole charmed her.

"The people who lived here," she thought, "must be different from others. The very steward shares the olden grace of manners that is so much a part of the building."

She encouraged him to talk, watching him with keen interest. No one of her acquaintances could speak with more charming wit or ease, and as they paused in the rectangular library he referred naturally and with intimate knowledge to the books upon the shelves.

The signora listened attentively. Then feeling as if she must awake somehow from the dream that seemed to hold her she said:

"I am more than satisfied with the villa. Will you please tell me what the count's price is?"

The steward looked troubled.

"The last one who looked at it was told the price was $500,000. But he was a common, coarse sort of man who talked about putting in a steam heating arrangement and electric lights. The count would not have sold the place to him under any consideration."

The signora looked amused.

"Your count is a proud gentleman," she said. "Somewhat original, is he not?"

"Yes, I do not deny it," said the young man. "But people who are original are not always wrong. Born here on the estate, which the Soragnas have owned for centuries, attached to every corner and stone of the house, each room and each bit of furniture is a part of his heart."

"But, excuse me, why then——"

"I know what you would say. Why does the count wish to sell his chateau? Because he is very poor. He has a very modest income, which, with the sale of the villa, would suffice for all his needs. He has wavered between sentiment and material gains. How could he sell his home to a fat old lady with innumerable cages of parrots? He must find some one who would be worthy of his beautiful home."

The signora, touched keenly by the pathetic voice, said warmly:

"Poor Count Soragna!" Then she added, perplexed: "I should never dare present myself before the count for approval. Old maids, like myself, are surely barred."

The steward looked at her in surprise. It was his turn to wonder at her words. Surely so distinguished a woman would not have remained unmarried. But he said, quietly:

"After a certain number of deceptions the count has discovered a plan which works very well. He himself acts as a guide for the visitors to the villa——"

The signora did not wait for him to answer. Turning with questioning eyes she cried:

"Then you are——"

"The Count Soragna, at your service."

If it was not a dream it was certainly like one. The signora, whose chief sin was not timidity, found herself for the first time in her life perhaps distinctly embarrassed. She must have shown it, for the count hastened to say:

"I beg your pardon, a thousand of them; but there was no other method of determining the character of the aspirants to my villa. I love it so truly that I could not give it to anyone who would not love it as I did."

"So you committed the perfidy of springing an examination upon me unprepared?" said the signora dryly. "And do you think you know me now?" She smiled ironically.

"Not at all," said the count, bending gallantly to pick up a glove she had let fall. "To know a woman is always difficult; to affirm that you know her is imprudent. In my case, I merely bow in admiration."

"Bravo, Count Soragna!" and the signora held out her hand, smiling this time with the smile of a woman who has found her master.

"May I take down the sign 'For Sale'?" asked the count as the lady made her way to the door.

The signora pretended to be busy fastening her glove and did not answer.

"May I take down the sign?" He repeated the question humbly.

"What are the conditions?" but the signora did not lift her eyes from the refractory glove.

There was a moment's silence. Then the count said softly:

"Only one. It is that the future owner of the villa will consent to become the Countess Soragna."

Whatever the signora may have expected, she certainly was not prepared for this. Consequently, being quite unable to decide in five minutes to take both a villa and a husband, she continued to button and unbutton the glove. Just then the carriage drove heavily up to the door.

"I will come myself for the answer," cried the count, seizing her hand.

For a moment they looked happily into each other's eyes.

"Au revoir," said the signora, gently.

I consider Wine of Cardui superior to any doctor's medicine I ever used and I know whereof I speak. I suffered for nine months with suppressed menstruation which completely prostrated me. Pains would shoot through my back and sides and I would have blinding headaches. My limbs would swell up and I would feel so weak I could not stand up. I naturally felt discouraged for I seemed to be beyond the help of physicians, but Wine of Cardui came as a God-send to me. I felt a change for the better within a week. After nineteen days treatment I menstruated without suffering the agonies I usually did and soon became regular and without pain. Wine of Cardui is simply wonderful and I wish that all suffering women knew of its good qualities.

No Matter What Doctors Say—We Know That Heart Trouble in Many Cases Can Be Cured.

There are seven main features of heart disease, viz: (1) Weakness or Debility; (2) Rheumatism or Neuralgia; (3) Valvular Disorder; (4) Dilation; (5) Enlargement; (6) Fatty Degeneration; (7) Dropsy.

Documentary evidence will prove thousands of so-called "incurables" have been absolutely cured by Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure.

Patients often have no idea their disease is heart trouble, but ascribe it to Indigestion, Liver Complaint, etc.

Here are some of the symptoms: Shortness of breath after exercise. Smothering Spells. Pain in Chest, left Shoulder and arm. Discomfort in Lying on one side. Fainting Spells. Nervous Cough. Swelling of Feet and Ankles. Paleness of Face and Lips. Palpitation. Nightmare. Irregular Pulse.

"I have great faith in Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and speak of its merits whenever opportunity presents. I can now go up and down stairs with ease, where three weeks ago I could hardly walk one block." One year later.—"I am still in good health; the Heart Cure did so much for me, that I find it a far greater medicine than you claimed it to be."—S. D. YOUNG, D. The Local Overflow........

The Woodmen initiated a couple of candidates into the local camp here last evening.

O. G. Clay, the Great Northern right-of-way agent, arrived here today to spend a day or two looking after some business matters for the company.

The three children of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Kaufer have been very sick this week with a severe attack of croup and bronchial troubles. They are reported as considerably improved at this writing, however.

Erskine Echo: Louis Peranteau who has been operating a cheese factory on his farm three miles north of Mentor, has moved it to Terrebonne and intends to open up for business early in the spring.

A. O. Letvig, the Wylie well-driller was a caller here today. Mr. Letvig talked freely in regard to the county seat removal contest and said that the people of his neighborhood failed to see wherein they would receive any benefit by incurring the additional expense to help out Thief River Falls. The general sentiment seems to be that Thief River Falls is trying to get the people of the county to add extra tax burdens in order to help them attain their selfish ends.

Another Newspaper Change.

Newspaper changes at Thief River Falls have come so thick the past couple of weeks that it has kept everyone the alert to keep track of them. First Frank E. Packard purchases the Press of S. W. Bagley, next he buys out the Review and kills it off. Next he sells John Eastman enough material to put John on easy street and then he turns around and sells the Press to the McDonald Brothers, who had published the Review. The latest deal is announced in this weeks News and it is likely that the McDonalds will take charge of the Press at once, while Packard goes to Crookston. This was a roundabout way of getting the Thief River newspaper field cut down to where it belonged, and it is likely that both papers there will benefit as a result. The Gazette hates to see Packard leave Thief River and the county but wishes the new Press firm unbounded success.

Educational Department.

Edited Under the Direction of Prof. E. W. Chamberlain.

The State High School Inspector, Geo. B. Aiton, has issued his annual report concerning the condition of our State High schools. It is as usual full of valuable information. The following extracts appeal to me as of interest to readers.

To the State High School Board:

Gentlemen: I have pleasure in submitting my eleventh annual report on state high schools.

The number of schools is one hundred sixty-two.

Three sets of statistics have been prepared, giving details of enrollment by schools and by subjects, assessed valuations, rates of taxation, schedules of salaries, and statistics of expenditure for outfit. While, these tables are subject to the chances of clerical error, it is but justice to say that they have been compiled from the official reports made by the superintendents, and are believed to be accurate.

So far as the public is concerned the year has been free from agitation. I find public interest keenly on the alert, watching the school and its product with jealous eye, disposed to be critical, occasionally unreasonably so, of superintendent and teachers, but on the whole, fair-minded and unquestionably loyal to our system of education. For the present criticism takes the form of a demand for better results in the common branches. The schools welcome the criticism for they have, themselves, called it forth by their efforts to remedy the widespread and universally recognized deficiency in this respect. School men were the first to sound the alarm, and are making substantial progress, I am sure, in improving instruction in the common branches. The talk everywhere is of improving, never of abolishing or pulling down.

Internally the year has been restless, not intellectually, but socially. As the schools grow larger and older, the towns fill up with graduates. The establishment of new schools shortens the distance from one to another. The high school is the one organization that brings the young people of adjacent communities into social intercourse regardless of local affiliations. It is not surprising, therefore, that athletic meets, debates, spelling contests and receptions are on the increase. Social intercourse independent of birth and family, however abhorrent to an aristocracy is valuable and even indispensable in a democracy.

As a whole, they are desirable. but the increasing number of social meetings is a serious demand on the time of a high school student. The social affairs of a school should be under strict control. No other part of a superintendent's duties calls for more tact and firmness, or is so severe a test of his popularity and of the degree of respect in which he is held. On this account, if no other, it is imperative that he should possess maturity of judgment formed by experience in previous positions, and that he shall not have passed the day when the social doings of young people have lost their interest for him. Broken programs and lost days are to be avoided as far as possible. "Work first and play afterwards" is a good school motto. Parents can do much by uniting with the school authorities to confine social affairs to Friday evening.

Of the various subjects, German shows the most decided gain, with a gratifying tendency toward a four years' course. English is taking shape as rapidly as could have been expected when traditions are wanting. Latin holds its own well but with an eye on the growth of German. Political economy is not taught in a large number of schools, but is a live subject. Bookkeeping is the only thriving commercial subject. The commercial course, as a course, is not taking root in the smaller towns. The situation in mathematics shows no abatement of interest. The classification of history is in some present confusion, due to the transition from the old nomenclature of ancient, medieval and modern to that of ancient and modern, but the subject as a whole is gaining ground rapidly. Civics as an unrelated subject holds on better than I wish it did. Physiology is getting on a far better basis. The number pursuing the subject without a zoological basis is growing smaller. Physiography shows unwonted activity. As taught it is a cheap subject requiring little effort on the part of instructors, evoking still less on the part of students. Zoology is making substantial intelligent progress. Chemistry and Physics are standard in every school. Some steps should be taken to make Physics less difficult. Astronomy would be a favorite subject if it were possible to find more room for it. I do not understand why freehand drawing is not more popular unless it be the difficulty or rather expense of providing efficient instruction. It is certainly one of the most delightful subjects in a school course. The senior common branches are becoming a well recognized part of the course. Manual training has gained several schools.

CORAL EASY TO IMITATE.

Even Celluloid May Be Shaped So as to Appear a Good Representation.

"If you wish to buy coral beads," remarks the jewel enthusiast in the Philadelphia Record, "you must go to a reliable dealer. Why, even celluloid may be so shaped and tinted that the average person would not know the difference. There's one way to tell, however, if the chain be cheap. In this case the very perfection of the beads will convince the would-be purchaser of their spuriousness.

"A string of small beads at say $8 or $10, will be full of little imperfections if they be real. The larger the bead of real coral the more expensive. The old carved coral jewelry of long ago went out because it was imitated in celluloid till you couldn't tell the difference between pieces that cost $3 and $50. Just because the pretty beads in delicate pink are so expensive most persons fancy the branch coral chains, five feet in length, that sell at $1 and less, are not real. But they are, and they are cheap because they are made of the tip ends of the coral branches, which are too small to be carved into anything at all. All along the Italian coast these chains are sold for a lire and a half (30 cents), Sorrento being the favored purchasing place."

RUNNING AUTO FOR TIE PIN

Perfect Little Machine Used as Ornament Is More Expensive Than a Touring Car.

"Here's a novelty in expensive geegaws," said the jeweler to a New York World reporter, "that is very popular this season among that class which has more money than it knows how to spend. He took from a little satin-plush box a miniature automobile, about an inch and a half long, and sent it spinning across the show case. It struck two or three other articles of jewelry, and, in true auto style, bowled them over. The little automobile was perfection in manufacture. The frame, made of platinum, had not a part missing. The hubs of the little wheels the wheels being not much larger in diameter than a pencil), were diamonds; diamonds ran along the sides of the seats, and the seats themselves were made of several rubies forming a radiant, though hard, cushion. The lamps were a ruby and an emerald on either side, and a diamond in the center of the dashboard. On the back of the auto was a pin by which to attach it to the neck of the dres tag was $7,000. EULOGY ON A BRICK.

INSCRIPTION WRITTEN BY ORDER OF ASSYRIAN KING.

Is Translated Into English by Prof. Torrey, of Yale University — Block of Clay Made 2,700 Years Ago.

New Haven, Conn.—An interesting inscription, made upon a sun-baked brick some 2,700 years ago, by order of Shalmanese II., king of Assyria, has just been translated into English by Prof. Charles C. Torrey, of Yale university. The brick has been in the possession of Yale for almost 50 years, but the cuneiform writing in the inscription is of a rude character, and a previous attempt at translation in 1870 was only partly successful.

The inscription is a short eulogy of the king and his father. It ends in a manner calculated to remind one of the old nursery rhyme about "The House That Jack Built." The full inscription, as translated by Prof. Torrey, is:

"Shalmaneser, the great king, the mighty king, ruler of the universe, king of the land of Assyria; son of Ashurnasirpal, the great king, the mighty king, ruler of the universe, king of the land of Assyria; son of Tukulti-Ninab, ruler of the universe, king of the land of Assyria, and he built the tower of the City of Calah."

What the tower of Calah was, and why it was considered of sufficient importance to be mentioned as the chief fact worthy of remembrance in connection with this "ruler of the universe" with the hard name, nobody knows. An attempt was made some years ago to identify the tower mentioned as the Tower of Babel of Biblical fame, mention of it being made in another ancient Assyrian inscription as a noteworthy achievement. However, it is now generally conceded that the ground for supposing them to be the same is very slight.

King Shalmaneser, the author of the inscription, is known in history as among the first Assyrian kings to make captives of the Hebrews. A description of his attacks upon them is given in 2 Kings 29 and 30.

From other sources it is evident that the king was also a practical joker of a grim sort. He himself relates, in another brick, which was presented to Yale at the same time with one recently translated, that he conquered many tribes, and some of them he boiled in pitch and some he made slaves, putting rings in their noses to increase their tractability. He is also said to be the originator of the "turkey dance," now sometimes seen at country fairs, the principle of which is the well-known fact that a turkey, or "anybody" else, dislikes to stand still when the floor beneath the feet is hot. Shalmaneser is said to have induced his captives to dance in a similar manner.

THE OLDEST CONFEDERATE

Patrick Clark of Lucky Hill, Va., Veteran of Three Wars, Passes the Century Mark.

Richmond, Va.—In Patrick Clark, of Lucky Hill, on the Southern railway, between Remington and Bealeton, Fauquier county can boast of probably the oldest confederate veteran living to-day.

Born in Ireland in 1794, he emigrated to this country when a small lad, with his parents. At 18 he enlisted in the American army, and served through the entire war of 1812.

In 1847 he joined the Eighth United States regulars, sailed from New York city to Vera Cruz, was placed in Gen. Worth's famous division, and took a very active part in all the fighting that led up to the capture of the City of Mexico. At the close of the Mexican war he was discharged at the Jefferson barracks, in Missouri.

He served four years in the confederate army, a member of the Sixth Louisiana infantry, Early's division, army of northern Virginia, and was a participant in some of the fiercest engagements of that bloody period.

His general health is excellent. He can walk around, appears to be very cheerful, and experiences a great delight in describing the numerous conflicts in which he has taken part. He is entirely blind, is very hard of hearing, and almost entirely dependent upon a pension of $12 a month which he receives from the national government for his services in the Mexican war.

NOVEL SMOKING CONTEST.

German Clubman Wins $125 by Making His Cigar Burn Over Two Hours Without Going Out.

Berlin.—At one of the clubs here a lively dispute has just been settled by a novel competition.

A discussion having arisen in the smoking-room as to how long a cigar would last a smoker without going out, it was agreed that the six persons present should light at the same moment cigars of the same brand and thus settle the matter.

One of them was unable to make his smoke longer than half an hour; another 50 minutes. The third smoked just an hour, the fourth an hour and a half, and the fifth one hour and fifty minutes. Finally the sixth alone was smoking, and he continued beyond the two hour mark, and won the prize of 500 marks, or $125

WANTS KILLING PROBED

Brother of Man Killed By Officer Cernousek, At Thief River Falls, Last November Asks Investigation.

A brother of John Donaldson, the man who was shot and killed at Thief River Falls the second day of last November by Officer Cernousek of Thief River Falls is at Thief River where he will investigate his brother's death. He but recently heard of the killing of his brother and has determined to sift the matter to the bottom and if any one was guilty in connection with the matter, to push the prosecution if he can get the case reopened.

The details of the affair were published in the Gazette at the time of the shooting and were in substance, as follows:

John Donaldson, who resided at 118 Washington avenue, South Minneapolis had been working on the railroad north of Thief River Falls. He came to town and for a few days drank quite heavily and boasted that the police could do nothing with him. The evening before he was killed he had been creating a disturbance in several places and about midnight entered a restaurant and refused to leave it when ordered to do so. The proprietor of the place called an officer a short time afterwards and Frank Cernousek responded but Donaldson had left the place before Cernousek arrived. Cernousek left the restaurant to search for Donaldson and found him in an alley. Donaldson showed fight according to the story of the officer and tackled him. Cernousek claimed Donaldson had him down and threatened to kill him. Cernousek struggled till Donaldson got him by the throat and as a last resort Cernousek claims that he pulled his gun and fired, but did not intend to kill his assailant.

The bullet entered at on side of Donaldson's nose and taking an upward course lodged in his brain, death resulting a short time afterwards.

At the hearing, which was attended by County Attorney Grady from Red Lake Falls Cernousek was exhonerated. Donaldson's brother will endeavor to have the case reopened and have a more thorough investigation.

New Bridge Almost Done.

Plummer Pioneer: The new bridge cross the Clearwater river just north of town is almost ready for public use. The bridge proper is actually finished except the railing which is not quite completed. The road between the bridge and the town has been well cleared and the low places fixed in good shape with corduroy work and culverts. This part of the work is not yet finished, but Brown and Buskirk, who are doing the work, expect to to have all done in a few days.

Julius Pleth has handled the finances in the matter, most of the money being raised by subscriptions among the business men of Plummer and some donations from non-resident land owness. The list of who have paid their share was recently published in the Pioneer, but since that time Messers. C. N. Bourdon and L. A. Kaufer of Red Lake Falls have each contributed $10 to the fund.

BOOZE AS INDUCEMENT

Thief River Falls Endeavoring to Prove Their Assertions That Whiskey Would Buy Votes.

Representatives of Thief River Falls have been out through Garnes and other towns in the eastern part of the county this week, circulating their petition for the removal of the court house of Red Lake county, and The Gazette is reliably informed that their buggies have been regular travelling saloons, no less than twenty to forty gallons of whiskey being provided for every township.

It was freely stated at Thief River Falls when they first started out with their petition that they could buy every vote in Red Lake county with a jug of whiskey, and it is plainly evident that they are working along these lines.

It is certainly not creditable on their part to cast abroad such an imputation and the people of the county should resent it in every manner possible. Red Lake county possesses as many good people as any county in the state of Minnesota and the Thief Riverites insinuations that whiskey would be all that was needed to carry their point is indeed casting a bold statement to the rest of the world.

The people are fast finding out that all this holler from the up-river town is merely to help themselves individually at the expense of the taxpayers, and that they have absolutely no respect for the wishes or feelings of the people at large.

BAND PROGRAM READY

Red Lake Falls Concert Band to Appear in February Recital.—First Class Program Prepared.

The February concert by the Red Lake Falls band will be given at the Metropolitan opera house Friday evening of this week, and the program published below should be an indication that the concert will be one of the best in the history of the organization.

One of the features of the concert that should prove an exceptional drawing card is a baritone solo by Mr. J. B. Armstrong, and as his work is so well known in this city there is every reason to suppose that he will be greeted by a packed house. Other special features will be a declamation, and a quartette by four young ladies of the high school.

The band numbers are all exceedingly catchy, the heavy number, "Maritana" being a sister number to the great "Il Trovotore" which pleased the people so well at the last concert. The marches are new and up-to-date, and altogether the program is one that should be highly enjoyable.

The band is deserving of the support of every man, woman and child in the city, and there should be a large advance seat sale for tomorrow night's concert.

The following is the program:

PART I.

March .... W. P. Chambers.
"The Boys of the Old Brigade."
Overture .... Keler-Bela.
"Lustspiel."
Baritone Solo .... J. Hartmann.
Grand Fantasia—"Pretty Jane."
Mr. J. B. Armstrong.
Declamation .... Anonymous
"The Polish Boy."
Miss Ina Linnihan.

PART II.

Polka .... A. Parlow.
"The Anvil."
Grand Selection .... Wallace.
"Maritana."
Spartan Quartette .... F. W. Root.
"Within a Little Wood."
Misses Margaret Kaus, Iza Tibbetts, Jessie Carver and Clara Marchand.
Waltz .... E. Waldteufel.
"L'Estudiantina."
March .... F. von Blon.
"Durch Kampf zum Sieg."

An Enjoyable Affair.

By far the most enjoyable social event of the present season was held at the Metropolitan opera house Tuesday evening of this week, when the young men—and some of the old ones—of the city entertained their ladies at a social dancing party, returning the compliment given them a year ago. The opera house was most beautifully decorated to represent a large parlor, and numerous settees, cozy corners and lawn benches were arranged for the convenience of the dancers. The full band orchestra furnished the music, and is stated that this organization easily exceeded all former attempts in the way of perfect music. At twelve o'clock supper was served at the Grand View and this feature was one of the most enjoyable of the evening. Host Kreuger provided liberaliy in the way of good eatables for the party, and ample justice was accorded the repast. The dancing and visiting continued until an exceedingly late hour, but the enjoyment of the event was so unanimous that not a thought was entertained of going home until almost time for the daylight signs. The occasion will long be remembered as one of the grandest in the history of the city, and the committee on arrangements are receiving many congratulations on the successful manner in which it was carried out.

A Touching Story

is the saving from death, of the baby girl of Geo. A. Eyler, Cumberland, Md. He writes: "At the age of 11 months, our little girl was in declining health, with serious Throat Trouble, and two physicians gave her up. We were almost in despair, when we resolved to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. The first bottle gave relief; after taking four bottles she was cured, and is now in perfect health." Never fails to relieve and cure a cough or cold. SPECIAL GRAND JURY

Judge Watts Will Issue Order Calling Special Jury to Investigate Shooting Affray at Thief River.

The Gazette learns that within a few days His Honor Judge William Watts will issue an order for the calling of a special grand jury for Red Lake county, the object being to investigate the shooting affray that took place at Thief River Falls last fall. It will be remembered that officer Cernousek shot and killed a man named Donaldson and the investigators into the affair exhonerated Cernousek and claimed that the shooting was done in self defense. This week a brother of the dead man arrived at Thief River Falls and wants the case reopened and an investigation made, and Judge Watts has signified his willingness to call the jury and have the matter looked into.

There seems to be a difference of opinion at the up-river city in regard to the affair, and it is likely that considerable evidence will be introduced on both sides.

It is reported that the grand jury will also look into some other matters in the county, and some fun may be looked forward to if they do.

YOUNG PEOPLE WED.

Augusta Gerlach and Fred Leherer Joined in Wedlock.

At the home of the bride's parents west of the city at two o'clock Tuesday afternoon occured the marriage of Miss Augusta Gerlach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gerlach, to Mr. Fred Leherer, a prominent young man of Polk Center township, the Rev. Val. Kern, of Wylie, performing the ceremony. Ernest Gerlach and Wm. Leherer were groomsmen, while the Misses Minnie Gerlach and Lottie Leherer did the honours as bridesmaids.

The ceremony was witnessed by the relatives and a number of invited friends of the young couple, after which the party partook of a bounteous wedding breakfast. The happy couple were the recipients many beautiful and useful wedding presents.

The contracting parties are well and favorably known to the people of this part of the county. The bride is an accomplished young lady and has been reared to womanhood in this neighborhood. The groom is a prominent young farmer of Polk Center township, and the young couple will at once go to keeping house on their Polk Center farm.

The Gazette joins the many friends of the couple in wishing them continued happiness and prosperity.

AFTER HER RIGHTS.

Mrs. B. W. Gray, of This City, Wants White Earth Land.

Mrs. B. W. Gray of this city asks allotments for herself and son on the White Earth Indian reservation, claiming to be a daughter of Pierre Bottineau the old Indian guide.

Pierre Bottineau was perhaps one of the most interesting characters that the northwest ever produced. He was a friend of the early settlers and acted as guide on many occasions and in those troublous times his services were invaluable. The route of all the traffic was along the famous Pembina trail which passes out west of the city on the sand ridge and it was the work of the old guide to pilot the long trains of Red River carts along this trail. He founded the town of Grand Forks.

Mrs. Gray claims that she is the daughter of the old guide and that there is pure Chippewa blood flowing in the veins of herself and son. She asks that she and her son be given their allotments on the White Earth Indian reserve.

BY THE SUICIDE ROUTE

Nels Otterness, Prominent Business Man of St. Hilaire, Kills Himself in a Minneapolis Hotel.

The people of the city were greatly shocked last evening to hear that Nels G. Otterness, one of the best known business men of St. Hilaire, had been found dead in a room in a Minneapolis hotel, and this morning's papers brought the particulars, it appearing that Mr. Otterness committed suicide by turning on the gas in a room and laying down to die.

The body was found yesterday morning by the clerk of the hotel who became suspicious at the continued silence in the room and by the strong smell of gas. The door was broken open and Otterness found cold in death. His relatives and business acquaintances at St. Hilaire were immediately notified of the terrible affair and an investigation of the dead man's business interests brings to light much which substantiates the suicide theory.

Otterness last fall succeeded Julius Pleth in his large land business at St. Hilaire and has done what was presumed by his friends to be a very thriving business. He was interested in a large hardware and furniture store at St. Hilaire and also had a half interest in a general store at Hazel. A young man of exceptional habits and marked ability in business, Mr. Otterness is the last man in the world whom his friends would believe the victim of his own rash destructive hand. Events are as they are however, and no other solution of the case is possible.

Otterness when found dead in his room had not a penny upon his person or in his grips; his grips and bags had not been opened after his entry into the room and from the fact that no burned matches were found, it is evident that he did not light the gas and then blow it out, a procedure which might have made death accidental.

At St. Hilaire last evening the general concensus of opinion was that Otterness had killed himself, while temporarily deranged because of financial reverses. He has a host of friends at the Saintly village who deplore his rash act and sympathize with his friends and relatives. A prominent young lady of St. Hilaire it is understood was engaged to be married to Mr. Otterness during the coming summer.

Otterness was well known and greatly liked by the people of this city, who were greatly shocked to hear of his sudden death. His partner A. M. Edstron left last evening over the Soo for Minneapolis and it is likely that his body will be shipped to his home near Cannon Falls for interment.

A VISITORS' DAY.

Public to Have Chance to Inspect Work of Schools.

Prof. Chamberlain announces that Saturday, March 11, will be made visitors' day at the schools in this city and has arranged a plan whereby the public will be given an opportunity of inspecting the work done by the schools during the past term.

The work will all be gathered and displayed in two rooms at the Lafayette building, and that of each grade kept together. The display will be made on the order of a display at a fair and the public can visit the building and review all the work in a very short time.

This is a new feature and should meet with the hearty approval of the people of the city. There is nothing that will spur the pupils to greater effort more than the interest of the parents and friends in heir work, and visitors' day should be made an important occasion by the friends of the school.

WANTS KILLING PROBED

Brother of Man Killed By Officer Cernousek, At Thief River Falls, Last November Asks Investigation.

A brother of John Donaldson, the man who was shot and killed at Thief River Falls the second day of last November by Officer Cernousek at Thief River Falls is at Thief River where he will investigate his brother's death. He but recently heard of the killing of his brother and has determined to sift the matter to the bottom and if any one was guilty in connection with the matter, to push the prosecution if he can get the case reopened.

The details of the affair were published in the Gazette at the time of the shooting and were in substance, as follows:

John Donaldson, who resided at [illegible] Washington avenue, South Minneapolis had been working on a railroad north of Thief River Falls. He came to town and for a few days drank quite heavily and boasted that the police could do nothing with him. The evening before he was killed he had been creating a disturbance in several places and about midnight entered a restaurant and refused to leave it when ordered to do so. The proprietor of the place called an officer a short time afterwards and Frank Cernousek responded but Donaldson had left the place before Cernousek arrived. Cernousek left the restaurant to search for Donaldson and found him in an alley. Donaldson showed fight, according to the story of the officer and tackled him. Cernousek claimed Donaldson had him down and threatened to kill him. Cernousek struggled till Donaldson got him by the throat and as a last resort Cernousek claims that he pulled his gun and fired, but did not intend to kill his assailant.

The bullet entered at on side of Donaldson's nose and taking an upward course lodged in his brain, death resulting a short time afterwards.

At the hearing, which was attended by County Attorney Grady from Red Lake Falls Cernousek was exhonerated. Donaldson's brother will endeavor to have the case reopened and have a more thorough investigation.

New Bridge Almost Done.

Plummer Pioneer: The new bridge cross the Clearwater river just north of town is almost ready for public use. The bridge proper is actually finished except the railing which is not quite completed. The road between the bridge and the town has been well cleared and the low places fixed in good shape with corduroy work and culverts. This part of the work is not yet finished, but Brown and Buskirk, who are doing the work, expect to have all done in a few days.

Julius Pleth has handled the finances in the matter, most of the money being raised by subscriptions among the business men of Plummer and some donations from non-resident land owness. The list of who have paid their share was recently published in the Pioneer, but since that time Messers. C. N. Bourdon and L. A. Kaufer of Red Lake Falls have each contributed $10 to the fund.

BOOZE AS INDUCEMENT

Thief River Falls Endeavoring to Prove Their Assertions That Whiskey Would Buy Votes.

Representatives of Thief River Falls have been out through Garnes and other towns in the eastern part of the county this week, circulating their petition for the removal of the court house of Red Lake county, and The Gazette is reliably informed that their buggies have been regular travelling saloons, no less than twenty to forty gallons of whiskey being provided for every township.

It was freely stated at Thief River Falls when they first started out with their petition that they could buy every vote in Red Lake county with a jug of whiskey, and it is plainly evident that they are working along these lines.

It is certainly not creditable on their part to cast abroad such an imputation and the people of the county should resent it in every manner possible. Red Lake county possesses as many good people as any county in the state of Minnesota and the Thief Riverites insinuations that whiskey would be all that was needed to carry their point is indeed casting a bold statement to the rest of the world.

The people are fast finding out that all this holler from the up-river town is merely to help themselves individually at the expense of the taxpayers, and that they have absolutely no respect for the wishes or feelings of the people at large.

BAND PROGRAM READY

Red Lake Falls Concert Band to Appear in February Recital.—First Class Program Prepared.

The February concert by the Red Lake Falls band will be given at the Metropolitan opera house Friday evening of this week, and the program published below should be an indication that the concert will be one of the best in the history of the organization.

One of the features of the concert that should prove an exceptional drawing card is a baritone solo by Mr. J. B. Armstrong, and as his work is so well known in this city there is every reason to suppose that he will be greeted by a packed house. Other special features will be a declamation, and a quartette by four young ladies of the high school.

The band numbers are all exceedingly catchy, the heavy number, "Maritana" being a sister number to the great "Il Trovotore" which pleased the people so well at the last concert. The marches are new and up-to-date, and altogether the program is one that should be highly enjoyable.

The band is deserving of the support of every man, woman and child in the city, and there should be a large advance seat sale for tomorrow night's concert.

The following is the program:

PART I.

March . . . . W. P. Chambers.
"The Boys of the Old Brigade."
Overture . . . . Keler-Bela.
"Lustspiel."
Baritone Solo . . . . J. Hartmann.
Grand Fantasia- "Pretty Jane."
Mr. J. B. Armstrong.
Declamation . . . . Anonymous
"The Polish Boy."
Miss Ina Llunihan.

PART II.

Polka . . . . A. Parlow.
"The Anvil."
Grand Selection . . . . Wallace.
"Maritana."
Spartan Quartette . . . . F. W. Root.
"Within a Little Wood."
Misses Margaret Kaus. Iza Tibbetts. Jessie Carver and Clara Marchand.
Waltz . . . . E. Waldteufel.
"L'Estudiantina."
March . . . . F. von Blon.
"Durch Kamf zum Sieg."

An Enjoyable Affair.

By far the most enjoyable social event of the present season was held at the Metropolitan opera house Tuesday evening of this week, when the young men—and some of the old ones—of the city entertained their ladies at a social dancing party, returning the compliment given them a year ago. The opera house was most beautifully decorated to represent a large parlor, and numerous settees, cozy corners and lawn benches were arranged for the convenience of the dancers. The full band orchestra furnished the music, and is stated that this organization easily exceeded all former attempts in the way of perfect music. At twelve o'clock supper was served at the Grand View and this feature was one of the most enjoyable of the evening. Host Kreuger provided liberally in the way of good eatables for the party, and ample justice was accorded the repast. The dancing and visiting continued until an exceedingly late hour, but the enjoyment of the event was so unanimous that not a thought was entertained of going home until almost time for the daylight signs. The occasion will long be remembered as one of the grandest in the history of the city, and the committee on arrangements are receiving many congratulations on the successful manner in which it was carried out.

A Touching Story

is the saving from death, of the baby girl of Geo. A. Eyler, Cumberland, Md. He writes: "At the age of 11 months, our little girl was in declining health, with serious Throat Trouble, and two physicians gave her up. We were almost in despair, when we resolved to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. The first bottle gave relief; after taking four bottles she was cured, and is now in perfect health." Never fails to relieve and cure a cough or cold. SPECIAL GRAND JURY

Judge Watts Will Issue Order Calling Special Jury to Investigate Shooting Affray at Thief River.

The Gazette learns that within a few days His Honor Judge William Watts will issue an order for the calling of a special grand jury for Red Lake county, the object being to investigate the shooting affray that took place at Thief River Falls last fall. It will be remembered that officer Cernousek shot and killed a man named Donaldson and the investigators into the affair exhonerated Cernousek and claimed that the shooting was done in self defense. This week a brother of the dead man arrived at Thief River Falls and wants the case reopened and an investigation made, and Judge Watts has signified his willingness to call the jury and have the matter looked into.

There seems to be a difference of opinion at the up-river city in regard to the affair, and it is likely that considerable evidence will be introduced on both sides.

It is reported that the grand jury will also look into some other matters in the county, and some fun may be looked forward to if they do.

YOUNG PEOPLE WED.

Augusta Gerlach and Fred Leherer Joined in Wedlock.

At the home of the bride's parents west of the city at two o'clock Tuesday afternoon occured the marriage of Miss Augusta Gerlach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gerlach, to Mr. Fred Leherer, a prominent young man of Polk Center township, the Rev. Val. Kern, of Wylie, performing the ceremony. Ernest Gerlach and Wm. Leherer were groomsmen, while the Misses Minnie Gerlach and Lottie Leherer did the honors as bridesmaids.

The ceremony was witnessed by the relatives and a number of invited friends of the young couple, after which the party partook of a bounteous wedding breakfast. The happy couple were the recipients many beautiful and useful wedding presents.

The contracting parties are well and favorably known to the people of this part of the county. The bride is an accomplished young lady and has been reared to womanhood in this neighborhood. The groom is a prominent young farmer of Polk Center township, and the young couple will at once go to keeping house on their Polk Center farm.

The Gazette joins the many friends of the couple in wishing them continued happiness and prosperity.

AFTER HER RIGHTS.

Mrs. B. W. Gray, of This City, Wants White Earth Land.

Mrs. B. W. Gray of this city asks allotments for herself and son on the White Earth Indian reservation, claiming to be a daughter of Pierre Bottineau the old Indian guide.

Pierre Bottineau was perhaps one of the most interesting characters that the northwest ever produced. He was a friend of the early settlers and acted as guide on many occasions and in those troublous times his services were invaluable. The route of all the traffic was along the famous Pembina trail which passes out west of the city on the sand ridge and it was the work of the old guide to pilot the long trains of Red River carts along this trail. He founded the town of Grand Forks.

Mrs. Gray claims that she is the daughter of the old guide and that there is pure Chippewa blood flowing in the veins of herself and son. She asks that she and her son be given their allotments on the White Earth Indian reserve.

PLUMMER

(From the Pioneer.)

Banker J. A. Duffy was a business visitor here on Monday from Red Lake Falls.

W. G. Brown transacted business at Red Lake Falls this week returning Thursday.

J. E. Buskirk went to Red Lake on Thursday to visit with his family. Three of his children are ill but not seriously.

Louis Hanson was down from Thief River Falls Wednesday night looking over the business done at his company's elevator here.

Frank E. Hunt, the Red Lake Falls hardware dealer, was here Thursday on business and also managed to say a few words in favor of his end of the county seat question.

Ed. L. Healy, the Red Lake Falls land man, was a business visitor here on Monday. He had with him the carcass of a big wolf which he had killed while driving through the country a few miles from here.

H. H. Finrow was taken ill with what seems to be an attack of the grip on Thursday and was forced to take his bed. His many friends and patrons hope to see him around again in a very short time.

Brown & Buskirk have erected a large ice house on their property and have commenced putting up ice enough to last themselves and the rest of the people of Plummer during the coming hot weather period.

P. K. Olson was called to Red Lake Falls on Tuesday by the illness of his wife. A little baby girl who was born to them that morning was laid to rest the next day. Mrs. Olson is reported as progressing nicely.

Christ Christianson was taken ill on Monday and was forced to go to his home a few miles west of here for rest treatment. During his absence Adelard Vandrin filled his position as 'chef' at the "Welcome" restaurant.

Chas. Sall of Garnes went down to Crookston Thursday to make final proof on his homestead yesterday before the land office officials. J. E. Buskirk and Ralph Green went along with him to prove to Uncle Sam's satisfaction that he had lived up to the requirements of the homestead law.

H. H. Finrow has completed the brick and cement work on his cellar and now has one of the best cellars in the county for the storage of vegetables and produce. Work on his living rooms over the store is also finished and he expects to move his family in from his old home at Plummer's dam early next week.

Albert Ogard arrived from Ada yesterday morning and at once began to make arrangements for the erection of a big farm machinery warehouse and office on the lots purchased by his brother last week. The new building will be 24 by 60 feet and work on it will be commenced the first of the coming week. Mr. Ogard expects to have it ready for occupancy in about three weeks provided the weather is good.

The local camp of the M. W. A. had the hottest time in its history last Saturday night when eleven new members were taken in. The initiation work was done by the Red Lake Falls team and they made the candidates step lively. About fifty visitors were present from Thief River Falls and Red Lake Falls. On next Saturday night another class of new members will be initiated and a big time is anticipated.

During the past two weeks Julius Ploth purchased four nice farms close to the Clearwater river a few miles east of Plummer. The lands purchased and prices paid are as follows: The John Lundblad farm of 160 acres, in section 6, Equality township, $2,400; the Jon Lundell farm of 100 acres in same section $1,400; the Alvin Arveson farm 160 acres, section 7 Equality, $2,200; and the Swan Arveson place, 160 acres section 12, Garnes $2,400.

BADGER.

Mrs. E. Morinville is still on the sick list.

Charlie Boucier, of St. Hilaire, was a guest of Miss Bertha Quesnelle Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ducharme drove to Red Lake Falls Monday on business.

Jack Remick, of Mentor, passed through this vicinity Monday on his way to Red Lake Falls.

Damase Lachance drove to Red Lake Falls Monday with a load of grain and found the roads in a bad condition for loads.

Messrs. Dolphis Champoux, Joseph Laurent and Andrew Prudhomme and wives were visitors at the home of Adelard Laurent Monday.

The Misses Zelia and Anna Quesnell drove to Terrebonne last Friday. Miss Zelia is the organist in the Terrebonne church and last Friday was an evening of practice for her.

The Misses Marie and Eugenie Perrault and Annie Ducharme, of Perrault station, driven by Mr. "Rudy" passed through these limits Sunday afternoon on their way to "Happy Terrebonne."

Mr. and Mrs. Willie St. Ives accompanied by Wm. Millette, all of Crookston, drove out to Badger Saturday and visited with Mrs. St. Ives' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Evangelist Quesuelle returning home Monday.

Miss Jennie LaBissoniere, one of Red Lake Falls most popular and charming young ladies, visited with her numerous friends here last week and needless to say it was a surprising visit for one and all as Miss Jennie's calls at Badger are very few but each call is easily remembered.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Prudhomme who are numbered amongs't Crookston pioneers accompanied by their son, Arthur, visited with their relatives and many friends over Saturday and Sunday and needless to say they were welcomed by hearty greetings and good friendly shakes from all over.

After a separation of ten years one of the pioneers of primitive Red Lake Falls pays a visit to his relatives and friends numbering to the hundreds. This visitor (who is traveling incognito) is really carried away to note the immense progress of Red Lake Falls and vicinity in all lines. One can hardly realize of the magical improvements of the city of Red Lake Falls, for its rich structures in the way of residences, business buildings, schools, churches, etc., everything has an odor of,—of,—of,—of New York. Yes, indeed, this visitor is carried away when he dreams that he's in greater New York and to meet so many old friends of the (79's) who shake him till his bones ache. Among other things he said: "One of the great incidents which this visitor will never forget is that sweet clarinet solo given in his honor by your distinguished Prof. Onstad, I honestly believe that had it been rendered for our great President himself, it couldn't have been better. I really felt so honored and flattered that I could hardly draw my breath. As to the Red Lake Falls band taken in toto, I sincerely believe that it compares well with any band in the Northwest. I don't place myself as a connisseure but according to my very limited judgement it can compare well in a concourse such as we had at the Elks carnival in Tacoma two years ago. I will also carry a happy rememberance of the kindly and hospitable receptions at the hands of my friends in Badger and Terrebonne. I would gladly give the names of those who entertained me, but as there are scores who were anxious to do so, I will therefore abstain of mentioning those who suffered from my visit, except Michael and Evangelist Quesnelle. I wish to be thoroughly understood when I say from the bottom of my heart that Red Lake Falls has been and is now on the real road of prosperity." Incognito. This speaker, though I shall not mention his name, is from the celestial West and is an uncle of the Badger news correspondent, He is an excellent man and will long be remembered by his many friends.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists A. L. Reichert.

GOLDEN NUGGETS FOR SALLOW PEOPLE

DEED OF ASSASSIN

GRAND DUKE SERGIUS, UNCLE OF THE CZAR, MEETS TERRIBLE DEATH AT MOSCOW.

BOMB IS THROWN BENEATH HIS CARRIAGE AND HIS BODY IS TORN TO FRAGMENTS.

TRAGEDY THE ACT OF LONE TERRORIST, DRESSED IN GARB OF A WORKINGMAN.

Moscow, Feb. 18.—Within the walls of the far-famed Kremlin palace, and almost underneath the historic tower from which Ivan the Terrible watched the heads of his enemies falling beneath the axe on the famous Red Square, and within a stone's throw of the great hall of Moscow, Grand Duke Sergius, uncle and brother-in-law of Emperor Nicholas and the chief of the reactionaries, met a terrible death shortly before 3 o'clock p. m. The deed was committed by a single terrorist, who threw beneath the carriage of the grand duke a bomb charged with the same high power explosive which wrought Minister von Plehve's death. The missile was packed with nails and fragments of iron and its explosion tore the imperial victim's body to ghastly fragments, which strewed the snow for yards around. Every window in the great lofty facade of the palace of justice was shattered and bits of iron were imbedded deeply in the walls of the arsenal, 100 yards away.

GRAND DUKE SEROIUS.

The assassin belongs to the noted "fighting group" of the Socialist Revolutionary party, which has removed other prominent officials and long since passed sentence of death upon Grand Duke Sergius. The grand duke knew that he stood in the shadow of death. He was the recipient of repeated warnings, and elaborate precautions were taken to insure his safety; but all the resources of the gendarmerie, secret police and soldiers proved unavailable against an attempt almost exactly duplicating the procedure that caused the death of Minister of the Interior von Plehve last July.

Assassin Thrown to the Ground.

The assassin was thrown to the ground and stunned by the force of the explosion; but he quickly arose and ran toward the gate, attempting to escape. His haste and the blood streaming from his face where he had been wounded by fragments of the bomb, attracted the attention of a sergeant of police, who seized him before he could draw his revolver. The man did not deny his crime, but, on the contrary, gloried in its success. He expressed his satisfaction that he had been able to kill the grand duke without involving the latter's innocent wife. He avowed his membership in the Social Revolutionary organization, but refused to give his name, and at the jail his papers were found to be forged.

The grand duke's coachman, who was badly injured, was removed to a hospital. Late at night he was still living.

Grand Duchess Elizabeth, who has been engaged daily in the task of preparing comforts for the sick and wounded Russian soldiers in Manchuria, was about to drive to the palace to join her husband. When she heard of what had befallen the grand duke she was driven in haste to the scene of the tragedy and knelt hatless and coatless on the bloodstained snow and murmured prayers for the welfare of the soul of her slain consort.

The scene of the crime was the great open triangle within the Kremlin, bounded by the arsenal treasury and courts of justice, in one angle of which is the Nicholas, or little palace, where the grand duke dwelt. At the opposite corner is the Nikolsky gate, the exit to the town beyond the ramparts.

Assassinated by Armenians.

Tiflis, Transcaucasia, Feb. 18.—A district official named Gnoutoff has been assassinated at Igdyr by Armenians. The motive for the crime was political. At Vagarshapad, Transcaucasia, the mayor has been shot and killed near his residence.

ALL MAY BE KILLED

ONE HUNDRED AND FIVE MEN ENTOMBED IN THE VIRGINIA MINES IN ALABAMA.

Accident Believed to Have Been Caused by Cave-in Due to the Giving Way of Timbers—Both White and Colored Miners Were Employed in the Pit and Every Effort is Being Made to Rescue Them Alive.

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 21.—Meager reports say that 105 men are buried in the Virginia mines, eighteen miles from Birmingham. It is feared that all the men are dead. Relief trains carrying physicians and laborers have been sent to the mines. The men cannot be reached for many hours.

The mines belong to the Alabama Steel and Wire company, and are leased by Reid & Co. Both white and colored miners are employed, and only recently union miners went to work.

The slopes are well situated, and there has never been any trouble from gas heretofore. It is said that the accident was caused by a cave-in, due to the giving way of the timbers.

News of the disaster spread rapidly through the whole region. The camp is isolated except for one telegraph wire. The class of miners employed was good. The mines were working to their full capacity. No more is known and little probably will be known for some hours.

BY A FALL OF ROCK

FIVE MEN KILLED AND THIRTEEN INJURED IN A COLLIERY AT POTTSVILLE, PA.

Pottsville, Pa., Feb. 18.—Five men were killed and thirteen injured in an accident on No. 2 slope of No. 1 colliery of the Lyttle operation by a fall of top rock while a "gunboat" loaded with eighteen men on their way to work was going down the shaft. The bodies were not brought to the surface until noon.

Two of the injured were removed to the Pottsville hospital and although they are badly crushed about the body and legs their injuries are not thought to be fatal. The others were cut and bruised and suffered from other minor injuries.

The No. 2 slope where the accident occurred is known as the "gunboat" slope and is used solely for lowering workmen into the mines. Two tracks lead into the shaft. On the trip preceding the one on which the accident occurred the "gunboat" knocked down some timbers on the east track. The car containing the men struck the disarranged props and tore others from the top of the shaft, causing a fall of rock. The greater part of the rock fell on the forward end of the car, crushing the five men seated there. Several men jumped from the "gunboat" when they heard the timbers giving way and escaped almost certain death.

MYSTERIOUSLY MURDERED.

St. Paul Butcher Killed in His Place of Business.

St. Paul, Feb. 18.—Christian H. Schindeldecker, a butcher, was murdered in a most shocking fashion in his butcher shop at 523 West Seventh street. His body was slashed and hacked in many places.

The corpse was found in the rear room of the shop by an employe of Schindeldecker at 12:45 p. m., almost literally cut to pieces. The murder was probably committed at 12:30.

It appeared as if some person had struck Schindeldecker in the head with a blunt instrument and knocked him senseless. The murderer had then completed his work by dragging the body, dead or alive, into the rear room and fiendishly slashing it after the manner of a maniac.

Robbery was the apparent motive of the crime.

FATAL BOILER EXPLOSION.

Four Men Killed and Fourteen Others Injured.

St. Clairsville, O., Feb. 21.—Four men are dead and fourteen others are injured as the result of the explosion during the day of a stationary boiler at a mine of the Provident Coal company. The dead are William Adams, president local miners' union; Eli Minty, engineer; Frank Miller and Michael Milanach.

TWO PERSONS KILLED.

Several Others Slightly Hurt in Train Wreck in Iowa.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 21.—Two persons killed and several slightly injured comprise the casualties on the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific flyer during the day, west of Wiota, when the train struck a broken rail. The dead are Rev. J. R. Johnson, Harlan, Ia., and Henry Metcher of Illinois.

Twelve Persons Injured.

Dayton, O., Feb. 21.—Twelve persons were slightly injured at night in a passenger wreck near Swanders, O., on the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton road. Two coaches were overturned on the account of spreading rails while running thirty-five miles an hour.

A Western World's Fair.

Especial interest should attach itself to the Lewis and Clark Centennial Exposition to be held at Portland, Oregon, which opens its gates June first and closes October 15th, 1905. It should be of especial interest to the people of the Northwest for it will bring into the country tributary to the transcontinental railways traversing the Northwestern country, a class of people who hitherto have never seen its agricultural and business opportunities or witnessed its grand scenic marvels. The exposition in itself is a reflex of the actual physical and material condition of the Oregon Country which is composed of Oregon, Washington, Idaho, and parts of Montanna and Wyoming. From an educational standpoint, there is no question but what it will have a wonderful value, representing every interest in the Northwest from the Great Lakes to the Pacific. When one considers that every bit of travel will necessarily have to be over the transcontinental lines radiating from St. Paul and Minneapolis and through the Central American states, it can be readily appreciated that it is of special value for all the people residing along the line of the Northwestern Transcontinental Railways to assist in the advertising of this first Western World's Fair for it must be appreciated that this is the first exposition held west of the Rocky Mountains under the auspices of the United States Government. Then again we must not lose sight of the fact that through all this vast Northwest a hardy hand of pioneers led by the indomitable explorers, Lewis and Clark, erected a pathway which opened to the world a new and vast empire, which has since become peopled with a thrifty and energetic class of people who have assisted in making the United States a nation among nations, and yet affords unlimited opportunity for the home-maker, the investor and the capitalist.

Peculiar Disappearance.

J. D. Runyan, of Butlerville, O., laid the peculiar disappearance of his painful symptoms, of indigestion and biliousness, to Dr. King's New Life Pills. He says: "They are a perfect remedy, for dizziness, sour stomach, headach, constipation, etc." Guaranteed at Schreiter's drug store, price 25c.

For the Farmer.

Good gardens are better for their owners than for grocers or doctors.

Enlarge the timber resources of the farm a little, at least every year.

With a good fanning mill many a bushel of good seed wheat will be got out of low-grade stuff.

Do not try to doctor the horses into working condition, but feed, shelter and groom them into condition.

In fixing up the farm machinery for the spring's work don't forget that the horses need to be put in condition, too.

For once a whole lot of farmers are wishing there were no duty on imported wheat, they want Canadian wheat for seed.

It is often pride that deters a farmer from substituting new and better methods for his old and inferior ones, but it's a foolish pride.

Winter is the time to gather the harvests of thought. The better the farmer thinks now the more certain his success in the coming seasons.

About these days contracts are being made with hired men, for renting farms, etc., that fail to contain a lot of conditions that ought to be in them.

Have an understanding with the hired man about Sunday work, holidays, term of service, and all points that there are likely to be disagreements about.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

A Western Enterprise.

One thing more than anything else that impresses the spin of Western energy and push is the construction of the Lewis and Clark Centennial Exposition to be held at Portland, Oregon, beginning June 1st and continuing until October 15, 1905. With more than three in tervening before the opening of the exposition, all of the main buildings are practically ready for the installation of exhibits, typifying the manner in which Western people carry out any proposition presented to them. We doubt if there has been an exposition in the United States that can show a record such as the Lewis and Clark exposition has made. The visitor to the exposition can be assured that when it opens on June first, he will find it completed in every detail and it should be a source of great gratification to every resident of the Northwest that such is the case.

Public Is Aroused.

The public is aroused to a knowledge of the curative merits of that great medicinal tonic, Electric Bitters, for sick stomach, liver and kidneys. Mary H. Walters, of 546 St. Clair Ave., Columbus, O., writes: "For several months, I was given up to die. I had fever and ague, my nerves were wrecked; I could not sleep, and my stomach was so weak from useless doctors' drugs, that I could not eat. Soon after beginning to take Electric Bitters, I obtained relief, and in a short time I was entirely cured." Guaranteed at Schreiter's drug store; price 50c.

Red Lake Falls Gazette

L. A. DAUTREMONT, PROPRIETOR
SAM S. HAISLET, EDITOR AND MANAGER

Published weekly, Thursday evening, and entered as second-class matter in the post office at Red Lake Falls.

Official Paper of Red Lake County.

Official Paper of Red Lake Falls.

Subscription, $1.00 per Year

The Gazette is this week in receipt of a copy of 'Donham's Doing's' a neat little publication owned and edited by Donham&Son, at Downing Wisconsin. Deacon Donham is known to most newspaper boys of Minnesota, and has in the past conducted several of the leading papers of the southern part of the state. He is a brilliant writer and first class all around fellow, but his disposition to roam around the world has always kept him from making the success he was entitled to. The Doings is published monthly "for all who hate hypocrisy" as the Deacon puts it, and is chuck full of live reading matter. Here's success, Deacon, and may the Doings continue to flourish like a green bay tree.

The Thief River Falls papers still continue to rave about a "midnight transfer" that was made in regard to the purchase of the county buildings some weeks ago, and yet they all published Commissioner Johnson's statement showing that the warrants were all signed late in the afternoon of a certain day and that not a move was made in "the dead of night" as they would have you believe. The warrants were signed before the great injonction proceedings were started, but if such had not been the case the warrants would have been paid anyway, as the Judge has twice refused to grant an injunction restraining their payment and the 26th is long since passed. The papers op the river should stick closely to facts—but they won't, as it would leave they caosd so flimsy that they would not stand a ghost of a show of getting what they want and what they expect the people to pay for.

Last week's Plummer Pioneer came out with a long lingo written by some Theif Riverite that was sopposed to be the stand of the people in that neighborhood on the county seat question. The Gazette does not believe in wasting a particle of space on the aforesaid spiel nor does it believe that the people of that part of the country take the least stock in the article fathered by Mr. Latta. It has been plainly evident for the past month that Latta was merely waiting for a price and being unsuccessful in his attempts to get it from the people here he let himself be "approached" by the upriver gang. Latta's action is in keeping with the other acts of the bunch up the river, who propose to buy everybody and everything they can to help their waning cause. If they paid more than six cents for the article in last week's Pioneer, however, they have greatly overestimated its "inflooence."

Wednesday was the birthday of Washington, the father of his country, of whom it has often been said, "He was first in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen" says the Warren Register. Though he was not as brilliant in many respects as Hamilton, Adams, Jefferson or Madison, yet he was a greater factor than any one of them, perhaps than all of them combined, in the creation of this nation of oors. If our historians are to be believed, he served his country more unselfishly than any other man of whom we have any record. Though in the limelight for upwards of a generation, he was never shown to have been guilty of an ignoble action or to have violated a trust, and he retained the love and confidence of the common people to the very end of his earthly career. His example of unselfish devotion to the welfare of his country might well be emulated by the statesmen and politicians of the present day, many of whom seem to lose sight of the nation's best interests in their struggles for personal power and prestige.

Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size 75c. At all druggists. A. L. Reichert.

Fiendish Suffering

is often caused by sores, ulcers and cancers, that eat away your skin. Wm. Bedell, of Flat Rock, Mich., says: "I have used Bucklen's Arnica Salve, for Ulcers, Sores and Cancers. It is the best healing dressing I ever found." Soothes and heals cuts, burns and scalds. 25c at Schreiter's drug store; guaranteed.

THE BIG STORE

THEO LaBISSONIERE, PROP.

SHOULD FIGHT THE MEASURE.

The Orange Judd Farmer Company are interesting themselves in the parcels post business and are asking country editors to assist in the move to have the system established, by circulating petitions to be submitted to the congressmen and senators from the various districts says the Butterfied Advocate. We have one of the blanks but will not use it. The clause referring to the parcels post reads as follows:

"A parcels post, so that packages up to eleven pounds weight may be collected, transported by mail and delivered at one-half the present extortionate rates of postage, together with a local parcels post at still lower rates."

To anyone conversant with the system employed by the mail order houses of the large cities, it is clear that the movement for the system is in favor of such houses and against the best interests of the country merchant and therefore against the interests of the farmers and freeholders of the rural districts, whose increase in wealth depends upon the development of the country and necessarily of the towns near such holdings. Sign no such petitions but address your congressman and your senator in favor of the home merchant and against the parcels post system. Draw up petitions opposing the system and send them in to us and we will be pleased to direct them to your congressman. Kill the system and perpetuate the life of your towns by enabling the local merchant to meet the competition of the mail order houses which are only after your ready cash, and demand that in advance, or accompanying order.

NO EAST LINE.

Stated Positively That Soo Will Not Build To Duluth.

It can be stated upon the very best of authority that the reported building of the Soo line through from Thief River Falls to Duluth is naught but newspaper talk, and although surveyors have been at work south of Red Lake for some time past the road will not be built says the Bemidji Pioneer. The general manager of the Soo line has been asked regarding the matter, but he has positively denied that any such intention exists in the minds of the railway officials, and states that such a move has not even been contemplated.

The extension of the Minnesota & International from Northome to Ripple, however, is now certain. The company officials have given out a statement to a prominent gentleman from St. Paul to the effect that the line would be extended the coming season and that the work would be commenced as soon as possible.

The report to the effect that the Duluth, South Shore&Atlantic intended to run trains from Duluth to Crookston over the tracks of the Great Northern is also declared to be false. The company holds a franchise which allows it to run trains over the Great Northern's tracks between Duluth and Crookston, but the officials can see no way in which the expenses of a train service over this line could be made to pay, as it would be necessary to make arrangements for the use of the telegraph line and depots of the Great Northern, and this would without a doubt make the expenses so heavy that it would be impossible to make the proposition a paying one.

Hard Work For Soo People.

Thiaf River News: Anyone but a civil engineer would say that the building of a railroad from this city to Warren would be an easy undertaking, but Chief Engineer Hankinson is having considerable trouble in locating the line. While the country appears to be level to the eye, such is not the case, and to make the matter worse, it is discovered that most of the swamp land is, in reality, the highest land passed through, so that in some instances, cuts will have to be made where the average person would think that fills would be required. This means that the Soo will have to do considerable draining of the land, and a well known railroad man told the News that the building of this road would be of more benefit to the farmers than all of the ditches they have ever constructed in that section.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Abtenian Editors—Stella Hennemuth, Mike Connaughty and Paul Brunnelle.

Wednesday was Washington's birthday and all the pupils had a good time.

Saturday evening while some of the High School girls were enjoying a sleigh ride they met some of those envious boys, who started to unhitch the horses and they were seen by a man smaller than themselves. Did they run? Ask them. Hat pins were the only weapons the girls had.

The third year English class are studying the "Merchant of Venice."

It kept Miss Tambling busy furnishing excuse blanks for pupils who were absent on account of illness(?) last week.

A number of the High School boys were on the war path Monday evening and as they could not find much of anything to do down town they serenaded our neighbors from the school belfrey.

There has not been much studying at home this week as it is moonlight and cool at night. This is especially true among the boys who stay up till morning unhitching horses or tieing the drivers or other mischievous acts.

All the Spartans have to do to win the banner is to get about 50 special visitors at their last programme.

It is hoped that the snow will soon disappear as the boys are going to practice football in the spring. Coach Wyer will show them new and good plays for next fall. They will also practice baseball and prepare for field meet.

That dignified junior who sits in the rear of the room on a chair will soon go thru the floor if he keeps on incressing the size of that hole.

Prof. Chamberlain has been bothered with a severe cold for the past week.

Privileges! Privileges! Privileges! They are growing less every day.

The political economy class had a test Monday. Everybody got a hundred(nit).

The seniors got their class pins Tuesday. All they are is an equilateral triangle with colors that look as though they had been soaked for a month.

The fresies have organized, but we do not remember their colors as they are so odd.

Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain, Miss Iddings and Miss Tambling entertained the High School pupils in the assembly room Wednesday evening. Everybody had a fine time and enjoyed themselves immensly.

It is expected that the banner will be the plural of donkey after this year for the Athenians have no show at all.

The civics class talked about the taxes on beer and cigars Tuesday. We know now what a saloon keeper makes on a glass of beer.

WASHINGTON SCHOOL NOTES.

Preston Hall and Lenora Poirer, reporters.

St. Valentine's day there were two hundred and twenty valentines passed through our valentine box.

Last week Lenora Garceau was absent for the first time this year, on account of sickness.

Mary Smith has left school for a couple of months.

The fifth and sixth grades of the Washington school are going to read Chinese fashion twice a week, on Wednesdays and Fridays.

Last Wednesday the fifth grade had to write the states and capitals. The best papers will be saved for visiting day.

Some of the boys came in tardy Friday morning at recess and the football has been taken away for another week.

Ella Jackson was absent Friday for the first time since she started school.

Mayme Mahew has returned to school again. She has been absent for two months.

The fifth grade of the Washington school won the banner for attendence during the month of January.

Gisela Heim and Freda Schultz have returned to school after several days of absence on account of sickness.

Lucy Matthies was absent on account of sickness. We hope that all the sickness isn't on our side, we want all the banners for February.

Helen Sivertson has returned to school after two weeks absence.

Tena Revertz and Matthew Kolschevar have left school.

The following pupils of the Washington school have been neither tardy nor absent since school started in September. Millie Bloomgreen and Marie Kaus of the first grade, Delia Barret of the second grade, Fredrick Shultz of the third grade, Preston Hall and Olive Zaiser of the fifth grade, and Edith Hanson of the sixth grade. These pupils are to be congratulated on their good work.

The New Ten Commandments.

I Thou shalt not go away from home to do thy trading nor thy son nor daughter.

II. Thou shalt patronize thy home merchants, and thy home printer, for yea, verily doth thy home printer spread over the tidings of thy goodness and greatness and many will patronize thee.

III. Thou shalt employ thy home mechanics that they may not be driven from their homes to find bread for their little ones.

IV. Thou shalt not ask for credit as goods cost much and the merchant's brain is burdened with bills. His children clamor daily for bread, and his wife abideth at home for lack of raiment as adorneth her sister. Blessed, yea, thrice blessed, is the man who pays cash.

V. Thou shalt not ask for reduced prices on thine "influence," for guile is in your heart and the merchant readeth it like an open book. He laugheth thee to scorn and shouteth to his clerks, ha, ha.

VI Thou shalt do whatever lieth in thy power to encourage and promote the welfare of thine own town and thine own people.

VII. Thou shalt not suffer voice of pride to overcome thee and if other towns entice thee consent thou not for thou mayst be deceived.

VIII. Thou shalt spend thy earnings at home that they may return from whence it came and give nourishment to such as may come after thee.

IX. Thou shalt not bear false witness against the town wherein thou dwellest but speak well of it to all men.

X. Thou shalt keep these commandments and teach them to thy children even unto the third and fourth generations that they may be made to flourish and grow in plenty when thou art laid to rest with thy fathers

Beautiful eyes and handsome face are eloquent commendations. Bright eyes are windows to a woman's heart. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea makes bright eyes. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. W. A. Schrieter.

Recommends Pe-ru-na—Other Prominent Men Testify.

Commodore Somerville Nicholson, of the United States Navy, in a letter from 1837 R St., N. W., Washington, D. C., says:

"Your Peruna has been and is now used by so many of my friends and acquaintances as a sure cure for catarrh that I am convinced of its curative qualities and I unhesitatingly recommend it to all persons suffering from that complaint."—S. Nicholson.

The highest men in our nation have given Peruna a strong endorsement. Men of all classes and stations are equally represented.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Public Is Aroused.

The public is aroused to a knowledge of the curative merits of that great medicinal tonic, Electric Bitters, for sick stomach, liver and kidneys. Mary H. Walters, of 546 St. Clair Ave., Columbus, O., writes: "For several months, I was given up to die. I had fever and ague, my nerves were wrecked; I could not sleep, and my stomach was so weak from useless doctors' drugs, that I could not eat. Soon after beginning to take Electric Bitters, I obtained relief, and in a short time I was entirely cured." Guaranteed at Schreiter's drug store; price 50c.

We Will Buy

A 50c. Bottle of Liquozone and Give it to You to Try.

We want you to know about Liquozone, and the product itself can tell you more than we. So we ask you to let us buy you a bottle—a full-size bottle—to try. Let it prove that it does what medicine cannot do. See what a tonic it is. Learn that it does kill germs. Then you will use it always, as we do, and as millions of others do.

This offer itself should convince you that Liquozone does as we claim. We would certainly not buy a bottle and give it to you if there was any doubt of results. You want those results; you want to be well and to keep well. And you can't do that—nobody can—without Liquozone.

We Paid $100,000

For the American rights to Liquozone. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, after proving, in thousands of different cases, that Liquozone destroys the cause of any germ disease.

Liquozone has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. It is not made by compounding drugs, nor with alcohol. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. The result is a Liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissue, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Every physician knows that medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

Good Health to the Children

Children especially are fond of dainties, and the housekeeper must look carefully to their food.

As good cake can be made only with good eggs, so also a cake that is healthful as well as dainty must be raised with a pure and perfect baking powder.

Royal Baking Powder is indispensable in the preparation of the highest quality of food. It imparts that peculiar lightness, sweetness and flavor noticed in the finest cake, biscuit, doughnuts, crusts, etc., and what is more important, renders the food wholesome and agreeable to young and old.

A big contract was put through recently, under which there will be built for the Atlantic Elevator company, of Minneapolis, a line of twenty-nine country grain elevators in Minnesota and North Dakota. As soon as spring opens the work will begin. The details have been completed and the contract let for the machinery and furnishings. The interior work will be done by the Line-Belt company. The houses will stand along the new line of the Soo road from Thief River Falls west to Kenmare, N. D. one house at each of the twenty-nine principal stations. Until the railroad fixes the stanions and names them nothing more can be said. The elevators will be about 50,000 bushels capacity.

The Misses Emma and Laura Cote, of Poplar River township, returned to the city again the first of the week after a week's visit with their parents.

Mrs. J. A. Duffy will entertain a party of friends at a dinner party this evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. George LaBissoniere, of North Yakima, Washington.

William Kreuger went down to St. Paul Friday evening and remained until Tuesday purchasing fixtures and outfit for his new saloon. He will open up about the 25th of Maach.

A bouncing baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. B. Puschinsky last evening, and received a royal welcome. The young man promises to resemble its pa, and Ben is treading on air as a result.

Editor John E. King returned from St. Paul Tuesday to spend a few days straightening up some business matters, and will leave this evening to assume his duties as librarian for the state of Minnesota. Mrs. King and the children will remain here until the first of April, when they will move to the capitol city for a couple of years at least.

Crookston Times: Negotiations have been opened to secure a lease of the LeBlanc property consisting of about 30 acres southeatt of the city a portion of which is occupied by the brickyard by an outside party who is contemplating coming to Crookston to start a big henery. At the present time there is not such an industry on a large scale anywhere in the Red River Valley and as Crookston furnishes an ample market the year round for hen fruit and poultry the promoter believes that the venture would be a very successful one. Chickens for the market at the present time for instance are almost a minus quanity, and 20 cents per pound could be secured for them by any one having them for sale.

A.C. Eddy with the engineering department of the Great Northern railroad company was a caller here yesterday looking over the work on the extension being constructed at this place.

W. A. McIntyre was a caller at Thief River Falls Monday on professional business. Mac said that he thought he would select the new court house site while he was up there, provided the people would let him put it where he wanted to.

A pleasant surprise party was given in honor of Miss Almeda Gonigam at her home on Third street last Friday evening, a large number of young people being present. Games were played and refreshments provided, and a throughly enjoyable time was had.

Yesterday was observed as a holiday by the business places, the banks, stores, postoffice and other places being closed The print shops were the only places to remain at the scene of action, but they usually have to labor while the rest of the world plays so no hardship was enacted.

Sherriff Linnihan has been feeling so good this week that it is doubtful if he would have arrested the worst criminal in the state had he had the chance. The reason for Dan's happiness was the arrival of a brand new baby girl at his home last Friday, and to say that she was royally welcomed would not be half expressing it. The new arrival is a healthy babe and the many friends of her happy parents hope and trust that she may live long as a comfort to her progenitors.

Crookston Times: William Jennings Bryan was a transient at the Hotel Crookston Friday morning for a few hours. He arrived on the 2:15 train from St. Paul and took the 6:45 train to Grand Forks where he delivered an address that evening. He was not met by any delegation owing to the fact that the alarm clock which W. S. Lycan and Bill Weaver had set failed to go off or did not make noise enough to waken them. They had planned on making a couple of addresses of welcome on the depot platform and a short parade in honor of the great commoner.

Crookston Journal: Last evening at the regular meeting of the Crookston Fire Department Tom Morris who has acted as chief for the past fourteen years resigned his position. Mr. Morris has been a member of the fire fighters for the past twenty years, during which time he has fought some of the fiercest fires and altogether has led a very strenuous life. He was elected as chief for the past nine successive years without a break and has done much to bring the department up to the present high standard. To fill the vacancy all the boys holding office were boosted a notch. Chas. Brennan was elected chief; Albert Barrett, assistant chief: John Risch, foreman, and Pat McGlenn, assistant foreman.

Mrs. Karen Sandmoen, of St. Hilaire, has been granted a decree of absolute divorce by Judge Watts, of Crookston, from her husband, Christopher Sandmoen. Mrs. Sandmoen is the prosrietress of the Scandia Hotel at St. Hilaire and owns considerable prorerty, and is able to take care of herself. She has several grown up children.

Miss Etta Garceau will leave Saturday morning for Minot, North Dakota, where she goes to attend the wedding of her cousin, Miss Maud Champlin, who will be married next Wednesday to Mr. N. C. Kone, a prosperous young man of that city. Miss Champlin is well known here, having visited at the Gareeau home several times within the last few years, and has many friends among the young people of the city who will join in wishing her all the happiness the world affords.

That much dreaded unpleasantry, the "grippe," has been on the rampage in Red Lake Falls the past couple of weeks and a great many of our people have enjoyed a tussle with the monster. The doctors have been on the go almost night and day, and the reporter has become hopelessly lost in the shuffle and could not commence to keep track of the cases. No serious cases have resulted and the fine weather of the past few days has had a tendency to cheer up the sufferers.

County Attorney Germo was a caller at Crookston over Monday night.

S. L. Lewis was a business visitor at points in Sanders township yesterday.

J. E. Bray is able to be about this week after a couple of weeks tussel with his annual attack of rheumatism.

Henry Kaufer went up to Thief River Falls yesterday and remained until this noon with his daughter, Mrs. Wm. Murphy.

A "necktie" party and dance was given at the M. B. A. hall Faiday evening, a large crowd being present and one of the good times for which the M. B. A.'s are noted resulted.

L. A. Kaufer was down town again Monday morning for the first time in several days, having been confined to the house with the grippe. Mr. Kaufer's entire family was sick at the same time and Lou is of the opinion that it came a little too numerots to be enjoyable.

The South Side club held their regular meeting Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. P. Harren. A large number of the members being present, they voted on a party to be given Saturday evening in honor of their husbands, at the Harren home. Of late the club has been giving a number of these parties at different homes and they have proved very successful, besides offering a great deal of enjoyment.

Mrs. George Tibbetts spent Sunday at Wylie with her daughter, Mrs. A. O. Davidson.

Mrs. W. P. O'Brien is entertaining the ladies of St. Mary's church at her home this afternoon.

The Royal Neighbors will hold their regular meeting at their hall Friday evening. A large attendance is desired.

Sam E. Hunt left Tuesday for Duluth to attend the convention of the state hardwaremen. He will be home the latter part of the week.

For Rent—The old Bischoff farm of 150 acres, with buildings, facing 7th street in city of Red Lake Falls. The farm is sown to timothy and clover, excepting 12 acres of wild hay land; is also fenced. Would prefer renting for period of three years. Terms $200 cash per year. Anyone accepting such terms write to Mrs. H. J. Bischoff, Englund, Minn., Marshall County.

If the weather of the past couple of days is any criterion spring is here with a vengence. The warm sunshine of the week has made short work of the snow, and the excellent sleighing that has been enjoyed for the past couple of months is a thing of the past. There has not been any great objection offered to the present quality of weather, however, and if spring is really here she will be welcomed with open arms by the long-suffering public.

HOW A CANAL IS MADE.

Hydraulic Monitors Are Principal Machinery in Constructing Modern Waterways.

How a canal is made is illustrated in the excavation near Seattle of a canal two miles long, 33 feet deep at low water, and 60 feet wide at the bottom, which is to connect tidewater with a fresh water lake near Seattle. The work is being done by hydraulic monitors, the supply for which comes from a reservoir. The available head is 200 feet and the quantity used is between 8,000,000 and 12,000,000 gallons per 24 hours. The conduit consists in part of wooden stove pipe, 18 inches and 30 inches in diameter. With a six-inch nozzle an average daily excavation of 3,000 cubic yards is attained. The material is a glacial deposit, containing sand, gravel, boulders, and several varieties of clay, some of which have required shaping up by light blasting before the water would penetrata them. The excavated material is being used to reclaim a tract of land now submerged at high tide, being conveyed to the site in part by a flume carried on trestles. This fluma is lined with wooden blocks, ten inches to twelve inches thick, set on end and laid close jointed. A gradient of one to thirty-eight is found to suffice, choking being liable to occur with more easy slopes. Where the flume ends a pipe line has been employed, the penstock at the upper end of which is lined with wood in the same way as the flume in order to take the wear. The length of this pipe line is 2,200 feet.

Two Sides of Face Unlike.

The two sides of a person's face are never alike. The eyes are out of line in two cases out of five, and one eye is stronger than the other in seven persons out of ten. The right ear is also, as a rule, higher than the left. Only one person in 15 has perfect eyes, the largest percentage of defects prevailing among fair-haired people. The smallest interval of sound can be distinguished better with one ear than with both. The nails of two fingers never grow with the same rapidity, that of the middle finger growing the fastest, while that of the thumb grows slowest. In 54 cases out of 100 the left leg is shorter than the right. The bones of an average human male skeleton weigh 20 pounds; those of a woman are six pounds lighter.

WORK OF CONGRESS.

Tuesday, Feb. 14.

Senate—Agricultural appropriation bill passed after adopting the Hansbrough amendment relating to drawbacks on duties on wheat. Bill making appropriations for the District of Columbia then taken up.

House—Mr. Sullivan (Mass.) took the floor on a question of personal privilege to reply to the charges made by Mr. Hearst (N. Y.) and related the circumstances leading up to the indictment and conviction of his father and himself for manslaughter. Balance of the day devoted to consideration of the naval appropriation bill.

Wednesday, Feb. 15.

House—Question of what the policy of the government should be with respect to the upbuilding of the navy again threshed over during consideration of the naval appropriation bill, the debate developing much opposition to the proposed addition of two battleships to the naval establishment.

Senate—Consideration of the bill making appropriations for the support of the government of the District of Columbia continued, but not concluded.

Thursday, Feb. 16.

Senate—Aside from two hours spent in routine business the senate gave its entire time to consideration of the Swayne impeachment trial. Message from the president on San Domingo received.

House—Naval appropriation bill occupied attention for a major portion of the session. By a vote of 261 to 5 the agricultural appropriation bill was sent back to the senate with the conclusion that the Hansbrough drawback amendment was an infringement on the privilege of the house to initiate revenue legislation.

Friday, Feb. 17.

Senate—Wheat drawback amendment to the agricultural appropriation bill withdrawn and the measure passed as received from the house. District of Columbia and diplomatic and consular appropriation bills passed.

JAY COOKE IS DEAD.

Aged Financier Succumbs to Afflictions of Advanced Years.

Philadelphia, Feb. 17.—Jay Cooke, whose fame as a financier is world-wide, is dead at the home of his son-in-law, Charles D. Barney, at Ogontz, a suburb of this city.

Mr. Cooke was eighty-three years of age. He had been complaining of the result of general debility, the result of old age, for several years. His condition was not considered serious, however, and his death came rather suddenly.

Jay Cooke was born at Sandusky, O., April 10, 1821. He began work at the age of fifteen and in 1838 became clerk for E. W. Clark & Co., Philadelphia bankers, and was afterward taken into the firm. In 1860 he founded the house of Jay Cooke & Co., which handled the larger part of the $2,000,000,000 bonds issued by the government during the Civil war. Mr. Cooke afterward handled some enormous business enterprises, including the building of the Northern Pacific railroad. In the depression of 1873 the firm failed and a panic resulted. Mr. Cooke made a new fortune and was at the time of his death a large owner of Western lands.

STUDENTS ON STRIKE

THOSE IN THE CAPITAL'S GREAT UNIVERSITY TO SUSPEND THEIR STUDIES.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 21.—With the decision during the day of the student body of the great University of St. Petersburg to suspend studies for the remainder of the university year, almost the whole educational system of Russia has entered on a period of stagnation, the protest of the youth of Russia against the bureaucratic system and other governmental grievances. Other universities of Russia, gymnasia and even grammar schools were already on strike, and the military in various portions of the empire have been obliged to resort to force to restrain schoolboys of tender years, who are joining the general movement.

The meeting of St. Petersburg students, at which more than 3,000 participated, besides voting with unanimity to suspend studies until Sept. 1, adopted a set of political resolutions demanding the formation of a constituent assembly and characterizing the proposed summoning of the zemsky zabor as inadequate for the emergency. The resolutions, after speaking of "the progressive demoralization of Russia under the influence of the absolute regime," declare for freedom of speech, the press, conscience, the right of association and assembly, and to strike, which are described as necessary conditions for the further progress of Russia.

INCREASED ACTIVITY

IMPRESSION PREVAILS AT TOKIO THAT KUROPATKIN WILL ASSUME OFFENSIVE.

Tokio, Feb. 18.—According to reports from the Shakhe river the Russians are showing increased activity on both flanks and are extending and strengthening their right. They also seem to be concentrating a heavy force on their left in front of General Kuroki. Fushun is the base of the late operations and it is estimated that the Russians there number six divisions. The impression exists that General Kuropatkin is preparing to assume the aggressive. The weather is still unfavorable, but the excessive cold will soon be over.

Chinese reports to the effect that General Kuropatkin is preparing to abandon the Shakhe river line and retire northward are discredited here.

The Russians shelled portions of Field Marshal Oyama's center and left on Thursday, Feb. 16. On Friday the Russian cavalry, in retiring from a recent attack upon Field Marshal Oyama's left, halted at Liuchianfang.

GENERAL LEW WALLACE DEAD.

Noted Author Passes Quietly Away at Crawfordsville, Ind.

Crawfordsville, Ind., Feb. 16.—Surrounded by his family, General Lew Wallace, author of "Ben Hur," one time minister to Turkey, and veteran of the Mexican and Civil wars, died at his home in this city at night, aged seventy-eight years.

The health of General Wallace has been waning for several years and for months, despite the efforts of the family to keep the public in ignorance of his true condition, it has been generally known that his vigorous constitution could not much longer withstand the ravages of a wasting disease.

CONFIRMED IN WASHINGTON.

Venezuela Confiscates Property of Asphalt Company.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The state department during the day received a cablegram from Minister Bowen, dated at Caracas, stating that the supreme court had confirmed its former decree sequestrating the property in Venezuela of the American Asphalt company.

The action of the court brings the asphalt dispute to the critical point, for it is now incumbent upon the United States to make the next move.

SEEKS CANCER GERM.

ALL KINDS OF ANIMALS USED IN SEARCH.

Buffalo Scientist Brings Dogs, Cats and Guinea Pigs Into Service in Hunt for Microbe—Working on Two Lines.

Buffalo.—Dogs, cats, guinea pigs and other animals, number unstated, are wanted at the cancer laboratory of the University of Buffalo. Their desirability will be largely increased if it can be shown that they are possessed of a cancerous growth. There are many of that kind, it is said.

Dr. Roswell Park, director of the laboratory, said yesterday that it being impossible to experiment upon human beings in the search for the cancer germ, recourse was necessarily had to animals. The supply of the latter is not equal to the demand. It has been conclusively demonstrated, as the result of recent investigations at the Buffalo laboratory, that cancer can be transmitted from animal to animal just as it was proven several years ago that it can be similarly transmitted from a human being to an animal. Beyond this but little has been demonstrated, although investigations in more than one direction are apparently just on the point of fruition. It is regarded as not unlikely that cancer is frequently transmitted from animals to men.

Several years ago Dr. Park drew a very dark picture of cancer conditions in this state. He then predicted that within ten years the number of deaths from cancer would equal those from consumption and smallpox combined.

He was violently attacked for this statement, yet the most recent report of the state board of health seems to bear out Dr. Park's views in every particular, as the deaths from consumption last year were 12,000, while those from cancer were nearly 6,000. Moreover, the cancer death rate is increasing at an alarming rate and the chances seem to favor the complete fulfillment of Dr. Park's prophecy by 1909.

Work at the laboratory, said Dr. Park, is now progressing on the lines of chemistry and biology. One man is in the field making a topographical investigation, so to speak. He visits localities where the death rate from cancer has been particularly suggestive and inquires into the general as well as particular conditions which exist in each. So far no data has been obtained that will warrant the drawing of any general conclusion as to such conditions as may be conclusive to the promotion of cancer.

FEWER NEW LOCOMOTIVES.

Falling Off in Number Made During Year 1904—Car Output Also Smaller.

New York.—Returns received from practically every car-building plant in the country show that approximately 62,950 cars were built during the year 1904, including cars for use on elevated railroads, but exclusive of street and other electric cars. These figures, of course, do not include cars built by the railroads at their own shops. Of the above total approximately 60,806 are for freight service and 2,144 for passenger service; 60,955 are for domestic use, and 1,995 are for export. All the figures this year are official, except in the case of one of the smaller equipment firms. This is the smallest car output since 1897, when 53,588 cars were built. During the last three months over 70,000 cars have been ordered, some ten per cent. more than the total output for the year. The majority of these are for delivery in the early part of 1905.

During the year 3,441 locomotives were built at the various locomotive plants in the country, as against 5,152 last year. This figure is officially correct, and required no estimating. The number for the current year includes 95 electric locomotives. These figures do not include locomotives built by the railroads at their own shops or orders given for repairs. It is interesting to note in this latter connection that during the last year an order was given by one of the leading railroads in the country to one of the largest locomotive builders for the repair of 600 locomotives.

DUMONT'S NEW BALLOON.

Novelty of Apparatus Is in Canvas Covering of Frame—Trials Point to Success.

Paris.—M. Santos-Dumont is exploring a new field of science and invention, an addition to his steerable balloon, which he hopes will carry it safely from Paris to Monte Carlo with or without auspicious breezes. The novelty consists of a canvas covering for the wooden frame on which the motor rests.

The frame usually is 50 to 75 feet long and ten feet in diameter. All this space covered by canvas will make an additional balloon, which will be filled with heated air by means of a special heating apparatus. The heated air, it is assumed, will add to the stability and durability of the balloon. The first trials, at St. Cloud, were entirely satisfactory, and great hopes are entertained for the success of the new invention.

Woman for the Army.

German papers are discussing the proposition of Dr. Ida Hilsiker, of Zurich, that woman be called upon for one year of military service. The majority suggest that a year of voluntary service might have many advantages, especially educational and disciplinary. The state, it is argued, could utilize women in army hospitals, asylums, public nurseries and also to train in the household arts.

STUDENTS IN HOMES.

THE SERVANT GIRL PROBLEM SOLVED IN NEBRASKA.

Young Men Do Housework of All Kinds to Pay Their Way Through College—Boys Cook, Bake and Scrub.

Lincoln, Neb.—A labor union decree and the necessities of some students at the University of Nebraska, have resulted in the partial solving of the servant girl question in Lincoln. Fully a dozen young men who have been taking a course in domestic science are now holding down positions as men of all work in as many families in this city.

Of the 3,000 students at the university a number are compelled to work their way through college. These have found jobs in local stores, offices and newspapers, where their spare time is spent. Previous to the first part of the year some worked in restaurants as waiters.

Then the waiters' union served notice upon the restaurant keepers that hereafter none but union men should be employed. The result of this was that most of the students were compelled to give up their employment.

In casting about for something to do the suggestion was made that the boys might be able to supply a part at least of the demand for household help. None of them was qualified, however, for such work. Nothing daunted, they applied to Miss Bouten, head of the domestic science department of the university, for entrance into her classes. As the rules of the institution made no distinction between sex in any course the young men were admitted.

For a number of months they worked diligently learning how to cook and bake, how to sweep and care for rooms, and when the present semester opened a dozen of the young men applied to advertising housekeepers for places. When they succeeded in convincing the housekeepers that it was not a college prank, but that they were in earnest, they were tried. All of them are still in service, and they are giving satisfaction.

The care of the furnace and the scrubbing of walks have always been tasks at which most domestics balked, but they have been cheerfully performed by the young men.

School duties take up only a few hours of a day, and by hustling the boys are able to hold their positions and keep up with their classes.

Early rising enables them to have the morning meal ready when the family gets up, and by nine o'clock their morning duties are ended and they are free to pass two hours in the classrooms. The afternoon gives them additional time for recitation, and the evenings, after the household work is finished, are spent in study.

Most of these young men are sons of farmers and have been accustomed to doing chores, and they find it possible to make more money, while being provided with warm quarters and plenty of food, than at their old precarious jobs. The course of study in the domestic science department is well adapted to fitting them for household tasks.

Some of the girls also eke out their slender resources by similar work.

LOVERS OUTWIT MAMMA.

Old Lady Stops First Ceremony, But Couples Get Away and the Knot Is Tied.

Larned, Kan.—At the hotel in Larned the other evening Mr. Thompson, of Harrington, and Lottie Parret, of Larned, were about to be married. A number of the guests at the hotel assembled in the parlor to witness the ceremony. But as an official was about to pronounce them man and wife, the mother of the bride swooped down on the assembly, captured the girl, and carried her to a room in the hotel. There she put the girl to bed, and, it is said, retired with her, that no chance could be had for escape. However that may be, "two shadowy figures might have been seen making their way from the hotel before daylight, and they went to the home of Judge Stockman, waked him up, and in a very short time the knot was securely tied."

Then the couple went to the depot and took the early train out of town.

What the mother said or did when she woke up and found the girl gone is not recorded.

MAKES HORSE COMPANION.

Master Eats Nearly Same Fare as the Animal with Which He Lives.

Alexandria, Ind.—Jules Sampiou, a Belgian glass blower during the palmy days of the gas belt, but for years known as the "Hermit of Orestes," three miles west of the city, has been declared insane and has been transferred to the Richmond Insane asylum.

Sampiou lost his mind because he was jilted by his girl in Belgium, since which time he has shunned men and lived alone with a sorrel horse in a ten-foot square hovel, wholly devoid of furniture. When his insanity was first noticeable he was found one morning in his room, which was carpeted with uncashed wage checks footing over $700. He has plenty of money, but eats nearly the same fare as his horse. He used to come to this city once every two weeks for oats, corn, etc., which he carried home or pushed in a hand cart, the horse, a beautiful sorrel, walking meekly along behind. He allowed the horse to do no work.

Troubles of a Hero.

And now it is said that Stoessel must be tried by court-martial. That's what he gets for being a hero.

NEWS IN MINNESOTA

EVENTS OF A WEEK THROUGHOUT THE STATE.

William Smith, a pioneer of Olmsted county, is dead at Stewartville.

Fire at the plant of the Zenith Paper company, Duluth, caused damage estimated at $25,000.

Judge J. D. Springer, for twelve years counsel of the Soo road in Minneapolis, is dead in Chicago.

A polecat has taken up its abode under a Stearns county schoolhouse and the pupils are enjoying a vacation.

Thomas Reilly, a Civil war veteran, eighty-two years old, formerly of St Paul, dropped dead in a restaurant at Anoka.

Dr. Alfred Hadley Lindley, one of the best known physicians in Minneapolis, is dead. He was eighty-three years of age.

Governor John A. Johnson will deliver the principal address at the commencement exercises of the St. Cloud normal school June 14.

A prisoner and his guard have escaped from Fort Snelling after making a deliberate attempt to wreck the administration building and burn the post hall.

Claude S. Snively, a young attorney, fell from the fifth story of the Lonsdale building, on the principal business corner of Duluth, and was instantly killed.

John Taylor, master mechanic of the Milwaukee road since the close of the Civil war, through which he served as colonel in the railroad service, is dead at Minneapolis.

Judge Austin H. Young, one of the pioneer judges of Hennepin county, is dead. He was seventy-four years of age and had been a resident of Minneapolis since 1866.

D. A. Duncan of Duluth, a veteran lumberman, is dead at Santa Barbara, Cal. Mr. Duncan was seventy-one years of age and had been a resident of Duluth since 1880.

C. H. Bennett, a Sauk Center business man, and his son Charles nearly lost their lives by asphyxiation from coal gas. The son has partially recovered, but the father may die.

Ernst Sorenson, a retired Minneapolis druggist, committed suicide by hanging himself by means of a handkerchief tied to a bedpost. He had been subject to fits of insanity.

St. Paul's ancient "black maria," which has conveyed prisoners from the courthouse to the workhouse during the past twenty-two years, has been sold under the hammer to the highest bidder. It brought $25.

Albert Hegberg, a laborer in the employ of August Benson, a logger operating near Alborn on the Mesaba road, committed suicide by hanging. He lately had been drinking, had spent most of his winter wages and was despondent.

William V. Kaufman, who is alleged to have sold several carloads of apples for the D. E. Ryan company, Minneapolis commission merchants, and then decamped from that city with the proceeds, about $700, has been arrested at Sault Ste. Marie.

Because he failed to attend drills of his branch of the service Thomas Cavanaugh, an engineer in the national guard, served a five-day sentence in the county jail at St. Paul. Cavanaugh was courtmartialed and on failing to pay a $10 fine was committed to jail.

Edwards, Wood & Co., grain commission merchants, convicted in the municipal court of Duluth of a violation of the commission merchants' law in failing to report sales as required, have met defeat in the supreme court, to which they carried the case on appeal.

Emil Cussler, aged twenty-eight, committed suicide at Minneapolis by shooting himself in the head in the yards of the Northwestern Fuel company. Cussler was afflicted with ear trouble and the pain and fear of deafness are thought to have driven him insane.

Charged with making a fraudulent return of the number of stamps, stamped envelopes and postal cards actually mailed Soren H. Smith, postmaster at Minnetonka, waived examination and was bound over to the federal grand jury at the next term of court on April 4.

Aaron Berman has brought a $50,000 damage suit against C. N. Cosgrove and other members of the state fair board, alleging that on Tuesday, Sept. 1, 1903, he was arrested as a pickpocket, together with his brother, at the fair grounds. Aaron says that both he and his brother are respectable citizens.

The annual convention of the State Jewelers' association was held in Minneapolis last week, the following officers being elected: A. E. Paegel, Minneapolis, president; George H. Lang, Mankato, vice president; J. C. Herdliska, Princeton, secretary; F. W. Harper, Renville, treasurer, and Emil Gelst, St. Paul, director.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Darling has informed Representative J. Adam Bede that the United States ship Fern, now at Norfolk navy yard, will be turned over to the Minnesota naval militia at Duluth, providing the state will put up $3,500 to make necessary repairs to the ship, so that it it can make the trip to the Head of the Lakes.

The State Editorial association held a two days' session at St. Paul last week. The following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: President, W. C. Whiteman, Ortonville; vice presidents, C. A. French, Monticello; A. J. Halstead, Brainerd, and H. J. Peterson, Litchfield; secretary, C. P. Stine, St. Paul; treasurer, D. R. Ramaley, St. Paul; executive committee, H. P. Hall, C. C. Whitney and Frank Meyst.

213 South Prior Street,
ATLANTA, GA., March 21, 1903.

I suffered for four months with extreme nervousness and lassitude. I had a sinking feeling in my stomach which no medicine seemed to relieve, and losing my appetite I became weak and lost my vitality. In three weeks I lost fourteen pounds of flesh and felt that I must find speedy relief to regain my health. Having heard Wine of Cardui praised by several of my friends, I sent for a bottle and was certainly very pleased with the results. Within three days my appetite returned and my stomach troubled me no more. I could digest my food without difficulty and the nervousness gradually diminished. Nature performed her functions without difficulty and I am once more a happy and well woman.

Suffering

Will Not Help Your Disease, but Will Weaken Your Nerves.

Folks who think it is better to bear pain than soothe it—are wrong.

Old-fashioned doctors used to say it was better, because they had nothing with which to ease pain but dangerous, heart-paralyzing drugs.

But now, that a safe remedy has been found, Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, it is wrong to suffer, for nothing can be gained but weakened nerves.

A safe rule to remember is: When in pain, take an Anti-Pain Pill.

This will soothe your quivering nerves.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills relieve pain by restoring the natural secretions, in which they differ from opium and similar narcotic drugs, which relieve pain by checking the action of the glands.

They are sure and harmless, and are the latest medical treatment for the cure of Headache, Neuralgia, Backache, Rheumatism, Dizziness, Toothache, Stomachache, Menstrual (Monthly) Pains. Also nerve irritations like Sea-Sickness, Car-Sickness, Sleeplessness, Indigestion, etc.

Pleasant to take, quick in results.

"I have used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for sick, nervous headache, and have received the best results. I heartily recommend their curative properties, for they are successful."—REV. RAY A. WATROS, D. D., Iowa City, Ia.

They all had a first class time and drove home early Wednesday morning.

The bill granting the Minneapolis, Red Lake Manitoba railway permission to acquire 320 acres of land on the Red Lake reservation for terminal purposes passed the house of representatives Saturday. The bill was previously passed in the senate. Amendments were incorporated in the house prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquor on the land and in this shape it was agreed to by Mr. Steenerson.

City Attorney H. W. Lee was down from Thief River Falls last Saturday and served a notice upon Treasurer Hanson restraining him from collecting certain taxes levied. The matter will come before Judge Grindeland at a special term of court here on Tuesday, March 2, and it is likely that it will meet the fate of Lee's other monkey business when it comes up for the Judge's opinion.

The suit brought to restrain the county from purchasing the county buildings, brought in the name of Peter [illegible], of Rocksbury township, came up for hearing at the chambers of Judge Watts last Monday evening, County Attorney Germo going down to representing the county. Mr Germo moved that the suit against the commissioners be dismissed inasmuch as the complaint did not come within the law and was not served according to the provisions of the statutes. The Judge immediately saw the force of Mr. Germo's argument and dismissed the action against the commissioners. It is stated that the suit against the other officers will be carried through and brought up at the regular term of court in March.

TO RETAIN ROUTE.

Petition Sent to Congressman Asking for Continuance of Mail Service.

A petition was this week forwarded to Congressman Steenerson asking that the present rural service to the towns out east in Red Lake county be continued, and was signed by the leading citizens of Lambert, Terrebonne and this city.

There has been some talk that as soon as the mail was carried over the Soo the present lines from this city would be discontinued, but the people out that way do not want this done and ask the Congressman to retain the present service.

The line to Lambert is practically a rural delivery route as the carrier delivers mail to all boxes on his way in and out and its retention means a great deal to the people of this part of the county.

CABOOSE TURNS SOMERSAULT.

Great Northern Branch Freight Gets Mixed Up At Ives.

At about 3:30 Saturday afternoon the caboose attached to the freight train en route from St. Hilaire to Crookston got a very queer notion and as the train was running along very smoothly near the little station of Ives without any notice or warning of any description, severed all connection with the rest of the train cut three very graceful curves in the form of somersaults in the air and landed in ditch where she now lies.

Conductor C. P. Keeley was in charge of the train. John Berg and George Stiltz were the brakemen, all of whom were in the caboose when it left the track. No one was hurt seriously although the conductor was shocked up and bruised a little more than the brakemen.

How the car could leave the track turn three distinct somersaults in the air and then light without demolishing the car entirely and killing the occupants is puzzling the heads of many railroad boys.

The track was in perfect condition as the rest of the train passed safely over the spot of the accident. The caboose used was what is known among the railroad boys as a "dinky" the lightest that are put on the road and this, it is thought, was the cause of its sudden departure from the rails. There are very few of the small cars used in this section now as they are generally considered too light for the hard service. A heavier one had been used on this run up to about two weeks ago when a lighter one was substituted.

The fact that the three occupants of the car escaped with only the few bruises and a general shaking up is most fortunate and the boys are being congratulated by their many friends. They expect to be in shape to take their runs in the near future.

Beating the Devil With Corn.

The new Sweet Corn happily named Peep O'Day is creating a great sensation in all parts of the country from the fact that it is ten days to two weeks earlier than any other variety and is the sweetest of all Sweet Corn. Rev. A. L. Struthers of Alfred, Maine, wrote last July as follows to Northrup, King & Co., the Seedsmen of Minneapolis, originators of this wonderful corn:

"We are eating corn from the early Peep O'Day Sweet purchased of you last spring. I told an old farmer the other day that I had green corn for dinner, he looked at me in astonishment then said, "Out of a can?" I said, No, off the cob, "Come from the South." No, out of my garden. He looked at me a minute and then said, "That beats the devil."

While my occupation as a minister is fighting the devil, I never thought before of competing with him by raising corn. I could not possibly have succeeded with any variety but Peep O'Day."

For 16 cents. Northrup, King & Co. are offering to mail 300 seeds (sufficient to plant 60 hills) of Peep O'Day corn and to send their pictured catalogue of Northrup grown Seeds. Write Northrup, King & Co., Seedsmen, 38 Northrup King Bldg., Minneapolis, Minn., and sending 16 cents, you will receive a sealed package of this wonderful corn and their useful catalogue.

A Washington Party.

Prof. and Mrs. E. W. Chamberlain, Miss Grace Iddings and Miss Carrie Tambling were hosts at a Washington party given at the high school building Wednesday evening of this week in honor of the pupils of the high school, and nearly fifty responded to the invitation to enjoy the evening with them. The whole programme of amusement was suggestive of the day on which the party occurred, all the features tending to remind the participants of the great "father of his country". The first feature was the pinning of minature paper hatchets on the back of each guest, and by inklings gleaned from remarks pertaining to the name on each of the hatchets the pupils were asked to guess what colonial person's name was written thereon. As fast as they guessed one another was pinned to them and the one having the most hatchets at the close was declared the winner. A "cherry hunt" was then indulged in, the guests being required to search for hidden cherries, and in this event prizes were provided, Miss Rose Sutor winning first and Miss Lizzie Casserly the consolation honors. The pupils were then provided with neat blue booklets tied with red and white ribbons, and chose partners for the contest for which these provided. Across the top of each booklet was written the words, "George Washington" and then the titles of five songs as follows: "Under the old apple tree," "Coon, coon, coon," "Dance of the demons," "In the good old summer time" and "O, promise me." The holders of the booklets were then given five minutes in which to illustrate with a drawing each of the subjects, much amusement and many excellent illustrations being the result. A grand march then took place, J. Drew Marshall, representing George Washington, and Miss Margaret Kaus, as lady Washington leading the march. After this, refreshments consisting of sherbet and cake were served, and as a finale the high school band, composed of a dozen high school boys belonging to the city band, furnished some choice selections. The high school and recitation room and Prof. Chamberlain's office were used for the entertainment, decorations being arranged throughout the rooms. Electric lights were furnished by the Electric Light Co. free of charge, Drew Marshall doing the wiring, and the Gazette is requested to heartily thank both the company and Mr. Marshall for their kindness in providing these luxuries. The entertainment was thoroughly enjoyed by the high school pupils and will long remain as a cherished memory of one of the most delightful events in their school lives.

New Telephone Line.

Plummer Pioneer: On Monday a crew of men arrived from Thief River Falls to commence the work of setting up the poles for the long distance telephone line between here and Thief River Falls.

The line that is being constructed runs some distance east of Thief River Falls whence one branch will run north to Germantown and one south to Plummer. From here an extra line will be put up to Garnes and possibly to Lambert. The work will be pushed rapidly and connections will be made in a few weeks.

The location of the "central" has not yet been decided.

MAY FREE OLDEST PRISONER

John Warren, for 43 Years in a Connecticut Penitentiary, Sues for a Pardon.

Wethersfield, Conn.—John Warren, who has been in prison longer than any man in this country, having been at the state's prison here for 43 years, may be released the coming summer by the board of pardons.

At the meeting of the board he presented a petition to be allowed to spend his remaining days with his brothers, who promised to care for him the rest of his life. The petition was continued until the June session.

Warren came to Wethersfield in December, 1859, and he is now 66 years old. According to the testimony at his trial, he was married to Julia E. Turner when he was but 17 and she but 15. They quarreled continually, and one day in the early spring he persuaded his wife to take a walk with him in the woods. They sat down on the bank of a dried-up stream, in which there were little pools of water, and while his wife's back was turned Warren grabbed her by the throat and held her nose and mouth under the water until she was drowned. Then he dragged the body into a clump of woods three miles away. It was said that another woman whom he wished to marry witnessed the crime.

KANSAS' BIG OIL YIELD.

State's Product for 1904 Is 5,600,000 Barrels—Beats the Pennsylvania Output.

Chanute, Kan.—For 1904 the total production in the Kansas oil field was approximately 5,600,000 barrels. In 1903 the production was 1,118,000 barrels. The increase is a fraction more than 500 per cent.

Since the discovery of oil in 1856 nothing like this record has been made. Kansas has made more progress in oil industry in 12 months than was accomplished in Pennsylvania in 17 yeare.

During the year just closed there has been invested in the oil business, leases, drilling, pipe lines, pumping plants, and the like, about $50,000,000. The wells themselves have cost $5,000,000 more. Tankage has cost $15,000,000 more and pipe lines of all sizes, pumping plants, and other improvements bring the total to $50,000,000, an average monthly investment of $4,166,000. Taking the average price of oil for the year, there has been paid out more than $4,000,000 to the producer and more than that to labor.

More than 3,000 miles of oil and gas pipe lines have been laid.

HALVOR'S BILL A LAW

By Unanimus Vote The Commutation Privlege Is Extended To Homesteaders On Red Lake Reserve.

Congressman Halvor Steenerson has scored another triumph. His commutation bill has passed the house of representatives by the unanimous consent of the members present. It would appear that his sterling good sense and indefatigable labors, is giving him a standing among the lawmakers at Washington. It is probably coming home to them that the man from the ninth district of Minnesota does not go after things unless he has something which his constituents need and then he does not ask anything unfair or selfish.

This extension of the commutation privileges to the homesteaders who settled on the lands thrown open to settlement on the Red Lake and Chippewa Reservations since May, 1900, will remove a recognized hardship from the shoulders of thousands of homesteaders in this state. The bill will undoubtly pass the senate and become a law.

His bill like all the work of the big Congressman from this district, has a definite end; the betterment of the conditions for the people of his district. The record Mr. Steenerson has made in congress is an enviable one. Every measure he has championed has found favor with congress or the departments. He is wise in his choice of subjects for legislution or regulrtion and is not guilty of freak bills or play to the gallery. His latest achievement will make him more popular than ever in the district.

NO PARTY STRINGS.

Bill Introduced Taking County Superintendeat Out of Politics.

Before the end of the week a bill will be introduced putting the office of county superintendent on a higher plane than it now occupies. The bill has the indorsement of educators generally, and particularly of county superintendents. Its object is to secure professional and expert supervision of the country schools.

The bill provides for a non-partizan school board of five, one from each county commissioner district. It is to be elected at the time of the annual school meetings. Candidates may go on the ballot by affidavit or by a petition signed by five voters. The votes are to be canvassed by the county auditor. The board is to hold annual and special meetings and is to receive $3 a day and mileage. It is to exercise all the school powers now held by the county commissioners. It is to levy the necessary tax to pay its expenses of county teachers' meetings, meetings of district school officers, county teachers' institutes, etc. It is not to take away any of the powers of the local school boards.

The county superintendent is to be appointed by the county school board before June 1 in each odd numbered year, beginning with 1907. No one is to be eligible except graduates of the department of pedagogy of the university, of the advanced courses of state normal schools or accredited outside normal schools, or holders of state professional certificates, or former or present superintendents.

The salary fixed by the board, is to be not less than $10 a year for each organized school district in the county. The board is also to pay reasonable traveling expenses, but nor more than $3 a year for each organized district.

It is underatood that the attorney general has passed on the conatitutionality of the bill, including the restrictions it places on the qualifications for the office.

NOTED BAND LEADER CALLS.

W. H. Sconton, Representing Lyon & Healy, of Chicago, Visits Here.

Bandmaster W. H. Scouton, one of the oldest and best known band leaders in the United States, arrived in the city Monday to spend the day here interviewing the band boys and displaying a line of band instruments and goods of the Lyon & Healy Publishing company, of Chicago,.

Mr. Scouton is making a tour of the northwest in the interests of his house, but says that it has never been his pleasure to find a band of the ability and size of the Red Lake Falls organization outside of the larger towns, and he was indeed surprised to find band enthusiasm and spirit so pronounced as it is here.

Mr. Scouton's fame as a composer and director is world-wide and numerous beautiful compositions of his have found a very warm spot in the hearts of the bandmen throught the country. For several years he led some of the biggest bands in the country and today ranks as among the best in the United States. His visit here was thouroughly enjoyed by all who met him, and it is to be hoped that he will come this way again when in this part of the world.

IT MAY BE A MURDER

Friends and Relatives of Nels G. Otterness, of St. Hilaire, Refuse To Believe Suicide Theory.

"Nels Otterness my late partner in business at St. Hilaire and Hazel no more commiited suicide in the hotel Beauford, Minneapolis, a week ago than I did. He was murdered in cold blood for his money and what jewelry he had upon his person and we have clues at present which point strongly to certain people who may be made to shoulder one of the foulest crimes on record in Minnesota."

Such were the words of A. M. Edstrom, the St. Hilaire furniture dealer, to a Crookston Journal reporter while upon his way home from Minneapolis and Cannon Falls where he went to take charge of the remains and attend the funeral of his late partner.

"I know as much about Mr. Otterness' business affairs as anyone in the world, and I know that there was no financial reason why he should have taken such a step as suicide. He had upwards of a hundred dollars reckoning, upon the evening that he went to bed in the Beauford house in Minneapolis, a diamond stick pin worth several hundred, a gold watch and various articles of monetary value and worth, which were missing when the body was discovered. One of two things only is possible. Either Otterness was robbed after his dead body was discovered at the hotel or he was robbed before death and suffocated with the gas fumes by his murderer or muderers. Friends and relatives of the deceased, altho they have received but little encouragement from the police of Minneapolis in their theory of the affair, have engaged expert detectives to probe the matter and run down what clues have been discovered and it is likely that sensational developments will be made before the end of many weeks."

The Minneapolis authorities at the present time say they will do all in their power to unearth the mystery which surrounds Otterness' death, but incline rather strongly to the suicide theory.

BOND ISSUE CARRIES.

Thief River Falls Votes to Install System of Waterworks.

A special election was held in Thief River Falls Monday of this week to vote bonds in the sum of $28,000 to be used for the construction of a system of waterworks and sewerage, and the issue carried by a large majority, the vote being 381 for the bonds to 16 against.

The bonds will at once be advertised and it is likely that the work of installing the system will commence early in the spring.

Thief River used excellent judgement in voting for this issue as every town of any consequence should have a system of waterworks before it can to advance to any degree, The plant at Thief River will be a modern one and will result in untold benefit to the upriver town,

COUNTY DADS MEET

Special Session of the Board of County Commissioners of Red Lake County Being Held This Week.

The board of County Commissioners of Red Lake county met in special session at the office of the county auditor in this city Tuesday afternoon and have since been grinding out business for the county at a rapid rate. Considerable business has been taken up so far and it is likely that the board will not finish their labors until tomorrow afternoon. The following is a brief resume of the work so far:

Application of Dennis Connolly of the town of North for abatement of taxes was rejected.

Bonds of Judge of Probate Tarrant and County Surveyor Wood were on motion approved.

The application of M. J. Lillo and others for an appropriation from the road and bridge fund to aid in constructing a bridge accross the Clearwater river from the fraction north of Garnes to that part of the reservation adjoining the town of Garnes was referred to the road and bridge committee and will be reported on at the May meeting.

Application of Hubert Cardinal for ecrrection of assessment and abatement of taxes in the city of Red Lake Falls was granted.

A petition was presented asking for a new school district to be formed out of districts 36, 79, 141 and 7 in Terrebonne and Poplar River and the hearing on the same was set for May 2.

The reports of the county officers for the year 1904 were approved.

A resolution was adopted annexing that part of the township of North east of the Red Lake river to the present town of North.

Application of I. T. Aastad for abatement of taxes was rejected.

Auctioneers' licenses were granted to C. M. Evenson and Joseph Belair.

Six petitions asking for the organization of new school districts in the towns on the reservation were presented and the hearings were set for May 1 and 2.

Several bills will be taken up and disposed of before the board adjourns. The next meeting will be the regular May meet and it is expected that all kinds of fun will result at that time.

NEW LODGE AT BROOKS.

Modern Brotherhood of America Institute at the New Town.

About twenty members of the local camp of Modern Brotherhood of America went out to Brooks last Saturday evening to help organize a new lodge of that order at the new Soo town.

A large number of charter members were secured and the new lodge starts out under very favorable circumstances. The degree team from this city officiated at the initiatory ceremonies and did a good job, and after the work the visitors were entertained by the Brooks people.

The new lodge starts out well and expects to have a very healthy growth, as there is much material in that part of the county. Joseph Belair and Samuel Allard, of this city, were instrumental in getting the order started there, and great credit is due them for the excellence of the new lodge.

Section foremen in the service of the Northern Pacific railway have received notification from headquarters that their usual monthly rent bills for the section houses will in future not have to be paid. This action on part of the company is taken in order to allow the section men more pay. The houses along the entire line of the road are owned by the company and the rent has heretofore been withheld from the checks of the foremen. The increase in pay will amount to quite a neat sum and is making the "bosses" feel good.

Disturber Lee's Great Scheme to Hold Up Payment of Taxes Meets the Fate of Other Monkey Business.

Judge Andrew Grindeland came over from Warren today to listen to the arguments in the case of H. W. Lee vs. the board of county commissioners, wherein said Lee asked that an injunction be granted restraining the treasurer from collecting the taxes levied for 1904, setting forth as a cause that the levy was illegal and for "grafting" purposes.

County Attorney Germo appeared for the county and after listening to the arguments of the case the Judge at once dismissed the case and refused to grant any injunction whatever. The case was certainly as big a case of bugaboo as ever was brought before the public and while there was never any doubt as to the outcome yet it seems too bad that the people of Thief River Falls will allow this disturber to continue his suits against the county which mean considerable money to the taxpayers each time they have to be fought.

The law expressly provides just what authority the board and auditor have in levying taxes and anyone who wanted to take the time, could easily convince himself that Mr. Lee's stand in the matter had no foundation in fact and that he was merely making a bid hill of expense to the people to gain a little notriety.

It has been reported that Mr. Lee has expressed himself as being willing to "compromise" if the people here wanted him to, but he will live to be a greet deal older before he gets anything from Red Lake Falls to induce him to let up his monkey business.

Thief River Falls, however, with its big holler as to how anxious it is to save the people money should either call him off the perch or quit their holler about being friends of the people.

CONCERT PLEASES.

Band Again Acquits Itself in Creditable Manner.

The February concert by the Red Lake Falls Concert Band was given at the Metropolitan opera house last Friday evening, and one of the largest crowds of the winter turned out to listen to the band's program.

Outside of the band numbers, which were exceedingly good, several special features were introduced which pleased the audience immensely. Miss Ina Linnihan gave "The Polish Boy," a beautiful recitation, in a style that reflected great credit upon her ability as an elocutionist and was compelled to respond to an enthusiastic encore. The Spartan quartette of the high school, composed of the Misses Margaret Kaus, Iza Tibbetts, Clara Marchand and Jessie Carver, sang a humorous song entitled, "Within a Little Wood" which brought down the house, so to speak, and they responded to an encore. J. B. Armstrong played an excellent baritone solo and he was also compelled to play a second number before being allowed to quit.

The concert as a whole was one which sustained the reputation of the band as excellent entertainers and the people generally were greatly pleased with every number.

The concert during Lent will be in the nature of a sacred concert and the program will be made up of part sacred themes and melodies with a few other features interspersed.

On Easter Monday night the band will appear in a minstrel performance, and while the arrangements are yet in a state of embryo it can be promised that the entertainment will be the best ever. With these two excellent features in aight the people of the city can rest asaured of witnessing two good entertainments during the next few months.

Value of A High School Education.

Papers on the Subject By Members of the Senior Class of the City Schools....

High School Education.

When one enters High School he must make an attempt to fix clearly in mind what he proposes to do with education and what studies are necessary to accomplish the ends he has aimed at. He has an analysis of what education for the average man should consist, so that he does not labor in the dark but will in the begining get a bird's eye view that will encourage him to go forward. Thus with an aim to view the student, who will put sufficient work on his studies will accomplish much, that will go with him through life. With a good High School education as a basis one may start out in life with the intention of entering higher schools where he will daily use what he learned in High School or with the intention of earning his living with greater skill.

If one wishes to pursue the study of science, he has obtained the first steps in his high school course, in his work of Physics and other branches which present themselves. But this is only one example for all studies which are introduced in High School serve as a basis for further education.

A High School education is essential not only to every man or woman but also to law makers, jurists and teachers, also to him who will labor with the highest powers of mind and body.

People who would keep up in the world's race must possess some education and the best place to get this knowledge is the High School and the best time for study is when our minds are eager to grasp new ideas. If we do not profit by the advantage presented to us in High School surely the opportunity will not present itself to us again by the mere contact with people.

Our High School education leads us not only to right thinking but also to right living. —BLANCHE BERTHIAUME.

The Benefits for Life to be Derived from a High School Course.

The determination to take a high school course already carries with it a benefit in the way of arousing one's pluck and better energies. It prompts definite action and makes one feel his responsibility.

For anyone wishing to follow some profession, a high school education is indespensible. If he does not take the work in the high school, he must take it some where else. Four years of high school work is a good foundation upon which to build a business education. A president of a business college once said that high school graduates require, on the average, but half the time to complete a business course that it takes a person who has never attended high school. This is also true of those attending agricultural colleges.

From each subject taken up some benefits for life can be derived. History deals with facts with which every one should be acquainted. From the study of English, the pupil not only becomes acquainted with some of the best literature but also developes a taste for good books. His vocabulary is also enlarged. Mathematics train the mind to think clearly, deeply and systematically. What is more needed in every walk of life than this mental training? In life there are problems confronting one continually which require deep and careful thought. Surely one who has spent four years in developing his mental faculties is better fitted to solve these problems than one who has not had this training. —LILLIAN NAUMAN.

Benefits of School Training.

If a young man, after he has completed a course in High School intends to enter some higher institution, or if he expects to take up life's work a high school education is most beneficial. Every young man can make out of a high school course what he pleases. If he wants to be a self conceited, shallow-minded fop, obtaining a mere smattering of knowledge on a few general topics of current interest, a high school is a good place for him to accomplish his object. On the contrary if he wants to acquire good valuable information and train his mind to think rapidly and reason logically a high school is just the place to accomplish that purpose. One of our statesmen says, "Generally when students turn out bad after going through school the trouble is organic and inherent rather than external and acquired." Education does for natural talent only what a grindstone does for a scythe. If the scythe is made of good steel, grinding brings it to an edge and enables it to do more effective work, but if the sythe is good for nothing to begin with the more you grind the duller it becomes. The trouble is in the material not in the process of sharpening.

There are many narrow-minded men in business and by the time a student has reached the end of a high school course his mind has been broadened to meet life in a better way than if he did not have the thorough training it gives him.

There never was a time in the world's history when force of will was more necessary to success than now and it takes an immense amount of will power to keep up ones spirits while making a life long effort to achieve success. Does not a student use force of will in battling with the course of studies put before him which he knows he must complete? By experience a student learns how obstacles are overcome by grappling with them and he soon realizes that he can and will accomplish anything that he sets his will to do. —MARGARET KAUS

What the High School Does.

If this question was more thoroughly thot out by all people there would be a larger attendance, of boys at least, in the High Schools. When some pupils get to the eighth grade they have a longing to get to work and leave school because they do not realize the value the work for after life.

The discipline which has been strong in the grades gradualy weakens as the student advances and in this way he is gradualy let down from this strict rules of the school to his own rules which he will form.

In the four years work the students are made to reason for themselves and will thus be prepared to meet the problems of after life.

The civic course of the well regulated High Schools takes up business matters, terms and transactions that take men and women five or six years of actual business life to learn. During the four years of work the student is taught how to find things out for themselves. If they are not certain on a belief they are taught how to use books as a reference. In this way they receive the thots and opinions of all great men while in business life alone they get only the narrow ideas of the people they come in contact with.

The latin course prepares the student for further learning and is a great memory drill,

Most High Schools have atheletic work of some kind and the students are thus taught to build up and keep their bodies in good condition.

The training also makes polished manners and speech and forms for the student good habits which he will follow thru life.—J. D. MARSHALL.

The High School Benefits.

A High School education lays the foundation for all higher forms of education. A student touches upon almost every subject which he will take up in college or other schools and this gives him a good start. If a student has made the most of his High School education he is able to make his way in the world without any other higher education. After a student has graduated from a high school he is able to take up any occupation such as, book-keeping, printer, country school teacher and many other occupations which he can learn gradually by hard work.

The student who while at school never found the time to get his lessons but depended on some one else to lead him along will be in the same position throughout his life, while the student who has studied out his lessons by himself and grasped every opportunity offered to him in a high school course, will be the one who will be successful in life. Thus a high school education cultivates and broadens the mind and teaches the student to think and depend upon himself.—CLARA MARCHAND.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. RICH, CAN'T PAY BOARD.

Predicament of Samuel Medbury, Who Possesses a $70,000 Estate, Which Is Tied Up by Litigation.

Detroit, Mich.—Possessed of an estate worth about $70,000, yet too poor to buy a suit of clothes or to pay his board bill, is the peculiar predicament Samuel Medhury is in, according to his testimony before Judge Frazer.

Medhury is the grandson of the late Lucetta R. Medhurs, who left an estate valued at between $500,000 and $600,000, and is one of the legatees under her will. Mrs. Medhury, however, when she died, tied up the property and left the shares of her two grandchildren, Samuel and his brother, Truman, in trust to Henry B. and Cyrus E. Lothrop. She specified that the shares should be turned over to them at the discretion of the trustees, and in the case before the court Medhury told Judge Frazer that he thought he was old enough to manage his share of the estate.

Medhury testified that he had tried to secure work, but had not been successful only among his relatives. He said that the state of affairs had not permitted him to buy a new suit of clothes in two years, and that he was now heavily indebted for a board bill.

In disposing of the case Judge Frazer said that he thought a man who had reached the age of 32 without being able to secure a permanent position for himself was not competent to manage a $70,000 estate. He advised, however, that the trustees turn over from $5,000 to $15,000 to Medhury to find out what he could do with that amount.

GLOBE-TROTTER TO QUIT.

Joe Schwartz, Citizen of the World, Decides to Make St. Louis His Home.

St. Louis.—Joe Schwartz, globe-trotter, citizen of the world and one of the famous characters of the recent fair, has forsworn his peregrinations around the globe and will settle down in St. Louis, the city of his choice.

Ever since he was eight years old he has traveled the habitable globe and many parts of the uninhabitable sphere, not once, but many times, but until he struck St. Louis he found no place where he could stop and say: "This is the place I will make my home."

Mr. Schwartz has been appointed passenger and steamship agent of a railway line, with headquarters at St. Louis. This is not his first railway experience, as he served for several years, some time ago, as passenger and tourist agent on the Pacific slope.

He first started putting girdles round the earth 22 years ago at the tender age of eight. He is a native of Argentine, his father being an Austrian physician and his mother an Argentinian woman. Since that time he has trod the soil of almost every land under the sun and is a linguist of polyglot attainments. He has seen almost every exposition of any note in that time and his services have been in demand as an interpreter. In his travels he has met and obtained the friendship of many famous public men and bears letters of commendation from many of them. He came to St. Louis in 1902 and almost immediately secured a position with the world's fair.

VEST A DEADLY GARMENT.

British Schoolmaster Holds Present Style Is Perilous and Starts Crusade Against Them.

London.—L. N. Marshall, head master of the Kingston grammar school, has started a national crusade against the waistcoat. He holds that vests contract the chest, and advocates loose flannels and jerseys for boys' wear. His idea has caught the public fancy, and physicians have flocked to back up his contentions.

One physician declares the vest is one of the chief causes of pulmonary trouble, especially in elderly men. Others declare that the thin lining of the vest in the back does not protect the spinal column and lungs, the most vulnerable parts of the human body, and that a reform is needed.

Another expert declares every vest should be lined with flannel in the back. Medical men are of the opinion that the garment, as now fashioned, is a death trap in winter. All join in the declaration that some step should be taken to remedy the matter. They claim that influenza, now so prevalent, is due largely to the "deadly" vest.

STRANGE TRIP OF WHEAT.

Cereal from Oregon Travels to Europe and Back Again for Curious Reason.

New York.—By an unusual condition of affairs a large importation of wheat arrived at this port the other day in the British steamer Princess. The amount was 40,000 bushels, but it was not foreign-raised wheat, but came originally from Oregon. It was sold by the grain firm of McLaren & Muir to flour mills of this city and is now brought back from Antwerp for manufacture here into flour.

This is the first time in the history of the grain trade exported wheat has been brought back for any other purpose than to meet the exigencies of a corner in that commodity and the reimportation at this time is due to the small crop of wheat in this country this year and the high price now obtaining for it. No duty on it will be charged, provided it can be identified by the consignees. The high rates for transportation of wheat from Oregon at the present time makes the transaction a profitable one.

ACTION NOT JUSTIFIED

NORTH SEA COMMISSION FINDS AGAINST RUSSIA IN DOGGER BANK AFFAIR.

Board of Admirals Declares That No Torpedo Boats Were Present Among the Fishing Fleet and Rojestvensky Should Not Have Opened Fire—Latter Is Declared to Have Acted According to His Best Belief.

Paris, Feb. 25.—The decision of the international commission of inquiry into the North sea incident was publicly announced at the closing session of the commission. The decision lengthily sets forth the circumstances and incidents and gives the opinion of the admirals on the various important points involved. The decision says the delay of the Russian transport Kamchatka, following the breakdown of her machinery, was perhaps the cause of the incident. The commander of the Kamchatka signalled to Admiral Rojestvensky during the evening that he had been attacked by torpedo boats. The admiral therefore had reason to believe he was attacked and gave orders for strict vigilance against the possible approach of torpedo boats. The majority of the commission considere that Admiral Rojestvensky's orders were not excessive in time of war, particularly under the circumstances, and that he had every reason to consider the situation very alarming.

"The commission," the decision says, "recognize unanimously that the fishing fleet committed no hostile act and the majority of the commissioners being of the opinion that there were not, neither among the fishing boats nor in their vicinity, any torpedo boats, the opening of fire by Admiral Rojestvensky was not justified."

Russian Admiral Dissents.

The decision further says the Russian commissioner did not share in the latter opinion.

"In any event," the decision continues, "the commissioners are glad to recognize unanimously that Admiral Rojestvensky personally did all he could from the commencement to the end to prevent the trawlers from being the object of fire by the Russian squadron."

Concerning the squadron's proceeding without assisting the damaged trawlers the decision says:

"The commissioners are unanimous that under the circumstances preceding and following the incident that there was such uncertainty concerning the danger to the squadron as to warrant Admiral Rojestvensky in continuing his route.

"However, the majority regrets that the admiral did not inform the neighboring maritime powers of what had occurred."

The decision concludes as follows:

"The commissioners declare that their views as formulated are not of a nature to cast any discredit upon the military valor nor upon the sentiments of humanity of Admiral Rojestvensky and the personnel of his squadron."

CROSS SHAKHE RIVER

JAPS ADVANCE AND DRIVE BACK THE PICKETS OF THE RUSSIAN VANGUARD.

Mukden, Feb. 28.—The Japanese crossed the Shakhe river last evening, having driven in the pickets of the Russian vanguard. Russian supports came up and stopped the Japanese advance.

On the right flank all is quiet, but movements of the Japanese indicate an intention of attacking the Russian center at least in the way of a demonstration. Heavy firing continued during the day to the eastward.

The soldiers of the Tsinkhetchen division are in good spirits in spite of heavy losses they have sustained and the necessity which compelled them to retreat. They are encouraged by the execution they wrought upon the Japanese, whose bodies were piled in heaps outside the redoubts at Bereeneff hill and the trenches at Tsinkhetchen.

Sunday afternoon there was a violent storm of heavy, wet snow. The temperature during the night moderated somewhat.

The Russians report that the Japanese are in possession of Taling and also the pass between Taling and Kntouling. The possession of Taling threatens Fusharn, Tiehling and Hiegassway.

Taling is regarded as of the same consequence to the Japanese in their operations against Mukden as was Motienling in relation to Liaoyang.

In case the Japanese push on from the southeast their operations will be among the hills.

HEAVY LOSS BY FIRE

PROPERTY VALUED AT FIVE MILLION DOLLARS DESTROYED AT NEW ORLEANS.

Flames Sweep the River Front, Wiping Out Vast Freight Terminals of the Illinois Central Road—Twelve Squares of Modern Wharves, Freight Sheds, Elevators and Hundreds of Loaded Cars Burned.

New Orleans, Feb. 27.—A fire which raged all night destroyed the immense export terminals of the Illinois Central railroad, causing a loss conservatively estimated at $5,000,000, divided as follows:

Two elevators, warehouses, sheds, etc., $2,500,000; 23,000 bales of cotton, $920,000; 900,000 bushels of grain, $385,000; 15,000 barrels of sugar, $300,000; cotton seed cake, 130 carloads, $97,500; lumber, $16,625; cement, $56,250: meal, 20 cars, $10,000; sundries, $150,000; 500 freight cars, $375,000; ships, damaged, $50,000; city fire department, two engines and six horses, $15,000; private property and other damage, $216,000. The railroad company carried its own insurance and the contents of the various elevators and sheds were insured in local and foreign agencies.

The wharves covered 4,750 feet, a distance of over ten blocks. Of this wharfage 3,500 feet and what it contained was destroyed, the remainder, at the upper end of the terminal, being saved through the fact that the wind blew strongly in the opposite direction. The destroyed wharf cost $500,000. Elevator D, leased to Harris, Scott & Co. of Chicago, cost $300,000 when built and elevator E, which was operated by the Illinois Central, cost $100,000.

Many Narrow Escapes Reported.

Apparently no lives were lost in the fire though there were many narrow escapes of those who were engaged in fighting the flames owing to its rapid spread and lives were constantly endangered by debris of all kinds that was whirled through the air. The escape of two fire engines was cut off and their crews had to run for their lives. Driver Charles Richardson of No. 6 being painfully hurt.

The fire started in the conveyers to elevator D. It spread with remarkable rapidity, sparks dropping into oil barrels on the wharf and extending the flames in every direction. Ten ships were lying at the docks when the fire started and all except two escaped without damage. All the tugs in the harbor that had steam up hurried to the scene when the fire started and by heroic efforts succeeded in pulling the steamers into the river out of reach of the flames.

In addition to the railroad property the fire destroyed the Crescent Ice company's plant, many small stores and a large number of small residences and many pathetic scenes were witnessed as the poor occupants of them struggled to save their small belongings at the risk of their lives. The fire will temporarily throw out of work a large number of employes, but this loss will be compensated by the much increased number that will be employed in the course of a few days in clearing away the debris and reconstructing the terminals at the highest attainable speed.

OVER A SCORE KILLED

EXPLOSION IN A WEST VIRGINIA MINE RESULTS IN HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE.

Wilcox, W. Va., Feb. 27.—More than a score of miners were buried in shaft No. 1 of the mine belonging to the United States Coal and Coke company. The accident was the result of an explosion.

The explosion was of terrific force and shattered glass windows a mile distant.

Immediately after the shock great numbers of miners who were off duty rushed to the shaft to find clouds of smoke and dust gushing from its mouth. Mothers and children soon were weeping and pleading for the rescue of those dear to them entombed in the mine.

The dead miners are all Italians and Hungarians.

The United States Coal and Coke company is a part of the United States Steel corporation.

ESTIMATES NOT EXAGGERATED.

Loss by Fire at Hot Springs, Ark., Totals Fully $1,500,000.

Hot Springs, Ark., Feb. 27.—Estimates of the damage done by the great conflagration of Saturday are not exaggerated. More than forty blocks were eaten away by the flames, causing a loss conservatively placed at $1,500,000. Three unknown bodies recovered are the only known fatalities.

The citizens' relief committee has the situation well in hand.

The amount subscribed for relief now totals $12,000.

The fire-swept area lies principally in the resident portion of the city. While the loss is enormous, the principal business portion of Hot Springs, including the hotels and bathhouses, are not affected.

PLUMMER

(From the Pioneer.)

Mr. and Mrs. C. Bourdon were out from Red Lake Falls Monday on a combined business and pleasure trip.

Mr. and Mrs. D. P. O'Neill came down from Thief River Falls on Tuesday night and remained after the dance next evening.

Fritz and Otto Zaiser were among the number who came out from Red Lake Falls to attend the dance Wednesday evening.

Henry Enderle made a business trip to St. Hilaire Thursday evening. He was accompanied by Joe Morrssette.

J. E. Buskirk returned on Wednesday from Red Lake Falls where he had been confined to his home for some days with a bad attack of the grippe.

Roy Green was in from Equality to take in the dance on Wednesday evening.

J. J. Airick came over from McIntosh on Monday to take a position as assistant in the Bovey-Shuts Lumber company's yard here.

Mrs. C. Leen and son left on Monday for Spokane to join her husband who will go from Salt Lake City to meet her there. Mrs. Leen has spent the winter here with her mother, Mrs. J. Rothsten.

N. J. Nelson representing the Minnesota Moline Plow company was here on Tuesday from Crookston looking over the field with a view to establishing an agency.

Ogard Bros. commenced on their new warehouse and have the foundation now finished. If fine weather prevails for a couple of weeks more they will have it ready for occupancy soon and will get their stock in at once.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Pleth left on Wednesday night for Minneapolis. Mr. Pleth was notified of the death of Nels Otterness and went to investigate the matter and assist in arranging for the care of the body. He expects to return on Monday.

Attorney H. W. Lee was down from Thief River Falls on Monday night to serve a copy of the summons and complaint in his tax case on commissioner Ole J. Johnson. This was Mr. Lee's first visit to Plummer and he says that in his opinion is the coming new town on the Soo line in northern Minnesota.

Mr. and Mrs. Con Short called on friends here yesterday while on their way home to Equality from a business trip to Red Lake Falls.

Ole Skavhang has commenced work on a handsome two story building, 24 by 50 feet, on the corner of Central Ave. and Oak street. The first floor will be rented for a store and the upstairs will be a public hall. It is probable that this hall will be leased to the Woodmen but will always be available for public meetings, dances, etc. A public hall is badly needed here and Mr. Skevhaug is to be commended for his enterprise in supplying one of such liberal dimensions.

If the report that the Soo line will build west from Plummer through St. Hilaire instead of from Thief River Falls is as true as indications point it to be wont another circular letter bearing on "Plummer and Her Interests" be due from a prominent citizen and boomer of the town out east?

The fact that a hog finds its way from the farm to the packing house at 4 cents a pound, and back to the farm in the shape of bacon at 18 cents a pound is sufficient proof that he is not the only hog in the transaction says the Grinell Gazette. If the farmer kill his own hog and cure his own bacon, he won't be Chasie Chadwicked by any of the the meat trusts.

Frank E. Packard is again employed on the Crookston Journal as editor-in-chief and the improvment in the paper has been very noticeable the past week. Frank easily leads the procession as the ablest newspaper man in the Red River Valley and the Gazette regrets exceedingly that he did not remain a member of the craft in this county.

St. Hilaire people have reason to feel happy over the prospects of being made a prominent Soo railroad town, and should the road be built through there as now reported there can be no question but what St. Hiliare will make one of the best towns in the Red River Valley even though they are handicapped by being only eight miles from the young Chicago of Red Lake county.

When a petition is handed to you to sign it is a mighty good thing to stop and read it before putting your name down. Besides men, as a rule, are too busy nowadays to stop for a little thing like that. The other day a man went through a big office building in Chicago, on a wager, and secured twenty names to a petition asking the public executioner to hang every one of the signers.

John Eastman devotes one page of his paper each week to the biggest kind of rot supposed to have a bearing on the county seat question, and so much of it is merely slander with no foundation in fact that the people can pass it over without paying any attention to it. To those who have known Eastman longest his charges of "graft" reminds one of the old, old, story of the "pot" calling the kettle black" and until he clears his own skirts of hold-up games he had better cease calling other people down. They are onto bigger than a wolf, John, and its time you took a tumble to yourself

The mistake the "tenderfoot" makes about advertising says the Fargo Forum, is that he gets his eyes glued on the prospective expense and it acts so terribly on the nerves as to cause a very severe case of heart failure. If you have not the nerve to follow a well blazed trail, even though you have never been over it yourself before, you were not cut out to be a merchant prince and had better stay out of the game.

The late gubernational campaign still furnishes "news" for the state exchanges, and there are many things coming to light that prove the injustice of the stand of Minnesota last fall. The following squibs from two state exchanges this week contain merit: "Clement, the Farbault bank-looter, was another of the highly moral conscientious Christian gentlemen who could not support Bob Dunn for governor!" ......"A traveling man absorbed too much poor whiskey at Albert Lea last week and stabbed the hotel clerk. This same man last fall was busy telling the people what a b-a-d man Bob Dunn was."

The Plummer Pinear is still harping on the old string about the warrants for the payment of the the court house. While every sane man in the county long since came to the conclusion that there was not a shadow of anything but a fair transaction in connection with this matter, we would like to ask Mr. Latta what figure it cuts now. The 26th of January has long since passed and both attempts at injunction proceedings have fallen flat so that Mr. Buse would have recieved his money in any event, whether it was paid a day or two before the 26th or not. Better stick to the question Charley, and you will make more headway.

The Heron Lake News takes cognizance of the defect in the oil inspection law and calls upon the legislature to remedy the evil. One of the plain duties of the present legislature is to pass a law that will prevent the dumping of inferior oil in this state. Other states have such a law, why not Minnesota? Two years ago the Standard Oil company statinned a powerful lobby in the state capitol and succeeded in buying a majority of the senators and thus prevented the passage of a bill to raise the grade of oil. We hope the house members and senators will see to it that their constituents get a square deal this year. There is no reason why the legislature should not relieve the people from the poor quality of oil which they are now compelled to use, and which costs them dearly.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Athenian Editors—Stella Hennemuth, Mike Connaughty and Paul Brunaells.

For the first time this year there was not one tardy or absent Tuesday afternoon.

One of the Senior girls is noted for inventing an ingenious device for stopping a door from slamming, she hung a chair on the door knob. A patent will be granted to her next week.

Miss Iddings was sick with an attack of the grip the fore part of the week. Prof. Chamberlain took charge of her classes.

Last week it was reported that the Spartens had a sure cinch on the banner, but since then it has been discovered that the Athenians still have a chance for it as they are way ahead.

Some of the boys forgot that they were not to leave the room, without permission, to study.

Ina Llanihan gave a recitation at the band concert last Friday evening. It was unusually good.

Ask any boy of the "Lecher burn" club, what kind of ice cream he likes best and see if he doesn't say chocolate.

The Freshies organized a short time ago, but we have not yet heard who the officers are.

The Juniors held a business meeting Monday to decide whether they should give the Seniors a banquet or a reception, but nothing was decided upon.

The Soph's are using the Freshies unusually well this year, better than any time previous. The Juniors had better remember how they treated us last year and remember that you have a banquet coming. That is the reason that we are using the Freshies right and we expect a good banquet our last year from them.

Drew Marshall put in a new set of wires in the school last week so it will not be as much trouble to furnish lights hereafter as it was before.

The boys play leap frog on the sidewalk as the grounds are too muddy to play anything else.

The High School boys have organized a band of ten pieces with Ralph Healy as leader, Joe Toupin is the only member who has not played before but he is a natural born snare-drummer and within a short time he will be very good. The boys never thought of having a band till last Wednesday, when they thought they would play that evening for the entertainment at the schoolhouse. They had never practiced together before and did unusually well that night which shows that they will be very good in the future.

There will be a program given by both societies in about a month for the benefit of the business men who cannot get off at the Friday programs. There will also be a debate and music will be furnished by the high school band.

Monday night the sewing club met at Hennemuth's. The boys found it out and; at 8:30 they marched down whistling their favorite tune "Blaze Away." They soon found out that there was ice cream in the pantry but "how can we get it" was the question. A committee was appointed by the leader and while the rest of the boys attracted attention in the front of the house, the four went in the rear. Two kept watch and the other two entered and did the taking (not stealing). But where should they go to eat it? They thought of a certain basement on 4th street and while some got the freezer, others got crackers, spoons, and dishes. They feasted greatly and returned the freezer empty. Girls we advise you to keep the freezer on the center table or piano hereafter where you can keep a close watch on it. We are very sorry that you could not tast it, for it was fine.

WASHINGTON SCHOOL NOTES.

Judith Rue and Gisela Helm, reporters.

Washington's birthday came on Wednesday, thus giving us a holiday, and we are sure every one enjoyed the vacation.

The second grade has a new set of readers this week.

Henry Lundquist was absent most of last week.

The boys have their football back again but the grounds are too muddy to play.

Lenora Garceau was taken sick again and had to remain out of school.

The sixth grade are all anxious to know who got the banner for January

Olive Zaiser was absent this week for the first time since school started.

The boys are playing marbles now and the football will have a rest.

There are many absences now on account of sickness.

Nickle Helm of the second grade is absent on account of sickness.

The sixth grade has begun the study of the French and Indian war in history.

Mr. Healy has started reading the fifth book to the 5th and 6th grades. It is entitled, "Wrecked on Spider Island", and is written by James Otis. Three of the other books he has read were written by the same author and the pupils like his books very much.

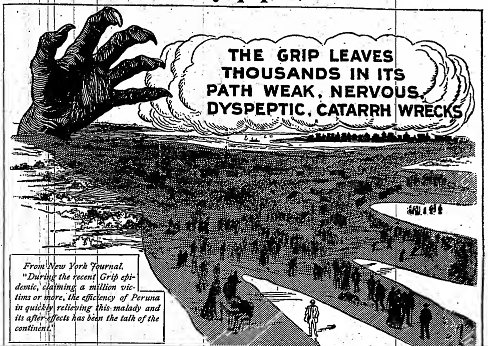
Monday while playing pull-away Grace Moran of the second grade fell and broke her fore-arm. She was taken to the doctor and the bone was set. We hope she will recover soon so as to be back at school.

Frank Campbell, you come to school or we will get after you. We want the banner this month.

When the girls begin to jump rope it is a sure sign of spring.

The ground is quite dry around the building and the boys have begun to practise for a field meet which we hope to have later in the spring. They are trying now to beat the records of last year which Mr. Healy has. If we can't get a meet with the other school we shall have one among ourselves as last spring.

The Grip Leaves Thousands in its Path Weak, Nervous, Dyspeptic, Catarrh Wrecks.



THE GRIP LEAVES THOUSANDS IN ITS PATH WEAK, NERVOUS, DYSPEPTIC, CATARRH WRECKS

From New York Journal. "During the recent Grip epidemic, claiming a million victims or more, the efficiency of Peruna in quickly relieving this malady and its after-effects has been the talk of the continent."

LIKE A DEMON grip has crossed our country, leaving behind scores of physical wrecks.

Victims of catarrh of the head, catarrh of the throat, catarrh of the lungs, catarrh of the stomach, catarrh of the kidneys, catarrh of the pelvic organs, are to be counted by hundreds of thousands. Grip is epidemic catarrh, and sows the seed of chronic catarrh within the system.

This is so true that few grip sufferers are able to make a complete recovery until they have used Peruna.

Never in the history of medicine has a remedy received such unqualified and universal eulogies as Peruna.

A New York Alderman's Experience.

Hon. Joseph A. Flinn, alderman Fifth District, writes from 104 Christopher street, New York City, as follows:

"When a pestilence overtakes our people we take precaution as a nation to preserve the citizens against the dread disease.

"La grippe has entered thousands of our homes this fall, and I noticed that the people who used Peruna were quickly restored, while those who depended on doctor's prescriptions, spent weeks in recovering, leaving them weak and emaciated.

"I had a slight attack of la grippe and at once took Peruna, which drove the disease out of my system in a few days and did not hinder me from pursuing my daily work.

"I should like to see our Board of Health give it official recognition and have it used generally among our poor sick people in Greater New York."—Joseph A. Flinn.

D. L. Wallace, a charter member of the International Barber's Union, writes from 15 Western avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.:

"Following a severe attack of la grippe I seemed to be effected badly all over. I suffered with a severe backache, indigestion and numerous ills, so I could neither eat nor sleep, and I thought I would give up my work, which I could not afford to do.

"One of my customers who was greatly helped by Peruna advised me to try it, and I procured a bottle the same day. I used it faithfully and felt a marked improvement. During the next two months I took five bottles, and then felt splendid. Now my head is clear, my nerves steady, I enjoy food, and rest well. Peruna has been worth a dollar a dose to me."—D. L. Wallace.

Mr. O. H. Perry, Atchison, Kansas, writes:

"Again, after repeated trials of your medicines, Peruna and Manalin, I give this as my expression of the wonderful results of your very valuable medicine in its effects in my case after repeated trials.

"First, it cured me of chronic bronchitis of fifteen years' standing by using two bottles of Peruna in January, 1894, and no return of it.

"After I was cured of bronchitis I had la grippe every winter for several winters. But, through the use of Peruna, it got gradually weaker in its severity, until it dwindled down to a mere stupor for two or three days. Now the stupor does not trouble me any more."—O. H. Perry.

A Congressman's Experience.

House of Representatives,
Washington, D. C.

Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Gentlemen—"I am more than satisfied with Peruna, and find it to be an excellent remedy for the grip and catarrh. I have used it in my family and they all join me in recommending it as an excellent remedy."

Very respectfully,
George H. White.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

Are You Engaged?

Engaged people should remember, that, after marriage, many quarrels can be avoided, by keeping their digestions in good condition with Electric Bitters, S. A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S. C., says: "For years, my wife suffered intensely from dyspepia, complicated with a torpid liver, until she lost her strength and vigor, and became a mere wreck of her former self. Then she tried Electric Bitters, which helped her at once, and finally made her entirely well. She is now strong and healthy." W. A. Schreiter, druggist, sells and guarantees them, at 50c a bottle.

We Offer $1,000

For a Disease Germ That Liquozone Can't Kill.

On every bottle of Liquozone we offer $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. We do this to assure you that Liquozone does kill germs.

And it is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease. It is this fact which gives Liquozone its worth to humanity; a worth so great that, after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, we paid $100,000 for the American rights. And we have spent over one million dollars, in one year, to buy the first bottle and give it free to each sick one who would try it.

Acts Like Oxygen.

Liquozone is not made by compounding drugs, nor is there any alcohol in it. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. This process has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research.

The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is an absolutely certain germicide. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

Liquozone goes into the stomach, into the bowels and into the blood, to go wherever the blood goes. No germ can escape it and none can resist it. The results are inevitable, for a germ disease must end when the germs are killed. Then Liquozone, acting as a wonderful tonic, quickly restores a condition of perfect health. Diseases which have resisted medicine for years yield at once to Liquozone, and it cures diseases which medicine never cures. Half the people you meet—wherever you are—can tell you of cures that were made by it.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

IN THE LOCAL FIELD.

Con Short was in from Equality on business last week.

P. K. Olson came in from Plummer Friday and remained over Sunday with his family here.

Ralph Green, the popular Equality rustler, drove in town Tuesday and spent the night and yesterday in the city.

Eli Noel left last evening for North Yakima, Washington, where he expects to make his home with his brother in the future.

Lost—A fur robe, somewhere between town and the Nauman farm last Saturday evening. Finder please return to Carl Kreuger and receive suitable reward.

The school board held their regular meeting at the office of city clerk Toupin Monday evening, but aside from allowing several bills nothing of importance was done.

A number of young people from the city drove out to the Fauman home west of the city Saturday evening and spent the evening in games and amusements, the affair being immensly enjoyed by all who attended.

H. W. Anderson received his new safe Monday and has it in place in his jewelry store. The safe is of the Barnes make and is a handsomely built affair, and Andy now feels that the festive burglar will steer clear of his place of business in the futtre.

The "pump" shotgun is put on the defensive by a bill introduced in the house by J. G. Lennon, of Hennepin. Following an agitation begun by certain periodicals devoted to the protection of game birds, the bill prohibits the killing of any game bird or animal by the use of any automatic repeating shot gun, or any gun that can be fired more than twice without reloading. Carrying the prescribed gun in field or on stream shall be considered prima facie evidence of guilt. Violations of the provisions of the act are to be punished as misdemeanors.

Mr. and Mrs. George LaBissoniere left last evening for their home at North Yakima, Washington, after a visit of a month with their numerous relatives and old-time friends in Red Lake Falls and vicinity. Every moment of the time they were here has been thoroughly enjoyed by both the old people and their relatives, and it is doubtful if a king was ever more royally entertained then they have been since their arrival. This was Mr. LaBissoniere's first visit here since leaving Red Lake Falls some ten years ago and he enjoyed his stay so well that he was loath to leave us again. Their many friends here will trust that they may visit us again in the very near future and make their stay longer than the present one has been

A Gazette reporter run across a pretty specimen of garter snake sunning itself on the sidewalk on Main street Tuesday, which is indeed a sign that spring is with us. If any old country on the footstool can produce more beautiful weather than the Red River Valley has enjoyed the past ten days it certainly is entitled to the banner. No snow left and the ground thawed out several inches underneath the surface is a remarkable occurrence for the the first of March in this country, but these conditions exist at the present writing, with prospects of a continuance of the delightful weather.

George Sauer renurted last Thursday from Melrose, where he was called earlier in the week by the death of his aged mother, Mrs. Apallonia Sauer at her home near that place on the 19th of February, after a brief illness. Deceased was one of the oldest residents of that part of Stearns county and was well and favorably known throughout that entire section. She was 69 years old and leaves a husband, four sons and one daughter to mourn the loss of a kind and loving wife and mother. The funeral was largely attended, several priests from St. Paul being in attendance, and the large church at Melrose was entirely inadequate to hold the large crowds of people that turned out to pay their last respects to an old and respected neighbor and friend.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Hatten and family expect to leave about the 8th of this month for Washington state where they will probably spend a year or so looking over the country, and may decide to locate there. Mr. Hatten has been a resident of this part of Red Lake county for a great many years and has always been prominent in affairs pertaining to the welfare of the community and has a great many friends here who will hope that the family will decide to return to their first love after a prospecting tour of the great western country.

The date of the unnual township election this year falls on March 14, the second Tuesday in that month. This is the latest date upon which it could possibly fall as the second Tuesday could not be stretched beyond two weeks. Last year the election fell on March 8th, and it has not been as late as this year for many years past. If the season should be as early as is promised now the farmers may all be busy with spring work, which woud result in less interest being taken in the big township event than usual. As this election will be held one week from next Tuesday there is already considerable talk regarding candidates for regardless of the insignificant renumeration, the section of township officials is an event of no small moment in the rural districts and oft times there is the keenest rivalry exhibited.

A deal was consumated last Saturday by which the lumber yards of the St. Anthony & Dakota company at Donaldson, just across the line in Kittson county, were transferred to the St. Hilaire Retail Lumber company which is a branch of the Crookston Lumber company. The deal is said to invoice a cash consideration of some $10,000 and representatives of both companies are at Donaldson today taking an inventory of stock aod completing the transfer. The St. Anthony people have run the yards there in conjunction with their elevator and it is said have experienced considerable trouble, the patrons being inclined to the opinion that they were occupying too large a monopoly of the business of Donaldson. The St. Hilaire people it is said will increase the amount of stock carried in the yards.

County Treasurer Hanson handled more money Tuesday and Wednesday than the average man gets a chance to look at in a life time, and did it gracefully too. Tax payments were unusually brisk these days in order to avoid the penalty and the bank account of the treasurer shows up well as a result. A great share of the personal taxes were in before the penalty time arrived and the people are correspondingly happy.

St. Hilaire Spectator: The school district election last Saturday evening was not well attended, only fourteen voters being present. They all, however, cast their ballots in favor of the proposition to change common school district number 102 to independent school district number 102. There being sufficient votes present to constitute a "quorum" and all voting in the affirmative we are now an independent district. Six directors will now have to be elected and a caucus has been called to meet at the village hall this evening to nominate candidates. An election has also been called for March 4th. The board elected will serve until the annual meeting in July. There should be a good attendance at both caucus and election.

Mark Graves, of Adrian, Minn., arrived in the city Tuesday and has spent a couple of days here attending to some business matters. Mr. Graves was formerly in the hardware and machine business at Adrian and was one of the best known rustlers in that section, his energetic business methods drawing trade from away from towns out of the territory of Mr. Graves' operations. He sold out a few years back and has since devoted his time to buying and selling real estate and is now quite heavily interested in real estate holdings in the valley. Mr. Graves was very favorably impressed with Red Lake Falls as a city and it is among the possibilties that he will locate here and engage in some business. He is made of the stuff that makes cities get to the front and there is no question but what he would be gladly welcomed as a resident of Red Lake Falls.

The casting was put under care of "Dr." Eus Normandeau, Red Lake Falls' expert blacksmith, who soon fixed it up as good as new and the Gazette is again prepared to do your work in the shortest time and in far the neatest and most up-to-date manner.

Nels Benoit returned last Friday from a trip of two months throughout the western states, and has spent the week with his friends in and around Red Lake Falls. Nels visited all the principal points in the western country and reports himself as well pleased with that section of the world. He is at present visiting at the home of John Beaudry in Terrebonne, but will go to Grand Forks Monday to take his old position as foreman in the St. Hilaire Retail Lumber company,s yard. His many friends were pleased to learn that he does not intend to leave this country.

ORDER [illegible]

State of Minnesota,)
County of Red Lake) ss.
In [illegible]

In the matter of [illegible]
Isabella Dempsey
Deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Eugene Dempsey, administrator of said estate of Isabella Dempsey deceased, representing among other things [illegible] complied with all the terms and conditions of the final decree in said matter of said estate, and with the terms and conditions of all other decrees and orders of this Court in said matter, and has paid over to the distributees and persons named in said final decree all moneys, funds and property to them awarded in said final decree, and praying that he as such administrator of said estate, and the sureties on his bond, be discharged from all liability by reason of said trust and the administration of said estate.

Now, Therefore it is Ordered, That said petition be heard by this court at the Probate Court Office at Red Lake Falls in said County of Red Lake, State of Minnesota, on Friday the 17th day of March 1905, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of said day; and it is further Ordered, That notice of said hearing be given to all persons interested by publishing a copy of this order once in each week for three successive weeks immediately prior to said day of hearing in the Red Lake Falls Gazette, a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls in said county of Red Lake State of Minnesota

Dated at Red Falls this 17th day of February A. D. 1905.

By the court,
[Probate Seal] N. W. Turrant,
Judge of Probate

DRUGS LIKELY TO ADVANCE

Many Plants That Once Grew Wild Are Disappearing with March of Civilization.

Dealers in American drugs are much alarmed at the scarcity and high price of most of the vegetable drugs indigenous to this country which have developed during the present year. Many of the drugs in chief demand have advanced from 100 to 300 per cent. In price and the suply of all is said to be small. Some of the drugs most affected by these conditions are golden seal seenga root ginseng wild cherry bark, white pine bark, elder flowers, sarasaparilla root, sassafras and at least a dozen others of less importance. Golden seal in particular has advanced since January from 74 cents to $1.50 and senega root from 82½ cents to $1.15. In 1899 senega root was selling at 24 cents. White pine bark has gone up in two years from 2½ to 4½ cents. The plants from which these drugs are gathered grow wild and are said to be gradually disappearing with the march of civilization and the settlement of the country. No steps have been taken to safeguard the supply and the plants are gradually being exterminated. It is feared that this country will soon be in the same position as Germany and other countries of Europe as producers of vegetable drugs. Formerly Germany was a great producer of herbs and barks, but now these drugs are gathered chiefly in the wilds of Hungary. Drug dealers say the result will be a heavy advance in the prices of many of the commoner and more popular medicines.

GAUZE TO RESIST SHOCK.

English Professor Invents Wire Netting Which Electricity Finds Impossible to Pierce.

So many accidents have happened to men engaged in electric works from the effect of a current passing through the body that those whose business leads them to handle this wonderful factor will be glad to hear that the costume invented by Prof. Nicholas Artemieff, of London, has proved a perfect safeguard. The wire gauze of which the costume is made being a better conductor than the human body, the wearer is thoroughly protected, while the material is so fine and supple that no inconvenience is caused to the wearer. One of the difficulties hitherto encountered in dealing with electricity has been the impossibility of gauging at what strength a current becomes dangerous. There have been cases in which an alternating current of only 100 volts has killed, while, again, 500 volts have been endured without danger. Prof. Artemieff's invention, however, makes everything safe, for, during his illustrating experiments he allowed 150,000 volts to pass round him without being injured in the least. The costume, which includes a head covering, can be worn either under or over the usual suit, as no inconvenience is felt by its being next to the skin when the current is turned on.

EACH GAINS OTHER'S TRAITS.

Husband and Wife After Long Married Life Begin to Show a Facial Resemblance.

It is a matter of common knowledge that when a husband and wife have lived together for a long period they not only acquire the same tricks of voice and manner, but they show a strong facial resemblance, so that they might easily be taken for brother and sister. Almost every one has at least one such instance among his acquaintances. But it is perhaps a less well known fact that a similar resemblance often results from a mistress and servant being associated together for a long period of years. Added to the fact of constant nearness there is usually on the part of the servant a desire to imitate the voice and manner of the mistress she so much admires. And this often extends to the facial resemblance. There are in a small provincial town of New England two most unusual instances of this resemblance. Two maiden ladies lived there, each of whom has been attended for the greater part of 50 years by a woman who is more a companion than a servant. In both cases the women have become so astonishingly like their mistresses that they are often mistaken for them. And their voices over the telephone are so exactly alike that the friends of both ladies have given up this means of communication with them because of the embarrassing mistakes which constantly resulted from it.

MRS. CHADWICK DEFIANT.

Refuses to Answer Questions in Bankruptcy Proceedings.

Cleveland, Feb. 24.—Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick, when placed on the stand in the bankruptcy proceedings against her before Referee Ramington, refused at first to be sworn. After a consultation with her attorneys she finally consented to take the oath. She was then asked to state her name. She refused to reply to this or any other questions that followed.

Mrs. Chadwick sought refuge in her privilege as an accused person and she refused to answer most of the questions on the ground that what she said might tend to aid the prosecution of her criminal cases. Referee Remington found in her favor, although he insisted against her counsels' wishes in making her give quasi-explanation of her refusal.

FALL TO THEIR DEATH

ELEVEN PERSONS KILLED BY COLLAPSE OF A FLOOR IN A BROOKLYN CHURCH.

New York, Feb. 28.—Eleven persons were killed and upwards of fifty injured, some probably fatally, by the collapse of the flooring of the Fleet Street African Methodist Episcopal church in Brooklyn at night. Of those killed eight were women, two men and one child.

The building was an ancient ramshackle frame structure erected sixty years ago in the heart of the colored section of Brooklyn in Fleet street near Myrtle avenue. Arrangements had been made to hold funeral services over Sidney Painter, one of the oldest members of the church, and the auditorium on the second floor of the building, the ground floor being used by the Sunday school, was crowded with an audience of upwards of 300 persons, of whom the majority were women.

The congregation was waiting in silence for the arrival of the body and Pastor Jacobs was standing at the altar waiting the summons to meet the funeral procession at the door, when a splintering of timbers was heard and in an instant half of the auditorium nearest the door collapsed, carrying down more than 100 persons, who were crushed in the wreckage of the flooring and pews.

SWAYNE NOT GUILTY

SENATE ACQUITS THE FEDERAL JUDGE ON ALL CHARGES AGAINST HIM.

Washington, Feb. 27.—The senate, sitting as a court of impeachment for the trial of Charles Swayne, district judge for the Northern district of Florida, acquitted him on all of the twelve articles of impeachment brought by the house of representatives. On none of the articles was there even a majority for conviction, although it required two-thirds to convict. The closest vote was on the last article, the contempt case of W. C. O'Neal, when 35 senators voted guilty and 47 not guilty, while on two articles only 13 senators voted for conviction.

The voting for the most part was on party lines, Messrs. Bard, Kittredge, McCumber and Nelson, Republicans, voting with the Democrats for conviction, and Messrs. Dubois and Gibson casting their ballots with the Republicans for acquittal. At the conclusion of the voting the presiding officer directed the secretary to enter an acquittal upon the records and the court then adjourned without day.

TUNNEL THROUGH THE ALPS.

Work Begun in 1898 Now Practically Completed.

Gondo, Switzerland, Feb. 24.—Piercing of the Simplon tunnel through the Alps was completed at 7:20 a. m. The work was commenced in 1898.

The meeting of the two boring parties, Swiss and Italian, was signalled throughout Switzerland by ringing of church bells and salutes by cannon.

The piercing of the Simplon is regarded as being one of the greatest engineering achievements of the age. Many difficulties were encountered and overcome. The length of the tunnel from Briga, in Switzerland, to Isellon, on the Italian side of the mountain, is about twelve miles. The Swiss and Italian governments jointly financed the undertaking and share alike in the cost of $15,000,000.

MORE BODIES TAKEN OUT.

Remains of One Hundred Victims Recovered From Alabama Mine.

Birmingham, Ala., Feb. 24.—Up to noon 100 bodies of victims of the explosion at the Virginia mines had been recovered. Three more corpses have been sighted. It will be impossible to reach all the bodies until the water is gotten out of certain parts of the mine. Relief committees from Birmingham and Bessemer are actively at work among the sufferers.

Kratz Found Not Guilty.

Butler, Mo., Feb. 24.—The jury in the case of Charles Kratz, on trial for alleged boodling while a member of the St. Louis city council, returned a verdict of not guilty after being out an hour and thirty-four minutes.

WORK OF CONGRESS.

Tuesday, Feb. 21.

House—Philippines tariff bill passed practically as it came from committee and with little or no discussion. River and harbor appropriation bill taken up but soon laid aside and several minor measures passed.

Senate—Military academy appropriation bill passed and consideration of the Indian appropriation bill begun. Isthmian canal zone bill also briefly discussed.

Wednesday, Feb. 22.

House—Army appropriation bill sent back to conference. All senate amendments again disagreed to with the single exception of one appropriating $95,000 for continuing the cable from Valdez to Seward, Alaska.

Senate—Bill providing a civil government for the canal zone debated at great length. The question of the government's ownership of the Panama railroad and its relationship to the general question of government ownership of railways debated freely.

Thursday, Feb. 23.

Senate—Testimony in Swayne impeachment case concluded. Bill providing a form of government for the Panama canal zone passed.

House—River and harbor bill, carrying $17,234,657, passed. Military academy appropriation bill sent to conference.

Friday, Feb. 24.

Senate—Day's session divided between the Swayne impeachment trial and the motion of Mr. Beveridge to appoint conferees on the joint statehood bill. Latter question still under discussion when adjournment was taken.

House—Appropriation of $130,000 for rental of customshouse in New York city stricken from the sundry civil appropriation bill. The expenditure was denounced by opponents as a public scandal and in the interest of the Standard Oil company, the alleged owner of the building.

Saturday, Feb. 25.

Senate—Arguments in the Swayne impeachment case concluded. Joint statehood bill sent to conference.

House—Hour and a half spent in passing minor measures. Same period devoted to the sundry civil appropriation bill without reaching a conclusion on that measure.

Monday, Feb. 27.

Senate—Judge Swayne acquitted of all the charges against him. Naval appropriation bill, carrying $100,300,00, passed after lengthy discussion.

House—Sundry civil bill passed after being amended in several minor particulars against the wishes of Chairman Hemenway. The bill carries a total appropriation of $65,272,230.

Yaqui Indians Defeated.

La Colorado, Mex., Feb. 23.—The Mexican forces under General Torres, numbering about 400, have killed 40 Yaquis and taken 167 prisoners in a two-days' battle with the savages in the mountains east of this camp.

COLOSSAL HOME FOR PAPER

New York Times Building, Recently Completed, Tallest Structure in the City.

New York.—The New York Times is now published from its new building in Times square, a structure which has been referred to by experts as one of the notable architectural triumphs of the world. In recognition of this contribution to the architectural beauty of New York, the city government some time ago named the district from Forty-second street north for seven blocks along Broadway and Seventh avenue Times square, and the subway station in the basement of the building bears the same title.

In a special edition published January 1 to celebrate the occupancy of the building there was an elaborate description of its construction and equipment. Among the features mentioned in this edition is that the building is the city's tallest structure, from base to top, being 31 stories, with an extreme height of 476 feet; that a new record in steel tonnage has been made in its construction, as it contains a larger percentage of steel to cubical contents than any other office building, having at the same time the strongest and stiffest steel frame structure of similar dimensions ever erected.

The presses are located 55 feet below the level of the street, while the paper is written and set up from the fourteenth to twenty-fifth floors. The press plant has a capacity of 144,000 16-page papers every hour, and provision has been made to increase this capacity to 432,000 papers per hour.

PLAN ECONOMY IN NAVY.

Vessels to Be Placed in Reserve Until Need for Their Services Arises.

Washington.—The naval general staff proposes to put naval vessels in reserve for the purpose of economy. It has been discovered that the cost of keeping a battleship in commission amounts to more than $1,000,000 a year, and it is realized that some provision must be made for maintaining two classes of ships in reserve.

During the next session of congress an appropriation will probably be requested for maintaining ships in ordinary under a system of serviceability that will permit use of the vessels without much delay.

One class will be kept at the navy yards under such conditions of readiness for duty at sea as will permit their departure from port within 24 hours. This can be accomplished by having the ships in the care of few officers and men, the engines turned over frequently and the equipment stored in accessible places alongside, when not actually on board.

Another class will be in less readiness for service, probably far enough removed from the condition of duty to require a week or more to send the vessel away from the yard.

ROMANCE AT WORLD'S FAIR

Secretary of German Commission to Take Home French Bride He Met at Kaiser's Pavilion.

St. Louis, Mo.—Karl Gallenbeck, secretary of the imperial German commission to the world's fair, takes home with him a Parisian bride, whose acquaintance he made at the world's fair.

The marriage will take place soon. The bride-to-be is Miss Alexandrine de Brandt, daughter of Franz de Brandt, of Colombes, near Paris. The De Brandt family is of the Austrian nobility.

Miss de Brandt is a young cosmopolitan. She was born in Austria and educated in France, England and Vienna. She speaks English, French, German, Italian and Spanish.

She came to America with friends of her father's family to see the world's fair. She wrote accounts of it for French journals and at times did interpreting for the German commission.

In "Das Deutsche Hause," strong reminder of pleasant days she had spent at Charlottenburg, she met Karl Gallenbeck. She corrected his English and helped him with difficult translations. While her tongue worked her brown eyes were not idle. The closing days of the fair brought a betrothal.

FIGHT BLAZE WITH MILK.

Lacteal Fluid Used to Extinguish Flames Threatening a Philadelphia Dairyman's Home.

Philadelphia.—The dwelling of Christian F. Devold, of Roxborough, was badly damaged by fire the other day which broke out in a closet on the second floor, and Samuel Moore, one of the inmates, was badly burned about the hands, face and body while attempting to extinguish the flames.

The members of the family, which, in addition to Devold, consisted of his wife, three children, and Samuel Moore, were sitting in the dining-room about nine o'clock in the evening when a policeman rushed into the house and informed them that there was a fire on the second floor.

Devold is engaged in the milk business, and there being no water handy, he, Mrs. Devold and Moore procured from the milk house several cans filled with the lacteal fluid, and with this they fought the flames and prevented them from spreading until the firemen, in response to the alarm sent out by the policeman, reached the scene.

School for Servants.

A school is to be started in Hamburg, Germany, for the training of domestic servants. It will be very practical, and will not compete with the schools of domestic science, which are becoming popular among well-to-do families.

JEWELED BIRD OF INDIA.

Hindoos Believe Its Possession Carries Royal Power—Now Owned by King Edward.

London.—While British troops and the recollection of British prowess are potent factors in the subjection of India, it is a strange fact—and one not generally known—that Hindoo fatalism and a jeweled bird have much to do with holding the millions of Indus.

The bird is one of the treasured treasures of Windsor castle, and there are many legends woven about it. The Hindoos call it "Uma," and they say that whoever owns the Uma must reign over India. It is supposed to have the gift of locomotion, and it alights, they say, upon the head of whomsoever it endows with royal power.

The truth is that the bird was taken from the canopy above the throne of Tippoo Sahib and presented by the directors of the East India company to George III. It is about 12 inches long, and is shaped like a pigeon, with an exaggerated tail. Rubies, brilliants, emeralds and pearls are sown about the quivering feathers of filigree golden work; it holds a priceless ruby in its beak and an emerald of great size and luster hangs from its breast.

The bird shares with the Koh-i-Noor the superstitious regard of the Hindoos. The fact that both the Uma and the great diamond are owned by King Edward makes it almost a matter of course for the native princes to acknowledge him as their liege lord. It may be a bitter and bewildering thing, this rule of an alien from the west, but the powers above have willed it so, and pious souls must bow in submission to the fiat of fate. While the Uma folds its wings in the castle by the Thames, and while the Koh-i-Noor blazes in the English crown, there is nothing else to do but to be as good subjects of Emperor Edward as may be.

NEW INDUSTRY FOR DENVER

Kilns for Making High-Grade Silica Brick to Be Set Up in Colorado City.

Denver, Col.—Denver will soon have the distinction of operating the first lime kiln in the United States constructed under foreign patents, which will make it the finest in operation. The kiln will be constructed at the industrial suburb of Silica, up Platte canyon, as a part of the process of combining lime and sand in the manufacture of silicated brick. It is known in Europe as the Copenhagen kiln, and is constructed more on the principle of a blast furnace, the feature of the kiln being its low consumption of coal in producing the lime.

In completing its plant the Silicated Brick company has provided a general store and houses for the goodly number of employes who will be required, and application has been made to the post office department at Washington for a post office. The company is already receiving a number of inquiries for its product, but it will take a month yet before brick can be turned out. It is claimed for the silicated brick that they are low in absorption, high in resistance to fire, and adapted for all building purposes, the chemical combination of lime and silica practically making stone.

Arrangements are being made for trackage connection with the plant, so that it will not be long until another industry will be added to the city. All the elements which enter into the manufacture are found close to the plant. While new to Colorado and to the remainder of the country as well, the use of silicated brick is rapidly being adopted for many purposes, the government alone using many millions in various projects.

WOMEN AGREE NOT TO KISS

Autiosculation League Formed in Mexico—Only Members of Female Sex Barred.

City of Mexico.—A little red button worn by some 300 women, old and young, married and indifferent, among the leading social sets of the City of Mexico, marks a new departure, or, rather, a new step, in progress. This little, round button signifies membership in what is known as the Anti-Kissing league. Members of the league take solemn pledges not to kiss each other, in public or private, but put it on the ground that kissing is contagious, or, rather, the means of conveying contagious diseases from one fair lip to another.

There is nothing visible to the naked eye in the constitution of this league against kissing others than members of the female persuasion, and, in fact, the practice, aside from the supposed danger of infection, is decidedly, to the male sense, not only deplorable, but unnecessary. When one woman takes two or three minutes of time in a street car to kiss three or four other women before alighting from the car, she certainly violates the golden rule by making all those passengers wait. How far this new league will conduct its offensive and defensive campaign remains to be see.

Still Unsettled.

The department of agriculture has set new standards for pure food, giving large attention to milk, cheese and wines. The experts, however, remarks the New York Telegram, have not yet advanced to the point where they can define the exact stage at which an egg passes, as it were, from the sublime to the ridiculous.

Both Treacherous and False.

The explosion of that Galesburg woman's false teeth marks the advent of a new terror. To their well-known falsity such teeth have begun to add treachery.

A freight train on the Chicago Great Western road was wrecked near Claybank Friday. Several cars were piled in a heap, others went into the ditch and a bridge about 150 feet long was destroyed. The cause of the wreck was the breaking of a flange.

Minnesota department, G. A. R., will hold its thirty-ninth annual encampment March 8 and 9 in the hall of representatives of the old state capitol at St. Paul. The Woman's Relief Corps and the Ladies of the G. A. R. will convene at St. Paul at the same time.

Eleven Twin City representatives of concerns that are said to be in the beef trust have been notified that they will be expected to appear before the federal grand jury in Chicago at the April term of court, the occasion being the probing of the trust by the government.

A grand total of $27,650 in prizes, two new races for Northwestern bred and owned colts, $1,500 purses for the fastest classes of pacers and trotters, the great $5,000 purses for Minneapolis and St. Paul days—these are the features of the Minnesota state fair race programme for next fall.

The three robbers who held up Dr. Mueller and Emil Roggatz, his coachman, at Minneapolis are guilty of murder. Roggatz, who was shot during the holdup, has finally succumbed to his wounds. By a peculiar coincidence the St. Bernard dog shot by the robbers died on the same day.

F. B. Kemper, agent of a Chicago wholesale house, fined $25 and costs by Justice Jacobson at Montevideo for selling misbranded baking powder, has given notice of appeal and says he will invoke the provisions of the interstate commerce law to protect him against prosecution in Minnesota.

That rust seriously affects the value of wheat for seeding purposes and that farmers should be careful in using wheat injured by rust for sowing is pointed out by Dean W. M. Liggett of the state agricultural college in a warning bulletin which will be distributed among the farmers of the state.

According to the best information obtainable the iron ore shipments from Minnesota for 1905 will reach the magnificent total of 20,500,000 gross tons. This is double the amount shipped from the entire Lake region no longer ago than 1895 and is within 7,000,000 tons of the unbroken record of the Lake region made in 1902.

The ninth annual meeting of the Minnesota Retail Hardware Dealers' association at Duluth closed Friday after naming Minneapolis as the place for the next meeting. Among the resolutions adopted were the following: "Resolved, That we place ourselves on record as being unalterably opposed to the parcel post and ask the members of congress from this state to vote against all such measures. That we ask our two senators to work for and vote for the Esch-Townsend bill which has passed the house and is now ready for consideration by the senate.

Mrs. Laura S. Webb.
Vice-President Woman's Democratic Clubs of Northern Ohio.

"I dreaded the change of life which was fast approaching. I noticed Wine of Cardui, and decided to try a bottle. I experienced some relief the first month, so I kept on taking it for three months and now I menstruate with no pain and I shall take it off and on now until I have passed the climax."

Female weakness, disordered menses, falling of the womb and ovarian troubles do not wear off. They follow a woman to the change of life. Do not wait but take Wine of Cardui now and avoid the trouble. Wine of Cardui never fails to benefit a suffering woman of any age. Wine of Cardui relieved Mrs. Webb when she was in danger. When you come to the change of life Mrs. Webb's letter will mean more to you than it does now. But you may now avoid the suffering she endured. Druggists sell $1 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

No One But Yourself if You Don't Get Well When Sick.

All we can do is give advice.

Of course that's easy.

But our advice is really worth a little more to you than most people's, for we offer to give you the first bottle of our medicine free, if it fails to help you.

We could not afford to do this unless our medicine was good. Such an offer, on the wrong kind of medicine, would put a merchant prince in the poor house.

Dr. Miles' Nervine, however, as years of experience have proved, is a medicine that cures the sick.

Those whom it cannot benefit—less than one in ten thousand—we prefer to refund their money.

All we ask of you is to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine for your complaint. If you suffer from sleeplessness, nervous exhaustion, dizziness, headache, muscular twitchings, melancholy, loss of memory, weak stomach, poor blood, bilious troubles, epilepsy, St. Vitus' Dance, etc., we will guarantee to benefit you or refund your money.

You are the doctor.

"My son Bert, when in his 17th year, became subject to attacks of epilepsy, so serious that we were compelled to take him out of school. Chas. McAnalty, of Dugdale, has been here the past week a guest of his father and family on the North Side.

The "Merry Crew" met at the home of Miss Orma Hennemuth Monday evening, and from reports the session was a lively one.

The infant son of Mrs. Henry Olin died Saturday and was buried Monday. Congestion of the lungs was the cause the child being ill only a few hours.

Wm. Schwalen shipped his house hold goods to Webstar, N. D. Monday where he was assigned a yard with the Robertson Lumber company.

Sim Hunt returned home today from Duluth where he went to attend the meeting of the state hardware dealers. He reports a very enjoyable time.

The Christian Endeavor society of the Presbyterian church will hold a necktie and apron social at the church next Tuesday evening to which the public is cordially invited.

Mrs. Dolphis Beausoliel was taken with convulsions yesterday noon and for a few hours it was thought that she would not recover. She is reported much improved at the present writing.

The Misses Jessie and Lois Johnson entertained a party of twelve of their young girl friends at their home last Saturday evening at a six o'clock dinner. The guests were feasted and feted in a royal style and had a very enjoyable time.

Mrs. Wm. Schwalen was the victim of a surprise party by a number of her lady friends at the home of Mrs. Robert Bourdon last Mondyy. Progressive cluch was played and befoe leaving the guests presented Mrs. Schwalen with a momento to remind her of their esteem and friendship.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Presbyterian church will hold their annual business meeting and election of officers next Monday afternoon, Mar. 6, at three o'clock, at the home of Mrs. H. Hennemuth. All lady members of the congregation are urged to be present.

L. P. Berthon is expected home next week from his extended visit in the south. To say that old Paul will be right royally welcomed would not come near expressing it, and he had better be in rugged health to stand the welcoming embraces he will be greeted with.

Wm. Erb drove in from his claim on the reservation last Friday and remained over Sunday with his friends in Red Lake Falls. Wm. says he is getting used to his life as a granger, but likes an occasional touch of city gaiety to keep from getting too lonesome.

Carl Sorenson, a prominent Garnes farmer, was a caller here today on business matters and paid the Gazette office a visit. Mr. Sorenson expects to leave about the middle of the month for Western Canada where he will look over the country with a view to locating.

Berthon & Armstrong have a new ad in today's Gazette that the readers will do well to heed. The mammoth spring and summer stock will be in in a few days and the buying public of Red Lake county should anxiously await the opening announcement of this popular establishment.

Hon. D. P. O'Niel, Ole Ramstad, C. M. Evenson and Dennis Connolly, a party of Thief River Falls business men, were Red Lake Falls visitors Monday, Mr. O'Niel remained over until Tuesday afternoon, but the rest of the party returned home Monday.

Northome Record: Chas. N. Bourdon, a prominent banker and business man of Red Lake Falls, was transacting business here last week. Mr. Bourdon was thru these parts when there was nothing but wilderness north of Bemidji and he is surprised at the progress the country has made.

Mr. and Mrs. George Brunelle entertained Mr. and Mrs. George LaBissoniere and the relatives of the family at a banquet supper at their home Tuesday evening. The affair was in the nature of a farewell spread and a most enjoyable time was bad by all present.

Chief of Police Brunelle is happy this week over the arrival of a new grand-daughter, which was born to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bray at Blackduck this week. This is the eighth child born to Mr. and Mrs. Bray, and clinches the argument that he is a warm admirer of President Roosevelt's policy of perpetuating the race.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Harren very pleasantly entertained a party of friends at their home last Saturday evening at a progressive cinch party. The evening was immeosely enjoyed by those present. The head prize was won by William Findeisen and the booby honors were awarded to Wm. Schwalen. Refreshments were served.

Paul Rieck and family expect to leave the first of April for his old home in Waseca county, where Mr. Rieck has traded for some excellent property and where the family will reside in the future. Mr. Rieck has been a resident of this county for several years past and has many friends here who will regret to see him leave.

On Saturday, March 18, Paul Rieck will hold a public auction at his residence in this city, at which time he will dispose of his live stock, farm machinery, household goods, etc. Mr. Rieck had a large amount of property listed on his bill and the public will do well to carefully read the list of things enumerated thereon.

Atty. James McIntyre, formerly of Thief River Falls, but now of Blaine, Washington, was a visitor here Monday calling on his old friends. Mr. McIntyre recently arrived at Thief River Falls for a visit of several weeks and it is reported that one of the fair daughters of the up-river city will accompany him to Washingtoo as Mrs. McIntyre when he returns.

Crookston Journal: Steve Withey the popular Great Northern conductor entertained quite a number of his friends at his home in Jeromes addition Thursday evening with a stag party. The affair was attended by quite a number of prominent people and was greatly enjoyed. Steve has a well known reputatioo as an entertainer and usually manages to keep the merriment up at one of his parties in an excellent manner.

Thief River Press: K. J. Weeks, clerk of the local order of Modern Woodmen of America, is in receipt of two drafts of a thousand dollars each, which represents the life insurance paid by that order on the death of Albert J. Hanson, the former proprietor of the Vienna Bakery of this city, who died last fall in Washington. One draft is payable to the wife and the other to the son of the deceased and they will be sent to them by Mr. Weeks to Spokane, Wash. where they now live.

Ed. L. Healy has his real estate office decorated this week with a beautiful assortment of grasses that he pulled last summer and stored away in the dark until they became thoroughly cured and the display of pretty green plants make a picture worth going to see. In the collection is a lot of different varieties of the native grasses of Red Lake county, all secured last summer by Mr. Healy, including red clover, white clover, allsyke, alfalfa, broomgrass, June grass or Kentucky blue grass, red top, meadow grass and other varities and the specimens are all ones that make a creditable showing for Red Lake county soil. The arrangement is Mr. Healy's own handiwork and is a beauty to say the least.

Fertile Journal: Otto Kankel, our genial miller, recently lost a very valuable diamond ring in a peculiar manner. He was examining a bin of flour in one of the upper stories of the mill when the ring dropped from his finger into the bin of flour and, although, he made an immediate effort to recover it failed to do so and by this time, in all probability, is enclosed in a sack of flour and will eventually fall into the hands of some dutiful housewife. Mr. Kankel is thinking seriously of offering a liberal reward for its return. He was modest when asked as to its value but we understand it would take three figures to tell its value.

Ida Fangstrom, a fifteen year old girl from Thief River Falls has been taken to the state training school of Red Wing. The girl was convicted of stealing $20 from Miss Bertha Peterson, and upon the recommendation of County Attorney Germo the girl was sent to Red Wing, where she will be placed under some restraint. The girl came to Thief River about a year ago from St. Hilaire with the family of Robert Fritz, being employed as a domestic in his family. Up to last fall she was said to have been a model young lady, but since that time she has been going with a rather wild set and was fast going to the bad. Her parents reside between St. Hilaire and this city, but the girl has supported herself for the past few years and never visited her home.

The Jury List.

SACKCLOTH AND ASHES

Yesterday the Begining of a Period of Forty Days of Penitence By Catholics and Episcopalians.

Yesterday was Ash Wednesday, the begining of Lent, and the Catholic churches of the city held appropriate services in commemoration of the commencement of the period of forty days of abstinence.

Ash Wednesday comes later this year than usual and Easter Sunday as a consequence will fall on April 23, nearly the latest possible date on which it can occur.

The rules of Lent are practically the same as in former years, all the faithful unless legitimately excused being bound in conscience to observe the Lenten regulations. All days of Lent except Sundays are fast days. The precept of fasting restricts the use of food to one meal towards the middle of the day, and a collation in the evening not to exceed the fourth of one ordinary meal—custom however authorizing the taking of a cup of coffee or tea and a small amount of bread in the morning.

The use of flesh meat is allowed at all meals on Sundays and at the principal meal on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays except the Saturday of Ember week and the Saturday of Holy week. The use of flesh meat is forbidden on Wednesdays, Fridays, the Saturdays of Ember and the Saturday of the Holy week; on other days outside of Sundays it is forbidden at all repasts except the one principal meal.

From the precept of fasting are excused those under the age of twenty-one or over the age of sixty; the infirm and convalescent, women bearing or nursing children; those engaged in hard labor or other duties exhaustive of physical strength; those who from poverty are unable to procure for the principal meal a sufficient quantity of nutritious food.

The regular Lenten services will be held in the churches here during the forty days of Lent, the devotion of the way of the cross to be observed regularly.

The observance of the fasts and abstinences prescribed by the church is taken as a public and fearless profession of the faith. He, who without sufficient or obvious reasons, eats meat or takes his usual meals when abstinence or fasting is enjoined is not accepted as a practical Catholic.

BUY NEW SAFE.

Bray Mutual Will Protect Property From Loss.

Secretary C. P. Swanson, of the Bray Mutual Fire Insurance company, writes the Gazette that on Monday of this week the company received the handsome new safe they recently ordered and have installed it in the secretary's office in Bray.

The safe is one of the latest and best made and will insure the policies, money, applications and other affairs of the company from danger of destruction by fire. The Bray company has prospered like a green bay tree and today occupies a prominent place among the township insurance companies of the state. Their phenomenal success is in a great measure due to their judgment in selecting their officers, and no better set of active hustlers ever handled the affairs of any company in the state.

TEAM IN TOURNAMENT

Red Lake Falls Fire Department Decides to Send Runners to Tournament at Blackduck in June.

At the regular meeting of the Red Lake Falls fire department last Saturday evening it was decided to have a team representing this city participate in the firemen's tournament to be held at Blackduck in June and arrangements were made to commence active work looking to that end. Frank A. Grady and Ralph E. Wyer were named as trainers and a team of fourteen of the best sprinters of the department will at once go into training for the event.

For several years past Red Lake Falls has not participated in these tournaments from the fact that the interest in them abated, but as fraternalism among the departments becomes more pronounced each year the boys made up their minds to again get into the game and with this end in view they will strive to send a team that will do credit to the department and the city.

The department has a great deal of good material for the formation of a running team, and under the direction of the two able leaders chosen they may be expected to give an excellent account of themselves.

The move is a commendable one, and the boys should be given the hearty support of every citizen of the city, with which they are sure to hold their own with the best teams in the circuit.

A BIG TIME IN MAY

Teachers' Association Will Hold Interesting Meeting at St. Hilaire on May 5 and 6.

The Red Lake County Teachers' Protective association are planning on a big time at their next meeting, to be held in St. Hilaire May 5 and 6, and from the program being arranged for it is evident that one of the most successful gatherings ever held in the state will result.

The principal feature of the meeting will be a spelling contest, in which the scholars of ever country district in the county will be asked to participate. A list comprising some twelve hundred words has been prepared and a copy will be furnished immediately to every school in the county. Preliminary contests among the schools will then be inaugurated, the winner in each school to be sent as a representative to the county contest at St. Hilaire. At that meeting an old fashioned "spell down" will occur among the different representatives of the country schools and appropriate prizes will be arranged, one to the school and one to the pupil winning the contest.

Aside from the spelling contest, a regular association program is being arranged, the principal feature of which will be an address on May 5 by President Weld, of the Moorhead Normal school, who is also president of the state educational association. Mr. Weld is one of the most prominent educators in the entire state and the fact of his being on the program will undoubtedly do much to draw a crowd.

Many other features are being arranged for and within a few weeks The Gazette will announce the complete program and have more to say on the subject.

The association will make an extra effort to have this one of the finest meetings ever held in the Valley and the people generally should plan early on attending and thereby encourage this most excellent organization.

NEW INSPECTOR NAMED.

H. E. Zimmerman, of Ada, Lands the Job As District Deputy.

Governor Johnson last week announced the appointment of H. E. Zimmerman, of Ada, as deputy boiler inspector for the district comprising Norman, Red Lake, Clearwater and Beltrami counties and Mr. Zimmerman at once qualified. The new appointee is superintendent of the electric light plant at Ada, but will continue to hold his place there.

This is the position Louis Albers, of this city, has held for the past several years, and quite a rivalry was worked up over the appointment under Governor Johnson. Mr. Albers was a candidate for reappointment, as was also Albert St. Mars, of this city, and besides these two a large number of other engineers in the district were after the plum. The appointment of Mr. Zimmerman, however, puts an end to the discussion and he will act in the capacity of inspector of this district for the next two years at least.

NEW TOWN ORGANIZED.

Town 154 North of Range 42 West to Be Called Silverton.

At the session of the board of county commissioners last Wednesday township 154 north of range 42 west was organized as a township of Red Lake county and was named Silverton, and March 21 set as the date for the election of officers of the new town. The following were appointed judges of election: Gust Bergeren, Ole L. Ottumand, Hans J. Skogstad, and they will look after the arrangements for holding the election, and attend to the other details.

The new town is said to be already well settled up and it is expected that it will get to the front in a hurry when the organization is perfected.

Not All Idle Talk

Well Defined Rumor That Soo Will Build West Line From Plummer Through St. Hilaire Instead of From Thief River.

The latter part of last week a persistent rumor was circulated freely throughout the city to the effect that the Soo railroad company had found it necessary to change their west line of road and that the new extension would not be built from Thief River Falls but from Plummer west through St. Hilaire to Warren and thence west to the North Dakota terminus, and while not much attention was paid to the rumor here lo! and behold the Plummer Pioneer comes out with a long story as to how the rumor was started in Red Lake Falls to furnish argument in the county seat removal contest, and this hireling went on to tell all about the intentions of the Soo.

Since that time however a great deal of information has come to light which indicates that the Soo is just now contemplating just such action, Tuesday's St. Paul Dispatch and yesterday's Grand Forks Herald containing the information that from the fact that the proposed line west from Thief River Falls would be almost an impossibility from point of construction the Soo was arranging to start the new extension from Plummer and build west through St. Hilaire as the rumor indicated. Aside from this two letters from parties directly identified with the railroad circles at the twin cities have been received here this week, both of which state that it is generally known in St. Paul that the Soo will not build as announced formerly but will take the more recently suggested route through into Dakota.

There are many things that would appear to make this the most to be desired line. In the first place the construction of the line west from Thief River Falls would be extremely difficult on account of the extra high ridge lying between that city and Warren, which would necessitate a grade so that the carrying capacity of the entire extension would hinge on that spot and the extra expense of additional train service would be a heavy drain upon the system. Further than this the Soo now has a line through Thief River Falls to bid for the shipping trade of the Dakotas and the Soo would be gaining the business of the big St. Hilaire lumber mill with a line through St. Hilaire without losing a particle of the trade they would get from Thief River shippers should they build west from there. Not only are these points to be considered, but the further fact that they may some day want a line through to Duluth makes it desirable to start from Plummer instead of Thief River Falls, and their terminals at Plummer would be a long point gained. An east line to Duluth from Plummer would be a much better paying venture than a line from Thief River Falls from the fact that the country traversed would be far better settled and the business secured would be far greater than could be hoped for in years from the new and swampy country west from Thief River Falls.

The building of the new line through St. Hilaire and Plummer would mean a great deal for those towns in the way of settlement, and well as the county at large and as it looks decidedly like this was the program mapped out by the Soo the people of the county have reason to feel gratified.

Mr. Latta over-reached himself in stating that the talk of the change in route was merely started here as a factor in the county seat fight, as the change could not possibly be construed as a benefit to Red Lake Falls but would be of great help to the east country and Plummer in particular. Charley no doubt has the interests of his home town as much at heart as any resident there but in his anxiety to aid Thief River Falls in her desires to bunco the people he is letting his interest wane.

A MARCH WEDDING.

T. V. Thibodean and Miss Rosinna Chatel Married Monday.

At St. Joseph's church in this city Monday afternoon occurred the marriage of T. V. Thibodean and Miss Rosinna Chatel, two well known and popular young people of the city, the Rev. Father Fayolle performing the ceremony. Will Laurent and Miss Mary Chatel officiated as best man and bridesmaid.

After the ceremony the bridal party and a number of invited guests repaired to the home of Ephriam Chatel, where an elaborate wedding repast was served. In the evening a dance was held at the residence of the groom, and a large number of people spent the evening dancing and congratulating the happy couple.

The young people have been residents of Red Lake Falls for several years and are both well liked, Mr. Thibodean is owner of the water and ice business here and has numerous patrons and friends throughout the city. The bride is a sister of the Chatel brothers of this city and has grown to womanhood in Red Lake Falls, having a large number of warm friends and admirers.

The bridal party left Tuesday for a short visit with relatives at St. Hilaire after which they will at once go to house-keeping in the groom's neat residence here.

The Gazette joins their friends in extending congratulations.

No Fishing for Sixty Days.

Last Wednesday opened the closed season on fish, and on and after that date it will be illegal to catch, ship or handle fish, other than from international waters, for the next sixty days. There is some difference of opinion as to how the law covers pickerel, and commission men are advising country shippers not to forward them, as they are sure to be confiscated by the wardens, who interpret the law as covering them. It is best to cut out the fishing until May first altogether and avoid trouble with the authorities.

For the Spring Trade.

I have just received the finest line of up-to-date goods in the harness and harness furnishing line ever brought to the county, and respectfully invite the people to call in and inspect it. The line comprises all the new things in sweat pads, collars, robes, combs, brushes, whips, brass trimmed harness and in fact everything that goes to comprise a throughly up-to-date harness emporium. Call and see me. I want your trade and will give you better values than you can obtain elsewhere.—T. G. Brunelle, Up-to-date harness maker, Red Lake Falls.

STEPHENS' BILL PENCILED.

New Code Does Not Contain Hail Insurance Measure.

Crookston Times: If the code is adopted in its present form Senator Stephens will return home at the close of the session convinced that he worked many long days in the last session to no purpose.

He has discovered that the hail insurance law of which he spent many sleepless nights at the 1903 session, is repealed by the new code. The law on which he sought the advice of some of the best attorneys at the Twin cities he says, has been wiped out by one stroke of the pen.

No bill that has been before the legislature for many years has been discussed more extensively than the hail insurance bill, which limits the annual expense of hail insurance companies to 1 percent of the business written and place many other restrictions on the hail companies.

Senator Stephens first tried to get a bill through providing for state hail insurance and doing away with private companies entirely. He managed to get a bill along this line out of the committee through a minority report, and came within a few votes of winning on the floor of the senate. The only thing that defeated the bill was the fear of some of the senate leaders that it was unconstitutional, bordering as they said it did on paternalism.

The senator was not dismayed by the failure of the state hail insurance bill, and immediately set to work preparing another measure limiting the operations of hail companies. After many long discussions and several extended hearings, the bill was passed.

Now the code commission comes along and ruthlessly repeals the product of Senator Stephens' labors. Some of the members of the senate insurance committee believe that the code commission has incorporated several provisions of the bill in other parts of the code, but Senator Stephens does not see it that way. He believes that the bill on which he burned so much midnight oil should not be obliterated so unceremoniously by the statue revison commission.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. NO MORE ORIENTLS.

Head Camp of Woodmen Lays Down the Law.

The head officers of the Modern Woodmen of America are instructing the camps throughout the country to "cut out" of their initiation work the unauthorized "horseplay." Some of the stunts which over ambitious teams have taken upon themselves to introduce are ordered to hereafter be omitted.

It is understood that every camp of the order has been advised that any deviation from the ritual will be followed by a revocation of the offending camp's charter and the suspension of every member of the camp from the order.

The practice of some camps to introduce side degrees has resulted in injury to candidates and consequent suits for damages against both local camps and the head camp. It is hoped to put a stop to injury to candidates by the use of unauthoritized paraphernalia.

A man who was initiated into a camp in a small northwestern Iowa town alleged in a damage suit that he had been burned in a branding act which it developed was outside of the regular initiation work. This case and others roused the head camp to action in the matter.

WANT MONEY BACK.

Sixteen Cases Started By Purchases of Reservation Lands.

Crookston Journal: An aftermath of the Thief River Falls land sale and the methods of the commissioner of the general land office, General Richards in conducting the auction was started Saturday in this city when some sixteen different bidders upon property at the sale filed notice of appeal to the secretary of the interior from the rulings of the commissioner in regard to the forfeit money which they demanded returned because of the poor quality of land which they discovered upon the reservation and upon which they found their bids placed. The settlers all put up some fifty dollars apiece at the time of making their bids, before seeing the land bid upon and in accordance with the rules laid down by Commissioner Richards when they saw the land and refused to file, the money was declared forfeited to the government. The settlers took the matter up with the result that the commissioner denied their request for a refund.

Now all of the losers in the deal come forward with one of the strongest condemnations of the methods adopted by Richards, on file which they have forwarded to Washington with proper legal garnishments, there to be pursued by the secretary of the interior to whom the case has been appealed.

It is alleged in the sixteen cases that Richards action in declaring the money posted with bids, as forfeited was without authority of law or precedent and that the commissioner exceeded his authority and vested powers in making such rulings. The case will be fought to a finish in the interior department and is being pushed by Ole S. Quam of Thief River Falls, one of the prospective settlers who made a bid and posted his money and then found that he had been flim flammed into selecting one of the most miserable pieces of land in the entire tract opened.

Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampent among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size 75c. At all druggists. A. L. Reichert.

Town Elections.

Township elections will soon be here, and inasmuch as the law of 1903 providing for extending terms of township supervisors in office, is so ambiguous in its terms with reference to the "chairman" of the board, the attorney general has taken a hand in the matter and decides that the chairman will serve simply for the term to which he was elected, whether it be one, two or three years. The letter also points out that hereafter, except in years when there is a vacancy, no chairman need be elected. The letter says:

> The statute extended the office of supervisor from a one year to a three-year term and provided that at the election of 1904 one supervisor should be elected for one year, one for two years and one for three years, and that thereafter each supervisor should serve for three years. It also provided that one of those elected should be designated "chairman."
>
> The chairman chosen at the last election would hold the chairmanship for the length of time for which he was elected, which would be one, two or three years, according to the designation of the length of his term on the ballot. Hereafter the chairman will serve as such for three years, and "chairman" need be designated on the ballot, except in years when there is a vacancy to that office.

By following this ruling, townships will find no difficulty at the annual elections next month.

Have You Got It?

Oh, the grip is in the air; have you got it? It is on a grippy tear; have you got it? It has run from rocky Maine to the great Sierrian chain, and then doubled back again; Have you got it? If your nose burns when you sneeze, you have got it; If you're wobbly in the knees, you have got it; if your mouth assumes a taste that can mentally be traced to a slaughter house's waste, you have got it; if your eyes seem dull as lead, you have got it; if they look post-jaggy red, you have got it; if the pan that holds your brain seems to house a mess of pain, and from oaths you can't refrain, you have got it; If you're sure in every bone, you have got it; If your joints are turned to stone, you have got it; If your friends all seem your foes and you wake from out a doze with a bonfire on your nose, you have got it, if your back is filled with pain, you have got it; If you think that life is vain, you have got it; If your stomach's in a plight, and is looking for fight when your food is flashed in sight, you have got it. But you mustn't worry so, 'cause you've got it; there are others, don't ye know; who have got it; you are not the only one keeping doctors on the run, keeping druggists counting mon; we've all got it!—Ex.

GOLDEN NUGGETS FOR SALLOW PEOPLE

BATTLE STILL RAGES

RUSSIANS AND JAPS LOCKED IN DEATH STRUGGLE ON OUTSKIRTS OF MUKDEN.

Unconfirmed Reports Say a Large Force of the Mikado's Troops Is Already North of Kuropatkin's Army and That the Russian General Faces a Disastrous Defeat—St. Petersburg Gives Up All Hope of Victory for Russian Arms.

Although there has been no cessation of the fighting between the Russian and the Japanese armies in Manchuria, Russian reports state that at a distance the tide of battle in the immediate vicinity of Mukden seems to be ebbing. The most that the war critics at St. Petersburg seem to hope for at present is that General Kuropatkin has succeeded in re-establishing his line of retreat in the direction of Harbin. Word has reached Newchwang which, however, has no confirmation from other sources, that the Japanese are already north of Mukden with a large force and that the Russians are facing a disastrous defeat. There appears to be a possibility that General Kuroki has drawn off a portion of his army from the center and sent it to reinforce the divisions engaged in flanking movements. General Kaulbars, the most noted of General Kuropatkin's officers, is personally in command of the Russian forces in the triangle between the railway and the Hun river, which vital position the Japanese have been assailing for several days. Russian reports admit that 12,000 men have been wounded but made no mention of the number killed and at the same time assert that the Japanese have lost 30,000 in killed or wounded.

NOT VERY OPTIMISTIC

RUSSIANS ONLY HOPE THAT KUROPATKIN WILL NOT BE CORNERED.

St. Petersburg, March 7.—According to correspondents with the Russian army the tide of battle Monday was gradually rolling back from the immediate vicinity of Mukden, operations up to noon having resulted in the capture of several villages west and southwest of Mukden, but late in the afternoon the Japanese inaugurated a series of desperate attacks, the outcome of which is still not chronicled.

The war office estimates the number wounded in the battle of Mukden at 12,000, including 234 officers, but makes no statement regarding the number of dead. This undoubtedly is a conservative statement. The Japanese losses, according to the same source of information, are estimated at 30,000.

The optimistic tone of the war correspondence is reflected in military circles here. It is considered even if General Kuropatkin has not succeeded in delivering a crushing blow at the Japanese, he has at least insured the possibility of withdrawal, which was greatly jeopardized by the operations of Generals Nogi and Kuroki. The result of General Kuropatkin's reported counter attack, west of the railroad, which if successful would drive a wedge between the western army and the Japanese forces on the Shakhe river, is awaited with keen anxiety. It is felt that this is the opportunity which he missed at Liaoyang and which deprived the Russians of victory when it had almost been won.

JAPS BEHIND TIE PASS

SCOUTS OF NOGI AND KUROKI ALREADY IN TOUCH BACK OF RUSSIAN LINE.

Newchwang, March 7.—It is reported here that the scouts of General Nogi's and General Kuroki's armies are already in touch behind Tie pass.

Traders arriving here, report that Sunday night 30,000 Japanese gained an entrenched position five miles west of the gates of Mukden. Hand to hand fighting until daylight followed, without any advantage to either side. The traders further report that the Russians, becoming alarmed, burned the government buildings preparatory to retreating.

The Japanese Monday occupied the telegraph office at Sinmintin and established a temporary censorship, notwithstanding the objection of the Chinese officials.

CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS.

All Japan Places Faith in Oyama and His Army.

Tokio, March 7.—All Japan is eagerly watching developments at the great theater of war in Manchuria. The people are confident that Field Marshal Oyama will defeat General Kuropatkin. The only question considered is the extent and severity of the blow that he will inflict, and its effect upon the course of the war.

It is believed that the Japanese will succeed in cutting the railway north of Mukden.

BIG CROWD ATTENDS

THEODORE ROOSEVELT INAUGURATED PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES.

Decorations Throughout the City More Elaborate and Beautiful Than on Any Previous Occasion of the Kind in the History of the Country—Forty Thousand Persons View the Ceremony at the East Front of Capitol.

Washington, March 4.—Theodore Roosevelt of New York and Charles Warren Fairbanks of Indiana have been inaugurated respectively president and vice president of the United States.

The inauguration of President Roosevelt was made a festal ceremony in Washington. The decorations throughout the city were more elaborate and beautiful than on the occasion of any previous presidential inauguration. Twice as many flags were used this year by the inaugural committee as ever were used before and the splendor of the scheme adopted for the city's adornment never has been surpassed.

Soon after 9 o'clock carriages containing members of the cabinet and the joint inaugural committee of the senate and house of representatives began to arrive at the White House. Their occupants joined President Roosevelt within. A short time later President Roosevelt, Vice President Fairbanks and the members of the congressional inaugural committee emerged from the White House and were driven directly to the Capitol, where the president signed all bills awaiting him.

Vice President Takes the Oath.

Shortly before noon Mrs. Roosevelt, accompanied by members of the Roosevelt family and visiting friends, were hurried along Pennsylvania avenue to the Capitol in carriages. Mrs. Fairbanks and her family and house guests preceded Mrs. Roosevelt only a short time. They reached the executive gallery in time to witness the final work of the congress.

The galleries were masses of brilliant colors. Shortly before noon, one after another, the diplomatic corps, the supreme court and the members of the house of representatives were announced. They took places reserved for them. Then Vice President-elect Fairbanks was announced. Following him President Roosevelt, the president-elect, was announced.

The ceremony was coldly formal but impressive. After an expectant hush the oath of office was administered to Vice President Fairbanks by Senator Frye of Maine, president pro tempore. The new vice president delivered a brief inaugural address, to which close heed was given. Then he administered the oath of office to the senators-elect and, with a tap of his gavel, the Fifty-eighth congress came to a close.

Meantime the people left the galleries and went in procession to the east front of the Capitol, where the inauguration of President Roosevelt took place. From the stand erected there one looked down upon

Forty Thousand Upturned Faces

—a mass of humanity almost covering the broad plaza. Finally those on the stand were seated. There was a pause and then a mighty cheer burst from the great concourse as President Roosevelt appeared on the stand. He acknowledged the ovation with dignified courtesy. The cheering ceased as Chief Justice Fuller, his silvered hair falling over his silk and ermine robe, stepped upon the dais. He held in his hand a Bible. Mr. Roosevelt stood opposite him, alert, but composed. The president solemnly repeated the oath after the chief justice and then stooped and kissed the book. As he lifted his head he flashed one glance towards Mrs. Roosevelt and then faced the great multitude. Again that thrilling, soul-stirring shout went up. Then the crowd pressed yet closer to hear the inaugural address.

In a short time President Roosevelt was in the avenue returning to the White House. His carriage was surrounded by his faithful rough riders and his way was cleared by the brilliant Squadron A. The president stood in the carriage much of the time, bowing right and left in acknowledgment of the gracious enthusiasm which his appearance aroused. He returned to the White House and after a light luncheon reviewed, surrounded by his family, his personal friends, his cabinet and hundreds of distinguished visitors, the magnificent parade formed in his honor.

NAMES HIS NEW CABINET.

President Nominates Present Members With One Exception.

Washington, March 7.—The president has sent a large number of nominations to the senate, including all of the members of the present cabinet except Postmaster General Wynne. George B. Cortelyou was nominated for that office.

The list of nominations also included appointments of ambassadors, ministers, consuls general and consuls, so far as have been decided upon, and ex-Senator Cockrell as interstate commerce commissioner. There were few surprises in the list, as most of the appointments made to the principal posts heretofore have been announced, at least in a semi-official way.

Later in the day the senate, in executive session, confirmed the nominations of all members of the cabinet.

PLUMMER

(From the Pioneer.)

J. S. Kotschafer was there from Red Lake Falls on Wednesday looking after some collections.

Ole J. Johnson went to Red Lake Falls on Tuesday evening to preside over a special meeting of the county board which convened there on Wednesday.

Dr. Tupper was down from Thief River Falls last Monday night on professional business.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Pleth went to St. Hilaire on Tuesday, Mr. Pleth having some business to attend to in connection with the estate of Nels G. Otterness.

Mr. and Mrs. Finrow transacted business at Thief River Falls yesterday.

Miss Ida Poessel returned last Saturday after a three weeks visit at her home in Red Lake Falls.

John Mostrom was down from Wyandotte Thursday. He says he is preparing to move to the reservation in the near future.

John Padden was out from Red Lake Falls Wednesday with some prospective purchasers for some of Marcus Johnson's land in this vicinity.

W. G. Brown commenced work on a handsome new dwelling which he is building for himself in block 7 and expects to have it ready for occupancy in a few weeks.

Sheriff Linnihan and John Grady were out from Red Lake Falls last night. The sheriff was engaged in serving subpoenas on jurors for the coming term of the district court which opens at Red Lake Falls on the 27th inst.

Postmaster Finrow has received his new mail sacks and on Monday will begin the daily service on the Soo line. After the 25th inst. Garnes and Lillo will be supplied with the mail from this point instead of Red Lake Falls as at present.

The work of setting up the poles for the new telephone line between here and Thief River Falls was commenced yesterday. The line will be ready for use in a few weeks and will be built from here to Garnes and Lambert. If the management gives the people the kind of service they want the line will be a paying proposition from the start.

Ralph Green and C. O. Lindberg went to Red Lake Falls Tuesday with a petition for a new bridge across the Clearwater river, between sections 31 and 32 in township 152—42. The petition was favorably received by the county board and commissioners Shaw, Demann, Sutor, were appointed a committee to view the proposed site and conditions and will visit the place next Thursday for that purpose.

Con Short left last evening for Alaska and will be absent for about six months during which time he will work his mining claims along the Dominion Creek. Mr. Short has successfully operated these mines during the summer months for about ten years spending his winters at home on his farm in Equality township.

BRAY

Some ducks have been seen flying north, which forbode that summer is near.

C. P. Swanson and Chas. Englund did a stroke of business at Wylie Friday and also visited the creamery meeting held on that day.

Ernest Akerlund and C. A. Nelson visited Wylie Saturday.

The two school ma'ams of Districts 106 and 180 transacted some business at St. Hilaire Saturday.

C. P. Swanson was at St. Hilaire after a fine fire proof safe Saturday which will be used for the purpose of keeping the the records of the Bray Mutual Fire Insurance company in a safe place.

The Supervisors of the town of Bray met at the town clerk's office Tuesday and settled up their annual accounts.

FAIR RECIPROCITY.

The Gazette takes the liberty of reproducing the following able editorial from the Redwood Falls Gazette, Julius Sehmal's bright paper. The article is self-explanatory and should be carefully read and heeded by every shipper in the state:

"There is now pending before the railroad commissions of the house a bill known as the reciprocal demurrage bill, introduced by Representative W. A. Nolan of Mower county, which, should it become enacted into a law, will do more to place the shipper in the country towns of this state on an equality with the merchant of the big cities than any law on the statute books.

As every shipper knows the railroad companies charge shippers a demurrage for every day the shipper holds a car after the first forty-eight hours. To illustrate, if a car loaded with goods consigned to a merchant or dealer at one point is not unloaded inside or forty-eight hours after its arrival, the consignee is charged a demurrage for every day he holds the car after the expiration of the unloading period.

The Nolan bill does not in any way do away with the demurrage paid by the shipper to the company. It simply provides that the demurrage shall no longer be a one sided affair. It provides that when a shipper has ordered a car from a railroad company the car shall be on hand within 48 hours (if the shipping place is a terminal point, or within 72 hours if the place is not a terminal point) and that the company shall pay a demurrage for every day's delay in delivering the car. It also provides that the company shall pay a demuraage for every day's delay in starting over its lines a car received loaded from the shipper.

The railroad committee which has the bill in charge has received hundreds of letters from shippers in little towns, which prove conclusively a most flagrant negligence in supplying the shippers with cars. Some dealeas relate how they have to wait from 40 to 100 days for cars, and that they lose the profits for an entire season's business by reason of this delay. They relate how the railroad companies charge them demurrage when the delay in shipping is wholly due to the company's agent, and that after the company has secured the car for shipment further delays occur for which the shipper has no redress.

The Nolan bill simply asks of a railroad company the same regard for a shipper's rights as the railroad company demands of the shipper for its own rights. This is a fair, honest proposition.

As at present, railroad companies can practically drive small dealers out of business, and this condition is a constant menace to the small shipper, who is at the mercy of a combination of large shippers having influence with the railroad companies because of their greater volume of business.

The bill proposes no great hardship upon railroad companies but it does protect the business of the small shipper and relieves him from the danger of being overridden and crushed by the large shipper. It simply puts all shippers on an equality and forbids railroad companies to build up one industry at the expense of another industry which has the same right to live and prosper.

Mr. Nolan proposes to make the fight of his life for the measure and he should be heartily supported by every senator and representative in the legislature, and the people of the entire state should direct by letters their senators and representatives to vote for the bill.

The measure is being bitterly fought by the railroad companies and their co-ordinate corporations.

The country press should come to its support.

Their voice is the voice of the people.

Let the people take up the slogan.

Shining Points From President Roosevelt's Inaugural Address.

No people on earth have more cause to be thankful than ours.

To us as a people it has been granted to lay the foundations of our national life in a new continent.

The success we have had in the past, and which we confidently believe the future will bring, should cause in us no feeling of vain-glory.

Toward all other nations, large and small, our attitude must be one of cordial and sincere friendship.

Justice and generosity in a nation, as in an individual, count most when shown, not by the weak, but by the strong.

While ever careful to refrain from wronging others, we must be no less insistent that we are not wrong ourselves.

We wish the peace of justice and righteousness because we think it is right, not because we are afraid.

Our relations with the other powers of the world are important; but still more important are our relations among ourselves.

Never before have men tried so vast and formidable an experiment as that of administering the affairs of a continent under the forms of a democratic republic.

There is no good reason why we should fear the future, but there is every reason why we should face it seriously.

We have faith that we shall not prove false to the memories of the men of the mighty past.

We must show interest in every day affairs of life, the qualities of practical intelligence, courage, hardihood and endurance which made great the men who founded the republic in the days of Washington, and preserved it in the days of Abraham Lincoln.

Editor John Eastman has installed a new power press and other material and will have one of the best offices in the northern country when he gets through. County seat fights are evidently profitable to the papers at the up-river town.

The Thief River papers attempt to deny the statement about the amount of booze they used in attempting to buy signers for their removal petition. This was to be expected, of course. A gang that will promiscuously peddle blind pig whiskey to carry a point and get caught up at it are not expected to come out and acknowledge the fact, but the people are next to them and it will take something more than a statement to the contrary to convince the public that they have not been free with money, marbles and —booze.

H. L. Dudley, of Thief River Falls, now has charge of the Cass Lake Times, Judge Ives' paper, as local editor and business manager, and last week made his bow to the people of Cass Lake. "Dud" is one of the best printers and all around good boys in the state, and will certainly give the people of Cass Lake a better paper than they have ever had before. The fraternity of Northern Minnesota will join The Gazette in congratulating Judge Ives Mr. Dudley and the people of Cass Lake on the new arrangement, confident that it will mean much for all concerned.

Bids Wanted.

Sealed bids will be received at my office for the construction of a bridge on Hill river, between sections 10 and 11 of the town of Poplar River. Plans and specifications may be seen at my office at Brooks. Bids will be received until 8 o'clock a. m. March 11, 1905. The board of supervisors reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

MARCH APPORTIONMENT.

County Treasury Will Get Bunch of Money for Schools.

Auditor James E. Ford received notice Tuesday of the apportionment for March of the school fund and in a few days will receive a check for $5,007.00, Red Lake county's share. This will be distributed among the school treasuries of the county, the per capita being $1.50 per pupil, five cents more than the last apportionment.

Thief River Falls will get $1068 as their share, Red Lake Falls $837 and St. Hilaire $346.50. Red Lake Falls would get the most of any district in the county if the law did not make parochial scholars exempt from the apportionment. As it is Thief River Falls leads, but with the three hundred pupils of St. Joseph's school counted in we would draw practically the same amount.

Erickson Rents of County.

At the meeting of the board of county commissioners last week Tailor L. E. Erickson appeared before them and asked that he be allowed the use of the small building on the court house grounds for a tailor shop, at a rental of $10 per month, and by a unanimous vote the board decided to rent it to him, Mr. Erickson to take charge the latter part of this week. This building was formerly occupied by the Sortedahl Land, Loan, and Abstract company, and will make an excellent location for Mr. Erickson. Another point in connection with transaction is the fact that the county now rents the two buildings on the property purchased which are not used for county purposes and derives nearly $300 a year rent from the two, which is proof conclusive of the wisdom of purchasing the court house property. With no rent to pay and an income of over two hundred dollars annually from the property, the people can easily see where they would be decidedly foolish to listen to the howl of the Thief River gang about the up-river town being the only place on earth for a court house, and they will by no means take on the heavy expense of moving it to gratify a gang of hold-up artists.

A Punctured Story.

A prominent resident of the northern part of the county was a caller here the first of the week, and while in the city took occasion to look over carefully the property recently purchased by the county for court house purposes. After going completely through the building he expressed himself as surprised that the people of the county should take any stock in the offer of a building at the up-river town in case of county seat removal. He stated plainly that in his estimation the present building is far better suited in every way for court house purposes than the old one offered by the up-river gang, and, while they did offer it with a string attached for $1 per year that it would cost the county nearly as much as the present building cost to get it in any kind of shape for use, and after all the expenditures it would be no better than the present building. This gentleman lives nearer Thief River Falls than he does to this city, but says he can see no just reason for a removal of the court house, and feels that the farmers cannot afford to bear the big bill of expense to help out a city that proved unfriendly to the county in the hour of need.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists A. L. Reichart.

WOMEN WHO SUFFER

Listen to What Dr. Hartman Proposes to Do for You Without Charge.

Doubtless hundreds of thousands of women all over the United States have seen Dr. Hartman's offer in the papers—how he has undertaken to treat every woman suffering with any form of female disease who will write to him, free of charge.

To those who have not heard of this it may be said that Dr. Hartman is a physician and surgeon of great renown in medical circles, especially in the treatment of those diseases which women alone have to bear.

He has arranged to answer all letters that are sent to him from women troubled with any form of female weakness, free of charge, giving the benefit of knowledge which has cost him forty years to accumulate.

The medicines he prescribes are within the reach of any woman, and she can get them at any drug store.

All she is required to do is to send her name and address, together with her symptoms, duration of sickness and age.

Address Dr. S. B. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

Mrs. Senator Roach, of Larimore, N. Dak.; Mrs. Senator Warren, of Cheyenne, Wyo.; Belva Lockwood and Mrs. General Longstreet, of Washington, D. C., are among the prominent ladies who indorse Peruna.

Miss Helen Rolof, Kauksuna, Wis., writes:

"Several times during the past two years or more my system has been greatly in need of a tonic, and at those times Peruna has been of great help in building up the system, restoring my appetite and securing restful sleep."—Helen Rolof.

Miss Muriel Armitage, 36 Greenwood Ave., Detroit, Mich., District Organizer of the Royal Templars of Temperance, writes as follows:

"I suffered for five years with uterine irregularities, which brought on hysteria and made me a physical wreck. I tried doctors from the different schools of medicine, but without any perceptible change in my condition. In my despair I called on an old nurse, who advised me to try Peruna, and promised good results if I would persist and take it regularly. I kept this up for six months, and steadily gained strength and health, and when I had used fifteen bottles I considered myself entirely cured. I am a grateful, happy woman to-day."—Miss Muriel Armitage.

Miss Lucy M. Riley, 33 Davenport St., Cleveland, Ohio, writes:

"I wish to add my indorsement to thousands of other women who have been cured through the use of Peruna. I suffered for five years with severe backache, and when weary or worried in the least I had prolonged headache. I am now in perfect health, enjoy life and have neither an ache or pain, thanks to Peruna."—Lucy M. Riley.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

Like Finding Money.

Finding health is like finding money—so think those who are sick. When you have a cough, cold, sore throat, or chest irritation, better act promptly like W. C. Barber, of Sandy Level, Va. He says: "I had a terrible chest trouble, caused by smoke and coal dust on my lungs; but after finding no relief in other remedies, I was cured by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds." Greatest sale of any cough or lung medicine in the world At W. A. Schreiter's drug store; 50c and $1.00; guaranteed. Trial bottle free

Are You Engaged?

Engaged people should remember, that, after marriage, many quarrels can be avoided, by keeping their digestions in good condition with Electric Bitters, S. A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S. C., says: "For years, my wife suffered intensely from dyspepsia, complicated with a torpid liver, until she lost her strength and vigor, and became a mere wreck of her former self. Then she tried Electric Bitters, which helped her at once, and finally made her entirely well. She is now strong and healthy." W. A. Schreiter, druggist, sells and guarantees them, at 50c a bottle.

Notice.

I am prepared to deliver milk and cream in any quantities. Anyone desiring same please address F. C. Westhal, city. 4t

Got off Cheap.

He may well think, he has got off cheap, who, after having contracted constipation or indigestion, is still able to perfectly restore his health. Nothing will do this but Dr. King's New Life Pills. Nine Nations

Now Use Liquozone. Won't You Try It—Free?

Millions of people, of nine different nations, are constant users of Liquozone. Some are using it to get well; some to keep well. Some to cure germ diseases; some as a tonic. No medicine was ever so widely employed. These users are everywhere; your neighbors and friends are among them. And half the people you meet—wherever you are—know some-one whom Liquozone has cured.

If you need help, please ask some of these users what Liquozone does. Don't blindly take medicine for what medicine cannot do. Drugs never kill germs. For your own sake, ask about Liquozone; then let us buy you a full-size bottle to try.

We Paid $100,000

For the American rights to Liquozone. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, after proving, in thousands of different cases, that Liquozone destroys the cause of any germ disease.

Liquozone has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. It is not made by compounding drugs, nor with alcohol. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissue, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Every physician knows that medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

Messrs. Carlson and Eckstein attended a ball at Wylie Friday evening. Mr. Eckstein's home is at Wylie, but he is employed at the Great Northern depot in this city at present.

Superintendent McAnnity has had his office rooms in the court house neatly papered this week, Frank Freund being the artist. Mr. McAnnity now has one of the neatest office rooms in the building.

Prof. Andrew Onstad was at St. Hilaire Monday evening giving his new band their weekly instructions. The band is making rapid progress and expect to be able to get out on the street during the coming summer to liven things up at the Saintly city.

The Odd Fellows gave a farewell party at their hall Tuesday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. M. A Hatten who are leaving Red Lake Falls. Progressive cinch was played, refreshments were served and a most excellent time was had.

For Rent—The old Bischoff farm of 150 acres, with buildings, facing 7th street in city of Red Lake Falls. The farm is sown to timothy and clover, excepting 12 acres of wild hay land: is also fenced. Would prefer renting for period of three years. Terms $200 cash per year. Anyone accepting such terms write to Mrs. H. J. Bischoff England, Minn., Marshall County.

The young people of the city gave a party at the home of Mrs. E. F. Marshall on the North Side Tuesday evening in honor of Miss Ada Hatten, one of their highly esteemed school mates, who left yesterday with her parents for their new home in Washington state. Games were played and refreshments served, the assembled guests joining in wishing Miss Ada much happiness in her new home.

Crookston Times: A. G. Lockman, who for several years past has resided in Crookston, punching tickets on the St. Vincent, Fargo and Thief River Falls run, will Monday go to Grand Forks where he will be one of the chain gang running on the main line out of that city. He will sell his home in Crookston and move his family to Grand Forks at once. This will be learned with regret by his many friends here. Conductor Will Remshart and Steve Withey will handle the Fargo, St. Vincent and Thief River runs alone. It is not thought however that they will do so long as there is work for three men for ten hours a day on them.

The Sunbeam Circle will meet with Miss Florence Olson Friday.

Miss Grace Jeffers entertained a party or friends at her home last Friday afternoon in honor of her birthday anniversary. A large number of her schoolmates were in attendance and a delightful time was had.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Belair are rejoicing over the arrival of a handsome new son and heir at their home Monday morning of this week. The babe is a healthy youngster and promises to live long as a comfort to his happy parents.

Miss Lulu Fletcher arrived home from Moorhead last Saturday and has been spending the week with her parents and many friends here. Miss Fletcher reports her work at the Normal as progressing satisfactorily but says she is glad to get home occasionally.

Kelliher Journal: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lennon drove to Foy Tuesday, where Mr. Lennon closed a deal with Messrs. Matson & Hanson, proprietors of the Red Lake Lumber company, to log and saw into lumber a large quantity of pine standing on Mr. Lennon's claim. The work of logging the timber has already been commenced.

The illness of Miss Grace Iddings, assistant principal of the high school has necessitated a change in the teaching force temporarily. Leland Healy, principal of the North Side School, now teaches at the Lafeyette school in the forenoons of each day, while Mrs. E. W. Chamberlain has charge of his work at the Washington school. Prof. Chamberlain also handles one or two of the periods assigned to Miss Iddings, and while the arrangement makes considerable more work for all concerned the work is being carried on satisfactorily despite the temporary inconvenience.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Sivigny will leave next Monday for the western part of the country, where they expect to spend a few years looking over that famous region, and may ultimately locate there. They will stop first at North Yakima for an extended visit, and from there will proceed to Tacoma, where they expect to spend some little time. Mr. Sivigny will find employment at his trade while prospecting, and they expect to spend some time at all the important places in the west. They will have the best wishes of numerous old-time friends here for success.

Peter Miller left Tuesday evening for a trip to the coast, Tacoma being the objective point, and expects to spend the next year or so in that part of the world. Pete is a good cigar maker and will undoubtedly find an excellent situation somewhere in that booming country.

A brand new baby boy arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Murphy, at Thief River Falls, Monday morning, to take up his abode with them. The young man received a most royal welcome and the many friends of the couple here will trust that he may live long as a joy and a comfort to them.

Garceau & Zaiser have a new advertisement in today's paper that the readers should pay careful attention to. The Busy Store has anticipated the wants of the buying public in their selections for the spring trade and Red Lake county people should watch The Gazette columns closely for their regular announcements.

The grand ball given by the local camp of Modern Woodmen at their hall here Monday evening was largely attended and a first-class time was enjoyed. The band orchestra furnished the music and as usual acquitted themselves creditably. The Woodmen have a well established reputation as royal entertainers and are always strongly supported by the public when they undertake a social affair.

Word was received here Tuesday of the death of Mrs. Frank McGriff who died at her home in Marquette, Mich. the latter part of last week, of consumption. Mrs. McGriff, who was formerly Miss Mary Marleau, was a resident of this city for a number of years and was a sister of the Marleau brothers living north of this city. Her many old-time friends will regret to hear of her death.

The interior of the building adjoining the Grand View hotel on the south has been undergoing an overhauling this week, new sills and a new floor being put in. The interior of the room will be completely overhauled to be in readiness for the new saloon which William Kreuger will open up about the 18th inst. Billy is a popular fellow and will undoubtedly do a good business when he gets under way.

The Gazette job department this week turned out in pamphlet form a list of words to be used by the Red Lake County Teachers' association at their spelling contest in St. Hilaire in May. The list comprises some 1200 words and a copy will be sent to each school in the county which is eligible to compete. The contest is already arousing great interest and will undoubtedly be well attended and prove an interesting affair.

The birthday party and banquet given the members of the Woodmen and Modern Brotherhood by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Allard last Friday evening was one of the most enjoyable affairs of the season and an unusually large crowd of people turned out to enjoy Mr. and Mrs. Allard's hospitality. Both the Woodmen and Brotherhood halls were used and the crowd spent the time in dancing, card playing and feasting until a late hour. At the close the guests pronounced Mr. and Mrs. Allard royal entertainers and wished the genial Sam many happy returns of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Hatten and daughter, Ada, left Wednesday evening for Spokane, Washington, where they will make their future home, for a few years at least. Mr. Hatten has already rented a farm a few miles west of Spokane and will engage in that business while out west. Their place is located but a short distance from a famous summer resort of that part of the world and they anticipate much pleasure the coming summer. The people of Red Lake Falla were sorry to see the Hatten family leave, as they have been prominently identified with the business and social affairs of Red Lake Falla for several years past, but they all join with the Gasette in wishing them unbounded success in the new field.

The beautiful spring weather which the people of Northern Minnesota have been enjoying for the past couple of weeks received a set back Monday of this week, several inches of the beautiful falling snow and the weather in general resembling a real northern Minnesota March. The signs of spring are everywhere apparent, however, and there seems to be a general opinion that the strain on the wood pile will not be great from now on.

County Treasurer Karl M. Hanson isn't in the pleasantest mood these days, and he has just reason for being ugly. He had all the arrangements made to move his family here from Thief River Falls, when he received word that they were quarantined at their home on account of one of the children being afflicted with scarlet fever. The quarantine will last at least three weeks, and while the child is not dangeroutly sick it will inconvenience Mr. Hanson considerably. Red Lake Falls people will regret to learn that the Hanson's are not to become residents for some time yet, but will welcome them royally when they do arrive.

Con Short, the Equality Klondiker, left last Saturday for another trip to Alaska to look after his holdings in that famous country of a few years ago. Mr. Short was one of the fortunate ones to go out there during the early rush and he now has property there that brings him a large income. He has spent the winter with his family in Equality township, but returns now to see that the spring work is started out in good shape.

The postoffice department is considering the advisability of making a new special rate of postage on fourth class matter for rural routes. It is about 3 cents per pound, with packages limited to about 5 pounds. This is to accommodate rural patrons in ordering groceries and other merchandise from their home merchants, the rate only applying to patrons of the town from which the route starts. The idea is that if a farmer telephones in for a pound of coffee from a merchant, the latter could send it to the postoffice and have the rural carrier deliver it for 3 cents, instead of 16 cents as at present. The proposed rate would not apply to merchandise sent from any other towns and consequently would bar out mail order houses.

Nick Eckstein, a popular resident of Wylie, was a caller here last Friday.

Joe Rose came over from Grand Forks Tuesday to look after his business interests here.

A social dance given by the young people of the city was held at the K. of P. hall last Friday evening, which turned out to be one of the jolliest times of the season.

Chas. Kankel, the popular Terrebonne miller, came in town last Friday and took the evening train here for Fertile, where he has been spending the week attending to business matters and visiting friends.

Representative L. C. Simons came up from the capitol city Sunday and remained until Monday afternoon looking after business matters here. The Judge looks well and says he is enjoying his sojourn at St. Paul immensely this winter.

There will probably be another sale of state land during the coming summer. Appraisers have been appointed. All those who are holding state land certificates should see to it that the interest is fully paid. County Attorney Thomas Germo went to Crookston Monday evening to attend to some legal business for the county. Mr. Germo has been kept pretty busy with the affairs of the county for the past couple of months and has handled the business in a careful and competent manner, bearing out the assertions of his supporters and friends that he would make an excellent officer.

Plummer Pioneer: Mrs. Andrew Steen, of Park River N. D. died on Wednesday, February 22nd at the home of her father-in-law, John T. Steen, of consumption. The funeral was held on Tuesday last, Rev. Kolstoe officiating. It will be remembered that Mrs. Steen with her three little children came over from their Dakota home for a holiday visit with friends here and her little daughter Mabel died here at Christmas time. Since then Mrs. Steen has been failing rapidly until the end came. Her husband arrived from Park River a little before her death on Wednesday morning. The remains were laid to rest in the Emardville cemetery.

WASHINGTON SCHOOL NOTES.

Lizzie Schlesinger, reporter.

The fifth and sixth grade boys are still practising in their athletics and are beating some of last years records.

In Geography the sixth grade began the study of "North America" last week.

Thursday the fourth grade had a test in history on the French and Indian war.

The fifth and sixth grades are getting along nicely in their "Chinese Reading" as we have chosen to call it.

Friday the sixth and fifth grade pupils had a test in writing and the marks are going to be put on the report cards.

The A class of the first grade will finish their reading books this week.

Nickie Heim is still unable to attend school.

Millie Schlesinger was absent Monday.

Grace Moran is still absent on account of her arm but she is getting along nicely.

Frank Campbell is back to school again.

Bessie Nelson and Clara Bourdon were absent Monday.

Let all remember that this Friday is library night.

Monday the fifth and sixth grades received their report cards.

Mrs Chamberlain is teaching the fifth and sixth grades in the mornings. Mr. Healy is taking Miss Idding's place in the high school during her sickness for the forenoons but he comes back to the Washington building in the afternoons.

Emma Klos has left school for a couple of weeks for a visit. As she was one of the reporters this week, you must excuse our notes if they are not as full as usual.

Because of the change in teachers there has been a change in the program in room four.

Arithmetic which formerly came in the forenoon has been changed with Geography which came in the afternoon.

The fifth grade have taken up their history again after a month's rest.

WORK OF CONGRESS.

Tuesday, Feb. 28.

Senate—Almost the entire day spent in considering items in the Indian appropriation bill which were not passed on Monday and extending the session into the night for that purpose, the bill being finally passed.

House—As an evidence of the approaching adjournment a large number of bills were passed by unanimous consent and an evening session was held in order to discuss the general deficiency appropriation bill.

Wednesday, March 1.

Senate—Postoffice appropriation bill, carrying $181,525,843; the pension bill, carrying $138,000,000, and the river and harbor bill, carrying in immediate appropriations and continuing contracts $38,350,899, passed.

House—General deficiency bill, last of the great supply measures, passed. Conference report on military academy bill adopted.

Thursday, March 2.

Senate—Sundry civil and general deficiency appropriation bills passed. Pure food laws and resolution providing for a joint committee to investigate railroad rates discussed.

House—Bill providing for government participation in the Jamestown (Va.) exposition passed. It carries an appropriation of $250,000. Balance of session devoted to conference reports and bills of minor importance.

Friday, March 3.

House—Most of the day spent in consideration of conference reports on the great supply bills of the government, every measure being finally disposed of before the close of the evening session.

Senate—Day's session given up largely to general legislation and conference reports on appropriation bills. Statehood bill killed by failure of conferees to reach an agreement.

Saturday, March 4.

Senate and House—Both branches held brief sessions, but very little business of importance was transacted as all measures of importance had been disposed of the previous night. The induction of Vice President Fairbanks was the feature of the senate session and the presentation of a massive silver loving cup to Speaker Cannon was a pleasing event of the house meeting.

PROFITS ARE REASONABLE.

Opinion of Commissioner of Corporations Anent the Beef Industry.

Washington, March 4.—President Roosevelt has transmitted to congress the report of the commissioner of corporations upon the beef industry submitted in compliance with the resolution of the house of representatives adopted March 7, 1904.

The report of the commissioner of corporations is to the effect that six packing companies—Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Nelson Morris, the National Packing company, the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger company and the Cudahy Packing company—slaughtered in the year 1903 about 45 per cent of the total indicated slaughter in the United States; that the average net profit in 1903 for three of the companies was 99 cents per head; that the year 1902, instead of being one of exorbitant profits, was less profitable than usual; that during the months when prices of beef were the highest some at least of the leading packinghouses were actually losing money on every head slaughtered. The changes in the margin between prices of cattle and beef are in themselves no indication whatever of the change in profits.

With reference to private car lines in the packing industry it is stated that the profit is a very liberal one, a net return of from 14 to 17 per cent being indicated.

MRS. CHADWICK COLLAPSES.

Trial Ended for First Day by the Defendant Fainting.

Cleveland, March 7.—A complete nervous collapse by Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick brought the first day of her trial to an abrupt close at 3:35 in the afternoon.

E. H. Haller of Oberlin, the second witness called by the state, was on the stand and had answered but two questions, when Mrs. Chadwick, who was very pale, whispered to her attorneys that she would be compelled to leave the room. She passed out quickly and upon reaching the anteroom sank into a chair in a faint. Two trained nurses who were in the courtroom were hastily summoned and in a few minutes Mrs. Chadwick was revived. She was in no condition to return to the courtroom, however, and Judge Tayler adjourned the trial for the day.

ON MURDER CHARGE.

Johann Hoch Indicted by Chicago Grand Jury.

Chicago, March 4.—Johann Hoch, multi-bigamist, has been indicted by the grand jury for murder.

The specific charge on which the indictment was found is that Hoch murdered his last wife but one, Mrs. Marie Walcker-Hoch.

DEATH BY POISONING

MRS. LELAND STANFORD SUDDENLY EXPIRES IN A HONOLULU HOTEL.

Honolulu, March 2.—Mrs. Jane Lathrop Stanford of San Francisco, widow of United States Senator Leland Stanford, died at 11:40 o'clock p. m., forty minutes after she was taken ill, at the Moana hotel here, under suspicious circumstances, pointing, in the opinion of the physician who attended her in her dying hour and seemingly in that of others, to poisoning by the administration of strychnine in a vial of bicarbonate of soda.

Mrs. Stanford herself, when found by a guest of the hotel who had heard her groaning in her agony and suffering from convulsions, declared "I have been poisoned," and her last words were: "This is a horrible death to die."

The physicians say, that between convulsions Mrs. Stanford repeated the assertion that she had been poisoned and said it was the second time the attempt had been made, the first time being in January at her San Francisco home, and that it was this attempt that caused her to come to Honolulu.

HILL INTERESTS WIN

FEDERAL SUPREME COURT DECIDES FIGHT FOR CONTROL OF NORTHERN PACIFIC.

Washington, March 7.—The supreme court of the United States has affirmed the decision of the circuit court of appeals for the Third circuit in the case of Harriman vs. the Northern Securities company, involving the distribution of the shares in the Northern Securities company. The decision is favorable to the Hill interests.

ON A SERIOUS CHARGE.

Federal Grand Jury at Washington Indicts Congressman Hermann.

Washington, March 4.—Congressman Binger Hermann of Oregon, former United States land commissioner, has been indicted by the federal grand jury on the charge of destroying public records. The specific charge is that he destroyed thirty-five letter press copybooks.

The substance of the charge is that Mr. Hermann, just previous to his resignation as commissioner of the general land office, which was on Feb. 1, 1903, destroyed thirty-five letter press copybooks containing copies of official communications written by him as commissioner of the general land office and relating to the business of that bureau.

Bail was fixed at $2,500.

MAKES CHARGE OF BRIBERY.

Colorado Legislator Offered $1,500 for His Vote.

Denver, March 7.—A sensation was sprung in the joint convention of the general assembly during the day by Senator R. W. Morgan, Rep., who announced that $1,500 had been offered him and $750 had already been given him for his vote for Governor Alva Adams in his contest for governor. Senator Morgan named James M. Herbert, vice president and general manager of the Colorado Southern railroad, and Postmaster Daniel Sullivan of Cripple Creek as the men who attempted to bribe him. A committee was immediately appointed to investigate the bribery charges.

SEVEN DEAD, FORTY INJURED.

Collision of Passenger Trains at Clifton Station, Pa.

Pittsburg, March 4.—After the most searching investigation it is now practically certain that the list of dead caused by the collision between the two special trains from Cleveland on the Pennsylvania railroad at Clifton Station will not exceed seven, all members of the Ohio state militia. The list of injured will reach forty, six or seven of whom are likely to die.

FARMERS NEED NO LICENSE

Missouri Supreme Court Decides He Can't Be Fined for Vending Own Produce in City.

St. Louis.—As a result of a decision of the supreme court of Missouri in the case of Henry Meyer, License Commissioner Clifford will be unable to collect the $50,000 per annum he expected from the farmers of St. Louis county. Mr. Meyer, who is president of the St. Louis County Farmers' club, was prosecuted by Mr. Clifford in the police court for violating a city ordinance in peddling farm products in St. Louis without a peddlers' license. He was fined $25.

He appealed to the court of criminal correction, which sustained the lower court. His attorneys, George W. Luhke, Jr., W. F. Broadhead, of Clayton, and William D. Jones, of St. Louis, thereupon appealed to the supreme court.

In a decision written by Judge Fox the supreme court reverses the judgment of the lower courts, remits the fine against Meyer, and discharges him.

The decision ends a long contest adversely to the city. Since coming into office Mr. Clifford has diligently endeavored to collect all possible licenses due the municipality. When an ordinance was passed demanding that every person who sold farm products from house to house should pay a peddlers' license of $20 per annum, Mr. Clifford undertook to enforce it against the farmers of St. Louis county. They resisted it, and Mr. Meyer agreed to submit to a test case.

The position taken by the farmers, and there are said to be 3,000 of them in St. Louis county who at times sell their products in the city, was that a state law exempted farmers who sold only their own farm products from paying a peddlers' license.

Their attorneys held that the ordinance passed by the municipal assembly subsequently was in contravention of this statute and therefore illegal. This contention, it appears, has been sustained in the opinion of Judge Fox.

CREW CAPTURES RARE BIRD

A Gannet, Native of Gulf of St. Lawrence, Caught by Sailors Off Boston.

Boston.—The fishing schooner Meteor, which arrived here the other day, brought a bird rarely seen in these waters. It was a gannet, a species of sea fowl that rarely leaves the waters of the gulf of St. Lawrence, and is seldom seen below the grand banks. The bird was a handsome specimen, with a spread of wings fully six feet. It was game, and full of fight, and was tied by one of its wings to a deck post.

The bird hovered over the schooner as she lay to about 70 miles southeast of Highland light, and one of the crew determined to catch it. He baited a hook with a piece of meat and threw it overboard. The gannet shot straight down from where it was flying, 70 or 80 feet above, and seized the hook. It was pulled on board, and after a hard fight the hook was taken from its mouth.

The bird was kept on deck, tied to the post, until the other morning, when it was shown to the old fishermen at the wharf as a curiosity in this neighborhood. After everyone had seen it, it was set free and put on the rail. It dived at once into the water and swam out from the vessel until about 200 feet away. It then tried to fly, but as its feathers were wet through it could not rise, and continued to swim down the harbor, trying at intervals to rise.

While it was aboard the Meteor, the crew took good care of the bird, and fed it several times a day. It had a voracious appetite and ate eight large herring each day. Before setting it free it was fed again, and consumed three large-sized herring.

MACARONI WHEAT BEST.

Colorado Farmers, After Tests, Find They Can Raise the Cereal Without Irrigation.

Denver.—Macaroni wheat for Colorado farmers. It needs no irrigation.

That is the slogan raised by the state agricultural college, which is now engaged in a campaign to show the wheat raisers of the state that this variety is not only a more hardy and a better grain than the ordinary sorts, but that it is also much more prolific under discouraging conditions.

Walter H. Olin, of the department of agronomy, and Prof. W. L. Carlyle, also of the college, are enthusiastic about it. Mr. Olin reports that within the last few months the college has made extensive tests of the macaroni, or durum wheat, and that it has been found to be better in all ways for practical use than the common spring or winter wheat now raised on the farms of Colorado. Individual tests were made of Colorado spring wheat, Kansas hard winter wheat, durum wheat and Pillsbury's best flour for baking purposes, lightness counting 20 points, tenderness 20, flavor 20, texture 10, color 10, and general appearance 20. The tests were exhaustive, the result being 91 points for durum wheat, 89 for Pillsbury's flour, 88 for Kansas winter wheat, and 83 for Colorado spring wheat. Laboratory tests also showed that the durum wheat contains a larger percentage of both sugar and gluten than do the common sorts, making it therefore more palatable and more digestible when eaten in bread.

Tests on various farms in Colorado have also shown that this wheat can be raised more advantageously than can any other variety known.

SOCIETY LEAVING THE CITY

Country Places Gradually Drawing Wealthy New Yorkers, Declares Social Register.

New York.—That private residences for persons in fashionable circles in New York will be a luxury in 1922 is the view of compilers of the social register of 1905, which has just appeared. The estimate is based upon a comparison of this issue with that of 1888. This comparison also leads to the deduction that society is gradually abandoning private residences in Manhattan more for country homes than for apartment houses and hotels.

Of families named in the social register of 1888 about 82 per cent. lived practically under their own roof; now only 59 per cent. do so, among prominent families in New York alone. Contrary to the general opinion, this population has not been largely absorbed by apartment and hotel life, but the bulk has taken up with country life and is to be found in suburban towns on Long Island, Westchester county, New Jersey, Tuxedo, and some of the winter resorts, such as Aiken. One-quarter now lives permanently abroad, with but occasional visits to the United States.

In 1888 the largest number of families residing under one roof was 11. Now there are as many as 27 in one hotel.

Of the 9,000 families in the social register 4,556 families reside one to a dwelling, being eight per cent. of the total. Families residing two in a house mostly belong to the same family, and they are for the purpose of this comparison classed with private residences, leaving a total of 1,074 residing in apartment houses or hotels. They are 12 per cent of the total. Of the families who live in the suburbs there are 2,124, or 23 per cent. Living abroad are 537 families.

THIBETANS ARE TRADERS.

New British Possession a Nation of Shopkeepers, Declares Col. Younghusband.

London.—Col. Younghusband, who concluded the British treaty with Thibet, and who recently arrived in England from Lassa, says that owing to the magnificent behavior of the British troops, the Thibetans were much better disposed toward them when they left than when they arrived.

The colonel said that, as a result of the mission, obstacles to trade with India had been removed, and trade was in actual progress when he left.

"The Thibetans," he said, "are a nation of shopkeepers. While the mission was in the country, Thibetan traders were continually coming in to all our camps and posts to sell produce and goods. There seems to be every prospect of a thriving trade springing up between India and Thibet. It was a very difficult matter to get the convention through in the few weeks which military necessity placed at my disposal, and still more difficult to do this without causing bitterness of feeling among the Thibetans.

"I am happy to say that we have not left behind us at Lassa any of that feeling of race animosity which might be very apt to occur under similar circumstances. The fact that we were allowed into the most sacred shrines in Lassa, and that, after the treaty was signed, Capt. Connor was received by the Tashi Lama at Shingatse with great ceremony, was sure proof that the walls of religious obstruction which had been raised by the lamas, and which had hitherto closed the country, had more or less been broken down. I do not think it likely that they will ever wish to raise them again."

SLEIGHING IN AUTOMOBILES

Big Machines on Steel Runners Astonish Long Island Natives—Not Entirely Satisfactory.

Hempstead, N. Y.—Automobiles on runners astonished the townsfolk of Long Island, who thought they had seen everything in the shape of an up-to-date vehicle. It was to some extent an experiment on the part of those who wished to drive their cars over the snow and ice-covered roads in the neighborhood. And the result was not entirely satisfactory.

A portable steel runner, somewhat resembling a half-tire, was attached to the front wheels of the machine, and the rear or motor wheels were encased in a steel rim with sharp teeth, which dug into the ice and propelled the car.

The plan worked better in theory than in practice, however, for while there was no difficulty in propulsion of the automobile, the sharp points of ice under the snow continually punctured the tires, and the sport was finally abandoned.

The machines were driven into stables and spirited horses and real sleighs were taken out in their place, and the merry jingle of bells was heard along the Merrick road.

Not Displacing the Original.

Sumatra wrapper tobacco can be grown in Connecticut, and a farmer near Charleston has demonstrated by 12 years of profitable experiment that tea can be grown in South Carolina, but there is still a market for tobacco grown in Sumatra and for tea grown in Japan. —Boston Globe.

A Dangerous State.

An Alabama man has been sent to jail for 30 days because he kissed a girl after she had said: "Please don't!" It must be difficult for a man to know when he is safe in Alabama.

Dr. J. A. Quinn, a prominent St. Paul physician, had the first finger of his left hand amputated as a result of a wound received through the accidental discharge of a revolver.

The trial of John Cunningham at Le Sueur Center on the charge of murder in the first degree resulted in acquittal. Cunningham was accused of the murder of John O'Day on Oct. 15, 1904.

Thousands of men will be sent out by the Twin City employment agents this season to work on railroad extensions that are to be constructed. The demand for labor will be unusually urgent.

Dr. George R. Metcalf, a well known St. Paul physician, died suddenly last week at Orvieto, Italy. Dr. Metcalf was traveling with his wife, having left St. Paul last summer for a two years' tour of Europe.

Milk and cream tests in the Twin Cities during the past week by the dairy and food department showed that out of a total of fifty-one samples examined seventeen were illegal and thirty-four were legal.

John Cavanaugh, a stockman living at Adams, this state, was struck by an automobile while crossing Canal street in Chicago. He was taken to the county hospital, where it was said that he would probably die.

Small branches of the Minneapolis public library are to be installed in several of the largest factories in that city. The plan is to furnish tired working girls with reading matter at their places of employment.

The little town of Henning, a few miles from St. Cloud, is in the grasp of a serious epidemic of diphtheria. Several deaths have resulted and a number of people of the little hamlet are ill with the dread disease.

According to estimates of the state auditor the gross earnings taxes on railroads for 1904, payable this year, will be $71,000 less than the taxes of 1903. The estimated receipts from that source this year are $1,900,000.

A man believed to be a Jack the Hugger who has been terrorizing the women of Crookston for some time past and whose final deed was the hugging of a woman into hysterics in the heart of the city has been arrested.

James Healy, ninety years of age, died at St. Paul Friday night of old age. His wife, aged eighty-eight, was so terribly afflicted by the loss of her lifelong partner that she succumbed to her affliction twenty-four hours later.

The prison twine plant will, within sixty days, be increased to such an extent that the annual output will be 12,000,000 pounds instead of 10,000,000. Warden Wolfer is now in the East purchasing the additional machinery needed.

William Jennings Bryan will be entertained by the Minneapolis Democracy on the evening of March 11. He will lecture at one of the churches early in the evening and after the lecture he will be banquetted at one of the down town hotels.

Her mind unbalanced as the result of a shock received some time ago when she was chased several blocks by a rowdy Mrs. Hulda Meyers, twenty-eight years old, living with her husband on Rondo street, St. Paul, has become a subject for treatment at the Rochester hospital.

The hiding place of A. A. Buck, the alleged defaulting cashier of the Mapleton State bank, who, over a year ago, departed for parts unknown, has been made known to friends in Mankato through a letter announcing the death of his wife, Feb. 20, on the Isle of Pines, in the West Indies.

On a bid of $1,000,000 Winston Bros. company of Minneapolis has been awarded the contract for the grading and timber work on the new Thief River Falls extension of the Soo road. The new stretch of road will extend in a generally westward direction from Thief River Falls to Kenmare, a distance of 300 miles.

Fat policemen will not be tolerated in Minneapolis under the present administration. Big men whose bigness is in girth and rotundity of form are disqualified as applicants and even present members of the force whose physical condition tends toward corpulency have been notified that they must either train down or seek other employment.

James Moran of Superior was killed and three Duluth men sustained injuries of a minor character in the collapse of a section of an extension to the Duluth, Missabe and Northern ore dock at West Duluth which is in course of construction. The weight of a derrick and engine operating it was too much for the portion of the work upon which it rested.

BILIOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION CURED BY THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

Because the liver is neglected people suffer with constipation, biliousness, headaches and fevers. Colds attack the lungs and contagious diseases take hold of the system. It is safe to say that if the liver were always kept in proper working order, illness would be almost unknown.

Thedford's Black-Draught is so successful in curing such sickness because it is without a rival as a liver regulator. This great family medicine is not a strong and drastic drug, but a mild and healthful laxative that cures constipation and may be taken by a mere child without possible harm.

The healthful action on the liver cures biliousness. It has an invigorating effect on the kidneys. Because the liver and kidneys do not work regularly, the poisonous acids along with the waste from the bowels get back into the blood and virulent contagion results.

Timely treatment with Thedford's Black-Draught removes the dangers which lurk in constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and will positively forestall the inroads of Bright's disease, for which disease in advanced stages there is no cure. Ask your dealer for a 25c. package of Thedford's Black-Draught.

It is stated positively that Judge Montague, of Crookston, will be appointed as register of the U. S. Land office at Crookston to succeed Slyvester Paterson, whose term expired last month. The office carries with it a salary of $3000 per year and is being eagerly sought after by several parties in the valley.

By the Warroad Plaindealer we notice that Joseph McCaffery, well known and liked by the Red Lake Falls people, has announced himself as a candidate for the office of justice of the peace at the coming spring election in that town. Joe is a hustler and would make a first-class officer, and his many friends here will hope that he may win hands down.

Blackduck American: Sam E. Hunt, a prominent merchant of Red Lake Falls, while enroute home from a meeting of hardware dealers at Duluth, stopped off here yesterday to shake hands with old friends. While here he was entertained by Messrs. J. A. Bray and Chief of Police Brunelle. Mr. Hunt says that Red Lake Falls will have no trouble in retaining the county seat of their county.

The Rev. K. Bjorgo, the district president for the Minnesota District of the Norwegian Lutheran Synod of America, who resides at Red Wing, this state, will be here next Sunday and will deliver a sermon in the Norwegian church at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon. Rev. Bjorgo is a very able man and quite prominent in the Norwegian Lutheran Church of this land, and all who understand the Norwegian language are cordially invited to attend. The Rev. I. T. Aastad from Thief River Falls will preach in the evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The choral union held their regular meeting last evening at the Presbyterian church. The union is making rapid progress in music under the direction of Prof. Onstad, but the membership is not nearly so large as it should be. The opportunity offered for musical instruction is one of the greatest ever presented to any city and it seems decidedly strange that a great many more of the young people of the city do not avail themselves of the opportunity to secure this instruction. Prof. Onstad is devoting a great deal of time to making this a success and there is no reason why all of the music lovers of the city should not take part and secure this valuable training. Then it will be something the city will have reason to feel justly proud of during the coming year and parents should see that their sons and daughters will be greatly benefitted by joining and taking part in the good work being done.

LAMB FEEDING.

The Methods of a Successful Sheep Owner of Ohio as Given by Himself.

There is more than one way of feeding sheep or lambs successfully even in the same locality, and under similar conditions. Widely separated localities may admit of still greater variations in methods. In another article, we give some advice from Mr. Peter Jansen, whose experience has been gained under Nebraska conditions. Mr. J. E. Wing, whose feeding experience has been with Ohio conditions, in answering an inquiry in the Breeders' Gazette as to the best method of feeding lambs says:

"Our practice is the result of habit very largely. We have learned that certain practices make us money. We once did differently, feeding better lambs and in a more scientific way, possibly, and made less money. To begin with, we lay in an order with a reliable commission firm for our feeders early in the season. We say in effect: 'Get us the best and smallest lambs you can find for mighty little money.' Sometimes a month rolls around before we get them, but there comes a glut in the market some day and we get our lambs. We unload them and hurry them home before the neighbors see them. I had them once when they would jump out of the car doors (I did not run the cars down to the yards) and they were so light and starved that they would scarcely come to the ground and would not make a dent when their feet struck it. Those lambs made me ashamed at first, but they made us more money than any we had ever fed. A careless feeder or a man not fitted to nurse them would drop his wad right there.

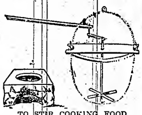
"When they are home we rest them in a shaded bluegrass pasture for two days. Then we dip them carefully. Then they go directly to their sheds and stay there until they go to market. No fall pasturing with western lambs for us. We begin feeding alfalfa hay. At first they eat a lot of it. We give them corn silage, too, with their alfalfa. You cannot make it pay to put corn into a weak, starved lamb.

"About Christmas we begin feeding a little ear corn. Gradually we feed more and more ear corn. Eventually they eat all the ear corn they can hold, very nearly. We never reach quite the full-feed point. We break the ears small at first. We shear in March or early in April. We never ship with the wool on. We make the lambs very ripe and fat and they top the Buffalo markets every time. That is habit, too. With this slow feeding we make them gain about from 50 to 85 or 90 pounds. It pays us because we put into them a comparatively small amount of grain and much rough feed cheaply produced on the farm."

STIRRING COOKED FOODS.

A Home-Made Device Which May Be Readily Made at But a Small Cost.

Where more or less food for stock is cooked, some handy way of stirring it ought to be devised. Of course, the old-fashioned ladle, or the great wooden spoon, is always available, but if the quantity is large, to use these instruments means aching arms and shoulders. A stirrer which will save much labor, says the Indianapolis News, is readily made in the following manner: Make a shaft of a strip of wood two inches thick and long enough so that it will extend three or four inches above the top of the kettle. At the bottom of this shaft make paddles by crossing two thin boards two or three inches wide.



TO STIR COOKING FOOD.

Fasten a crank to the top of the shaft, and to this crank fasten a pole, or not, as preferred. Then prepare a strip of board six or eight inches wide, bore a hole through the middle, through which to pass the shaft, match both ends to fit over the handle of the kettle and at one end fix a slide and a set screw to hold it in place. If the cooking of the food for stock is done away from the house, as it ought to be, one should build a fireplace of bricks and cement in which to set the kettle. The illustration shows both the fireplace, or pot, as suggested, and the plan for making the stirrer, and it will be seen that it is comparatively easy to arrange the device as suggested.

Mule Statistics.

There are 2,757,916 mules in the United States, valued at $217,532,832. Texas is the leading state in the mule industry, with 399,018, and Mississippi second, with 211,444, and Missouri third, with 202,888 mules. South Carolina is credited with 195,204. The United States leads in this great animal industry. The average value of mules is given at $78.88, against $67.93 for horses.—Exchange.

Fox Breeders Are Stockmen.

Fox breeders must now be considered stockmen, for whether the stock is wild or tame, the commercial idea is the same. Elijah Norton, Dover's fox breeder, recently shipped a pair of silver gray foxes to Mr. M. H. Bertrand, of Houghton, Mich. A red fox of Mr. Norton's breeding was also sent. Mr. Norton has sold several pairs of silver grays for $500 per pair.—Maine Farmer.

GOOD SHOWING MADE

Recent Teachers' Examinations Result Successfully and Some Excellent Standings Are Reported.

Superintendent H. T. McAnulty has been busy this week getting i shape the returns from the recent teachers' examination, and to a Gazette reporter expressed himself as greatly pleased with the outcome. The examinations for first grade certificates resulted in the greatest number of these certificates being granted than in any year in county history, five popular teachers succeeding in securing first grade certificates for a term of five years, as follows: Chas. Moller, Huldah Gigstad, Nannie Swanson, Theo. J. Krause and Joseph G. Weeks. Twelve complete second grade certificates were granted and a great many third grades. From the fact that a great many persons took the examinations merely for test purposes, the per centage of failures was of course quite large, but among the regular teachers the standings are entirely satisfactory.

Superintendent McAnulty is anxious that the teachers try for and secure first grade certificates, as the state law provides that districts having the necessary equipment, etc , and employing a first grade teacher for eight months in the year, will receive $125 state aid, and with the home teachers occupying these positions a great deal of state money will be brought into the county every year.

Mr. McAnulty is taking great interest in his work, and will do all in his power to make the schools of Red Lake county equal to those of any county in the state. He should have the co-operation of the people in his good work, which will mean much to all.

THEY GET COLD FEET

Thief River Falls Fails to Come to Center With Cash to Support Northern League Ball Team.

Several weeks ago the newspapers at Thief River Falls were filled with scare-head articles on how Thief River was to have one of the franchises in the Northern base ball league, and the reports went on to tell how in several other respects this wonderful burg rivlaed Chicago for honors. About that time a Gazette reporter was a caller at the up river city and when we gently ridiculed the idea that the league team would materialize we were scoffed at and told that the money was at hand to support the team.

At the meeting of the officers of the league a couple of weeks ago, several Thief River "sports" attended, and as there was a vacancy in the league Thief River was offered one of the franchises. But right here is where the attack of "cold feet" struck the bunch of braggarts and after giving them plenty of time to make good, the league officers were compelled to let the franchise to another town.

This is but another evidence of the fact the people of Thief River Falls are bluffers in every sense of the word, and ninety-nine per cent of their cry about their wonderful town can always be put down as merely paper talk. They are long on wind, but decidedly short on making good their bluffs, and at present are being made the laughing stock of the entire valley. Great town that—if you could believe all you hear.

Prominent Politician Dead.

L. H. Bailey, one of the leading attorneys and politicians of Bemidji died Sunday evening after a prolonged illness. Last Saturday morning five physicans performed an operation but discovering a cancerous growth in the stomach, coupled with appendicitis determined that there was no hope and the cancer was not touched. He was well known throughout the northern part of the state and much regret is felt over his demise.

LAYING THE STEEL

Final Work of Connecting Link Between Great Northern and Northern Pacific Railroads Is Under Way.

A crew of nearly a hundred laborers commenced Tuesday to lay the steel on the new connecting link between the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads in this city, and the line will be finished just as rapidly as possible.

Commencing yesterday a train load of gravel is being hauled in every day from Ives station for ballasting purposes and the ballasting crews will follow closely upon the heels of the track layers, so that when completed the new extension will be in excellnet shape for train service. The work of ballasting and track laying will occupy nearly a month and it is not thought that train service will be inaugurated over the extension before May 1.

The pile driver will again be put in operation as soon as the piling arrives and a hundred piles will be driven in the cut directly east of Second street. Nothing at all definite has been announced regarding the train service over this line, but a number of rumors are afloat as to the intentions of the railroad people. The latest talk, which apparently has considerable foundation in fact, is that a spur from Winnipeg Junction to Pelican Rapids will be built early this spring and that the Winnipeg flyer will be sent around on the N. P. through here to Euclid and thence to Winnipeg on the St. Vincent line. This would give the Great Northern a shorter line to Winnipeg, and on account of the keen competition of the Soo line this is a thing much sought.

Still another rumor is that the road will be extended to Warroad and a train service inaugurated from the Twin cities to the Canadian boundary over this line.

The company has been put to great expense in building the new cut-off, and there seems to be a general opinion that the large work has not been done for naught, and that something besides a local service will be established over the new road.

WARM AT ST. HILAIRE.

Spring Election Held With Fireworks Attachments at Up-River City.

The annual spring election at St. Hilaire Tuesday was one that made lots of excitement for the natives, and about the fastest political contest in the history of the county resulted.

Two tickets were in the field, representing two factions, and as a result there was something doing every minute after the polls opened until the end in the evening.

Editor Harry E. Ives was one of the candidates for mayor and Prof. J. B. O'Brien was named as his opponent by the fellows who don't like Ives and have been out after his scalp. Harry did not seek the honor, but after it came to him he went into the game to win, but the heavy odds he had to overcome made it a losing fight, O'Brien winning out, the vote standing Ives 74, O'Brien 80. The council elected, however, was the one which Ives headed, and while the head of the ticket was defeated, friend Ives and his supporters secured a majority of the council.

The ticket elected was as follows: President, J. B. O'Brien; supervisors, Carl Johnson, C. H. Martz, R. H. Duntley; recorder, K. O. Gigstad; treasurer, Leonard Holmes; constable, C. H. Remington; justice, A. Wilson.

Friend Ives has not toed the mark with the right spirit to suit a certain crowd at St. Hilaire, with the result that they have been determined to get his scalp at the first opportunity, and while they won out in this instance they will be shrewder than they are given credit for if they keep the genial Harry on the run for any length of time.

LAND GOING FAST.

Reservation Tracts Find A Constant Sale From Land Office.

Crookston Journal: Officials at the local land office during the last few weeks have disposed of an exceedingly large amount of the Red Lake public land left over from the two public sales held last summer and as a result at the present time there are but 500 parcels of the tracts available for public settlement and homestead purposes. Some 300 pieces of land have been disposed of from the office since the sales at the regulation price of $4 per acre with the attached homestead requirements. The remaining quarters are for the most part low, swampy and undesirable and it is probable that the greater number of them will be kept upon the land office records in the name of the United States for a great many years to come or until the ditching operations under discussion for the reclamation of the the low lands in the northern portions of the state are put into effect and the lands made fit for agricultural pursuits.

Homesteaders taking the land at the present time are very particular to secure choice selections because of the stringent rules of the department and the eagle eye of the "inspector" who sees to it that every homesteader is really and truly a bona fide dweller upon the land taken. The homesteader figures that he cannot live upon the land the length of time required and pay for the tract also if the soil is unfit for cultivation or worthy of the price which he has to pay, all told.

ELECTED OFFICERS.

Ticket Named For Plummer's First Set of Officials.

A caucus was held at Plummer one night last week, and officers named for Tuesday's election. No opposition developed, and the following were named: President of the council, J. M. Reed: trustees, Julius Pleth, J. E. Buskirk, H. H. Finrow; recorder, Chas, W. Latta, treasurer, Henry J. Enderle; justices, Chas. W. Latta, Erick Iverson; constables, Oscar Carlson, A. L. Peterson; assessor, J. A. Rothstein. After the above ticket was nominated it developed that Plummer is not as yet a separate assessment district from the town of Emardville. In order to set it aside a special election will have to be called and have the question voted upon by the people of Plummer. This will be done as quickly as possible after the election and qualification of the village officers.

Could Have Been Worse.

The warm weather we had for a couple of weeks had a bad effect on some people. Down in the central part of the state several people saw robins, at Red Lake Falls Sam Haislet, of the Gazette, saw a snake, and here at home I. Dahlen saw a flock of ducks. All these signs of an early spring are, however, lacking this week.—St. Hilaire Spectator.

Now, Harry, we think you are real mean to cast insinuations just because we were bragging about the balmy weather the Valley people have enjoyed. And then, your comparisons ain't just right. If Mr. Dahlen had seen one duck and The Gazette scribe a flock of snakes you might have had reasons to infer that the Thief River Falls gang had visited this office with their removal petition, with its accompanying "inducements," but seeing only one snake clears us of having had anything to do with their particular brand.

Better Still.

It is being hinted in some quarters that Red Lake county may get a bran new court house for nothing before the county seat question is settled.—St. Hilaire Spectator.

The settlers on the new reservation lands can be reached better by some practical good road work, than by court house and jail promises, as both cities seem to have a suitable building for a Court house, while a bridge or two across the Clearwater river, would touch the reservation voters heart in about the right spot.—Gully Sunbeam.

NO LONGER ANY DOUBT.

Great Northern Will Extend Road to Warroad.

Warroad Plaindealer: The Plaindealer is in possession of information to the effect that the Thief River Falls branch of the Great Northern will be continued to Warroad during the summer of 1905. There appears to be no chance for failure in the present report, and the Plaindealer believes that the Great Northern will run its own trains into Warroad over its own track before another six months. The building of a road from the south into this section will give a new impetus and new life to every industry and business in this part of the state, as well as add to the number already established. It will open to immediate settlement a good deal of fine land that has been left by the homesteader solely because of its being remote from town and off the line of communication. It will add 1,000 to the population of Warroad before the steel can be laid into the town, and will give to our farmers greater encouragement and incentive to develop and improve their farms.

For The Farmer.

While time is worth the least repairing should be done the most.

Do not allow the brood animals to get too fat nor constipated these days.

Potatoes breed after their own kind [illegible] other plants, therefore have an eye [illegible] seed.

If farmers knew how they are envied by many city men they would think their own lot enviable.

[illegible] grow some flowers, at [illegible] the [illegible] helpfulness of [illegible] every home.

It is not alone what we feed our domestic animals but how we feed, whether in comfort or discomfort, whether regularly or otherwise.

Another reason for wheat land getting "run out" is that the wheat plant can use only certain kinds of plant food, and there being nothing returned to the soil, the supply of those foods becomes exhausted and a great deal sooner than if a variety of crops had been grown, as each crop to some extent, uses different kinds of plant food. In the case of clover some of that plant food which the wheat requires would be added to the soil for the next crop of wheat. If the same land that has been losing so much nitrogen by being kept under the plow continuously were seeded to timothy, this oxidation would cease and the supply of nitrogen would begin to increase. Nitrogen is one of the most valuable plant foods and one which usually has to be replaced first.

TO VISIT WOOD COUNTRY.

Northern Minnesota Editor Association Plan Pleasant Outing.

It has been informally decided by the officers of the Northwestern Editorial association, that the annual outing of the association the coming summer will be spent in making a tour of Lake of the Woods and Rainy River. The company will be entertained at Winnipeg by the Manitoba Editorial association, and will come from that city to Warroad, where the tour of the lake will begin. Koochiching will be visited, where the scribes will have an opportunity to see the great falls as nature made them, before the construction of the power plant to begin this season shall have marred their natural beauty says the Warroad Plaindealer.

The details of the trip are not yet arranged, but it is definitely decided that it shall in general be as above.

The credit for securing the visit of the association to this part of the state is due to Editor C W. Stanton of the Koochiching Press, who is an old newspaper man and member of the association. Mr. Stanton has been on many a junket with the editors, and was able to convince them that a visit to the northern boundary waters of Minnesota would be the most enjoyable as well as the most instructive, of any that its officers might plan.

Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. MANY WATER POWERS.

Engineer George Ralph Says Red Lake River Is Full of Them.

Crookston Journal: In the Red Lake river between this city and Red Lake Falls lies dormant a total horse power of water power of 10.000 units, according to the ideas of State Ditch Engineer Ralph of this city. Mr. Ralph, who is a hydraulic expert of unusual talent says the cost of building and equipping six power stations between Red Lake Falls and this city would be a mere bagatele compared with the power that would be derived from the undertaking. The river has a fall of over one hundred feet in the twenty-two miles journey across prairie and at various places traverses tracts of deep gullies which would make ideal sites for dams if properly manipulated. "All of the light and power needed in Crookston for all time to come may be arranged for by the erection of power stations along the Red Lake river" said Mr. Ralph yesterday "and the cost of producing the current will be far less than it is in some of the largest power plants in the world." The Red Lake river in years to come will solve the power question as far as Crookston and the valley is concerned and will be the means of bringing into this city and territory a vast amount of manufacturing industry which is at the present time barred because of the excessive cost of power. "10,000 horse power will do a great deal in a manufacturing line and would mean much to the city of Crookston if brought here by cable lines and employed exclusively in running plants and factories. The Red River street railway system which was in the air a year ago might also be propelled with the current taken from the river water power".

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. NEWS IN MINNESOTA

EVENTS OF A WEEK THROUGHOUT THE STATE.

William R. Burkhard, a pioneer St. Paul business man, is dead.

William C. Smith, brother of Mayor Smith of St. Paul, has been elected assessor of Ramsay county.

There were 181 deaths in St. Paul in February, the largest number in any one month in recent years.

John Milligan, seventeen years old, fell into a freight elevator shaft at Duluth and died an hour later.

Mrs. Charles Trampe, a widow about forty years of age, was killed at Swanville by being thrown from a wagon.

E. G. Porter died of burns received in an explosion while starting a fire in the kitchen stove in his home at Owatonna.

George H. Love, one of the proprietors of the Ryan hotel, St. Paul, is dead following an operation for appendicitis.

Laurie P. Ojala, the seven-year-old son of James Ojala, a tailor of Minneapolis, was drowned in Bassetts creek in that city.

Benton H. Langley, the first agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad in Minnesota, is dead at San Francisco.

The Red Wing city council has passed a resolution to build a city hall, fire station and city jail at a price not to exceed $25,000.

John W. Riddle of St. Paul has been promoted from the consul generalship at Cairo, Egypt, to be minister at the new post of Roumania and Servia.

The retail implement dealers of the state met in Minneapolis and formed a permanent organization. C. D. Grinols of St. Cloud was elected president.

T. Hattori and A. Hattori of Yokohama, Japan, are in Winona purchasing choice young cattle to be shipped to Japan to improve dairy interests there.

Germans of the Twin Cities propose to commemorate the one hundredth anniversary of the death of Frederick Schiller, the great German poet, on May 9.

Dr. Hugh Russell, aged seventy-nine years, a veteran of the Civil war and one of the leading physicians at the Head of the Lakes, died suddenly from heart disease at Duluth.

Fire partially destroyed the Sumner school at Minneapolis one afternoon last week. The 900 children marched out safely, believing they were being put through the fire drill.

William T. Horsnell, a St. Paul real estate dealer, has been held to the federal grand jury on a charge of having conspired to defraud the United States out of public lands.

The village of Campbell, twenty miles southwest of Fergus Falls, has been almost annihilated by fire. Three saloons, one restaurant, a grocery and three icehouses were burned.

John Pehle, thirty-five years old, a St. Paul saloonkeeper, cut his throat in an attack of delirium tremens and died half an hour later. Pehle had been drinking heavily for several days.

Sixteen thousand four hundred and twenty-five immigrants came to Minnesota during the fiscal year of the United States immigration service which ended June 30, 1904. This is 2 per cent of the total immigration to the United States.

The dead body of Roy Christman, twenty years old, was discovered in the Great Northern elevator No. 1 at Minneapolis. It was found at the bottom of the stairs which he was sweeping at the time and death is believed to have resulted from suffocation.

The thirty-ninth annual encampment of the state G. A. R. was held at St. Paul last week. C. F. Macdonald of St. Cloud was elected state department commander; J. O. Pierce, Minneapolis, senior vice commander, and E. F. Barrett, Le Sueur, junior vice commander.

An eastbound train on the Great Northern railroad killed three persons at a crossing at Foley. The dead are Mr. and Mrs. Penish and Thomas Danick, all of the town of Duelum. The heads of both men were severed from their bodies and the body of Mrs. Penish was cut in two by the wheels of the engine.

A wholesale robbery scheme, it is alleged, has been unearthed among the employes of the T. M. Robert Supply company of Minneapolis. Samuel L. Ingram, manager of the concern, said that the value of the goods that have been purloined by the employes during the last few months will amount to thousands of dollars.

While a number of children were going home from school at Long Prairie a huge eagle swooped down upon them in the street, seized a little girl five years old and attempted to carry her away. When several feet from the ground a number of boys rushed to the girl's assistance and rescued her from the talons of the big bird.

John R. Gile, one of the earliest settlers of Winona county, is dead at his home in Winona, aged seventy-six years. Mr. Gile was born in Steuben county, N. Y., in 1820 and removed to Winona county with his parents in 1853. He was prominent in the early history of the county and for a time was the proprietor of the old Winona Democrat.

Two Harbors is shown in the annual mortality table for 1904 issued by the state board of health to have had the fewest deaths of any place in Minnesota during the year. That city had eight deaths in a population of 3,278. Montevideo came next with a total of eleven deaths and a population of 2,146. There were 17,160 deaths in the state during the year, as against 17,178 in 1903.

CUT TO PIECES

MAJOR PORTION OF KUROPATKIN'S ONCE GREAT ARMY PUT OUT OF ACTION.

SURVIVORS REACHING TIE PASS WITH JAPANESE FORCES IN HOT PURSUIT.

ARMIES OF GENERALS KAULBARS AND RENNENKAMPFF NOT ACCOUNTED FOR.

WAR SITUATION SUMMARIZED.

The Russian general staff reports that "the main body has already completed its retreat and the rearguard southward are falling back slowly." What either the "main body" or the "rear guard" consists of has not been definitely fixed, but from the dispatches from the Associated Press correspondents with the Japanese and Russians, the two combined must be but a small portion of the army which General Kuropatkin had gathered along the bank of the Shakhe and Hun rivers. And yet those who have reached Tie pass, worn out from days of fighting and retreating, are not out of danger, the Japanese, it is reported, having already started another turning movement which will force the Russians on to the plains north of Tie pass, where in their disorganized state they would be easy prey for the victory-flushed soldiers of the mikado. The men who escaped are strengthening the fortifications in Tie pass, but it is hardly possible that the pass can be held in the face of the overwhelming forces opposed to the Russians and it is not likely that Oyama will rest satisfied with his victory at Mukden as he did after Liaoyang.

There will be no uneasiness as to the food supply as long as communications are maintained to the northward, as large bands of cattle roam the plains under Cossack herders and every station on the railway is a huge commissariat department. The Russian soldier is always well fed, the soup kitchens on wheels always keeping in touch with the men.

More Than Half His Army Gone.

As to the losses, General Kuropatkin now admits that 50,000 wounded were carried off the field. This, with the 26,500 dead left on the field, the 40,000 prisoners and the wounded left in the hospitals, comes somewhat nearer the latest Japanese estimate that the total Russian losses were 155,000. At this rate Kuropatkin cannot have more than 100,000 effective fighting men with him. The army of General Linevitch seems to have made the best retreat, but this no doubt was due to the stubborn fight made by General Rennenkampff on his extreme left, and the equally fierce resistance of General Kaulbars on the right, the latter general losing 26,000 men.

Neither the army of Kaulbars nor Rennenkampff has yet been accounted for by the dispatches. After his defeat around the Western tombs, Kaulbars, finding his retreat directly northward cut off, made a detour to the eastward, where he was still fighting at last accounts. Rennenkampff must also still be in the hills to the eastward. The Japanese report the capture of 24 more guns, 65 in all, a rather small number considering the decisive defeat and the number of men captured. The Japanese losses have been remarkably light in view of the length and severity of the fighting.

The Associated Press correspondent with General Kuroki's army tells how the battle of Mukden was won. The Russian general was deceived as to where the blow was to be struck, and after massing his forces on the Japanese right found, when too late, that his right was the objective of the Japanese.

In all the speculation as to peace, the one point that is coming to the front is that Russia would prefer to settle directly with Japan without the aid of any third nation.

LOSS IS VERY HEAVY

MORE THAN A THIRD OF RUSSIAN ARMY KILLED, WOUNDED OR CAPTURED.

Tokio, March 13.—The overwhelming character of the Japanese victory is now unfolding itself. The total Russian losses number 150,000 and the battle is still raging. One fact, almost unprecedented in warfare, is that the Japanese have captured a vast amount of bullion, and this in itself indicates that the confusion is so great that the Russians are now trying only to save themselves.

Washington, March 13.—Minister Griscom has cabled the state department from Tokio as follows:

"Official report states Japanese army captured 20,000 prisoners on the 11th."

Another official report reads:

"Russian losses over 155,000; 40,000 prisoners; 26,500 dead on the field and about 90,000 other casualties."

VERDICT OF GUILTY

MRS. CASSIE L. CHADWICK CONVICTED IN FEDERAL COURT AT CLEVELAND.

Conspired to Defraud the United States by Procuring the Certification of Checks on a National Bank in Which She Had No Funds—Jury Returns Verdict of Conviction in Seven of the Sixteen Counts.

Cleveland, March 11.—Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick tonight was found guilty of conspiring to defraud the United States by conspiring to procure the certification of checks on a national bank when there were no funds in the bank to her credit.

She was found guilty on all seven counts on which the jury was at liberty to judge her.

The original indictment contained sixteen counts. Two of these counts were ruled out during the trial by Judge Tayler and of the remaining fourteen one-half charged her with securing the certification of checks without having the proper entries made on the books of the bank. Judge Tayler in his charge directed the jury to disregard these counts and consider only the remaining seven, which related to the certification with no funds on deposit.

Under the law she can be fined on each count not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than two years on each count.

J. P. Dawley, her senior counsel, said the verdict was not according to the terms of the indictment and the case would be taken to the court of appeals at Cincinnati as soon as possible.

WITH DEADLY EFFECT

DENVER TEAMSTER USES RIFLE ON SUPPOSED ENEMIES AND ON POLICE OFFICERS.

Denver, March 13.—Three persons dead, one missing, four others in a critical condition and one house in ashes sums up briefly the result of a fierce combat during the day in which George Schistler, a teamster, played the leading part. Maddened because of his defeat in a law suit, which Kent Fill, the man whom he pronounced his bitterest enemy, had been victorious and swearing vengeance against him and his family, Schistler armed himself with a rifle and started out to do murder. As a result Mr. and Mrs. Fill and George Schistlar are dead, a child of the Fills is missing (believed to have been burned to death). Dr. Frank Dulin, police surgeon, Captain William Bohanna, acting chief of police, and Mike Kelly, policeman, are seriously wounded; and the wife of Schistler is prostrated over the affair and may die from the shock.

SCORE PERISH IN FIRE

TENEMENT HOUSE IN NEW YORK CITY SCENE OF HEARTRENDING DISASTER.

New York, March 14.—At least a score of persons were burned to death, several were so badly hurt that they may die and forty others received slighter hurts in a fire that practically destroyed a five-story tenement house in Allen street early in the day. The fire had gained great headway before it became known to most of the tenants and many of them were cut off before they could make an attempt to save themselves. Thrilling rescues and daring leaps for life marked the fire. Scores were carried from the blazing building. Firemen climbed the walls on their scaling ladders, braved the flames and reached the imperiled tenants.

ADVERSE TO WILLIAM J. BRYAN.

Decision of Connecticut Court in Bennett Will Case.

Hartford, Conn., March 10.—In a decision handed down by the supreme court the superior court is upheld in declaring that the sealed letter in the Philo S. Bennett will containing a bequest of $50,000 to William J. Bryan is not a part of the Bennett will. The case went up on Bryan's appeal from the superior court decision.

SEVEN MINERS KILLED.

Hurled to Bottom of Shaft by Breaking of Rope on Hoisting Carriage.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 10.—While seven men were being hoisted in the carriage in the Clear Springs colliery at West Pitson the rope broke and the men were hurled to the bottom, a distance of 250 feet. All were killed.

Prisoner Shot Dead.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 13.—Sixteen prisoners made a desparate dash for liberty from the county jail at the breakfast hour. One of them, Silas Love, was shot dead and another, Dick Mastings, escaped.

Red Lake Falls Gazette

L. A. DAUTREMONT, PROPRIETOR
SAM S. HAISLET, EDITOR AND MANAGER

Published weekly, Thursday evening, entered as second-class matter in the post office at Red Lake Falls.

Official Paper of Red Lake County.

Official Paper of Red Lake Falls.

Subscription, $1.00 per Year

The Red Lake Falls council elects an alderman this evening. Hadn't you betterwire "one Henry W. Lee" and ask his permission first, gentlemen?

Mr. Sweaas says that every warrant listed in the financial statement was in the name of some Red Lake Falls man. So! Well, every criminal action brought in the county in the same time was against a Thief Riverite so it is a stand-off. Yes.

"One Henry W. Lee" has started a kickers' column in the Thief River News. Lee would kick if he was up to be hung—and the people of the county are secretly wishing he could be given a chance to kick under these conditions.

Editor C. F. McDonald, of the St. Cloud Times, was made commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic for the state of Minnesota at the session of that body in St. Paul last week. This is apparently "newspaper mens" year, as practically all the state appointments and election to heads of the various societies have been captured by the wielders of the pen. So may it be, and it is a foregone conclusion that the honors have not been misplaced.

Editor A. L. Lafreniere, of the Northome Record has purchased and assumed control of the Itasca County Independent, at Grand Rapids, and will devote his time to that paper in the future. Mr. Lafreniere is one of the brightest young newspaper boys in the state, and has many friends among the fraternity who feel that the people of Grand Rapids are to be congratulated on securing him as a citizen and newspaper man.

A bill has been introduced in the legislature to legalize expenses incurred by village councils for free musical entertainments. A good bill, push it along. A village council ought to encourage band concerts by liberal appropriations each year. There is nothing that the people of a community so much appreciate as open air concerts and village bands should be given every encouragement in this line possible, wisely remarks the Princeton Union.

The Thief River News says that The Gazette will soon be supporting Thief River Falls in the county seat war. The bunch at Thief River Falls are actually beginning to believe that blind pig whiskey will accomplish their every desire, and as a result the sightless porkers are waxing fat on the proceeds of the bunch up there. No, no, John, we can't look at you until you produce the genuine article. Blind pigs never did have any great attraction for us.

It is stated on the best of authority that a saloon in Plummer sold $30 worth of whiskey in jugs to some of the Thief Riverites who were circulating their removal petition out east one day a week or so ago, and yet the up-river bunch gets sore and hollers "silly", etc., when they are accused of attempting to buy votes with booze. To the credit of the people in the towns out east can be said that they gave them the cold shoulder and refused their "liberal" offers, with the result that the booze must have been taken back to Thief River Falls and fed to John Eastman and H. W. Lee, which no doubts accounts for the charges of graft and the "kicker's columns" which have been appearing in the News of the past few weeks.

And now "one A. A. Sweaas" breaks into print at Thief River Falls, and the unsuspecting public is due to receive further affliction. Just a few short years back this same Sweaas was one of the prime movers in the much talked of "Municipal Reform League" at Thief River Falls whose members spread broadcast to the world charges that the affairs of the up-river city were conducted along the lines of graft to the greatest degree, and advised all sorts of punishment to the treasury pilferers up the line. Now he has had a change of heart, and it is Red Lake Falls that is rotten. Just what to attribute the sudden change in Mr. Sweaas' policies to is a problem but they do say that blind pig whiskey will do pretty nearly anything under certain conditions.

The proposition to take Beltrami county from the Ninth congressional district and attach it to the sixth district is being pretty generally discussed, over in Beltrami county, and it is being viewed with favor by a number who are strong and influential in political and business circles. It is argued that the topography and the natural resources and conditions of things in Beltrami county are not identical with the majority of the other counties of the ninth district, and that greater advantages from the standpoint of national legislation would accrue through identification with the commercial and industrial interests of the sixth district. It is an issue for careful consideration, and it is more than probable that the matter will come up for disposition the present session. From a casual understanding, it would appear that Beltrami county would be the gainer by redistricting and attaching to the sixth, says the Cass Lake Times.

The following sound logic is from the Princeton Union, Bob Dunn's bright paper. The people of Minnesota are often reminded of the unjust error they committed last November, when they turned down this friend of the common people to satisfy a gang of character defamers. With Robert C. Dunn, of Princeton, in the governor's chair the common people of Minnesota would have received the greatest good and most consideration ever given by an executive of the state, but he wasn't a "silk stocking" and that is the gang that has been running the Republican party for a good many years past. The Union says: "If the State can manufacture binding twine at a profit and at the same time save the farmers thousands of dollars annually, and it does, there is no good reason why the State can not utilize its convict labor in the manufacture of farming machinery—binders, mowers, rakes, etc. This matter is worthy of consideration by the legislature although it has not been brought to the attention of the members by Governor Johnson. The gigantic trust that controls the manufacture of farming machinery is costing the agriculturists of Minnesota hundreds of thousands of dollars every year."

"One Henry W. Lee" promises to devote his column in the Thief River News to the Gazette editor in the near future, and as a result we have already begun packing up preparatory to leaving the country before this wonderful genius gets his guns trained on our youthful head. If the coinage act of the U. S. government would allow it we might escape his roasting, but as they coin no fractional part of a one cent piece, and we were always averse to over-paying for anything, we see no way of buying this great moralist off. Come on, Henry, but if you don't come nearer the truth than you did in your great tax letter last week you will probably find your brainy epistle proven a boomerang.

Editor Eastman says that Thief River Falls drew first blood in a fight at Plummer recently, and infers that Thief River Falls would come out on top in fistic encounters over the county seat question. John's informant is evidently away off, but if John really wants to start the game with a series of fistic bouts the Gazette is informed that one W. J. Kelley stands ready to take up the Red Lake Falls side in a contest with the News editor. It is gently rumored that this Kelley drew "first blood" on friend John once before, and it is likely if such is the case that John couldn't be induced to back up his assertions on the mat. What about it, John, do you want to engage in such a contest?

MONEY WORSHIP.

In an address at Grand Forks before a large audience in the Broadway tabernacle, Dr. Arthur T. Hadley, president of Yale, has pointed out the dangers of "money worship" and a laxity in public conscience.

"It is only within the last 50 years," he said "that we have really begun to feel the consequences of the appeal to private judgment as a standard of right and of the toleration of individual liberty in thought as well as in action.

"Freedom is a good thing, toleration is a good thing; but when freedom and toleration are carried so far that a man withdraws within himself with the worn-out excuse 'Am I my brother's keeper?' his own efforts at personal salvation, however well meant, are brought to naught.

"Amid the daily contact of men, habits of thought, standards of value, subtle influences in the estimate of right and wrong pass from man to man quietly and unconsciously. By this subtle contact a sort of public conscience is created. The difficulty of keeping our standards of business and of politics pure today is, I think, greater than it has been in any previous generation. The task of convincing people in a democracy that liberty bring duties as well as rights is harder than the corresponding task under an aristocracy.

"Our industrial machinery and our political machinery are both excellent in their way, but no industrial or political machinery, however good, can take the place of public spirit and self devotion.

Here is the great vital need for the church:

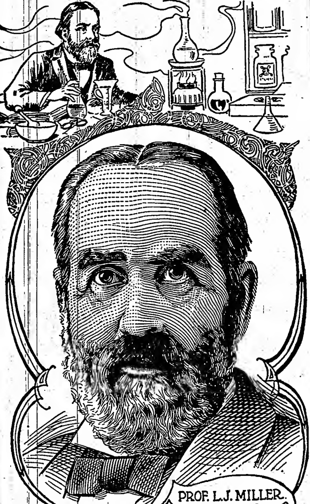
"Not to make the American people law-abiding and intelligent; that it is already; not even to make it kindly and courteous and industrious; these virtues we have, if not in ideal measure, at any rate, sufficiently for the practical purpose of life; but to fight with all its heart and with all its soul that that dangerous spirit of selfish isolation which encourages man to take whatever the law allows and most approves the man who has taken most.

"There must be a sense that power is a trust and not a privilege that life is to be valued not for what it enables us to get out of people, but what it enables us to give people in the way of service."

CHEMICAL ANALYSIS

Reveals That "Pe-ru-na is Calculated to Tone up the System, Restore the Functions and Procure Health."

SO SAYS PROF. L. J. MILLER, CHEMIST.



PROF. L.J. MILLER.

Prof. L. J. Miller, late Professor of Chemistry and Botany of the High School of Ypsilanti, Mich., writes from 3327 N. Clark Street, Chicago, Ill., as follows:

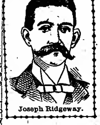
"As several of my friends have spoken to me of the favorable results obtained through the use of Peruna, especially in cases of catarrh, I examined it most thoroughly to learn its contents.

"I found it composed of extracts of herbs and barks of most valuable medicinal qualities combined with other ingredients, delicately balanced, calculated to tone up the system, restore the functions and procure health.

"I consider Peruna one of the most skillfully and scientifically prepared medicines, which the public can use with safety and success."---PROF. L. J. MILLER.

"Builds up the System."

Hon. Joseph H. Ridgeway, Secretary of the American Anti-Treat Society, writes the following letter from the Grand Central Hotel, St. Paul, Minn.:



Joseph Ridgeway.

"It is with great pleasure that I endorse Peruna as an honest medicine, competent to do all it claims. I have used it several times and know of nothing that cures so completely, and at the same time builds up the system.

"I have recommended it to a number of my friends and always feel that I do them a service for I know how satisfactory the results invariably are. I only wish every family had a bottle—it would save much sickness and doctor bills."—Joseph H. Ridgeway.

"Feel Better Than for Five Years."

Mr. James B. Taylor, Roberts, Ind., writes:

"I am at the present time entirely well. I can eat anything I ever could. I took five bottles of Peruna, and feel better now than I have for five years. I have doctored with other doctors off and on for fifteen years, so I can recommend your medicine very highly for stomach troubles. I take great pleasure in thanking you for your free advice and Peruna."—James B. Taylor.

"I Enjoy my Meals as I Used to."

Mr. J. W. Pritchard, Wolf Lake, Ind., writes:

"I am pleased to say that I have been cured of catarrh of the stomach by Peruna. I could hardly eat anything that agreed with me. Before I would get half through my meal my stomach would fill with gas causing me much distress and unpleasant feelings for an hour or two after each meal. But, thanks to your Peruna, I am now completely cured, and can eat anything I want to without any of the distressing symptoms. I can now enjoy my meals as I used to do, and it is all due to Dr. Hartman and his wonderful medicine, Peruna.

"It has been one year since I was cured, and I am all O. K. yet, so I know I am cured."—J. W. Pritchard.

Dyspepsia is a very common phase of summer catarrh. A remedy that will cure catarrh of one location will cure it anywhere. Peruna cures catarrh wherever located. That it is a prompt and permanent cure for catarrh of the stomach the above letters testify.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

For Liquozone, Yet We Give You a 50c. Bottle Free.

We paid $100,000 for the American rights to Liquozone; the highest price ever paid for similar rights on any scientific discovery. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, in this country and others. We cured all kinds of germ diseases with it—thousands of the most difficult cases obtainable. We proved that in germ troubles it always accomplishes what medicine cannot do. Now we ask you to try it—try it at our expense. Test it as we did; see what it does. Then you will use it always, as we do, and as millions of others do. You will use it, not only to get well, but to keep well. And it will save nearly all of your sickness.

Kills Inside Germs.

Liquozone is not made by compounding drugs, nor is there alcohol in it. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. This process has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research.

The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease. It is this fact that gives Liquozone its worth to humanity. And that worth is so great that we have spent over one million dollars to supply the first bottle free to each sick one we learned of.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

IN THE LOCAL FIELD.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Cadieux of Terrebonne on Thursday, a daughter.

P. K. Olson was in from Plummer the first of the week and spent a couple of days with his family and many friends here.

Henry Cote, of Poplar River township, was a business caller here Monday and visited a few hours at the home of his father-in-law, Chas. Cyr

Henry Cyr and wife, of Poplar River township, spent several days of the past week in the city, at the home of Charles Cyr and family and Andrew Lemieux and family.

Mrs. J. P. Harren has been quite sick this week with a mild attack of nervous prostration, but is reported as resting easier today. Her many friends will trust that her illness will be but temporary.

Red Lake Falls society circles boast a new club—the Bon Ami's, which was organized and held their first meeting with Miss Jessie Carver last Friday evening. The club has a charter membership of ten, and promises to occupy an important place in the club circles of the city.

The contracting firm of Guthrie & Co. have been called upon to put up a large amount of cash this week to pay for broken windows on Main street. The dynamiting in the cut directly back of Second street has resulted in smashing several large windows, but the company promptly made settlement for all damage done.

St. Hilaire Spectator: A deal was completed and the invoicing is now in progress whereby Otterness & Edsrom will transfer today their stock of hardware and furniture to Holmes Bros. The new firm is composed of Leonard and Theodore Holmes and hardly need an introduction to the people of St. Hilaire and vicinity as Leonard Holmes has been a resident of St. Hilaire for the past fifteen years. Their wide acquaintance, well known business ability and strict integrity will insure for them a fair share of the business and a prosperous future.

L. P. Berthon, the genial senior member of the clothing firm of Berthon & Armstrong, returned this morning from his extended visit in the southern states, looking as hale and hearty as a polar bear, and feeling the part. He was met at the N. P. train by the band and a carriage and escorted to his home with popular march music and the cheers and well wishes of the populace. The demonstration was a big one, but none too elaborate for this popular "father" of the Red Lake Falls band and the spirit of the band boys in giving him a rousing welcome was heartily seconded by the entire populace. We're all glad to have him with us again, and have just reason to be.

F. A. Grady was a visitor up the line last Saturday.

The Merry Crew met at the home of Miss Florence Dautremont Monday evening.

Men who are careful of purse and and style will find the Lampher hat to be all what we claim of it. Garceau & Zaiser.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Allard have both been confined to their beds this week, quite sick, but are reported as improving at present.

Remarkable but meritful isn't it how style and workmanship has mada a friend of every woman who has worn the Queen Quality shoe? Price $3.00. Garceau & Zaiser.

The choral union held their regular meeting last evening. Several new members were added, and other business transacted looking to the advancement of the organization.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Sivigny have arrangements completed to leave Monday of this week for their new home in Washington state, where they will spend a few years, at least, looking over that famous country.

Berthon & Armstrong have an advance announcement in regard to their big line of spring and summer goods this week, and will probably give the people a more definate idea of these immense lines in next week's Gazette. Watch the smoke from this popular institution during the coming spring, and see if it don't mean dollars to you.

Plummer Pioneer: The building season opened early this year and Plummer's progressive property owners are among the first to take advantage of it. The sounds of the hammer and saw have filled the air for the past couple of weeks, and in a very short time several new buildings will be ready for occupancy. The buildings now in process of erection and their owners are: W. G. Brown, dwelling; A. Airick, dwelling; Louis Sieff, dwelling; Ogard Bros., machine warehouse; O. Skavhaug, store and public hall; Julius Pleth, private barn.

Notice has been sent to the Swedish legation in Washington that hereafter all Swedes who marry in any foreign country must get permission from their diplomatic representative if they wish their marriage to be legally recognized in Sweden. The action is due to the fact that many Swedes have been going to nearby countries where it was easy to get divorces, and marrying again, somtimes under the conditions that would not be allowed in Sweden. When a Swede living in the United States wishes to be married and return to his native land, he must apply for permission to the minister in Washington, who, if everything is in accordance with the laws of Sweden, will issue a certificate to that effect. This certificate must be produced when the couple return to Sweden.

Dr. C. G. Mugg, the Grand Forks optician, has been at the Grand View hotel several days this week.

A social dance was held at the K. of P. hall last Friday evening, a large crowd of people attending and a good time resulting.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Harren went over to Grand Forks Friday and visited until Monday with friends and relatives in that city.

Ladies negligee shirts are being introduced at the Busy store. They are the newest in ladies waists and are shown in mohair, mercerized and basket weaves.

County Treasurer Hanson is busy these days on the March settlement of taxes and expects to have it out within a short time now. Tax collections were large this year, and the several funds will receive a substantial donation when the apportionment is made.

Herman Harren left yesterday for Bisbee, North Dakota, where he went to look over the field with the intention of establishing a boot and shoe store if he finds things satisfactory. Herman is a first class boy, and has many friends here who will wish him success.

It is learned here that Miss Elizabeth Colton, formerly a teacher in the city schools here, will be married within a faw months to Prof. Maloney, a popular educator at Virginia, this state. Miss Colton has been teaching at Virginia since leaving this city, and the announcement of her approaching marriage will be received with pleasure by her many Red Lake Falls friends.

Thief River News: The Soo now carries mail, and it has made a complete change in affairs at the post office in the city. The morning mail is delivered at the post office at 7 o'clock in the morning and is all distributed when the office is opened at 8. The office is opened in the evening now until 9 o'clock and letters for the Twin cities can be mailed as late as that and will arrive at their destination that next morning. A Sunday mail is also received.

Henry Kaufer went down to Henning Monday evening and spent several days attending to business matters, returning home this morning. During his absence a rumor was started to the effect that friend Henry had started out on a tour of the state in the interests of the Socialist Labor party, but Henry avows that there was nothing in it but a joke, and says that he doesn't expect to take to the stump for some time to come.

Robert Bourdon arrived home Saturday from Thief River Falls, having spent the winter with the surveying party that has been picking out the new west line. Bob reports that the new country to be tapped by this line will be an exceedingly rich one, and thinks that some fine new towns will spring up along its route. Their road of surveying is finished for the present, but Mr. Bourdon expects to be employed by the Soo again before a great while.

St. Hilaire Spectator: Jens Nelson received word last Sunday that his sister Miss Ida Nelson was very sick at Rochester and not expected. He left on the Soo the same evening and on Tuesday wired that she had died that day. Miss Nelson was well known here and held in high esteem by her friends. Her sudden death was the result of an operation which was recently performed. Mrs. Jens Nelson left on Wednesday for Evansville, where the funeral will take place.

St. Hilaire Spectator: The special school election held last Saturday evening for the purpose of electing members of the school board of Independent district number 102 was somewhat more spirited than the preceding election held two weeks ago. There were two tickets in the field, some names appearing on both as the results will show. Of the fifty-one ballots cast K. O. Gigstad received the full count, E. M. Hoff and H. O. Jackson received forty-nine each, D. Patterson and A. S. Wilson received thirty-five each, B. E. Burkee received thirty eight, C. H. Martz fifteen, J. C. Dahl thirteen and A. R. Jones twelve.

Martin Lally, one of the pioneer residents of Crookston, is dead. Deceased was about 65 years of age, and for years was a resident of Crookston, residing in the Chas. Hitchcock residence on Houston avenue. For years he was the superintendent of the Walker saw mill in South Crookston, and remained as superintendent for one year after the Crookston Lumber company came into possession of the property. Following that he moved to his farm near Gentilly, where he resided till he was appointed as a member of the board of appeals of the state grain commission a year ago last fall, which position he has held ever since. Deceased was the father-in-law of County Attornay James Maybury, of Polk county, and was well known throughout the entire valley.

The Crookston college has an ad in today's paper. Look it up.

I. D. Converse was a caller at St. Hilaire, Thief River Falls and Plummer the latter part of last week.

Mrs. Joseph Bailey will entertain the St. Mary's society at her home next Thursday afternoon, March 23. All are invited.

Thomas Doughty, a prominent banker and citizen, of Armstrong, Ia., arrived here last Friday and visited until Monday evening with his old-time friends, Messrs. Gaass, Wilkinson and Chase. Mr. Doughty enjoyed his visit here immensely, and promised to make another call in the near future.

J. E. Bray left Saturday morning for Calary, N. W. T., where he will visit a week or ten days with a brother whom he has not seen for a great many years. His brother has been writing him of the great opportunities offered in that country and it is among the possibilities that Ed will locate there before many months.

For Rent—The old Bischoff farm of 150 acres, with buildings, facing 7th treet in city of Red Lake Falls. The farm is sown to timothy and clover, excepting 12 acres of wild hay land; is also fenced. Would prefer renting for period of three years. Terms $200 cash per year. Anyone accepting such terms write to Mrs. H. J. Bischoff Englund, Minn., Marshall County.

Crookston Journal: Ernest Buse of Red Lake Falls the owner of the celebrated Buse court house property which precipitated the recent county seat proceedings, spent Friday in the city looking after his interests in a law suit. Mr. Buse was uncommunicative upon the county seat matter at the Falls but it is evident from his demeanor that he is on the safe side of the affair as far as his recompense for the Buse property is concerned.

Thief River News: Work of building the telephone line from this city to Plummer is progressing in a satisfactory manner, but, owing to the ground being frozen, Manager Fant says that it is necessarily slow work just at present. After the frost goes out, the digging will be much easier and work will progress rapidly. Mr. Fant says that he expects to have the Plummer and the Germantown lines both completed at about the same time.

A. F. Evanson, of St. Peter, has been named by Governor John A. Johnson to succeed Martin Lally, deceased, of Crookston, as a member of the state board of grain appeals. There were several aspirants from this part of the state for the place, but the appointment was given to an old personal friend of the Governor—the first of his appointments to be made for personal reasons. Mr. Evanson is a nephew of C. F. Johnson, of this city, and is said to be a competent man.

P. A. Gunders, of St. Paul, representing the Pioneer Press company's blank book and office supply department, called on the county officers here Tuesday. Mr. Gunders was formerly connected with the public examiners office, but lost his job because he had the extreme audacity to espousa the cause of Honest Bob Dunn for governor, which was against the grain of the Van Sant-Sam Johnson "silk stocking" gang. Mr. Gunder, travels all over the state, and he says that the opinion prevails everywhare that the Republican party made a serious blunder in the recent campaign, and that it will take several years to over-come the loss they incurred.

Henry Kaufer's up-to-date barber shop this week installed a modern electric alarm enunciator, which adds greatly to the already excellent equipment of this first class shop. The enunciator gives an alarm as each chair becomes vacant showing the number that is "next" and as handy card numbers are furnished the customers as they enter the shop this appliance will do away with all inconvenience and the possibility of dispute when the shop is crowded. A customer may enter the shop and if several are ahead select his number and go out again, and if he returns by the time the indicator announces his number he does not lose his turn, no matter how many come in while he is gone. The appliance is thoroughly up-to-date and clinches the argument that Mr. Kaufer intends to keep strictly apace with the procession.

Miss Iza Tibbetts was on the sick list a day or two this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Kerens moved into the Burgdorf residence on the North Side this week.

Attorney Fred L. Farley was a visitor at Crookston last Friday attending to some business matters.

Merchant Tailor L. E. Erickson will move into his new quarters on Second street Saturday, where he will shortly be ready to serve the public with good work at reasonable prices.

Sam E. Hunt is confined to his bed with a serious attack of appendicitis and has been quite sick all week. He is reported as improving at present, however, and his many friends hope he will soon be able to be about again

The Gazette is short on news this week, but a rush of job work kept the force on the jump so late in tha week that many important happenings escaped us. The people know where to get good work, and we are always glad to keep busy giving them the best to be obtained.

A meeting of all thoss interested in the organization of a class of beginners in band music, to be added to the Red Lake Falls band as fast as possible, is called for Saturday evening of this week at the city hall, at 7:30 p. m. It is the desire of Prof. Onstad and the band management that a large number of the young men and others turn out and co-operate in an attempt to organize a big class. With the right spirit displayed among the younger element Red Lake Falls can have a band of 40 pieces within a year, and every one interested or desiring to become so should make it a point to be out.

Pretty Birthday Party.

The home of Mrs. P. B. Gaass was the scene of an enjoyacle birthday party last Wednesday afternoon, when Mesdames Gaass, Wilkinson, and Mizen entertained the members of the South Side club and several guests at a joint birthday partp—the anniversary of the birth of the three ladies occuring in the present month.

The afternoon was pleasantly spent in contests of various sorts and prizes were awarded for each event. The first contest, called the "Bishop's body" in which answers to numerous questions were to be made in some term applying to a part of the human body, proved very interesting and exciting, Mrs. G. H. Tibbetts winning the head prize and Mrs. A. L. Reichert receiving the consolation honors. An advertisment guessing contest was next provided, in which prominent and well known advertising trade marks were cut from magazines and arranged in order, the participants being obliged to guess what company or firm each represented. Mrs. S. C. Nauman won at this, Mrs. R. H. Bourdon being awarded the booby gift. A "hidden tree" contest was then inaugurated, answers to questions being made by naming species of tree and in this Mrs. O. Mikkelson won the head prize and Mrs. Marchand the consolation. Mr. Doughty, who was a guest at the Gaass home, favored the ladies with several beautiful vocal selections, after which the company sat down to an elaborate supper. The party was a grand success, and those present enjoyed themselves immensely.

HALVOR IS HOME

Popular Ninth District Congressman Returns from Washington.

Congressman Halvor Steenerson arrived in Crookston Tuesday morning from his winter's stay in Washington, feeling splendid after his several months activity in the national Congress.

Mr. Steenerson has made an enviable record in his work in Congress this winter, and the people of the Ninth district are proud of the "tall pine of the Red River valley." His every action has been in harmony with the interests of his constituents, and he has come to be recognized at Washington as the pronounced enemy of graft in every sense of the word and a friend of the common people.

Mr. Steenerson will devote his summer to his law practice and his many valley friends are glad to learn that he is with them again.

It will bring rich, red blood, firm flesh and muscle. That's what Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea will do. Taken this month, keeps you well all summer. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. W. A. Schreitar.

ORDER FOR HEARING PROOF OF WILL.

State of Minnesota,
County of Red Lake } ss.

In Probate Court,
Special term March 2nd 1905.
In the matter of the estate of Julius H. Rice, Deceased.

Whereas, an instrument in writing, purporting to be the Last Will and Testament of Julius H. Rice deceased, late of said County, has been delivered to this Court;

And whereas, John J. Rice has filed therewith a petition representing, among other things that said Julius H. Rice died in said County, on the 14th day of November 1902, testate, and that there was no executor named in said last Will and Testement, and praying that the said instrument may be admitted to probate, and that letters of administration, with the will annexed be issued thereon to John J. Rice.

It is ordered that the proofs of said instrument, and said petition, be heard before this Court, at the Probate Office in the city of Red Lake Falls in said county, on Monday the 27th day of March, A. D. 1905, at one o'clock in the afternoon, when all persons interested may appear for, or contest the Probate of said instrument;

And it is Further Ordered, That notice of the time and place of said hearing be given to all persons interested, by publishing this order once in each week, for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, in the Red Lake Falls Gazette a weekly news paper printed and published at Red Lake Falls in said County.

Dated at Red Lake Falls, Minnesota, the 2nd day of March A. D. 1905.

ORDER FOR HEARING APPLICATION FOR APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATOR.

State of Minnesota,
County of Red Lake } ss.

In Probate Court.
Special Term, March 2nd, 1905.
In the matter of the estate of Frank Boissonneau Deceased.

On receiving and filing the petition of Odilon Boissonneau of the county of Red Lake representing, among other things, that Frank Boissonneau late of the county of Red Lake in the state of Minnesota, on the 17th day of December A. D. 1905, at the county of Red Lake died intestate, and being an inhabitant of this county at the time of his death, leaving goods, chattels and estate within this county, and that the said petitioner is a son of said deceased, and praying that administration of said estate be to Odilon Boissonneau granted;

It is ordered, That said petition be heard before said court, on Friday the 31st day of March A. D. 1905 at 2 o'clock p. m., at the Probate office, in the court house in Red Lake Falls in said county.

Ordered further, That notice thereof be given to the heirs of said deceased and to all persons interested, by publishing this order once in each week for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, in the Red Lake Falls Gazette a weekly newspaper printed and published at Red Lake Falls in said county.

Dated at Red Lake Falls the 2nd day of March A. D. 1905.

By the court,

FAVORABLY REPORTED.

Santo Domingo Treaty Recommended for Ratification as Amended.

Washington, March 10.—The senate committee on foreign relations has agreed to report favorably the Santo Domingo treaty as amended. The vote was on party lines, every Republican voting for the treaty and every Democrat voting against it. All members of the committee were present and the vote stood:

For the treaty—Cullom, Frye, Lodge, Clark (Wyo.), Foraker, Spooner and Kean.

Against the treaty—Morgan, Bacon, Money, Clark (Mont.) and McCreary.

All of the amendments previously agreed upon were formally adopted by the committee and one additional amendment which was offered during the day was accepted. The latter was one of phraseology merely. It changes the last clause of Article 7.

NORTH SEA INCIDENT CLOSED.

Russian Minister to England Pays $325,000 Damages.

London, March 9.—Count Benkendorff, the Russian ambassador to Great Britain, has paid $325,000 to Foreign Secretary Lansdowne in settlement of the North sea claims and the incident was thus closed.

DEFIES THE OFFICERS

WISCONSIN BACKWOODS SETTLER EVADES THOSE SENT OUT BY FEDERAL COURT.

Madison, Wis., March 13.—Nullifying Wisconsin law and successfully setting aside the efforts of the state judicial authorities, John F. Dietz, the Sawyer county backwoods settler, now defies the federal courts, the United States government having joined with the state of Wisconsin in useless efforts to enforce judicial mandates.

For many months Dietz has defied the judicial authorities in that section of the state and every attempt made to enforce orders issued by Circuit Judge Parish. Armed with Winchester rifle Dietz, single handed and alone, has maintained his position against the authorities of the court and all the officers it could command, and now a United States deputy marshal has failed in an effort to serve injunctional papers on Dietz in the Thornapple dam case. The papers were secured by the Chippewa Lumber and Boom company. Dietz refused to let the marshal approach him to serve the papers.

WILL FLOOD THE MINE.

Fierce Fire Raging in a Colliery at Hohntown, Pa.

Irwin, Pa., March 11.—An explosion in the Yough mine, caused by a miner igniting a blast, started a fierce fire in the shaft and endangered the lives of 150 men who were at work in the mine. All escaped injury, however. All efforts to smother the flames have so far been unsuccessful and preparations are being made to flood the shaft.

The fire is burning under the village of Hohntown and is difficult to reach. Over $200,000 has been expended recently in improving the plant and the damage will probably be heavy.

WELSH MINE DISASTER.

Twenty-six Men Perish as Result of Explosion.

Cardiff, Wales, March 11.—It is now announced that twenty-six lives were lost as a result of the explosion which occurred in the Cambrian colliery at Clydach Vale, in the Rhonda valley.

JAPS STILL IN PURSUIT.

Defeat Russians Wherever They Offer Resistance.

Tokio, March 13.—Army headquarters makes the following announcement:

"All our forces have advanced north, pursuing the enemy in all directions and inflicting heavy damage and they have defeated the enemy who attempted resistance at various places.

"Our forces have completely cleared the enemy out of the district twenty-five miles north of Mukden and are still pursuing them.

"The Russians abandoned countless carts of supplies and ammunition in the district for thirteen miles from the vicinity of Kaolitun, south of Chiulikotsu, west of the railway and sixteen miles north of Mukden.

"No time has yet been had to count them.

"One of the colors captured belonged to the One Hundred and Sixty-second regiment, from the Vilna district, which had been engaged in three previous wars.

"Our Sinmintin garrison has arrested a paroled Russian officer from Port Arthur, who broke his parole at Shanghai and proceeded to Sinmintin.

"Additional stores intended for the Russians have been seized at Sinmintin."

JAPS OCCUPY MUKDEN

CAPTURE THOUSANDS OF PRISONERS AND QUANTITIES OF STORES AND GUNS.

Tokio, March 11.—The Japanese troops occupied Mukden at 10 a. m. The Russians are panic stricken. Thousands of prisoners and enormous quantities of stores and guns have been captured.

Fushun has also been occupied by the Japanese. The fighting continues on the heights north of Fushun.

ONE SIGN OF PEACE.

Said Rojestvensky's Squadron Has Been Ordered Home.

Washington, March 13.—The Associated Press has high authority for the statement that the Russian Second Pacific squadron has been recalled by the Russian government. While not regarded as a sure sign of peace the recall of Admiral Rojestvensky, in the opinion of European chancelleries, is regarded as a hopeful sign that peace is at hand.

TERRORIST IS KILLED

ACCIDENTAL BOMB EXPLOSION IN A HOTEL AT ST. PETERSBURG.

St. Petersburg, March 11.—The explosion of a bomb at the Hotel Bristol here just before daylight blew to atoms the owner of the bomb, a man with an English passport and giving the name of Alfred Henry McCullough, and wrecked the adjoining rooms, killing the wife of an officer and injuring several other lodgers. The explosion was heard blocks away and created a tremendous sensation. There is not the slightest doubt that the man killed was connected with terrorist plots. The bomb was of the same power as those which killed the late Minister of the Interior von Plehve and Grand Duke Sergius, creating the same havoc as did the explosion at the Hotel Du Nord last spring. The preliminary investigation of the police leads them to believe that McCullough was engaged either in packing his effects, as the Hotel Bristol was to be vacated, or in preparing for some desperate enterprise when the bomb fell and exploded. The police immediately surrounded the hotel with mounted gendarmes, allowing no one to within fifty paces.

DURING GOOD SERVICE.

Present Federal Officeholders Will Be Retained.

Washington, March 10.—A general policy as to federal appointments was determined upon by the president and his cabinet at their semi-weekly meeting. At the conclusion of the meeting it was anounced that, for the present at least, the uniform policy would be to retain incumbents in office during satisfactory service. This policy will hold, it was stated further, entirely irrespective of the length of service of the incumbent. The policy announced is to apply generally to all departments of the government.

AFTER A BRIEF ILLNESS.

Senator Bate of Tennessee Expires at Washington.

Washington, March 9. — United States Senator William B. Bate of Tennessee, twice governor of his state, a veteran of both the Mexican and Civil wars, rising from private to major general in the Confederate service in the latter, and for eighteen years a conspicuous member of the upper house of congress, died at his hotel apartments in this city during the day, aged seventy-eight years. Death was due to pneumonia and defective heart.

Mother and Child Perish.

Baltimore, March 13.—As a result of a fire in the grocery store and dwelling of William H. Graves Mrs. Bennetta McCordic, a tenant, and her four-year-old child were burned to death. Another child was fatally burned.

Wine of Cardui Cured Her.

213 South Prior Street,
ATLANTA, GA., March 21, 1903.

I suffered for four months with extreme nervousness and lassitude. I had a sinking feeling in my stomach which no medicine seemed to relieve, and losing my appetite I became weak and lost my vitality. In three weeks I lost fourteen pounds of flesh and felt that I must find speedy relief to regain my health. Having heard Wine of Cardui praised by several of my friends, I sent for a bottle and was certainly very pleased with the results. Within three days my appetite returned and my stomach troubled me no more. I could digest my food without difficulty and the nervousness gradually diminished. Nature performed her functions without difficulty and I am once more a happy and well woman.

No Matter What Doctors Say—We Know That Heart Trouble in Many Cases Can Be Cured.

There are seven main features of heart disease, viz: (1) Weakness or Debility; (2) Rheumatism or Neuralgia; (3) Valvular Disorder; (4) Dilation; (5) Enlargement; (6) Fatty Degeneration; (7) Dropsy.

Documentary evidence will prove thousands of so-called "incurables" have been absolutely cured by Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure.

Patients often have no idea their disease is heart trouble, but ascribe it to Indigestion, Liver Complaint, etc.

Here are some of the symptoms: Shortness of breath after exercise. Smothering Spells. Pain in Chest, left Shoulder and arm. Discomfort in Lying on one side. Fainting Spells. Nervous Cough. Swelling of Feet and Ankles. Paleness of Face and Lips. Palpitation. Nightmare. Irregular Pulse.

"I have great faith in Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and speak of its merits whenever opportunity presents. I can now go up and down stairs with ease, where three weeks ago I could hardly walk one block." One year later.—"I am still in good health; the Heart Cure did so much for me, that I find it a far greater medicine than you claimed it to be."—S. D. YOUNG, D. FARM AND GARDEN

GOOD DRAG AND HARROW.

Farm Implement Which the Handy Farmer May Construct for Himself.

Every farmer knows a harrow and drag are two useful farm implements. Here you will find a harrow and drag combined, which has proven very useful in both sod and loose ground, and which pulverizes and levels at the same time, says Epitomist. The one I made is to be used with three horses. It consists of three pieces four inches by four inches by ten feet, three pieces one and one-half inch by six inches by three feet, two pieces one and one-half inches by six inches by three and one-half feet, and 31 harrow teeth. In spacing, put the teeth one foot apart. In the second beam, begin four inches farther in than on the first, and in the third, eight inches farther in than the first. The harrow teeth should be placed a little backward, so that if anything catches fast, it will pull off. Give this a trial and see what it will do.

GOOD DRAG AND HARROW.

INTERESTING TEST.

Experiments to Prove Relative Value of Deep and Shallow Cultivation for Grains.

Experiments in deep and shallow cultivation have been conducted by a number of experiment stations of the country. The Ohio station has completed a nine-year series of such experiments and reports as follows:

"For deep cultivation the double shovel has been used, working the ground to a depth of four inches or a little more. For shallow working a swing-tooth cultivator has been used and the ground is stirred to a depth of an inch and a half.

"Taking each year's test by itself with a single exception, shallow cultivation has given a larger yield of grain, regardless of weather conditions. One season, it is true, the increase is of little moment. With the exception of one season the yield of stover is larger from the shallow cultivation.

"Taking the average for the nine seasons' work, shallow cultivation leads in grain by exactly four bushels per acre, and in stover by over 200 pounds per acre. This matter of deep and shallow cultivation would seem to be pretty well settled."

The work at the other stations has quite generally produced similar results.

AROUND THE FARM.

Sheep raising, it is said, is fast becoming the greatest live stock industry in the world.

The strawberry plant is something of an evergreen, its leaves remaining green throughout the winter.

Every farmer, no matter what crop he is raising, should find out for himself the particular kind of fertilizer his land needs.

The potato has been forced from its natural functions since the beginning of its cultivation, until it expends all of its energy in the production of tubers.

An apple curiosity comes from New York. It has a light yellow skin and flesh which runs from bright red to a salmon color. It is not large, but is very good eating.

The finer the soil, the more likely is the seed sown to be covered from the sunshine, and the quicker will capillary action be established. Capillary action is necessary to give the seed water for the development of the shoot.

Kansas has a tame goose 52 years old, which is still hale and hearty. Its gander brother died 13 years ago and its sister goose five years ago. Though her "lovely companions" are gone the last goose is as nimble and sprightly as those of her kind generations younger.

House Your Machines.

Care should be taken of the farm machinery. Have sheds for all of it. Many farmers in Lewis county, Mo., keep their machinery out year in year out. The cold, snowy weather of winter and the hot, wet weather of summer are equally bad. You will find, after having tried it, says the Farm and Home, that the implements last better when kept under cover and well painted. Bolts should all be tightened on a machine when put into use, well oiled and taken out in ship shape. The same applies to putting it away when it should be cleaned as far as practicable and put in the shed. Each year wagon wheels should be soaked in boiled linseed oil, applied when hot. This keeps the tires tight and acts as a preservative.

Soy Beans.

Soy beans used about 525 pounds of water per pound of dry matter produced in some Wisconsin tests. The enormous quantity of water required for a crop of this kind is shown when it is stated that the crop of soy beans referred to yielded 7,980 pounds dry matter to the acre, equal to 9,177 pounds of hay, containing 15 per cent. moisture.—Orange Judd Farmer.

ROMULUS, PET WOLF

A MISCHIEVOUS BUT VERY ENGAGING ANIMAL FRIEND.

A Neighbor Dog Leads Him Astray—He Meets a Prize Gobbler and the Doughty Bird Falls in Battle.

Up to December 31, 1904, "Romulus," my tame prairie wolf, stood upon a pinnacle of virtue. Not that he was what you would call extremely "saintly," for he had spells of mischievousness which were trying to those about him, and during which he would nip the bear, and pull tufts of hair out of the deer, or run off into the woods with his master's cap or gloves. It has even been recorded that he once tore the trousers of a certain gentleman from the city, but in that case the circumstances justified severe methods. But the property of my farmer neighbors he had never interfered with.

But, alas for his character, one of my neighbors had a dog, whose hide was black, and whose reputation was blacker. He had no regular occupation, and hung around our house a large part of his time, trying to scrape acquaintance with the animals. Most of them would have nothing to do with him, but the coyote was a friendly little fellow, and after a day or two began to rub noses with the dog. The latter was much older than Romulus, and his influence upon the young wolf was very marked from the first. They romped about for a day or two, and then one afternoon they were seen walking away down the road together, as nearly arm-in-arm as two four-foots can walk. That evening Romulus did not appear at supper, and, for the first time in his life, he was literally "out all night." Next morning he came back, still in company with the black dog. His manner had already changed for the worse; he did not want to be caught, and finally, when we did catch him, he was very irritable, and tried his level best to bite. We kept him in a day or two, but on New Year's eve we relented and once more set him at liberty.

He was mightily pleased, and showed his gratitude by following us about, and at every opportunity throwing himself on his back, that we might come up and caress him. But in the afternoon he sauntered off, met the black dog somewhere down the road, and again failed to answer tattoo roll call. Next morning early, a farmer drove up to the door in a sleigh. Some one suggested that he had come to wish us a happy New Year, but this proved to be a mistake. He had come to inform me that my wolf had, in the cold gray dawn, attacked his flock of turkeys, and had killed the biggest gobbler in the bunch. The family had attempted to drive him off by setting the dogs on him, but the wolf wagged his tail and refused to run, and the dogs simply turned round and played with him. It would have been easy enough to shoot him, but there was no desire to be unneighborly. Hastily strapping on a pair of snow-shoes, I hurried off across lots to the scene of the tragedy. It was something over a mile from my house, in a swamp, and there I saw a sight which recalled descriptions of the battle of Liaoyang. For more than an acre the snow was strewn with feathers, and there was scarcely a square yard in all that space which was not splashed or streaked with blood. Near the center of this gruesome field lay the body of an old gobbler, famous for miles around, and said to be the largest turkey in Sullivan county, N. H. The wolf had evidently made a full meal, but all he had been able to eat had made but little impression on the carcass of this giant bird, which even in death, torn and minus half its feathers, still looked majestic. The wolf, whom I especially sought, was nowhere to be seen, and though I followed his trail for upwards of two miles, I did not get so much as a glimpse of his gray fur.

THE WOLF'S VICTIM.

My next move was to visit the outraged farmer, and discover to what extent I was indebted to him. I found him discussing the affair with his wife, and by the way they were both smiling. I judged they were more amused than angry. When we finally came to the question of the damages—a question they seemed in no hurry to thrust into the conversation—they admitted that turkeys of that weight and appearance usually sold for five dollars at this season, and even offered to "hitch up" and deliver that particular bird at my door; an offer I gratefully declined.

As I approached my house, there was a flurry of snow, a streak of gray, and Romulus lay at my feet, whining and wagging his tail, as I stooped to pat his head. He's rather expensive, but a pretty good little wolf for all that.

ERNEST HAROLD BAYNES.

THE HOMESTEAD ACTS

ALMOST FIFTY YEARS SINCE THE FIRST WAS PASSED.

This Great Change in the Land System Made Only After a Hard and Persistent Battle by Its Adherents.

Recently, before the American Forest Congress, bitter attacks were made on various features of the homestead laws, which makes the reader ask concerning the length of time these laws have been in operation, something concerning their origin, and the results of their operation.

It was back in 1852 that the granting of national free homes from and on the public domain became a national question. The free soil democracy adopted this plank in their platform: "That the public lands of the United States belong to the people, and should not be sold to individuals nor granted to corporations, but should be held a sacred trust for the benefit of the people, and should be granted in limited quantities, free of cost, to landless settlers."

It grew into a burning question, and war was waged anent it until its passage in 1862. Petitions for and against it were raised, public sentiment was thoroughly roused. It was understood that without question it would cause an entire change in the settlement laws. "Instead of the public lands being sold for cash, for profit, or being taken, first, under the preemption system, which eventuated into cash purchases, they would be given to actual settlers who would occupy, improve and cultivate them for a term of years, and then receive a patent free of acreage charges, with fees paid by the homesteader sufficient to cover cost of survey and transfer of title."

PRESIDENT LINCOLN, WHO SIGNED HOMESTEAD ACT.

Everybody took sides. Political economists pointed to the evils that had resulted in the past in the purchase of large holdings—the usual result was the bankruptcy of the holder.

"A bill to secure homesteads to actual settlers in the public domain" was before the house in 1859, but was voted down. In 1860, a homestead bill passed both houses, but was vetoed by President Buchanan; among the objections cited were the following: That the government had no right to "give away" such a magnificent gift as the public domain; that it would prove unjust in its operation among the actual settlers themselves, especially be unjust to those early ones that had paid $1.25 for their holdings; it would work injustice to the old soldiers who had received land warrants, reducing the market value of their warrants; it was unequal, confined to one class of people, the cultivator of the soil; unjust to the older states; the bill would open one vast field of speculation.

The bill failed, lacking the requisite two-thirds vote to pass it over the veto. In 1861, another bill was introduced, and, after undergoing various vicissitudes in the two houses, was finally passed; and on May 20, 1862, Abraham Lincoln approved and signed "an act to secure homesteads to actual settlers on the public domain."

President Johnson, who was one of the original promoters of the homestead act, said concerning it in his annual message of 1865: "The homestead policy was established only after long and earnest resistance. Experience proves its wisdom. The lands in the hands of industrious settlers, whose labor creates wealth and contributes to the public resources, are worth more to the United States than if they had been reserved as a solitude for future purchasers."

The original homestead act has been amended a number of times, an extension of privileges being an important change. In 1872, the soldiers' and sailors' homestead act made provision that honorably discharged soldiers and sailors from the army and navy of the United States might have the five years' time required of the homesteader reduced, the time of actual residence for these citizens being put as low as one year. Thomas Donaldson, in "The Public Domain, Its History," says (writing in 1883) the homestead act is now the approved and preferred method of acquiring titles to the public lands. It has stood the test of 18 years, and was the outgrowth of a system extending through nearly 80 years, and now, within a circle of a hundred years since the United States acquired the first of her public lands, the homestead act stands as the concentrated wisdom of legislation for settlement of the public lands. It protects the government, it fills the states with homes, it builds up communities and lessens the chances of social and civil disorder, by giving ownership of the soil, in small tracts, to occupants thereon. It was copied from no other nation's system. It was originally and distinctly American, and remains a monument to its originators.

CHRISTOPHER WEBSTER.

HIS STEAK WAS ALL READY

Sarcasm of the Wife Not Wasted on the Delinquent and Imbibing Husband.

Sarcasm loses nothing by awaiting the psychological moment for its utterance, remarks the New York Tribune. Also it oftentimes is most fraught with the sharpness of a two-edged sword when it is contained in a simple statement of fact. A husband given to periodical looks upon the cocktail when it contains a cherry, his glance at such times dwelling thereon for two or three successive days without interruption arose one morning recently with a head out of all proportion to his hat measure and a throat that felt like a limekiln. No explanation was needed when he told his wife he was going out for a moment to get rid of the olive green taste in his mouth; he would be back right away. All she said was: "Bring a steak home with you for breakfast." He went to a cocktail dispensary and got his brace. As he was going out he met a friend, who told him he would feel better if he had another. He did feel better, so much better that he was prevailed on further to improve the state of his physical and mental being by a third diving after a cherry. He did not see his home for two days. Again, one morning he awoke with iron hands pressing into his head and his tongue cleaving to the roof of his mouth. His wife heard him stirring and went to the door. "Your steak is ready," she said.

ALL WOMEN MARKET THERE

Average Housekeeper of Paris Does Her Own Buying, Declares French Writer.

Almost every women in France does her own marketing and ladies take their maid or cook along to carry home their purchases, writes Jeanne Coustentin, in Good Housekeeping. I am speaking of the average household; rich or very chic people leave the marketing to the cook, who deals in stores which have regular deliveries; while in very wealthy households, that all-important personage, the chef, would not hear of anyone interfering with his prerogative of selecting and ordering everything, and this able creator of sauces, of things savory, steaming or jellied, may even have his own coupe to take him to the Halles, the huge market that each day provides the provisions for all of Paris and its suburbs. Servants love to go to market, for it is a custom with almost every storekeeper to give them one cent on every franc spent, so you will find it next to an impossibility to make your cook deal where she does not receive her sou de franc, and in engaging a servant many will ask you: "Does madame do her own marketing?"

ORIGIN OF THE MUSTACHE.

Chicago Antiquary Unearths Manuscript Telling the History of the Fad.

A Chicago antiquary found in an old Spanish manuscript the other day the story of the mustache's origin. "We owe the mustache to the Spaniards," he said afterward, to a Baltimore Herald man. "The Spaniards adopted it to distinguish themselves from the Moors. After the Moorish invasion, you see, Moors and Spaniards were so inextricably mixed up that it was impossible to tell them apart. But the Spaniards were Christians, and therefore they decided to wear a cross upon their faces—a mustache and a chin tuft, or goatee. This hair cross became the fashion all over Spain, and gradually it spread to other lands. Before that time men had either gone clean-shaven or fully bearded. Now they adopted first the mustache and chin tuft, and finally the mustache alone. When you stroke the thatch on your upper lip, remember that you are stroking a part of the true cross, and when you see a man with both mustache and chin tuft, point out to him that he should live up to the declaration of faith that his face makes."

SNAKE HEARS IN TONGUE.

So Declares Student of Reptiles and He Says They Have No Ears.

Allen S. Williams, who has spent his summer in the mountains of New York, studying snakes, according to the Detroit News-Tribune, says: "It is true that snakes have no ears, but I have discovered that they can hear through their tongues. A snake can live for two years without feeding. I have known cases where snakes have come to life after they had been frozen as stiff as a walking stick. Last January two of my black-snakes were frozen so hard that I could have broken them in pieces. My wife put them on hot water bags, and in an hour they began to show signs of life. When about four inches of their bodies were thawed out she began feeding them hot milk, and it was not long until they were wriggling about the parlor floor as good as new." Mr. Williams said that recently one of his snakes was suffering from indigestion. He found that he had swallowed a large hen's egg, and in order to cure him he hit him on the back and crushed the egg, after which the reptile recovered.

Names of the Sultan.

The sultan of Turkey, who has gained for himself among European countries so many uncomplimentary titles, is addressed by the Turkish journals as "The Pearl of the Nations," "The Nombril of the World," "The Gate of Justice," "The Prince of Camels," "The Master of Masters" and "The Shadow of God." On the other hand, the Macedonians, the Armenians and the young Turkish or native revolutionary party stigmatize him as "Abdul Hamid, the Red Beast."

DRY IN THE VALLEY.

Elections In Adjoining Towns Result Disastrously To Saloon Men.

Climax, a little town in Polk county, was practically the only town in the valley to be saved by the "wets" at the annual spring elections Tuesday of this week, practically every other neighboring village that voted on the question being carried by the "prohibs" and as a result the residents of a majority of the villages hereabouts will have to be satisfied with that "unquenchable thirst" during the coming summer.

The towns of Fertile, Twin Valley, Hendrum, McIntosh, Beltrami, Mentor, Halstad and Ada all climbed onto the water wagon Tuesday, and in several instances the vote was close and exciting.

Some of the towns in the above list have had one year of no saloons and apparently were satisfied with the plan, while others went dry for the first time in their history.

REVIVAL MEETINGS SOON.

Evangelists To Commence Series of Meetings Sunday of Next Week.

Rev. H. W. Knox announces that on Sunday, the 26th inst., a series of Evangelistic meetings will commence at the Presbyterian church to be continued for a period of two weeks. These meetings will be conducted by the Misses Anna Smith and Nellie Reed, the two young lady Evangelists who have been doing such excellent work throughout the valley for the past couple of years.

They are both said to be excellent speakers, and the public is undoubtedly assured of a rare treat when they commence their work here.

The meetings will be free to all, and the church people will endeavor to make them beneficial to a marked degree.

WASHINGTON SCHOOL NOTES.

Marcus Marshall and Fred Schmitz, reporters.

On Thursday of last week Mr. Healy showed us some old money during the history period. It was very interesting to look at. Among that which he had was a U. S. half dollar dated 1819 some 5, 10 and 15 cent bills and a penny of Civil War times.

The sixth grade has finished their study of North America and have begun the study of the United States.

Preston Hall is absent on account of sickness. This is the first time he has been absent or tardy since school started and we certainly miss him.

Carl Schmidt met with a serious accident at home. A colt hit his ear causing an ugly wound which will keep him from school.

Harry Anderson returned to school Monday after a two weeks absence on account of his mother's illness.

The Washington school had a fire drill last week. It was a surprise to all the pupils and altho several classes were at recitation we succeeded in clearing the building of books, wraps and pupils in three seconds over one minute.

Mrs. McIntyre visited our school one day two weeks ago. We are sorry that the fact was neglected in our other notes. It is so seldom that we see visitors that we try to see that they get their names in the paper.

The fifth grade had a test in Geography last Monday morning on the British Isles.

The four seasons as named by a second grade pupil are, Spring, Summer, Easter and Fall.

The boys are finding it hard work to keep their hands out of their pockets, on account of those magnetic marbles.

Inez Hanson was absent from school Monday afternoon.

We are glad to hear that Nickie Helm is improving.

Among the accidents which occurred last week were these: Albert Kriel received a black eye from a snow ball and Henry Skala received a bloody nose from the foot ball.

Wednesday being Ash-Wednesday several were absent for church.

Olive Zaiser returned to school Tuesday after a week's absence on account of sickness.

Louise Majeres of the fourth grade has returned after a two week's absence.

It is to be understood that the fifth and sixth grades gather these notes each week so when we say "us" or "we" you will understand who it means.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Athenian Editors—Stella Hennemuth, Mike Connaughty and Paul Brunnelle.

Come and hear the Athenian Quartette Friday afternoon.

Every one was present at 9 o'clock Monday morning.

The Chemistry class took an examination on note books last week. Every one of the class enjoyed taking another examination Tuesday morning.

It is reported that Miss Iddings was able to sit up Tuesday. Everyone in the High School was more than pleased to hear of it.

The Athenians will give a program Friday afternoon. Undoubtedly it will be the best one of the year and every one is invited to be present.

Wonder what makes Walter Johnson smile so since last Sunday afternoon.

One of our High School girls was reported to be out at five o'clock the other morning. Quite a late hour girls! It is time you should be in.

A zobo band is being organized by the "Lesher Burn" and undoubtedly it will prove a success like the rest of their undertakings.

Some of the classes are having numerous socials after school now-a-days.

A noble Sophomore who held his abode among the dignified Seniors now sits where he belongs—with the Sophomores.

All those who did not pass in Civics and Political Economy were given another chance this week.

Don't forget the best program of the year will be given by the Athenians Friday afternoon.

For the past few days Walter Johnson has an extra chore to do. Ask him what it is.

The parrot lost a quarter the other day.

The Sophomores sent carnations to Miss Iddings a week ago Tuesday. The Seniors sent violets, the Soph's class flowers so they could not send them.

SEASONS CHANGED BY FIRE

Trees That Were Barely Scorched in Blaze Put Out New Blooms Late in Fall.

At Chansee-sur-Marne, France, last September, a fire which raged on one side of the village made a clean sweep of everything before it in the way of buildings and only paused when there was nothing to lick up except the orchards that once formed a hedge between the homesteads and the open country. Even then it was hardly satisfied, for it greedily devoured the first two ranks of apple and pear trees, leaving nothing but cinders; the next three rows, though very scorched, were not quite destroyed, the farthest away being naturally the least affected. Some of the boughs escaped all hurt and it was with these that the curious phenomenon was observed which merits attention. A second flowering commenced at once and by the end of October all the trees farthest from the scene of the fire were in full bloom, as if called to renewed life by the fresh voice of May, instead of October. At another point the flames had swept close to a large lilac tree and this, as well as some plum trees, bewildered by what must have seemed to it a sudden return of summer, put on once more its bridal robes. It must be mentioned that the fire only lasted four hours. It will be noticed, therefore, that there was no resemblance between this sudden blast of heat and the ordinary gradual forcing to which plants are subjected.

INFLUENCE OF AGUINALDO.

Young Filipino Leader Still Holds the Natives Under His Own Control.

The influence which the discredited Filipino leader still possesses even with the upper class of his countrymen is as undoubted as it is surprising, says a writer in the Century. The Filipinos present were all his superiors in education, and probably most of them were also his superiors in affairs, as the western world understands it. Several of the company had at various times been his advisers, had devised for him his policy, and had executed his official acts. They had been behind the scenes and understood the causes for his rise and fall, knew him as he really was; yet all of them manifested a deference, as if for the mythical personality which the populace and peasantry still credit. Gravely and quietly Aguinaldo acknowledged his reception. He spoke slowly and guardedly in a soft voice, more the thin, high-pitched voice of a child than of a man. He said little, but his manners were gentle and, with his old friends, affectionate. The first impression which he created was a pleasant and dignified one, save for the expression of cautious cunning in his eyes, and for the lines of his mouth, which showed a habit of exaggerated rep

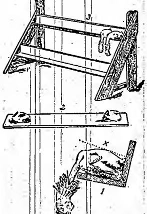
POULTRY AND BEES

FOWLS FOR MARKET.

The Plan Which Is Most in Favor with Those Who Ship Hundreds.

While the main consideration to the consumer is that the fowl should be reasonably plump and properly picked, the large city merchants demand certain things in the way of packing which the poultry raiser must carry out if he would be successful in such markets. One of the things is that the fowls be "shaped" before they are packed, and while this process makes a form that is not particularly pleasing, it is, perhaps, better than the misshapen fowls which would result if they were placed in boxes or barrels without any sign of packing. To make a shaper, first build a frame and then in this frame construct two troughs, each ten feet long. These troughs are constructed by nailing together two boards, seven-eighths of an inch thick and six inches wide, at right angles.



FOWL READY FOR MARKET.

After plucking the fowls, says the Indianapolis News, lay the carcasses in the trough with the heads hanging down, the legs alongside the breast and the breast downward. By gentle pressure force the carcass down into the angle of the trough. Cover each carcass with oiled paper; then have an inch board six inches wide to lay on the carcasses and weight this board down with a brick or heavy stone at either end. As the carcass of the bird is slipped under the board, move the lower brick or stone to obtain the weight. The carcasses should be kept in this position for six or seven hours, and they will then be shaped and ready for packing in crates. The illustration shows the construction of this shaper in detail, and, as will be seen, any handy man can construct it readily.

Keeping Bees Through the Winter.

One summer had been a poor one for making honey and we found our bees didn't have enough honey to keep them over. So we took small sauce dishes, half filled them with granulated sugar syrup and whenever a day came warm enough for the bees to fly out, one of these dishes was placed on the ground directly in front of each hive. The winter was a severe one. A few heavy snows would have smothered them if we had not been watchful and carefully cleared away the snow early in the morning after a night's storm, and opened a breathing space at the entrance. We also covered the hives with some old quilts and pieces of carpet as a protection from the winds.—Orange Judd Farmer.

Feeding Bees in Winter.

The proper time to feed for winter is before winter has set in. If, however, from some unavoidable cause you have bees in a starving condition, feed with no regard to the temperature. Frames filled with honey are the thing to give colonies lacking in stores at a time when the snow is flying. It is not a bad plan to warm these up somewhat before giving them to the bees. If frames of honey cannot be given, candy made from pure, white sugar will answer first-rate, says Farm and Home. Break this up in chunks and lay on top of the frames. During warm days, sugar sirup may be fed, and is much more easily prepared. Make this half sugar and half water.

Separate the Sexes.

It is the height of foolishness to allow the male birds to run with the hens during the fall and winter months unless eggs are wanted for hatching. It should be remembered that an unfertilized egg is dead matter, while a fertilized one contains a life-germ that is ready to take on animal existence as soon as the proper conditions are furnished. Even at a low temperature of 60 degrees a fertilized egg will begin to decay long before an unfertilized one would show the least change. Keep the males and females separate.—Commercial Poultry.

Raspberry for Honey.

If there is any one plant that will pay to raise for honey alone, it is raspberry, especially the red kind. The quantity of honey yielded by it is great, and for quality it is at least equal to any ever tasted. It stands in a rank all by itself. But when we add to these desirable characteristics the great abundance of refreshing fruit it produces, and on almost any soil, we may say it certainly deserves all the attention it gets. This seems to be the opinion on the other side of the ocean, too.—Gleanings in Bee Culture.

OLD SETTLERS SOCIETY

New Organization Formed For the Purpose of Furthering the Interests of Southern Red Lake County.

A meeting was held Monday evening for the purpose of taking the preliminary steps toward organizing an association of the old settlers of this part of the county, and a large number of people were present and assisted in the preliminary work.

The first business to come up was the election of officers, the following gentlemen being chosen: President, J. B. Demarais; secretary, Rev. Father E. Fayolle and treasurer, Dr. I. Lemieux. The new organization was named the "Old Settlers Society" of Red Lake county, and within a few weeks they will begin active work, the outcome of which will mean much to this section of the county and the people in general.

It is the purpose of the newly formed society to commence an aggressive campaign in the interests of the advantages of Red Lake county, and lots of advertising matter will be sent out setting forth the many advantageous points of the Red River Valley, and Red Lake county in particular. A large list of farms for sale in this neighborhood will be secured, and the members of the society will use every available effort to induce people to settle in this part of the world. It is their intention to make no charge for handling the land secured for sale, but to bring settlers here and locate them entirely free of charge, the investors to make what cash payment on the land they can, direct to the owner. The society will thoroughly cover the northwestern states and Canada with advertising matter and will go after settlers with a determination to bring good returns. The matter of advertising will be in the hands of the officers, and the Rev. Father Fayolle will be actively identified in the work. They will make great efforts to secure a list of names of prospective settlers, and with personal letters and other literature will endeavor to induce people to come here, when they will be shown the lands free of charge and assisted in every way possible, so that they may be made to feel at home. Three hundred copies of the Christmas Gazette will be sent out along with the other advertising matter, and it can readily be seen that the people will get a good idea of this part of the world before coming here.

The expenses necessary to the carrying out of this project will be borne entirely by the members of the society, as their idea is not to make a money-making venture of it but to help out the country with new settlers. Their spirit of unselfishness and enterprise is indeed commendable, and it can safely be said that few if any towns in the country possess a set of citizens willing to make such a sacrifice for the good of the country.

They should have the hearty cooperation of the people of this part of the county, and with it their generous efforts will result in untold benefit to the people at large.

The Gazette trusts that their efforts may meet with the success they deserve.

PROMINENT GRANGE WORKER.

Sarah G. Baird, Master of State Grange, Coming Here.

Mrs. Jerome Longtin, secretary of the local branch of the Minnesota State Grange, received word that Sarah G. Baird, master of the state organization, will be here next Monday, the 27th inst., to meet with the local Grange. She will visit Terrehonne in the afternoon, and meet with the members here in the evening of that day.

A general invitation is extended to all to attend the meeting, and the grange members in particular are urged to come out.

SHORT COURT TERM

Calendar For March Term of District Court Contains But Few Cases—Probably One Week Term.

The March term of the District Court for Red Lake county will convene here next Monday with Judge William Watts on the bench, but from indications the term will be a short one, as but few new cases are on the calendar and the number of continued ones is not large.

Both a grand and petit jury has been called, but what work will be on the tapis for the grand jury has not yet been announced. There are said to be many irregularities that need looking into in different parts of the county, but no hint has been given as to what action is to be taken.

The following is a brief summary of the cases appearing on the calendar:

A CHANGE IN THE DATE

Regular Monthly Musical Event To Be Given Tuesday Evening of Next Week Instead of Friday.

The regular monthly concert of the Red Lake Falls band will be held at the Metropolitan next Tuesday, the 28th inst., instead of 31st as previously announced. The change was made for obvious reasons, and the people should govern themselves accordingly.

The program arranged for is an exceptionally fine one, and should draw a big crowd. The following numbers will comprise the program:

PART I.

Paraphase................Tohani
"Nearer My God To Thee."
Funeral March............Chopin
Declamation..........Anonymous
"Dan Periton's Ride."
Miss Clara Rue.

"Brace Up."

MAKES GOOD SHOWING.

Statement of Merchants State Bank Published Elsewhere.

The regular statement of the Merchants State Bank of this city, which is published this week in response to the call of the superintendent of banks, shows up well for that popular institution, and Cashier Duffy and the bank people have reason to rejoice over the results attained. The banks total deposits now show $91,496.42, a large gain over the last statement, while the volume of business is some $20,000 greater than at the time of the last report. The Merchants is one of the solid banks of the Valley, and the people here are pleased at their success.

Hot Time at Plummer.

Plummer was the scene of an exciting time Monday of this week, when two bad men of the country out east attempted to do up Julius Pieth, of that place. The disturbers were caught and locked up in a box car, but shortly after succeeded in breaking out and took to the woods. The constable and a posse started in pursuit and when within range commenced firing on the fugitives with a revolver, one of the shots taking effect in the leg of one of the fellows and bringing them both to a halt. They were taken back to town and brought before a justice, and sentenced to six months each in the county jail, being brought here Monday evening. Their names are James and Knute Torgerson, and their home is in Lambert. The wounded man is not seriously hurt, although he has a bad hole in his leg just above the knee, and will be laid up some little time. The event caused lots of excitement at Plummer, and they promise to make the road a rough one for evil doers at their town in the future.

JUST ANOTHER SAMPLE

Of How Thief River Loves the Taxpayers of Red Lake County and Is Trying To Save Them Money.

This week a man named Gardner was arrested in Thief River Falls, bound over to the Grand Jury and brought down to the county jail. The terrible offence he committed was stealing two chickens when drunk. If he had been given a few days in jail till he sobered up, the law would have been amply satisfied and a great expense saved the county. But he had no money to pay a fine into the city treasury so Thief River Falls didn't want him, but turned him onto the county with a big bill of expense.

This appears to be a regular custom at Thief River Falls. If a criminal has money to pay a fine he is charged with violating some city ordinance and his fine is turned into the city treasury. But if he has no money he is charged with violating some state law and the expenses of his trial are charged to the county.

Do you doubt it?

Here are the figures, and figures don't lie. Last year the municipal court of Thief River Falls turned into the CITY treasury $1511.55 in fines!

How much did the same court turn into the county treasury during the same time? Seven dollars and fifty cents.

But in this same court during that time there was charged up to the county and paid by the county $59.25 court fees, $86.69 officers fees, and $30.00 incidentals, a total of costs against the county of one hundred seventy five dollars ninety four cents!

How much was charged against and paid by the city of Thief River Falls in the same time?

Not one cent.

When a criminal has money, Thief River grabs it.

When he is broke he is turned over to be paid for by the taxpayers of the county.

And yet Thief River has the gall to shout "Graft!" "Graft!"

Mrs. J. E. Argue entertained a number of young friends of Miss Rebecca Hunt at a party Tuesday afternoon, it being the young lady's 13th birthday anniversary. Games were played until six o'clock at which time the birthday cake was carved, after which the amusements were resumed until 7 when all departed carrying with them the happy recollections of an afternoon well spent.

DRAINAGE LAW WILL PASS.

Senator Stephens, of Polk, Talks on Work of Legislature.

Crookston Times: Senator A. D. Stephens arrived in the city this morning from St. Paul the senate having adjourned till 4 o'clock Monday afternoon. Regarding legislation of special interest to the Northern portion of the state Senator Stephens said:

"The prospects for the passage of the drainage law seems to be bright. Its provisions are identical with those of the old law practically, with the addition of a provision allowing the draining of meandered private lakes. In committee of the whole in the senate Friday the bill was recommended to pass and was placed on the calendar. It will probably be reached Tuesday when 32 votes are necessary for its passage.

"There was considerable opposition from the duck hunters of the Twin cities who prefer that the Lakes and swamps be left as they are, for fear draining them would spoil duck hunting, but I do not believe the stiff fight they have put up will avail them anything. Instead of having duck ponds for shooting, if the meandered lakes are drained there will be more wheat fields for chicken shooting.

"The bill for the school of agriculture at Crookston which on general orders in the house, is in the hands of the committee on education in the Senate with good prospects for a favorable report.

"It is probable that the new code will be reported in the senate Tuesday. Its disposition is problematical. If the senators determine that it has been exhaustively examined it will probably pass, but its fate is still indefinite."

Regarding the reciprocal demurrage bill new and important features are cropping out it seems. There is a desire apparent to probe deep for the effect of the clause which gives to the state railway and warehouse commission the power, after a petition has been presented asking for it, to suspend the law for a period not to exceed sixty days in any one year. If the law should be suspended from the 15th day of September to the 15th of November in this section of the state there are some doubts as to whether the desired benefits would be secured.

Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils that enter into the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size 75c. At all druggists. A. L. Reichert.

BADGER.

A few young folks spent Sunday evening at the home of L. C. Cadieux of Terrebonne.

Celestine Champeau, daughter of Pete Champeau of Red Lake Falls, is visiting at the home of her grandfather Dolphis Champeau, since last week.

Mrs. Fediana Gregoire left Saturday for her home after spending a week with her sister-in-law, Mrs. O. Robillard.

D. Champeau and lady visited at the homes of C. Cadieux and Jos. Laurant, of Terrebonne, Sunday.

Wm. Montreuil called on Miss Valida St. Marie, of Terrebonne, Sunday.

Fred Morinville visited with his parents and friends a few days last week.

M. Quesnelle numbered among the sick this week.

Jos. Ducharme was a business caller in the neighborhood Monday morning.

Messrs. and Mesdames Louis St. Ives and Regis Gagnon visited at O. Robillard's Sunday.

Messrs. Louis Demarais and Frank Gervais, of Red Lake Falls, passed thru the Badger line Sunday.

Adelard Laurent and lady spent Sunday evening at O. Robillard.

Louis Quesnelle drove to Terrebonne after a load of feed Monday.

Anthony Quesnelle was a caller at the homes of his brothers, M. and E. Quesnelle Sunday.

NATIVE GRASSES FOR FEED.

Great Results From Feeding Hay Properly Put Up.

Here is an item from the Aitkin Age which ought to be read by all farmers who feed hay and where is the farmer who doesn't. The Age says:

"A party of business men visited the Davidson-McRae ranch last Thursday to see what is being done there in the way of wintering stock on native hay. In the party were B. M. Hungerford, B. R. Hassman, H. J. Petraburg and Mr Brown of LaPorte City Iowa.

"The ranch has from 12,000 to 15,000 acres in it and is located five miles south of Kimberly. W. L. Nevius, the manager is a stockman of wide acquaintance and experience and came here two years ago to see what could be done with stock on wild and cut over lands. His success has exceeded the greatest expectations.

"Several hundred head of cattle are being wintered in open sheds on native hay only and they are in splendid condition. Mr. Brown who has spent his life in handling stock said after looking over the herd that never before had he seen cattle anywhere come through in such excellent condition on hay alone. But Mr. Nevius insists that the hay must be cut and put up at the proper time and their 800 tons were all in the stack before July 6 about the time most of the old settlers commenced haying. The green, fragrant, nutritious hay is made when the life is in the grass and is cured and stacked quickly. Leaving hay in the field to die and bleached out whether standing or cut makes it almost worthless and this is the way too much of the native grass is treated.

"Mr. Nevins is demonstrating that stockmen must get away from old prejudices and carelessness and adopt intelligent, modern methods if they would succeed and make money. On that same ranch scores of cattle died before Mr. Nevius took charge and all the stock was in a miserable shape.

"There is also a fine bunch of young colts on the place that were foaled there and all are looking fine.

"While these results are being reached with wild hay, greater things are being accomplished through clover and timothy on these cut over lands in the manager's labor-saving ways. But that's another story."

PLUMMER

(From the Pioneer.)

W. G. Brown yesterday hauled out the lumber and commenced the building of a house on the reservation claim of Eivind Aakhus.

Adolph Nelson drove down to Red Lake Falls on Thursday evening to attend to some business and visit with his numerous friends there.

P. K. Olson went to Red Lake Falls on Monday to spend a few days visiting with his family and looking after some business matters.

Cole Rice, of Wyandotte, was here on Monday on his way to Red Lake Falls with the pelt of an unusually large timber wolf which he had killed on Sunday. The wolf's hide measured five feet eight inches in length.

Dr. F. H. Gambell was down from Thief River Falls on Monday night on a professional call. He took advantage of the opportunity to subscribe for the Pioneer and thus keep posted on the happenings in this thriving village.

J. E. Buskirk and J. M. Reed made up their minds to represent Plummer at the St. Patricks Day festivities at Mrs. Con Short's home in Equality last night. They returned home this morning and report having had a most enjoyable time.

S. A. Swanson was out yesterday from Red Lake Falls calling on friends and transacting business. He is agent in this county for the celebrated Acme Harrows and his announcement as to prices etc will be found in our advertising columns.

County Commissioners Sutor, Demann and Johnson went out to Equality on Sunday last to look over the place where it is proposed to build the new bridge across the Clearwater river. They are satisfied that a bridge is needed there and it will be built provided the cost is within reaching distance.

Mrs. Con Short and J. C. Walker were here Thursday on their way home from Red Lake Falls. They extended invitations to their friends here to attend a grand St. Patrick's Day ball which was given at Mrs. Short's place last night. The ball is an annual event among the good people out east and makes March 17th about the most enjoyable day on the calendar for all who attend.

Mike Dale, of Emmons, Minn., arrived here on Monday night to spend a few days purchasing cattle in this vicinity and visiting with his old friend, Paul I. D. Ostby.

CENSUS BILL TO PASS.

Provision Abont Made to Take Census This Year.

Numerous people in this and adjoining counties are interested in the bill that will be passed at the present session of the legislature for taking the state census. The bill has been before the senate committee and recommended to pass and undoubtedly will become a law in practically its present form. It establishes a census bureau, with Secretary of State P. E. Hanson as its chief. He is given $500 for his supervision, but is allowed an assistant superintendent by law whose compensation is fixed at $1,800. He is authorized to name enumerators, and is to give preference to discharged soldiers and sailors. The enumeration is to begin June 1, shall be completed on or before July 1, and returns are to be in the hands of the superintendents not later than July 10, 1905. A graduated renumeration is provided. In cities of 5,000 and over $2 for each 100 inhabitants is paid; in cities, villages and towns of less than 5,000 persons, enumerators are to receive $2.25 for each 100 persons, and in all other districts, excepting certain sparsely settled districts, a fee of 2½ cents a person is provided. In districts where the population is widely scattered the superintendent is authorized on his judgment to allow from $2 to $3 a day for the work of enumeration. No claim for traveling expenses is to be recognized. The census is to specifically include the names of soldiers and sailors of the civil and Spanish wars residing in the state. Data is to include the sex, age, color, nativity, occupation, parentage and period of residence of the people enumerated. Authority is given the superintendent to occupy rooms in either the old or the new capitol for the census bureau. It is expected that quarters will be provided in the old state capitol for the compilation of the work.

ST. HILAIRE

(From the Spectator.)

W. B. Fuller, of Thief River Falls, was a business caller here Tuesday.

Peter Englestad, the town clerk of Rocksbury was here on business yesterday.

Miss Dolly Pettingill entertained the ladies's whist club at the Hotel Markham last evening.

A. C. Wilkinson, the Great Northern attorney at Crookston, was a visitor here last Monday.

Former residents of St. Hilaire appear to be about the whole thing over at Plummer when they hold an election. Last Tuesday Julius Pleth was elected a member of the council, C. W. Latta landed on the recordership and also as justice of the peace, Henry Enderle will be treasurer and Oscar Carlson constable.

Miss Catherine Pirath has not been able to teach the past week owing to sickness and she went to Red Lake Falls for a short rest. Her mother came up on Wednesday, returning the next day.

Hon. L. C. Simons came up from St. Paul and spent a short time at the Merchants State Band.

Sheriff Linuihan was a visitor here last Tuesday. He was busy serving summons on those drawn for the grand and petit juries.

Mrs. J. E. Aague and Miss Rose Daumont came up from Red Lake Falls last evening and are being entertained by Miss Dolly Pettingill.

Landlord Arthur of the Hotel Markham almost caused a riot yesterday among his Irish boarders when he served "sour krout" for dinner on St. Patrick's day.

There is considerable speculation in the county why Judge Watts issued a call for a grand jury as there is apparently nothing in sight for the jury to work on. It is probable that something will develop.

The basket social given by the Modern Woodmen last Tuesday evening for the benefit of Jacob Emerson, one of their members who lost an arm, was a decided success in every way. The ladies furnished forty-two baskets well filled with good things to eat and they all sold at good prices, realizing over sixty dollars, which the lodge will send to Mr. Emerson.

Assistant General Manager Brown and Engineer of Maintenance Dovie of the Great Northern, accompanied by Master Carpenter Mille, were over this line in a private car last Thursday. It is stated that the object of the trip was to look over the new track connecting with the N. P. at Red Lake Falls, which has already caused considerable trouble. The cuts at Red Lake Falls have always given some trouble, but the sliding embankment they have there now is the worst the company has struck for a long time. It is not known when the work will be safe for trains to run over that way.

WASHINGTON SCHOOL NOTES.

Lucy Matthies and Joseph Tschirhert, reporters.

Little Marie Garceau visited the second grade last Friday.

Ernest Patnode visited the second grade Monday.

Some of the boys have begun to make mud marbles.

Bernard and Peter Febro were absent Monday.

The sixth grade has started the study of the Revolutionary war.

The fifth grade pupils got their papers in geography back and many were disappointed with their marks.

Mr. Healy took his own room Wednesday morning on account of Mrs. Chamberlain's temporary illness.

Fred Schmitz received a snow ball in the eye and Preston Hall took a seat in the mud.

St. Patrick's Day was celebrated by wearing green ribbons.

The pupils have been washing and sand papering their desks during the recesses. As a result we have many white desks in the room.

The sixth grade has begun reading a series of reference in connection with their history.

Gisela Helm has been absent for a week or more because of sickness.

Our athletics have had a rest because of the snow and muddy weather.

Marie Garceau and Annie Patnaude have begun school in the primary department.

For the remainder of the year it will be required of the fifth and sixth grade pupils of our school to take home their books in whatever lesson they have failed in during the month. It is hoped that all parents who read these notes will see to it that their child puts forth an extra effort and does at least a half hour of study at home. It is only by making the work in the grades thoro that we have a good high school.

We have had a change in readers, both grades having Harpers. For our "Chinese Reading" we have special readers dealing with history.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer climate, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. If Thief River Falls has so much regard for the people of Red Lake county, why did she use all her influence to defeat the organization of what is today one of the best counties in the valley. They had a knife up their sleeve once for you voters, and they still have it to use on you if they ever get the chance.

Thief River Falls would bring an expense unlimited upon the tax-payers of the county if they had the chance, by moving the county seat and making the people pay for it, but in the meantime they are attempting to make the people believe they have the interests of the county at heart. Look out for the hidden knife.

Thief River Falls is a friend to the tax-payer. Oh, yes! When they have a criminal action—which is very common occurrence there—they immediately find out if the culprit has any cash and if it is found that he has, the "municipal court" imposes a fine and gets a rake-off for the city treasury. If the fellow happens to be broke he is bound over to await the action of the grand jury and the tax payers foot the bill They love the tax-payers a whole lot, but they love what money they can bleed them for a whole lot better.

When those Thief River grafters ask you to aid them in their bunco steering game against the people, and profess such great interest in the welfare of the county, gently ask them why they so bitterly opposed the friends of Red Lake county at the time of the separation from Polk. If they had been successful in their dirty attempt to defeat justice, Red Lake county would today be practically a wilderness, and your own home which you value so highly wouldn't be worth what it costs you every year for seed. Remember this farmers, when these wolves in sheep's clothing approach you. They have an axe to grind, and you'll be the ones who will have to manipulate the crank on the grindstone.

ROOSEVELT, THE MAN.

With firmness equal to his fearlessness, President Roosevelt has grasped hold upon the really vital problems of this nation's destiny.

He has ceased to be a politician and has become the statesman. The difference is marked. The statesman is driver who holds the reins and whip and controls the brake, while the politician sits in the coach arguing about its destination.

Roosevelt is not a republican president, but is the president of all the people. In him is personified the spirit and purpose of all the masses. His sympathies are with the burden-bearers and are alive and keen.

The ever-increasing load of wrongs which for years the common people sought to have lightened—and have failed in their lack of concentration and capable leadership—Roosevelt has resolutely seized and is seeking to shift.

Other presidents have equivocated and compromised, failing to comprehend or fearing to grasp the one great question that for two decades has filled the hearts of the American people with discontent and misgivings; Roosevelt does not for a moment fear or falter.

For him the powerful trusts have no terrors. Within him is the virile spirit of the people and supporting him is the irresistible strength to a nation of freemen.

If heretofore the trusts have seemed stronger than the government it has been because the trusts have had stronger men at the head of them than the government has had at its head. Today the situation is being reversed.

A man has appeared in the presidency who is worthy of the high place.

He is demonstrating the real meaning of self government. The confused babble of discontent is being electrified by him into clear speech The indefinable longings of millions are being moulded into definate policy.

Washington and Lincoln taught the world to know us. Roosevelt is teaching us to know ourselves. They wrought independence and union; he is developing our manhood and self respect.—St. Paul News.

Kicker's Kolumn.

Conducted by Hennery W. Punk.

My name is Hennery W. Punk. At an early age I developed a propensity for getting into trouble, and determined to become a lawyer so that I could stir up all the trouble I wanted to, at other people's expense.

I have been very successful in getting people into trouble, but a failure in getting them out again. My friends, the Sheehans, who ran a woolen factory, never had a law suit until they employed me as their lawyer. Since then they have never been without one.

I once determined to be elected Judge, so that I could decide troubles as well as make them. But as I was the only one who wanted me to be Judge, I was not elected.

In the course of a long and frightful life, I have arrived at some conclusions.

Here are a few of them:

Human society is made up of two classes,—grafters and suckers. I am not a sucker.

Red Lake county is populated by myself and some other people. These other people are my natural prey. They are called tax-payers. They employ certain servants to gather in the taxes which pay for carrying on the local government. All taxes are paid to these tax gatherers, and salted down in the county treasury.

Wherein doth Hennery W. Punk profit by this?

Not one shekel.

Therefor, it is wrong.

Could these taxes but be diverted into the pockets of Hennery W. Punk in a bright golden stream, all would be well. No tax could be too high.

If this were indeed a happy possibility, the levy should be doubled, yea, trebled!

But since no part of the coin is paid to me, the taxes must be too high, the tax-gatherers, corrupt.

We must look into this.

Is there no way whereby these servants of the tax-payers may be held up and relieved of the shining dollar?

I will shout "Graft, Graft," from the house-tops, and see what effect it has.

I will move against them the heavy artillery of the law.

As fast as one injunction is turned down, another shall take its place.

I will pile expenses mountain high, for, behold, the tax-payers are always there to pay, and I lose nothing but my breath.

Perchance some fearful one may finally hold out the long green, and weakly say, "Let us have peace".

Then, indeed, it will not be a piece, but the whole thing I will have.

Speed the day.

In my own town, I am already dreaded. Even the earth quakes at my tread, and at my approach, the powers that rule bow down their heads and hand over the coin. Fear hath ever been a better friend to me than law. Fear once inspired pays My kind of law often fizzles out.

Perchance, in some future chapter we may discourse further,

Until then, Farewell,
HENNERY W. PUNK

New Amusement Place.

Oliver Caron of this city will open up a new shooting gallery in the Thief River Falls Lumber Co.'s shed, next door to Zaiser Bros.' barn, Saturday of this week, and respectfully solicits the patronage of the public. Mr. Caron will have his place fitted up with good targets, and will charge five cents for three shots, or seven for ten cents. He will have some first-class rifles and will undoubtedly do a good business. It is his intention to make improvements in his place as fast as the business will warrant, and by the time summer arrives he will undoubtedly have a fine place. A shooting gallery furnishes excellent amusement at a nominal cost, and The Gazette bespeaks for Mr. Caron an excellent patronage.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Athenian Editors—Stella Hennemuth, Mike Connaughty and Paul Brunnelle.

The plane geometry class had a test Tuesday

The freshies are studying rhetoric. Wonder what they intend to make of themselves.

It is reported that there will be only two more programs after the one tomorrow.

The Chemistry class are having pleasant times after school when they don't get their examples.

Wanted—Scrubbing to do, Willing to work both day and night. Employee must furnish Sapollo. Call at the "Lesher Burn" club rooms at 9:30 p.m.

How about the program given by the Athenians last Friday? It was an excellent one, which showed much preparation and study on the part of those who gave it. They received 47.74 points.

If the Spartans keep on blowing about how they have the banner cinched, we shall be forced to send them to the windy up river city—Thief River Falls—where there are a few more windy ones.

The destiny of one of our Senior boys is a railroad man, for Monday afternoon he got so interested in the unloading of a train of gravel that he forgot to go to school where he was booked to stay till five o'clock.

To steal a chicken without it squawking is a very hard task, but under the directions of a young druggist and a young butcher, it was easily accomplished last Friday night.

The boys of the High School have a new song called "Blue Bells". It is a very pretty song but it does not sound good when sung while marching.

Viola Longtin and Hugo Ittner both of the class of '07, have left school for the rest of the term. We hope to see them back next fall. Hugo would be a whirlwind of a tackle and would be able to fill the hole his brother, Wm. of '04 left in the line.

The Seniors got their class pins and wonderful to relate they (the pins) are beauties.

Another instance of Thief River Falls wit was displayed by the Spartans last week when they said they got 43 points for their last program, but they only got 37.

The Cicero class is getting brighter every day.

The boys are all hoping that the weather will soon clear up as they are anxious to go in training for the base-ball and track team.

Miss Iddings will resume her work at school next Monday.

One of the Junior boys came near going into the lower regions, through a hole in the floor of the assembly room.

A bright Junior doesn't know who the vice president of the U.S. is Wonder where she has been for the last eight months.

Inexpensive Houses.

Thief River Press: It is said that log houses have been much in fashion among the settlers living close to the river on the 11 towns and the Thief River Falls Lumber company has caused a little investigation to be done. The result is that they estimate that about $1 000 worth of logs have been taken from the river by settlers and converted into buildings and are going to make an effort to put a stop to this practice.

County Attorney Germo was up from Red Lake Falls last week and authorized Judge Bishop to issue warrants for the arrest of two settlers, who will be tried for the offense. A special law governs offenses of this kind and provides for a fine of not less than $50 and three months in jail.

Statement from Commissioner Demann.

I notice in the Plummer Pioneer of the issue of March 11th that a detrimental statement and a cry of graft was made against citizens of the City of Red Lake Falls. Now, I have been a Commissioner in Red Lake county from its infancy, with other Commissioners, and know from my own personal knowledge that the citizens of Red Lake Falls have not appeared before the commissioners with a request for anything as often as the citizens of Plummer have already done, and further that during the seven years the city of Red Lake Falls has received but $99 in the way of improvements of any kind from the county.

The building of the bridge across the Red Lake river was demanded by the farmers north of the city and was put in accordance with the County Attorney's opinion and the Judge of the presiding district and it was built for $2500 less than a similiar bridge in Polk County. Commissioner Ole Johnson voted for this measure with others.

Regarding the Court House offer of Matt Skala, it is very true that Mr. Skala and Mr. Brady offered the opera house on the north side of the city to be used as a court house for three years free of charge. When the commissioners took the matter under consideration with the view of accepting the proposition the parties then withdrew the part of the offer relative to furnishing the building. The estimated cost of furnishing the building as a court house including a vault was estimated at $3,000 and it was thought best by the commissioners at that time to continue paying rent for the present building rather than make the change. The cry of graft is all nonsense. All bills against the county have been properly presented and passed on by the County Attorney and the board of the County Commissioners have always thought they got full value for all things purchased and paid for.

The rentals of the court house have been as follows: In 1899 it was $357.50, in 1900 $477.50, 1901 $537.50, 1902 $679, 1903 $598 83, 1904 $490.67, making a total of $3136.50; the city of Red Lake Falls having furnished a free court house for the first two years of the existence of said Red Lake county. Under the circumstances of having paid the above amount of rent and having a sufficient sum in the court house fund for which a court house could be purchased and the County Attorney ruling that such an action was proper. It appeared like a good bargain and business like to purchase the property for $4,000 than to continue paying rent, and since it was purchased I am convinced it was a good deal for Red Lake County as a part of the buildings on this property are now renting for $200 per annum which would be 5 per cent on the investment to the county leaving a free court house to the county of Red Lake.

The building has amply accommodated the officers for the past eight years and we have every reason to believe that the building is fully capable of supplying the wants of the county for the next fifteen years without any material improvement over shing ing. You people who are crying "graft"—why aren't you more specific and lay your charges to some one's door and not always be crying "wolf" "wolf" "wolf" when there is none to to be seen

Exerie Chatel returned Monday from the timber country over east, where he had been to secure his horses that have been worked in the woods this winter.

Mrs. A. M. Anderson entertained a number of the girl friends of Miss Lena Hansen Saturday at a six o'clock dinner. An elaborate menu was served and all enjoyed themselves immensely.

Wm. Schuman and family, who have lived on a farm in Lake Pleasant township for the past several years, shipped their stock and household goods to Nobles county, where they will make their home again. Mr. Schuman lived in Nobles county before coming here.

A London paper offered a prize for the best definition of a baby. The last one of the following took the prize: "A bachelor's horror, the mother's treasure, and the most despotic ruler of the most republican household." "The morning caller, the noon day crawler and midnight bawler." "The only precious possession that never exites envy." "The latest edition of humanity, of which every couple possess the finest copy." "A native of all countries, who speaks the language of none." "A few inches of coo and wiggle, writhe and scream, filled with suction and testing apparatus for milk with automatic alarm to regulate supply." "A thing we are expected to kiss and look as if we enjoyed it."

Court convenes Monday.

Louis Sieff was in from Plummer Monday.

Miss Dora Marchand visited over Sunday with the home folks.

Mrs. G. H. Tibbetts spent Tuesday at Wylie visiting A. O. Davison and family.

P. K. Olson returned to Plummer Saturday after spending the week with his family here.

Ralph D. Converse, who is attending the Crookston Business College, spent Saturday and Sunday with his parents and friends here.

Z. A. Cadieux spent Saturday with his father here. He is at present employed as mail clerk on the G. N. between Grand Forks and Minot but is in hopes of being transferred to the T line shortly.

Paul Reick held an auction sale of his stock, machinery, etc, at his residence in the city Monday and a large crowd attended. Mr. Reick will leave within the next couple of weeks for Waseca, where he has purchased property and will live in the future.

Vic Knight came down from the Itasca county woods Tuesday and has been spending several days of the week shaking hands with his many friends and looking after some business matters. Vic reports his family well and prospering, and says that things are booming in the wood country over east.

A communication received a few days ago by A. W. Krohn, assistant cashier of the bank of Fosston, from State Public Examiner and Supt. of Banks P. M. Kerst, asking as to his willingness to accept an appoinment as deputy bank examiner, came as an agreeable surprise to the recipient, he having made no effort to secure the place. However Mr. Krohn's reply was favorable and yesterday he received another letter from the public examiner officially notifying him of his appointment.

E. B. Howes Sundayed at St. Hilaire.

A. O. Davison and children drove in from Wylie Friday.

Mrs. Chas. N. Bourdon spent Sunday in Crookston visiting at the home os George Ralph.

Alfred Morinville left Saturday for Crookston, where he has accepted a position for the summer.

Mrs. C. C. Jackson, of Thief River Falls, was a guest at the home of Mrs. E. F. Marshall Friday and Saturday.

Frank Brady has returned home from Plummer, having completed a successful term of school near that place last Friday.

James Rosunnsen, a prominent Gervais farmer, was a caller here Tuesday and enrolled himself among The Gazette's happy family of readers.

Mrs Georgianna Marchand went to Willow City, North Dakota, Monday morning, being called there by the illness of Mrs. Pepin. She expected to remain a week or more.

Simon Patnode and family left last week for Rainy River, Ontario, where they will make their future home. They had long been residents of Red Lake Falls and their departure is to be regretted.

Electrician Sam Allard is confined to his bed with an attack of typhoid fever and is reported as being quite sick. The many friends of the genial Sam will hope that a change for the better may soon come.

Grand Rapids Independent: Miss Bertha LaFreniere, who is teaching the Wauhana school was here on her way to Wauhana from Northome where she spent a weeks vacation the guest of Mrs. A. L. and Miss Emily LaFreniere.

The South Side club held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. W. P. O'Brien last Saturday afternoon. The usual good time was had, and Mrs. O'Brien provided a spread of eatables that would make anybody happy, and the members of the club did ample justice to the repast

Wm. Erb came in from his claim on the reservation Friday and has been spending the week here. His daughter, Miss Mary, is quite ill with typhoid fever at Minneapolis, and Mr. Erb wanted to be here where he could get daily reports as to her condition. He reports that a great many new residents are moving onto the reservation these days and that the advent of spring will see that part of the county make rapid strides towards settlement.

Casper Pope, who has lived in Lake Pleasant township for several years, left Monday with his family for Munster, Manitoba, where he has taken a homestead and will live in the future. Mr. Pope has had much misfortune during the past year, with sickness in his family etc., and before leaving Wm. Scharper presented him with a purse of $55, which he collected among the business people here, and other friends throughout the county. Mr. Pope was very grateful for the remembrance, and desired The Gazette to heartily thank Mr. Schaper and the people generally for their kindness. He has great hopes for the future in his new home in Canada, and the people here will sincerely trust that good fortune may abide with him.

Maude Findelsen spent Sunday with the home folks.

Deputy Sheriff George Jarman was here between trains Monday.

Mrs. G. G. Kinseth spent the fore part of the week visiting friends at Thief River Falls.

Miss Anna Fortier drove in from Gentilly Sunday and spent the day at the home of Jos. Fortier.

Mrs. H. J. Kaufer returned Monday after a week spent at the Murphy home in Thief River Falls.

Tailor L. E. Erickson moved into his new quarters on Second street last Saturday and is now comfortably settled.

Remember to make arrangements to attend the band concert Tuesday evening of next week. A good program is in store for you.

Sheriff Dan Linnihan has been out through the country the past week summoning jurors for the term of court which convenes next Monday.

Garceau & Zaiser have a good sized space in the Gazette this week, acquainting the readers with their many handsome spring lines of goods. Look it up.

Christie Bros., who have lived on a farm in Lake Pleasant some little time, left Monday with their goods and machinery for Marshalltown, Iowa, where they will live in the future.

G. Zachrison, of St. Paul, a member of the engineer department of the Great Northern, arrived here Monday and will look after the engineering part of the construction work being done here.

Joseph Baril returned Friday from a winter's trip through northwestern Canada. He reports the outlook for that section of the country very bright and says all the old Red Lake Falls people whom he met are prospering.

The meeting called for the purpose of organizing a new class as an auxiliary to the local band organization last Saturday evening, was attended by some thirty-five young men of the city, and steps were taken towards the organization of a beginners' band, the first meeting of which will be held this evening. The new band will start out with a fair instrumentation, about twenty having already secured instruments, and others will join as soon as arrangements can be made for horns. Prof. A. Unstad will have charge of the new band, and under his guidance they will undoubtedly make rapid progress, and be added to the regular organization within a few months. The band spirit is very pronounced here at present, and the indications are that Red Lake Falls will not only have the best but the biggest band in Minnesota within the next year. The regular organization now numbers 28, and with the addition of from ten to thirty new members within a year, the Red Lake Falls band will be a "hummer". The parents should encourage their boys in their desire to join the new class, and if they do this there can be no question as to the outcome.

J. P. Harren has been a victim of the grippe this week.

Arthur LaPlante was on the grippe list a couple of days this week.

K. M. Hanson kept the Sabbath with his family at Thief River Falls.

Miss Bridgetta Connaughty has commenced a term of school near Dugdale.

The K. P.'s will hold their regular meeting Monday evening. A good attendance is desired.

P. O. Floan spent Tuesday in Crookston on business connected with the Bank of Red Lake Falls.

Catherine Pirath, who is employed in the St. Hilaire schools, spent Saturday at her home here.

Mrs. J. E. Argue and Miss Rose Dautremont spent last Friday night the guests Miss Pettingill at St. Hilaire,

Mrs. John E. King went down to St. Paul Saturday evening and spent Sunday with State Librarian King. Mr. King will be up the latter part of the week and will move his family to St. Paul within the next ten days.

E. B. Howes and Percy Oehler, members of the Great Northern engineer crew who have been located here since last fall, left Tuesday for York, North Dakota, where they will do some work for the company. During their stay here these young men have made a great many friends among the people of Red Lake Falls who regretted exceedingly to see them leave, but who along with The Gazette will hope that prosperity may abide with them where ever they cast their lot.

County Attorney Germo was a visitor at Plummer Sunday.

F. A. Grady was in Crookston attending to some legal business.

Attorney Chas. E Boughton was a business caller at Plummer Friday.

Attorney Perl W. Mabey was a caller here from Thief River Falls Tuesday.

Miss Scharr, one of St. Hilaire's school teachers, spent Saturday as the guest of Mrs. Dr. Argue.

Foreman Livingstone, who has charge of the pile driving work being done here, returned yesterday from a brief trip to St. Paul.

State Librarian John E. King came up from St. Paul yesterday and will spend several days here packing up his household goods preparatory to moving to St. Paul to live.

Judge of Probate N. W. Tarrant is now a "bloted bond holder" in the strictest sense of the word, as the first of the week he filed on a homestead in section 13, Equality township having purchased a relinquishment on the land from Tom Green. Nick proposes to take up his residence on the land, and later become a hony handed son of toil, letting the political game with its magnetic attractions strictly alone. This may be his intentions, but the Gazette hopes that the people will have something to say in the matter, and that they will positively refuse to allow him to leave the Judge of Probate office for several years to come. Nick is too good an officer and fellow to lose, and we will see that he is held to it whether he wants to be or not.

MAJOR WARNER CHOSEN.

Succeeds F. M. Cockrell as Senator From Missouri.

Jefferson City, Mo., March 20.—Amid scenes of the wildest disorder, Major William H. Warner of Kansas City, veteran of the Civil war and United States attorney for the district of Kansas City, was elected to the United States senate to succeed Francis Marion Cockrell.

The hands of the clock were first turned back, then smashed, in order that a senator might be elected before the hour fixed for the adjournment of the legislature.

Democrats replaced the hands on the battered clock and fixed them at 3 o'clock, then declared that the hour of adjournment had passed and demanded a vote on a motion to dissolve. Speaker Hill refused to hear the motion, and Senator Nelson, Dem., of St. Louis rushed to the rostrum and tried to heave the speaker away in his arms. Several fights resulted and the scene for the next fifteen minutes was one that is without a parallel in the history of Missouri legislatures. Finally order was restored and then Colonel R. C. Kerens announced that his followers would vote for Warner. The seventh and last ballot of the day and the sixty-seventh taken in joint session was then taken. The ballot stood:

Warner, 91; Cockrell, 83; Niedringhaus, 1; total, 175.

OVER A SCORE KILLED

TWENTY-FOUR MEN MEET DEATH IN COLLIERIES AT THURMOND, W. VA.

Charleston, W. Va., March 20.—As the result of the horrible explosion in the Rush Run and Red Ash mines near Thurmond Saturday night twenty-four men now lie dead in the two mines. Ten of these were killed in the explosion Saturday night and the other fourteen were a rescuing party who entered the mine Sunday morning to take from the mines the charred and blackened remains of their fellow workmen. These latter were killed by a second explosion and the afterdamp.

The first explosion was caused by a "naked" flame coming in contact with the gas. The flames leaped from the drift mouth and set fire to everything that was not blown away by the force of the explosion. The big fan that furnished air in the mine was damaged and it was several hours before it could be again started.

After considerable time the great fan was repaired and the power turned on and it began drawing 100,000 cubic feet of air through the charnel house each minute. A rescue party was formed and about twenty men entered the mine in search of the bodies of those who had perished at the first explosion. The men explored the mines for two or three hours, putting up brattices so that pure air should follow them wherever they went. At 3:45 another awful explosion occurred, caused by the gas coming in contact with the "naked" flame of a miner's lamp, and fourteen more souls were launched into eternity. This explosion was not so forcible as the former, but the more awful in its effects and was followed by a shorter, thin tongue of flame, followed by a silence so deadly that it seemed physically painful.

FOUND IN THE RIVER

BODY OF SUPPOSED ACCOMPLICE OF ALLEGED ST. PAUL MURDERER.

St. Paul, March 17.—The body of a young man, identified as that of Joseph Hartman, alleged accomplice of Edward Gottschalk, accused murderer of Christian H. Schudeidecker, was found during the afternoon in the Mississippi river near where Gottschalk and Hartman were last seen together.

The discovery was made by Patrolmen Gueron and Melrose, who have been dragging the river for several days under directions from Chief of Police O'Connor.

The search for Hartman, dead, began when the young man's father declared that Gottschalk had put the young man out of the way to prevent him from confessing the murder.

The body was found just below the dam, where it was suspected Hartman might have been thrown into the river.

Gottschalk, who was given a preliminary hearing in the police court on the charge of murdering Schindeidecker, was held to await the action of the grand jury.

TEN THOUSAND MEN IDLE.

Score of Industrial Plants Closed by High Water.

Pittsburg, March 21.—More than a score of industrial plants are crippled and at least 10,000 men are temporarily forced into idleness; costly washouts along the railways bordering the Allegheny have resulted and hundreds of stores are flooded as the result of one of the fiercest flood rampages the Allegheny has been on for years. The rampage, however, has ended.

The monetary damage cannot now be definitely estimated. Fortunately only one life has been reported lost as an incident of the flood. This was the result of a daring attempt of Stanley Hilger to cross the Ohio in a skiff.

EXTRA SESSION AT AN END.

Senate Adjourns Without Disposing of Santo Domingo Treaty.

Washington, March 20.—The extra session of the senate was brought to a conclusion at 3:39 p. m. without disposing of the Santo Domingo treaty.

The resolution by Mr. Teller requesting the president to send to the senate certain information relating to Santo Domingo affairs was laid before the senate when it convened and after a discussion by Messrs. Teller, Cullom, Daniel, Lodge and Morgan the resolution was referred to the committee on foreign relations and the senate went into executive session.

At 2 p. m. the senate formally reached the decision that the Santo Domingo treaty could not be ratified. Pending nominations were disposed of and a committee was sent to notify the president that the senate was ready to adjourn.

CARRIED ON BOARD SHIP.

Secretary Hay Overcome by Weakness While Embarking for Europe.

New York, March 20.—Secretary of State Hay was taken ill as he was about to board the White Star liner Cretic for a voyage into the Mediterranean and became so weak that he was taken on board the steamer in a wheeled chair. That his condition was not regarded as alarming seemed apparent, however, as the steamer started on her voyage without delay.

Off Sandy Hook the ship signalled: "Hay is better."

ADAMS IS UNSEATED

DEMOCRATIC GOVERNOR OF COLORADO DEPOSED BY VOTE OF THE LEGISLATURE.

Denver, March 17.—James H. Peabody has won his contest for the office of governor, from which he retired on Jan. 10 after serving a term of two years, but his victory was achieved only after he had given his pledge to resign and surrender the chair to Lieutenant Governor McDonald.

The vote in joint convention of the general assembly by which Governor Adams was ousted and Governor Peabody installed was 51 to 41. Ten Republicans voted with the Democratic members for Adams.

It was more in the nature of a party than a personal triumph, for both Peabody and McDonald are Republicans and Adams a Democrat.

Governor Peabody's resignation, it is said, was placed in the hands of W. S. Boynton and will be filed by him with the secretary of state.

Governor Peabody was escorted before the joint assembly by a committee after the adoption of the report and the oath of office was administered by Chief Justice Gabbert.

In accordance with the prearranged plan Governor Peabody resigned after occupying the chair twenty-four hours and Lieutenant Governor McDonald (Rep.) was sworn in as chief executive.

GENERAL HAWLEY DEAD.

Former Senator From Connecticut Expires at Washington.

Washington, March 18.—General Joseph R. Hawley, for nearly twenty-four years United States senator from Connecticut, died early in the morning at his residence in this city, seventy-eight years of age. Death came peacefully after a stupor lasting with but slight interruptions since Wednesday afternoon. At his bedside when the end came were Mrs. Hawley, her three daughters and Major Hooks, for a long time messenger to the committee on military affairs of the senate.

THE GREAT FAMILY MEDICINE

Thedford's Black-Draught comes nearer regulating the entire system and keeping the body in health than any other medicine made. It is always ready in any emergency to treat ailments that are frequent in any family, such as indigestion, biliousness, colds, diarrhœa, and stomach aches.

Thedford's Black-Draught is the standard, never-failing remedy for stomach, bowel, liver and kidney troubles. It is a cure for the domestic ills which so frequently summon the doctor. It is as good for children as it is for grown persons. A dose of this medicine every day will soon cure the most obstinate case of dyspepsia or constipation, and when taken as directed brings quick relief.

DANVILLE, ILL., Dec. 23, 1902.

Thedford's Black-Draught has been our family doctor for five years and we want no other. When any of us feel badly we take a dose and are all right in twelve hours. We have spent lots of money for doctor bills, but get along just as well with Black-Draught. IRA H. BADER.

Ask your dealer for a package of Thedford's Black-Draught and if he does not keep it send 25c. to The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn. and a package will be mailed to you.

THEDFORD'S BLACK DRAUGHT

Suffering

Will Not Help Your Disease, but Will Weaken Your Nerves.

Folks who think it is better to bear pain than soothe it—are wrong.

Old-fashioned doctors used to say it was better, because they had nothing with which to ease pain but dangerous, heart-paralyzing drugs.

But now, that a safe remedy has been found, Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, it is wrong to suffer, for nothing can be gained but weakened nerves.

A safe rule to remember is: When in pain, take an Anti-Pain Pill.

This will soothe your quivering nerves.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills relieve pain by restoring the natural secretions, in which they differ from opium and similar narcotic drugs, which relieve pain by checking the action of the glands.

They are sure and harmless, and are the latest medical treatment for the cure of Headache, Neuralgia, Backache, Rheumatism, Dizziness, Toothache, Stomachache, Menstrual (Monthly) Pains. Also nerve irritations like Sea-Sickness, Car-Sickness, Sleeplessness, Indigestion, etc.

Pleasant to take, quick in results.

"I have used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for sick, nervous headache, and have received the best results. I heartily recommend their curative properties, for they are successful."—REV. RAY A. WATROS, D. D., Iowa City, Ia.

Sold by druggists, at 25c. Money back if first box does not help. Never sold in bulk.

Register of Deeds Jeffers was a caller in the country yesterday.

Louis Sleff was in from Plummer yesterday after some supplies.

S. A. Swanson was a caller at Wylie Monday and again Wednesday.

Five new subscribers this week. Not so bad, considering our lack of "pull."

Joe Schlosser goes to Thief River Falls this afternoon to resume work with the Soo surveying crew.

O. N. Skomedatd, one of the bustling Garnes farmers, was a caller here yesterday attending to some matters at the court house.

Clem Brunelle will go to Grand Forks this afternoon to confer with Captain Jenks, of the Great Northern in regard to a situation with that company.

S. A. Swanson has bought and shipped several carloads of oats from Wylie and this city during the past week. Swan keeps busy, whether selling something or buying something else, and energy always brings success.

William Lenon, formerly a resident of this city, was elected mayor of the village of Kelliher, Beltrami county, last Tuesday. Mr. Lennon is a public spirited citizen and the people of Kelliher showed exceedingly good judgment in their selection.

Jacob Schanno, of Vermillion, Minnesota, was a caller here yesterday, on his way home from a visit with his son in Lambert, having spent the past several days visiting there. Mr. Schanno owns a fine farm in Lambert and makes occasional visits here to see how things are moving, and his visits are always immensely enjoyed by his many friends. The Gazette was favored with a pleasant call.

Thief River Press: Tuesday morning at about 7 o'clock, the house of J. B. Cyr was discovered to be on fire. An alarm was sounded and the chemical engine was soon on the ground followed shortly by water from the engine and the fire was soon extinguished but not until it had done considerable damage. Most of the household goods were carried into the street and saved. The loss was about $300 with no insusrnce.

Look up the ad of Dan Guerin elsewhere in this paper. Mr. Guerin has a carload of the finest specimens of western horses ever brought to this part of the country, now on display at his barn here, and it will pay the farmers to look them over, as they will be sold at your own price. The horses are all halter broken and most of them are broken to drive, so that at the prices they are offered they make excellent bargains. Read the ad and then come and look over the horses.

Henry Cry, a prominent farmer of Poplar River township, spent Tuesday and yesterday in the city with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas Cyr. He had been at Thief River Falls to see how his brother, John B. Cyr, was situated after the loss he sustained by fire one day last week, and found him comfortably housed. J. B. lost his dwelling but saved a greater part of the furniture and will immediately rebuild. His family will go to Brooks and remain with Henry Cyr's family until the new house is finished.

The first accident on the Great Northern extension here occurred yesterday morning when the big engine on the gravel train jumped the track in the cut just behind the Gazette office. The passenger engine and crew were brought into play after that train arrived, however, and the unlucky locomotive was soon pulled onto the track and went on its way rejoicing. The accident was caused by a spreading of the rails, but nothing more serious than a few hours' tie-up resulted.

The bar and fixtures for William Kreuger's new saloon arrived Tuesday and are being put in place for the grand opening, which will occur Saturday of this week. The interior of the building occupied has been completely remodeled, a new hardwood floor, steel ceiling and several other improvements having been added. The new fixtures are strictly up-to-date, and friend Billy will have one of the prettiest places in the northwest when he gets settled. A door has been cut, adjoining his new place to the hotel office, which will without doubt insure him a big business.

Chicago's dollar a year daily, the Chicago Daily Review, is making a wonderful stride in public favor. The Daily Review condenses all the news into a four page paper, and includes a brilliant magazine article by a good author every day, also fine editorials, much choice miscellany and a complete and carefully edited market report. It publishes nothing which can not be read aloud in the family circle, hence is a splendid paper for women and children, as well as a great favorite with busy farmers, workingmen, merchants, lawyers, physicians, ministers, teachers, etc. The subscription price is $1 a year, 75 cents for six months, 50 cents for three months. Send one dollar today for a year's subscription. Address, Chicago Review Co., 599 Coca Cola Building, Chicago, Ill.

NEW SERVICE SOON

Crookston Journal Authority for Statment that Trains Will Run This Way After April 1.

Crookston Journal: This morning Roadmaster Regan of the Great Northern passed through the city enroute to Red Lake Falls with a crew of twenty-five track layers to complete the connections of the Great Northern with the Northern Pacific at that point. This will end the long struggle with the treacherous clay bank at that point. All winter long the company has struggled with the problem of making this cut and completing the connections.

A crew also passed through this morning enroute to Ives station where they will open a gravel pit at the spur and rush the material to Red Lake Falls for completing the cut and grade. All this activity is the result of the visit of Superintendent Ward to that city recently.

The postal authorities have been notified that the mail service will commence from this city to Greenbush via Dugdale and Red Lake Falls on April 1st. A through train will be run and it will go to Greenbush and back daily, being made up here.

The new mail clerks employed will be Z. A. Cadieux and W. A. Onkel in the place of W. A. Conwny now of the Thief River department.

REVIVALS NEXT SUNDAY

Lady Evangelists To Commence Series of Meetings At Presbyterian Church In This City.

The Misses Anna Smith and Nellie Reed, Evangelists working under the General Assembly's Evangelistic committees of the Presbyterian church will commence a series of revival meetings at the Presbyterian church here next Sunday, and will hold a meeting every evening for the two weeks following.

These young women have been holding like meetings throughout the valley for the past couple of years and wherever they have been they have received a royal reception, and the results of their work have been felt. They are both interesting talkers, and have made this their life work, so that our people will certainly be greatly pleased with these meetings during the next two weeks.

Appropriate music will be arranged for, and everything done looking to the success of the series. The church people are anxious that large crowds turn out, and it should be the aim of the citizens to assist them in the good work.

Olaf Tande, the popular town clerk of Garnes, who has been buying grain at Plummer for the Prairie Elevator people, has quit his work and gone back to his farm in Garnes. Mr. Tande was well liked in Plummer and the people there regretted to see him leave.

About twenty of the friends and comrades of Messrs. Howes and Oehler gave them a farewell banquet Monday evening, and one of the best times ever had resulted. Chef. Savard, of the Star restaurant, prepared the spread, which was a guarantee of its "goodness." Speech-making, singing, etc., were indulged in, and the guests of honor were given many assurances of the good will and esteem of the Red Lake Falls people. They both expressed themselves as highly gratified with the treatment accorded them here, and said that their short residence in Red Lake Falls would ever remain a cherished recollection.

The weather the past week has varied from a spell of good stiff winter to some delightful spring weather, and on the whole has been decidedly unsettled but comparatively favorable for this season of the year. The snow has entirely disappeared, a few light rains have fallen and the frost has been coming out of the ground rapidly. With the weather settled the farmers would soon be able to get at their spring work, and a couple of weeks of warm weather would see seeding operations well under way in the valley. The absence of snow will have a tendency to make the ground in good shape earlier than usual, and if the spring rains are not to numerous prospects for a good season are bright. Red Lake county needs a "bumper" crop this year and every resident is earnestly hoping that we will get it.

A new telephone is being installed in Doctor Wilkinson's house this week —No. 72—and he can hereafter be reached by calling this number.

A crowd of young people from town enjoyed a pleasant party at the Nauman home west of the city last evening.

The ladies of the Gilt Edge club entertained their husbands on St. Patrick's night at Mrs. N. W. Tarrant's. All had a royal good time.

Our two new brands of ten cent cigars—the "Corona" and the "Iron Jaw" are superior to any cigars on the market. Give them a trial—J. B. Cigar Co.

Grandma Spillane, who has been very seriously ill for the past two weeks, is not gaining as fast as her family would have her, and is still very low.

The "Iron Jaw" and the "Corona" are two new fine brands of ten cent cigars placed on the market by the J. B. Cigar company this week. They are bound to be winners.

J. B. Armstrong returned yesterday from his trip over east. While away he visited several towns in the interests of the J. B. Cigar company, of this city, and sold a large number of cigars for this popular firm.

Ernest Buse was able to be around town yesterday for the first time in several weeks, having been on the retired list for that length of time. He is feeling fairly well again, but says that he doesn't feel as spry as a spring colt yet, by any means.

S. A. Swanson has renewed his contract as agent for the popular Mutual Life Insurance company of New York. The Mutual people have a large number of policy holders here, and Mr. Swanson expects to increase the list during the coming year.

The Miller Bros. will move their barber shop into the south room of the Boughton building, and are having it fitted up this week. They have ordered a combination pool and billiard table and will install it in the rear of this building, for the accommodation of the public.

Angus Obernalty, county treasurer of Sibley county, was a business caller here yesterday. Mr. Obernalty is an ole-time friend of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Groshong and enjoyed a pleasant visit at their home while in the city.

Agent Tracy, of the Great Northern requests the Gazette to warn the people against crossing the railroad bridge north of the depot while work trains are running. These trains run day and night and pedestrians are apt to be caught on the bridge when one comes along, which would be disastrous indeed. The warning should be heeded.

See prge 7 for more local news.

George Sauer has severed his connections with the firm of Groshong & Blake and left Monday for Crookston, where he has secured a situation in one of the leading markets. George is a good butcher and his many friends here will hope that success abides with him.

Mrs. S. M. Sivertson gave a farewell party for Mrs. John E. King, who will shortly leave for her future home at St. Paul. Numerous friends of both ladies were in attendance and all expressed regret at losing Mrs. King from the social circles of the city and wished her happiness in her new home.

Mrs. E. F. Marshall entertained a party of eighteen ladies at her home last Friday afternoon in honor of Mrs. John King. The guests were asked to come prepared to speak, play or sing the first thing they ever rendered in public, and this proved very interesting. Following this a pressing contest, in which the participants were required to guess names of books was held, Mrs. Wm. McIntyre winning the prize for the event. An elaborate lunch wrs served and a delightful time was had by all present.

The J. B. Cigar company occupies a full page of the Gazette space this week, calling attention to their elegant line of cigars, tobaccos and smokers articles, and inviting you to visit their up-to-date pool and billiard parlors. Mr. LaPlante is making a great success of his cigar business, and his pool room has come to be recognized as the chief amusement resort of the city. He added another table this week and now has two of the best tables in the valley. Call and see him—you will be treated right.

Louis, the ten month old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Berthon died Monday morning, after a brief illness with stomach and bowel trouble. The little fellow was an exceptionally healthy babe at his birth, and gave promise of developing into a fine specimen of manhood, and his sudden death was a hard blow to his fond parents. The funeral was held from St. Joseph's church yesterday afternoon and interment was made in the Catholic cemetery. The Gazette, with the entire community, extends its heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved parents.

Arthur Mercier received a telegram last evening, announcing the death of his brother-in-law, J. P. Dargan, at his home in Puyallup, Washington. No particulars were given and the relatives and friends of Mr. Dargan here were greatly shocked to learn of his sudden death. He had not been ill to the knowledge of the family here. Mr. and Mrs. Dargan moved to the west early last fall, having lived at Cass Lake several years after leaving this city, and his taking off while in the prime of life is indeed sad. Mr. Dargan leaves a wife and four children to mourn the loss of a kind husband and father, and the many Red Lake Falls friends of the family will join the Gazette in extending their sincere sympathy to the bereaved family.

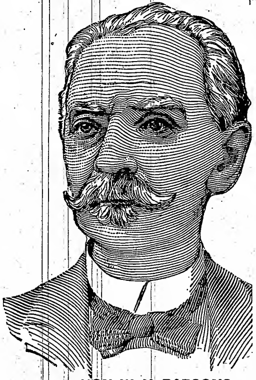
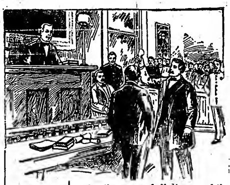
JUDGE OF THE SUPREME COURT

Was Alarmingly Afflicted With La Grippe. Cured by Pe-ru-na.



HON. W. H. PARSONS.



Pe-ru-na cures more cases of la grippe than all other remedies combined.

W. H. Parsons is Ex-State Senator and Ex-Special Judge of the Supreme Court of Texas, also Brigadier-General in Confederate Army. In a recent letter from 925 H Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., this prominent gentleman says:

"Upon the recommendation of personal friends and many strong testimonials as to the efficacy of Peruna in the treatment of the numerous symptoms of the grippe with which I have been afflicted for four months past, I have been induced to undergo a treatment with this justly celebrated formula. I feel a decided change for the better after using it only one week. It is especially good in toning up the stomach and has had a decided effect upon my appetite. I therefore feel much encouraged that I am on the road to complete restoration.

"My numerous friends in Texas, where I have had the honor to command a brigade of her Veteran Cavalry in a four years' war, may accept this voluntary testimonial to the merits of Peruna as a sense of obligation on my part for its wonderful efficacy."---W. H. Parsons.

There is no remedy in the world that meets the conditions produced by la grippe better than the remedy, Peruna. Peruna strengthens as it renovates, soothes while it stimulates, heals as it expurgates. Peruna is not a purgative, or cathartic, or sedative, or stimulant, nor a vegetable or mineral poison. It reaches the source of all diseases of the mucous membranes by its action on the vaso-motor system of nerves.

Every person who has had la grippe during the last year should take a course of Peruna. No one need expect perfect recovery unless they do so. The grippe has produced catarrhal inflammation of the whole mucous membrane, and good health is impossible until these are restored to a normal condition. This Peruna will do. A great many remedies have been suggested for this condition from time to time, but Peruna appears to be the only remedy that has any substantial value in these cases. It has never failed to give satisfaction during forty years' experience and still occupies the unique position of being the leading (if not the only) specific remedy for the after-effects of la grippe.

Henry Distin, the inventor and maker of all the hand instruments for the Henry Distin Manufacturing Co., writes the following from 1441 South Ninth street, Philadelphia, Pa.:

"I had a bad attack of la grippe last December which lasted more than three months, and which left me with catarrh, and several of my friends advised me to try Peruna. I began with a bottle the first week in March and it certainly did me a great deal of good. I was so well satisfied that I purchased another bottle and followed the directions, and can say that it has cured me."—Henry Distin.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

A reward of $10,000 has been deposited in the Market Exchange Bank, Columbus, Ohio, as a guarantee that the above testimonial is genuine; that we hold in our possession authentic letters certifying to the same. Every one of our testimonials are genuine and in the words of the one whose name is appended.

Like Finding Money.

Finding health is like finding money —so think those who are sick. When you have a cough, cold, sore throat, or chest irritation, better act promptly like W. C. Barber, of Sandy Level, Va. Are You Engaged?

Engaged people should remember, that, after marriage, many quarrels can be avoided, by keeping their digestions in good condition with Electric Bitters, S. A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S, C., says: "For years, my wife suffered intensely from dyspepia, complicated with a torpid liver, until she lost her strength and vigor, and became a mere wreck of her former self. Then she tried Electric Bitters, which helped her at once, and finally made her entirely well. She is now strong and healthy." W. A. Schreiter, druggist, sells and guarantees them, at 50c a bottle.

We Will Buy

A 50c. Bottle of Liquozone and Give it to You to Try.

We want you to know about Liquozone, and the product itself can tell you more than we. So we ask you to let us buy you a bottle—a full-size bottle—to try. Let it prove that it does what medicine cannot do. See what a tonic it is. Learn that it does kill germs. Then you will use it always, as we do, and as millions of others do.

This offer itself should convince you that Liquozone does as we claim. We would certainly not buy a bottle and give it to you if there was any doubt of results. You want those results; you want to be well and to keep well. And you can't do that—nobody can—without Liquozone.

We Paid $100,000

For the American rights to Liquozone. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, after proving, in thousands of different cases, that Liquozone destroys the cause of any germ disease.

Liquozone has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. It is not made by compounding drugs, nor with alcohol. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. The result is a Liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissue, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Every physician knows that medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

COURT MILL GRINDS

March Term of District Conrt For Red Lake County Not Lengthy—Work Nearly Finished.

Judge William Watts, accompanied hy Stenograph Chas. Lohn arrived from Crookstod Monday, to officiate at the March term of the Dictrict Court for Red Lake county, which convened at the oourt houso here that day: The calendar did not contain many cases, heing one of the shortest in the history of the conntv, and it is likely that the work will all be finished hy the last of the week. Bnt little of importance has been done so far, a great many of the oases on the calendar having been postponed or settled, and there is a prohahility that the jury will he discharged today, and the court cases finished Friday and Satnrday.

The following is a brief resune of the work so far disposed of:

Swansou vs. Kortke, continned.

Sorenson vs. Hanson, continned.

Blackwell vs. Sherwood, continued.

Bertha Rapp vs. First State Bank of St. Hilaire. Set for trial at special term in May.

Griugberg vs. Dunn, to be tried in chambers.

Mrs. Marie Waslie vs. Town of Numedahl, on trial at hour of going to press.

Toole vs. Great Northern, settled ont of court.

August Krneger vs. Leonora J. Duffy, passed.

Belair vs Rohertson Lumber company, to be tried Friday.

Sortedahl vs. Kelley was tried in chambers, no decision yet rendered.

Symth vs. Erickhoff to be tried at June term in Polk county.

Ernest Buse vs. First State Bank to be tried at May special term. Buse claims $8500 dne him on old acconnts. Steenerson for Buse. Bonghton and Miller for Bank.

Villeikson vs. Brevig snit on promissory note. Jnry empaneled, bnt dismissed for lack of material at hand to try case.

Kratka vs. Mason, settled ont of court.

Peter Englestad vs. Board of County Commissioners, to be tried in chamhers. Suit to restrain paymeuet for purchase of court honse.

Erickson vs. Grady, set for trial Friday.

Lee vs. Great Northern, settled plaintiff gets $100. Suit for injury.

J. C. Cnmmings vs. Joseph St. Martin, defendant failed to appear, court ordered judgement entered for full amount of claim, $131. Professional services.

Peterson and Hannen vs. Fallstad, verdict of $55 for plantiff. This was a dispute over drilling a well on Fallstad's farm, and a settlement could not be affected out of court.

The case of Letvig vs. Schultz was re-opened and retried, the jury bringing in a verdict for Schultz in the sum of $8.50. This case was tried at the last term of court, the jury at tbat time returniug a verdict for Letvig in the snm of $60, but on the affidavit of several of of the jurors that the verdict was meant to be in behalf of Schultz the case was reopened and tried. The dispute arose over a well drilled on the Schultz farm by Letvig, and has attracted considerable attention.

The case of the State vs. Peter Rocheford, of Thief River Falls, was called this morning, and has been in progress today. Young Rocheford is charged with breaking iuto a car at Thief River some time ago, and has heen out on hail siuce. No agreement has been reached np tc the hour of going to press.

Several cases have been added to the calendar, and The Gazette will give a further review of the court doings next week.

INTERESTING MEETINGS

Lady Evangelists Meeting With Good Success In Their Work At Presbyterian Church.

The Misses Anna Smith and Nellie Read arrived here last Satnrday, and Snnday evening commenced a series of revival meetings at the Presbyterian chnrch in this city, which have been exceptionally well attended and will result in mnch good to the church in whose hehalf they are laboring.

Miss Smith speaks each evening, and is said to be a very finent and interesting talker, the andiences each evening greatly appreciating her efforts. Miss Read leads the choir and sings several solos each evening. She has an elegantly trained voice, and the people here have seldom had the opportunity of hearing a vocalist of her ahility.

The meetings will continne during the balance of this and all of next week, and the pnblic is cordially invited to attend.

Lee Is Indicted!

Thief River Disturber Runs Amuck of the Law, and the Grand Jury Returns Count Against the "Only One Henry."

Considerable of a surprise was sprnng on the people here today hy the announcement that the Grand Jury had retnrned an indictment against Henry W. Lee, of Thief River Falls, and while the connt has not yet been made puhlic it is generally known that it has heen found against him.

The indictment was made at the instance of Ole Arneson, a resident of Thief River Falls, and as near as can he learned catches Lee up for misappropriating money belonging to said Arneson. The case will likely not come up at the present term of court, hut will he tried later.

Mr. Lee has been decidedly busy during the past few weeks making criminal charges against different people of the conntv, hut so far in the game he is the only one to get in the meshes of the law.

The outcome will be watched with interest.

GRAND JURY WORKING

Nothing Yet Anncunced In Regard To What They Have Found To Investigate.—Gardner Set Free.

The grand jury called for this term of court met Monday, and elected Joseph Helm, of this city, foreman, and since that time have held several meetings, bnt aside from setting the man Gardner, from Thief River Falls, at liberty, nothing has yet heen annonnced.

This man Gardner stole two chickens at Thief River Falls last week, and becanse he didn't have any money to pay into the city treasury at Thief River Falls he was bound over to spend a few days here at the connty's expense. The grand jury carefully investigated the evidence at hand, hnt failed to find any indictment against the fellow and he was discharged.

The shooting affray at the upriver city last fall was also taken np, but from the fact that every witness called in the case was suffering witb from one to forty different maladies, no headway bas been made. This was the case where the police officer there shot and killed a fellow while attempting to arrest him, and the opinion seemed to prevail that the grand jury would thoroughly investigate the affair, and possibly return an indictment against the officer.

No witnesses who were well enough to stand the journey could be fonnd, however, and just what action will be taken is not known.

Several other matters are said to be under consideration in the jury room, but so far no reports have beeu turned in to the judge.

NEW RAILROAD RUMOR.

Dailies Claim N. P. Will Bnild North From East Grand Forks.

Wednesday's dailies contained the news that the Northern Pacific contemplated constructing a branch of their road from East Grand Forks to Warroad and the boundry, and stated that the work would be commenced carly the coming snmmer.

The N. P. has nndonbtly considered a line north for several years, and ouly a year or two ago made a survey north from this city for several miles, the annonncement heing made at that time that they would huild throngh from here to the bonndary at some early date. The line north from this city would tap a conntry not now touched hy railroads, and would make a mnch shorter and hetter ronte than a branch from East Grand Forks, which line would come in competition with hoth the Soo and the Great Northern.

The report in the dailies was from the Railroad Age, and apparently anthentic, and it seems that it would be a good plan for the Commercial Clnh to confer with the officials to endeavor to secure the extension from here if it is to be built.

NEW ROAD IS READY

Train Service Likely To Be Established Over New Extension Within A Few Days Now.

Tbe work of building the new connecting spur between the N. P. and the Great Northern tracks in this city is practically finished, and a few finishing touches will be reqnired after which train service will at ouce be established. The rails are all laid, and while the ballasting crews have not qnite finished their part of the work, the track could be nsed any day now. The rumor has gained circulation that the new service from Crookston to Greenbusb wonld be established next Monday, bnt local Agent Tracy of the Great Northern, tells the Gazette that so far he has not received any notice of the change, although it may he pnt in effect any day.

It appears tbat for the preseut the service will be given from Crookston to Greenhush via Dngdale and tbis city, hut Tuesday's dailies annouuce that the Great Northern will build from Pelican Rapids north to this place through McIntosh this season, and establish a through houndary service on the new line. Several Great Northern engineers have been here this week, looking about considerahly and it is evident that there is somc move to be made early in the spring.

ANSWERS DEATH'S CALL.

Grandma Spillane Sncenmbs to Attack of Grip After Brief Illness.

At the home of her son, W. T. Spillaue, Saturday eveuing at 8 o'clock occurred the death of Mrs. Kate Spillane, after an illness of two weeks with a serious attack of the grippe.

Deceased was 68 years of age, and has made her home with her son, W. T. of this city, for the past fifteen years. She was exceptionally hright and spry for one of her age, and up until she was stricken with her final illness, insisted on performing her share of the work, along with the yonnger members of the household. She was taken ill a little over two weeks ago with the grippe, and while she made a gallant struggle her age and strength were against her, death coming to her relief Saturday evening.

Deceased was born in Ireland, hut came to this country at an early age and has spent the reclining years of her life with her son here. One other son, Chas. Spillane, of Orlean, N. Y., is left with W. T. to monrn the loss of their dearest friend and connsellor.

The funeral was held from St. Joseph's church Monday morning, the remains heing interred in the Catholic cemetery and a large nnmher of friends followed the remains to their last place of rest.

The Gazette along with the community extends its sincere sympathy to the hereaved relatives.

That Big Catalogue.

When the catalogue comes from your mail order house, draw an easy chair to the table where the light will shine full on the page and put on your glasses that no bargains may escape your eye. What a wonderful book it is to be sure—wonderful for what it does not contain, as well as what it does. We miss some things we would be glad to see. Where is their offer to pay cash or exchange goods for your wheat, oats, corn, eggs, butter or hay? How much do they pay for cattle, sheep and hogs f. o. b. at your depot? How much tax will they pay to support your schools and educate your children? For improving roads and bridges, for the support of the poor of the county, for the expense of running the business of the ptownship, county or state? On what page is their offer to contribute money to the support of the church? What line of credit will they extend to you when your crops are poor and money gone, when through misfortune or illness you are not able to send cash with the order for groceries, clothing, farm tools and crockery? Where is their offer to contribute to your entertainment next Fourth of July? In short, will they do anything to provide a market for what you have to sell and thereby keep up the value of your estimate? Will they do anything for social, church, school or government support, or do they take your dollars out of the community with no returns except the goods you buy?—Nora Springs (Ia) Telephone.

Tindolph Is Home.

Wiley Tindolph, the versatile Thief River Falls capitalist and all around "enthusiast" who has during the winter enjoyed a very pleasant southern trip, during which he spent most of his time on the Isles of Pines and at points in Cuba, arrived in the city this morning on his way home. Mr. Tindolph during the winter enjoyed himself immensely, and made a number of good invesments in southern property and improved his health very much. When seen by a Times man at the depot this morning he state that there was no place on earth for health like the Isle of Pines. "Property investments in the little isle as well as in all the islands of the Cuban group are bound to be exceedingly profitable in years to come" said he. "Sugar cane which is produced in enormous quantities on the plantations is at the present time commanding an exhorbitantly high price and as a result the planters and investors are prosperous. A person can have no idea of the number of American tourists who flood the islands during the winter months, until he makes the trip himself and comes in contact with the enormous crowds of jolly pleasure seekers."

PLUMMER

(From the Pioneer.)

A. L. Peterson returned on Monday from a business trip to Thief River Falls and other points.

Tom Johnson, Kittle Sloitvedt and A. O. Watsend were among the number of those who were in from Equality on Thursday purchasing supplies.

Oscar Lillo went to Thief River Falls Wednesday night on business.

Cole Rice went to Thief River Falls on Wednesday for a visit with his brothers there.

Chas. Tschida, the cigarmaker of Fertile, transacted business with his customers here on Wednesday.

James Gaston, of Fisher, was here last Sunday visiting friends and incidentally looking after some business affairs.

J. E. Buskirk went to Red Lake Falls on Wednesday to spend a few days visiting with his family and looking after some business.

E. J. Dunn, publisher of the Frazee Free Press, was a caller here on Thursday. Mr. Dunn was engaged in making a tour of the new towns in the northern part of the state and picking up some business on his trip.

Deputy Sheriff George Jarman and Tom Butler were down from Thief River Falls on Monday night. Mr. Jarman was attracted here by the report of the proceedings against the Torgerson brothers and Mr. Butler came along as escort.

A bridge contractor driving into town from the north the other day trotted his team at a good rate over the new bridge recently completed by Brown & Buskirk. The absence of vibration attracted his attention and he afterwards said that it was the strongest bridge he had ever seen for its length.

The letting of contracts for carrying mail between Plummer and Garnes and Lillo has been postponed by the postal authorities until April 7. These contracts were to have been awarded today but all the bids submitted were considered too high and were consequently rejected.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climate conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime, you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists A. L. Reichert.

Millionaire's Poor Stomach.

The worn-out stomach of the over-fed millionaire is often paraded in the public prints as a horrible example of the evils attendant on the possession of great wealth. But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomache. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver, thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size 75c. At all druggists. A. L. Reichert.

NEWS IN MINNESOTA

EVENTS OF A WEEK THROUGHOUT THE STATE.

George Byrnes, a porter, was burned to death in a fire which destroyed the Vail hotel at Ely.

Essex Liddington, a negro, was elected constable in the recent election at Owatonne.

Mrs. George A. Hamilton, aged eighty years, a resident of St. Paul since 1865, is dead.

Paul O. Peterson, a Minneapolis upholsterer, committed suicide by hanging himself in a clothes closet.

Fred Rackow, a deaf and dumb man, was run down and instantly killed by a Milwaukee train at Winona.

Mrs. Evert Bleeker, who lived six miles north of Renville, committed suicide by taking a quantity of strychnine.

Robert Williams, for twenty-two years a resident of Minneapolis and one of the pioneer pharmacists of that city, is dead, aged fifty-eight years.

At a meeting of the Red Wing board of education Professor W. F. Kunze was re-elected superintendent of the public schools at a salary of $1,900.

Frank Rice, a well known resident of Minneapolis, has been mysteriously missing since the middle of January and his relatives fear that he has met with foul play.

Governor Johnson has received from the federal government a patent for 15,933 acres selected some time ago under the swamp land act. The land is in the Cass Lake district.

Ben T. Kane, colored, has been arrested on a charge of stealing from his employers, the T. M. Roberts supply house, Minneapolis. He is the eighth man arrested for robbing the same firm.

St. Paul's magnificent Catholic cathedral will be built under plans of Emanuel L. Masquery, the late chief of design of the Louisiana Purchase exposition. The edifice will cost $1,000,000.

Frank A. Day, private secretary to Governor Johnson, has been appointed by the governor to represent the executive department at the christening of the battleship Minnesota at Newport News April 8.

The Commercial club of Red Wing is taking up subscriptions for a soldiers' monument to be erected in that city. The monument is to cost at least $5,000 and will be in honor of Civil war, Mexican war and Spanish-American war veterans.

Colonel Samuel Lowenstein, prominent in St. Paul politics, is dead from paralysis. He was fifty-six years old and came to America from Germany when he was sixteen years old. At one time he held the office of state immigrant inspector.

J. F. Jacobson, chairman of the state board of control, has announced that the binding twine plant at the state prison would be run at its increased capacity by May 1. The output of the plant will be increased from 10,000,000 to 12,000,000 pounds annually.

The public schools of Minnesota enrolled 423,563 pupils during the year of 1904, an increase of 8,165 over the previous year. Of this number only 59,500 attended for less than forty days. During 1904 12,083 teachers were employed, as against 12,619 in 1903.

Minneapolis flour will be used by the Japanese to feed the 50,000 Russian prisoners captured in the battle of Mukden. While the battle was raging numerous orders for flour from Japanese buyers were received in the Mill City and shipments have already begun.

Thieves stole $24,956 worth of property in St. Paul during the past year, according to the annual report of the police department. All but $6,600 worth of the stolen goods was recovered. The police made 4,440 arrests, of which 536 were females and 216 negroes.

Plans are being perfected for the establishment of rural free delivery routes covering every part of Stearns county and within a short time every farmer in the county will have his mail delivered at his door every day in the year except Sundays and legal holidays.

A large number of elevators throughout the Northwest will be closed April 1. Elevator men say that in many parts of Minnesota and the Dakotas wheat has been so closely marketed by farmers that it will not pay to keep the country stations at all points open much longer.

The court of appeals of the District of Columbia has decided the case of Joseph Nageneh, chief of a tribe of Chippewa Indians in Minnesota, vs. the secretary of the interior in favor of the secretary. The case involved the disposition of tribal lands under an act of congress of 1902 and Naganah sought to have the secretary enjoined from its enforcement.

Louis C. Remund has brought suit against A. M. Woodward, member of the Minneapolis chamber of commerce, for $50,000. Remund says he was the "floor man" for the firm and was to have been taken into partnership in 1899. Last July he was informed that he would have to seek another position. He asserts that the promise to give him an interest in the firm has kept him from engaging in other employment.

Millville, Hammond and Zumbro Falls have appealed to the state railroad and warehouse commission asking that it order the Milwaukee road to give them telegraphic connection with the outside world. The wires run through their limits now without interruption. There is a legal question as to the authority of the commission to make an order as to telegraph service and it is probable that a bill will be introduced in the legislature to correct the defect.

END OF WAR IN SIGHT

PEACE WITHIN SIX WEEKS CONSIDERED CERTAIN IN HIGH OFFICIAL CIRCLES.

Czar's Government Secures Information as to the Japanese Terms, Which Indicate a Basis to Which Russia Can Agree—Situation Quiet at the Front and the Next General Engagement Is Far Distant.

St. Petersburg, March 25.—The information contained in these dispatches for over a week regarding the change in Emperor Nicholas' attitude concerning the advisability of making a pacific proposal to Japan is fully confirmed and in very high quarters peace within six weeks is regarded as certain. The positiveness with which this is affirmed would indicate that the government is already in possession of information as to the Japanese terms, which indicate a basis to which Russia can agree.

The exact situation is shrouded in mystery. The secret of what has been done and what is being done is zealously guarded. The Associated Press hears, however, from a source close to the throne that pourparlers are actually in progress in Paris, but probably only of a preliminary character, and that Copenhagen may be the scene of the first exchanges between representatives of the two powers. In this connection importance is being attached to the visit of M. d'Iswolsky, Russian minister at Copenhagen, and Baron Rosen, former Russian minister to Japan, to M. Bompard, the French ambassador to Russia, on Tuesday. The parties to this conference refuse to admit that significance is attached to it.

LULL IN FIGHTING

NEXT GENERAL ENGAGEMENT IN MANCHURIAN WAR IS FAR DISTANT.

St. Petersburg, March 25.—General Linevitch continues the retirement of the bulk of his army northward.

The general staff declares it is now certain that Field Marshal Oyama has been compelled to relinquish the idea of a pursuit in force for the present. The Japanese forces on the Russian flanks are too light to constitute a serious danger and a lull in heavy fighting for several weeks, if not months, is predicted by some of the correspondents.

A Russian correspondent warns the St. Petersburg authorities of the dangers of Japanese activity in Mongolia, where he says their emissaries are enlisting the Lamas and arousing their old warlike spirit.

PEASANTS SHOT DOWN

TEN DEAD AND MANY INJURED IN AFFRAY AT LAMENTA, RUSSIAN POLAND.

Kutno, Russian Poland, March 23.—Ten peasants were killed and fifty were wounded at Lamenta March 21 as the result of the shooting of infantry sent to quell disturbances. A crowd of peasants from Benignowa proceeded to Lamenta to induce the farm laborers to strike and rioting occurred. The chief of police, with a company of soldiers, went to the scene and the troops fired two volleys at the peasants, killing two on the spot and wounding fifty. The latter were brought in carts to the hospital here, where seven men and one woman subsequently died. Eleven others are dying.

The shooting of peasants at Lamenta has aroused intense excitement in the whole district. The action of the authorities in shooting down unarmed peasants is angrily criticised and a deputation of residents of Kutno is proceeding to Warsaw to lay complaints before the governor general.

TWO BOMBS THROWN

ONE OF THEM BADLY INJURES THE TITLED CHIEF OF THE WARSAW POLICE.

Warsaw, March 27.—A bomb was thrown into the carriage of Baron von Nolken, chief of police of Warsaw, at 8 o'clock in the evening. It was reported that the baron was severely wounded and a number of policemen were injured.

Baron von Nolken is very unpopular. He is hated by the masses of the Polish population, who hold him responsible for the sanguinary suppression of the disturbances here at the end of January. He has been here only a year, having come from St. Petersburg, where he was chief of the mounted division of the police

TELLS OF HER DEALS.

Mrs. Chadwick on Stand in Bankruptcy Court.

Cleveland, March 25.—In bankruptcy court here during the day Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick detailed some of her financial transactions in the course of an examination by Louis J. Grossman, acting for Trustee Nathan Loeser.

Mrs. Chadwick said that she was not able to give as many details of these transactions as she would like to because of the absence of papers which were held in a number of cities. She had sent for the papers and expected to have them when the hearing is continued next Thursday.

Mrs. Chadwick testified that the total indebtedness would not exceed $750,000. Of this sum borrowed from various persons she had received only $517,000, leaving $268,000 for commissions to the money lenders. She said she owed certain banks in Cleveland $200,000. The names of these institutions she was willing to give to Mr. Loeser, trustee for the creditors, privately.

The examination of Mrs. Chadwick disclosed additional assets of $200,000. Of this amount $56,000 is due from Charles Stewart of Cleveland and $150,000 worth of jewelry held by Wolfe Bros. of Belgium. Mrs. Chadwick stated there are other assets consisting of jewelry and valuable assets held by various persons for her.

TEN YEARS IN PRISON

SENTENCE IMPOSED ON MRS. CASSIE L. CHADWICK BY JUDGE ROBERT W. TAYLER.

Cleveland, March 28.—Unless the higher court interferes, Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick will spend the greater part of the next ten years in the Ohio penitentiary.

A sentence of ten years was imposed on her by Judge Robert W. Tayler in the United States district court at 5 p. m. The sentence came at the close of a busy day for the court in hearing arguments on a motion for a new trial which lasted all day. The motion was overruled.

Mrs. Chadwick was convicted on seven counts and sentenced upon six counts. For four of these counts a sentence of two years each was imposed. Upon two counts a sentence of one year each was imposed, making a total sentence of ten years.

The first step taken by the defense will be to ask for a stay of sentence until the appeal is carried out. There was an understanding with United States Marshal Chandler, United States Attorney Sullivan and the court during the day that there would be no attempt to execute the sentence until the defense had had an opportunity to carry the case to the higher court and thus secure a stay of sentence.

FIVE MEN DROWNED.

Skiff Swamps During Storm and Occupants Perish.

St. Joseph, Mo., March 28.—Five men lost their lives in the Missouri river here at night.

The men were engaged in dyke building operations on the Kansas side of the river opposite the water pumping station. They had been brought to the Missouri side each evening by a small steamer, but on account of a heavy wind and rain storm in the evening the steamer was delayed and the men, rather than spend the stormy night in a shack on the Kansas bank, determined to cross in a skiff. About mid-stream the overloaded skiff was swamped by the high waves and four of the men sank in the muddy water and were seen no more. The fifth sank before help could reach him.

CARRIED OVER A DAM.

Six Occupants of Ferryboat Probably Perished.

Charleroi, Pa., March 23.—During a heavy fog William Higgins, a ferryman at lock No. 2, attempted to row five men across the Monongahela river in a skiff. When in midstream the ferryman lost his way and the boat was carried over the dam and capsized. The occupants were thrown into the swollen stream, but before their calls for assistance could be answered they were swept out of sight. Several hours later the ferryman's yawl was located over a mile below the dam, but none of the bodies have been recovered. The names of the five men have not yet been ascertained.

HAY'S HEALTH IMPROVING.

Secretary of State Reaches the Azore Islands.

Ponta del Gada, Azore Island, March 25.—The White Star line steamer Cretic, which sailed from New York March 18 for Naples with Secretary of State Hay and Mrs. Hay on board, arrived here at 4 p. m. When questioned concerning his health the secretary said he was feeling very well and that he had had a comfortable trip.

EXPLOSION KILLS SIX.

Serious Disaster Occurs in an Indiana Colliery.

Princeton, Ind., March 23.—Six miners dead and four injured, two probably fatally, is the result of an explosion of powder in the mine of the Princeton Coal Mining company.

This is the second serious disaster for this mine. Nine years ago an explosion in the mine killed nine men.

WILL NOT ARBITRATE

CASTRO TURNS DOWN PROPOSAL RELATIVE TO DIFFERENCES WITH UNITED STATES.

Washington Administration Decides to Take No Action in the Matter at Present, but Will Await Developments—Venezuelan President Says He Expects No Trouble, but Is Confident of Victory Should Any Occur.

Washington, March 25.—Minister Bowen cables the state department from Caracas that President Castro has flatly refused to arbitrate the pending issues between Venezuela and the United States.

The administration will take no action in regard to the reply which President Castro of Venezuela made to Minister Bowen. The matter was fully discussed at the cabinet meeting during the day and it was determined to allow the matter to await developments. The situation is considered such as not to necessarily interfere with the departure of the president on his Southwestern trip.

After other members of the cabinet had left the White House Secretary Taft and Postmaster General Cortelyou continued with the president the discussion of the Venezuelan question. It can be said positively that no determination was reached which would involve drastic action on the part of the American government. It is regarded as possible that further developments in the Venezuelan situation may be forthcoming in a few days, but it is not believed here they will add to its seriousness.

VENEZUELA WOULD WIN.

Castro's Opinion in Case of Trouble With United States.

New York, March 25.—The Tribune says:

In answer to a request for a statement on the present Venezuelan troubles, the Tribune Friday night received the following cable dispatch from President Cipriano Castro at Caracas:

"Received your cable. I do not believe there will be any trouble, and if there should be any, Venezuela would win, because she never drifts away from right, reason and justice, which are the strength of the weak nations."

The World prints the following dispatch from President Castro:

"I have received your telegram. There is in reality between Venezuela and Washington no question of sufficient importance to occupy public attention and worthy of attention by serious persons. Your minister holds himself aloof from the good understanding which exists, but Venezuela will defend with ardor the common interests and honor of both countries."

MINNESOTA TORNADO

NUMBER OF PERSONS INJURED AND SEVERAL BUILDINGS DEMOLISHED.

Appleton, Minn., March 28.—A cyclone struck Louisburg, eight miles southwest of this city in Lac qui Parle county, during the evening, completely demolishing the business district, consisting of about a dozen stores, wrecked three grain elevators and a grain depot and unroofed or damaged nearly every house in the village. Seven persons were injured, several seriously.

The wind, which had prevailed all day, reached a high velocity toward evening, and at 5:30 o'clock became cyclonic in its force. Beyond the damage done at Louisburg no other storm reports are received from this vicinity.

From Breckenridge, on the Watertown branch of the Great Northern, a relief train was dispatched to Louisburg as soon as news of the storm was received and from Appleton doctors went on a handcar to give medical assistance. Madison, which is twelve miles south of the stricken village, also sent aid to the sufferers.

The direction of the cyclone, it is reported, was from southeast to northwest, and beside the high wind that prevailed it gave little warning of its approach. That there were not a number of persons killed by falling walls and flying debris is considered remarkable.

SENOR ASPIROZ DEAD.

Mexico's First Ambassador to the United States.

Washington, March 25.—Senor Don Manuel de Aspiroz, Mexico's first ambassador to the United States, died at the Mexican embassy at 4:50 o'clock p. m., surrounded by the members of his family. Although a sick man since last fall the ambassador's death was due to a relapse caused by exposure on inauguration day.

MICHIGAN MAN NAMED.

Truman H. Newberry Appointed Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

Washington, March 24.—President Roosevelt has tendered the offer of assistant secretary of the navy to Truman H. Newberry of Detroit, Mich., and the proffer has been accepted.

THE TABLES TURNED.

S. T. Johnson is to reap the reward for his offensive activity while State bank examiner. While a man in that position is to be commended for close application to his work, and unearthing any irregularities that may exist, on the other hand he is entitled to unlimited condemnation when his efforts are practically all directed by motives that guide the political trickster. In discussing his pitiable condition in connection with the legislative investigation that is in progress the Duluth News-Tribune sizes up the situation in a very able and concise manner as follows:

After all the fuss and flurry of the late bank examiner and his political promoters—a period of froth and fume that had its beginning months before the fight for the Republican gubernatorial nominations was inaugurated—it appears that the labors of the Johnson mountain have brought forth a mouse. A ridiculous mouse, the fable has it, and the adjective is not far wrong in this case.

S. T. Johnson has closed his case before the legislative investigating committee. It is apparent that he had no case at all. The object of the investigation was to determine whether there had been malfeasance or misfeasance in office on the part of Mr. Dunn, the man against whom Mr. Johnson's investigations were aimed, or Mr. Iverson who has succeeded Mr. Dunn.

By Mr. Johnson's own testimony it appears that the state never has lost a cent by the official acts of Mr. Dunn, to which acts Mr. Johnson devoted months of time that might have been spent to advantage in the performance of his own official duties

Instead of losing a large sum of money the state was really the gainer by Mr. Dunn's exercise of common sense and insistence upon the practice of common honesty. If he went beyond the technical requirements of his office, he did so for the benefit of the state.

Now that the auditors office has been investigated, the conduct of the late public examiner is to be looked into. If he wasted the time for which he was handsomely paid by the state in the preparation of campaign material, the taxpayers have a right to know it. If he exceeded his official authority in this piece of partisan work, a demonstration of that fact will be a good thing for the guidance of future bank examiners.

"One who knows" occupies half the front page of last week's Thief River Falls News with all sorts of charges against the Editor of the Gazette, and all of "one Henry W. Lee's" alleged grafters here and at Thief River Falls pale into insignificance with the prince of all grafters—Sam Haislet. He charges us with controlling every county officer, and whipping them into all sorts of combinations for our benefit, and tells how no official action can be taken by any officer at the court house unless they consult us and find out if their actions will be agreeable. "One who knows" is certainly a beaut, but the strange part of it is that he hasn't tumbled long ago. Every taxpayer in the county has known for a long time that the Gazette scribe sees all the bids submitted, and in fact is the "whole thing" in county, city and municipal matters. The only reason that can be assigned for this long winded wind jammers article, is that they are sore because we are what they claim—the prince of all grafters—and could they but induce us to move to the up-river city to assume our proper place with the rest of 'em, they could lay claim to the prize bunch of public skinners in the state.

The Minnesota legislator who introduced an anti-pass bill which includes newspaper publishers in the proscribed class got things all mixed up, notes the Redwood Reveille. Newspaper men do not ride on free transportation. They pay for every cent of mileage they get. The railroads simply exchange mileage for advertising. There's no gratuity about it. The author of the bill knew this very well but he was probably sore over some newspaper critizism and wanted to get even. The publisher isn't in the same class as the public official and generally thanks God that he isn't. As for the two by four legislator who thinks he can make a little cheap capital by trying to place the publishers under ban, he has another guess coming.

The Crow Indian Reservation in Montanna, comprising 4,000,000 acres has been ceded to the government and over 1,000,000 acres will be thrown open to settlement next summer. Government engineers have for the last year been measuring and testing the water supply and it has been found that the Yellowstone, Big Horn and other rivers will furnish sufficient water to irrigate this immense tract of land. The government will construct an irregation system, under the irrigation act and the costs will be divided pro rata among those to take up homestads. The tract will probably be divided into 14,000 homesteads of 80 acres each and thus be made to furnish homes for a large number of people.

If you contemplate handing out a a lecturing tour to the country you should first make at least two races for the presidency as an advertising measure. One W. J. Bryan is now raking in several hundred dollars a week in his tour of the country, largely the result of the free advertising given him in "The First Battle" and the "Second Conflict." He's talking more sense now than then, too says the Greenbush Journal.

Attacked By a Mob

and beaten, in a labor riot, until covered with sores, a Chicago street car conductor applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and was soon sound and well. "I use it in my family," writes G. J. Welch, of Tekonsha, Mich, "and find it perfect." Simply great for cuts and burns. Only 25c at W. A. Schreiter's drug store.

"SHORTY" IS LOCATED

Man Wanted For the Murder of Dahls Is Finally Caught.

After keeping out of the hands of the police for nearly a year, Shorty Wesley has deliberately run into their trap and is now in the hands of the police at Green Bay, Wisconsin, where it has been believed from the first that he would eventually show up.

Shorty seemed to drop out of existence at the time of the murder and though it was believed that he was implicated, and the police made every effort to locate the man, he was not found and the excitement finally died down. Not so the villigence of the police, however. Descriptions were sent to every possible place where it was thought that he might in time visit and an especial lookout was requested of the police at Green Bay, where his parents lived.

It was thought that he would in time either communicate with them or pay them a visit and in this they were not mistaken. He showed up there a few days ago and the result is that he is now in the hands of the authorities. He will be brought to Bemidji where he will stand trial and appearances are so strong against him that it is likely evidence will be secured which will solve the mystery of the crime.

The murdered people were Mr. Dahl of Crookston, and his daughter, Miss Aagot Dahl. The scene of the tragedy was their claim northeast of Bemidji. Intense feeling has been exhibited in the case from the first, both Mr. and Miss Dahl having many relatives and friends in the valley.

BUYS CROOKSTON COLLEGE.

Editor Frank Packard, of the Journal, Branches Out.

Crookston Times: Prof. J. C. Sathre has closed a deal for the sale of the Crookston Business College to Frank E. and Miss Ada L. Packard. The actual transfer of the college will take place on July 1st and the first term under the new management will open September 1st. Prof. Sathre has made a great success of the business and the college is in excellent standing.

The new firm will be known as Packard & Packard, but the name of the college will not be changed. Mr. Packard will be president and general manager of the company, and Miss Packard will be secretary and treasurer and will be the principal in charge. She is a graduate of the Curtiss Business College of Minneapolis and the Munson Institute of Shorthand, and is an expert stenographer. As a teacher she has had ten years' experience. F. E. Packard is a graduate of the Wadena high school and also of Hamline University, and both are well equipped for the work.

No radical change will be made in the system taught, but the curriculum will be broader guaged than in the past.

Mr. Packard, the new president, is the editor of the Crookston Journal, and is one of the brightest young men in the valley.

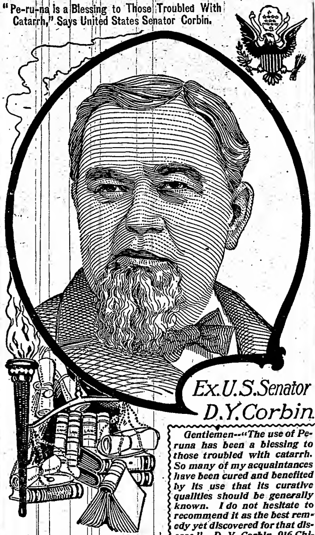
CATARRH THE MOST DANGEROUS OF ALL CHRONIC DISEASES.

"Pe-ru-na is a Blessing to Those Troubled With Catarrh," Says United States Senator Corbin.



Gentlemen—"The use of Peruna has been a blessing to those troubled with catarrh. So many of my acquaintances have been cured and benefited by its use that its curative qualities should be generally known. I do not hesitate to recommend it as the best remedy yet discovered for that disease."—D. Y. Corbin, 916 Chicago Opera House, Chicago, Ill.

Colds Not Promptly Cured Are Sure to Cause Catarrh.

Catarrh Improperly Treated is Sure to Make Life Short and Miserable.

Many Wonderful Cures Are Made by Pe-ru-na.

CATARRH spares no organ or function of the body. It is capable of destroying sight, taste, smell, hearing, digestion, secretion, assimilation and excretion. It pervades every part of the human body.

Peruna also cures bronchitis, coughs, and consumption in the first stages with unfailing certainty.

Hon. D. Y. Corbin, is ex-United States Senator and cousin of Adjutant General Corbin of the United States Army. Judge Corbin is one of the best known lawyers in Chicago and stands high professionally and socially. The above endorsement coming from such a man cannot help but add weight and importance to the thousands of testimonials from the humbler walks of life.

Catarrh is the cause of at least one-half of the ills to which the human family is subject. Is there no way to escape from it? There is.

Peruna never fails to cure a cold. Peruna never fails to cure catarrh in the first stage. Peruna cures catarrh in the second stage, nine cases out of ten. Peruna cures catarrh in its last and worst stages in the majority of cases, and never fails to benefit every case, however bad.

A book on the cure of throat and lung diseases, and catarrh in all stages and varieties, sent free to any address by The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.

"My Life Hung by a Mere Thread, Pe-ru-na Cured Me."

Mrs. Sarah Smart, 276 Hayward St., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I can't tell in words how low I was. My life hung by a mere thread. I was waiting for months to die.

"My trouble was consumption or bronchitis. I suffered no pain when I was low, but coughing and breathing kept sapping what little strength I had. I could not eat, sleep or even lean back on a chair. I was a mere skeleton. I said to my husband, 'I can't last much longer.' My neighbors say they do not know how I ever recovered. It was almost a miracle.

"I took your medicine but three months, when I could do my housework and washing, and have been doing it ever since. Now I am able to do anything. You would never think I had been troubled with such a serious illness. I shall always keep your medicine in my house."—Mrs. Sarah Smart.

Despaired of Recovery.

Mrs. R. L. Aulich, Vice President American Genealogical Association, 604 H street, N. W., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I know whereof I speak when I say that Peruna is a wonderful remedy for colds and catarrhal trouble. Last fall I was very much debilitated from the effect of a cold contracted early in the summer and which I neglected. I knew that my system was in need of medicine and rest, but to find the right thing was the problem. Happily I gave Peruna a trial first and have no reason to complain of the results. Within a month I had entirely recovered my strength and good health and really felt better and stronger than before."—Mrs. R. L. Aulich.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

Are You Engaged?

Engaged people should remember, that, after marriage, many quarrels can be avoided, by keeping their digestions in good condition with Electric Bitters. S. A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S. C., says: "For years, my wife suffered intensely from dyspepsia, complicated with a torpid liver, until she lost her strength and vigor, and became a mere wreck of her former self. Then she tried Electric Bitters, which helped her at once, and finally made her entirely well. She is now strong and healthy." W. A. Schreiter, druggist, sells and guarantees them, at 50c a bottle.

We Will Buy

A 50c. Bottle of Liquozone and Give it to You to Try.

We want you to know about Liquozone, and the product itself can tell you more than we. So we ask you to let us buy you a bottle—a full-size bottle—to try. Let it prove that it does what medicine cannot do. See what a tonic it is. Learn that it does kill germs. Then you will use it always, as we do, and as millions of others do.

This offer itself should convince you that Liquozone does as we claim. We would certainly not buy a bottle and give it to you if there was any doubt of results. You want those results; you want to be well and to keep well. And you can't do that—nobody can—without Liquozone.

We Paid $100,000

For the American rights to Liquozone. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, after proving, in thousands of different cases, that Liquozone destroys the cause of any germ disease.

Liquozone has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. It is not made by compounding drugs, nor with alcohol. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. The result is a Liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissue, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Every physician knows that medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

IN THE LOCAL FIELD.

Louis Seiff has been in from Plummer a few days this week.

H. W. Lee was down from Thief River Falls a couple of days this week. No fatalities are reported.

Deputy Sheriff George Jarman has been here this week attending to various duties during the session of court.

Z. Bregier was down from St. Hilaire between trains Tuesday, He recently opened a pool and billiard parlor at that place and reports a first-class patronage.

The Big Store has an attractive new ad in today's Gazette, and the readers are urged to carefully read what is offered. This popular store was never better prepared to handle the business of the community than at present, and the readers should not fail to heed the admonitions contained in the ad.

Ed. L. Healy was a Thief River Falls visitor Monday and Tuesday.

Banker J. K. Hanny, of St. Hilaire, has been in attendance at court here this week.

Miss Margaret Peble spent Sunday and Monday in Grand Forks visiting with her sister, Mrs. Coliton.

Freund's orchestra drove to Plummer Saturday and furnished music for a dance there that evening.

A crowd of young folks went up to St. Hilaire on the work train Sunday and spent a few hours visiting friends in that city.

Clem Brunelle has secured a position as time-keeper with the Great Northern crew here and started in on his new work Saturday.

Garceau and Zaiser have a change of advertisement in today's paper, setting forth an array of attractive bargains for spring purchasers.

H. Schultz, a prominent Polk Center farmer, was a caller here the frist of the week, having a case in district court. The Gazette acknowledges a pleasant visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Salley spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Holzknecht at Thief River Falls. Mr. Holzknecht has almost recovered from his recent illness and is able to be around again.

H. L. Dudley, well known to the people here, has quit his job on the Cass Lake Times and accepted a responsible position with the Crookston Journal. "Dud" is o. k. wherever you put him, and the Journal is fortunate in securing his services.

Crookston Times: Dr. Watson, of Red Lake Falls chairman of the Republican central committee of Red Lake county and one of the active wide awake business of Red Lake Falls, arrived in the city yesterday morning from a trip to the twin cities and expected to catch the Sunday stage overland to the Falls. He overslept, however, and had to make the trip later in the day with a livery rig. Dr. Watson reports the Falls as enjoying prosperity this spring despite the county seat fight started by Thief River Falls some time ago.

The regular monthly concert by the Red Lake Falls band was given at the Metropolitan Tuesday evening to a large crowd, and as usual the program pleased the people immensely. The band numbers were all well handled, while the specialties contributed to the pleasure of the evening to a marked degree. Miss Clara Ruegave "Dan P. riton's Ride," a touching story of the Johnstown flood in a highly pleasing manner, Miss Nellie Reed sang two beautiful solos and Prof. Onstad rendered a violin solo with his usual skill. The band quartette also sang two numbers which were well received. The entire program was given in a manner creditable to all the performers, and the people showed appreciation of the efforts in their behalf.

See Swanson's Acme harrow ad elsewhere in this paper.

M. P. Dargan, one of the pioneers of Wylie, is here this week doing jury duty.

Steve Rorak, of Grand Forks, was a guest at the home of Ed. Enright the fore part of the week.

Miss Anna Suttor returned Monday from a week's visit at Duluth with her sister, Mrs. C. J. Chapman.

George Sauers came up from Crookston Saturday and spent Sunday making preparations to move his family to that city.

Engineer Milligan resumed his run on this line Friday after a two weeks trip into Iowa where he was called by the death of his father.

Dolphis Beausoleil and family wish The Gazette to thank the good people who so kindly assisted them during the sickness of the wife and mother.

For ball or street wear is where the Queen Quality shoe for women shows its true character of grace and durability $3.00 and $3.50 at Garceau & Zaiser's.

A good time was reported on the 25th of March at a basket sociable and entertainment in school district 112, although there were a few in the district too small to contribute to the funds.—Contributed.

J. E. Bray returned home last Saturday from his two weeks visit with his brother, Dumas, at Calgary, N.W. T. and reports himself as having enjoyed his visit immensely. He thinks that the great northwestern country offers excellent inducements for money making, but does not contemplate moving there at present.

State Librarian John E. King came up from St. Paul last Thursday and remained until Saturday, assisting Mrs. King in getting their household goods packed ready for shipment. His son, Homer, accompanied him on his return to St. Paul, Mrs. King remaining over Sunday with friends here. John reports himself highly pleased with his new job, and says he enjoys his respite from the steady grind of country newspaper work.

Editor Harry Ives, of the St Hilaire Spectator, was a caller here Monday looking after some business matters. Harry recently purchased the automobile which the late Nels Otterness brought to St. Hilaire, and was here to assure himself that the coroner was on duty before he attempted a trial of the pesky monster. Harry's friends are speculating as to his motive in buying the "bubbie" and are undecided as to whether he intends to use it to secure the good will of the feminine population with the object of matrimony, or whether he merely intends to give the delinquent subscribers a run for their lives in trying to dodge him. Many of his friends are inclined to believe that the former course is the one mapped, out but The Gazette intends to await developments before committing itself.

Arthur Zaiser spent Sunday with his Crookston attraction.

Miss Iza Tibbetts spent Friday in Wylie visiting her sister, Mrs. A. O. Davison.

Miss Margaret Peble will leave Saturday for Grand Forks, where she has secured a situation.

Miss Bertha Norby went to Detroit Saturday evening for an over Sunday visit with the home folks.

Ralph Healy was up to St. Hilaire last Thursday evening where he furnished music for a social function.

Miss Catherine Pirath has been re-engaged as a teacher in the public schools at St. Hilaire for the next year.

The characteristics of a good shoe are shown in the new spring styles of W. L. Douglass for men $3.00 and $3.500 at Garceat & Zaiser.

If you want to buy a farm, sell a farm, get a farm loan or abstract, go to The Sortedahl Land Loan and Abstract Co. Red Lake Falls Minn.

Fortier's grocery store has one of the prettiest window displays ever shown in this section this week. It is composed of the different biscuit products of the American Biscuit company, and has attracted considerable attention.

The new pool table ordered by Arthur LaPlante arrived last Friday and was immediately put into place. Mr. LaPlante now has two very fine tables, and when the interior of his room is completed he will have an excellent amusement resort which is bound to prove popular with the public.

Crookston Journal: Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rieck, of Red Lake Falls, were in the city attending to matters of business. They said that the roads between Red Lake Falls and Crookston were not bad this side of Gentilly but were rather muddy on the other side. Mr. and Mrs. Rieck have sold out their farm there and will soon leave for Waseca, where they will make their future home. They have farmed near Red Lake Falls for seven years but are getting old and wish to return to their old home in Waseca county to make their home again among their old friends.

Says the Crookston Times: Conductor Bill Clark of this city who seems to have a penchant for getting onto all of the disagreeable jobs possible on the Great Northern system, has charge of the gravel train which is hauling grit to the Red Lake Falls connection with the Northern Pacific and is working nights and Sundays to get sufficient material hauled to the Falls to ballast the connection. All of the steel has been laid on the three mile stretch of road which connects the two systems and trains will be running via Tilden to Greenbush within a very short time. The disagreeable sink hole at Red Lake Falls which occasioned so much trouble and inconvenience has been remedied by an enormous number of piles driven into the sinking embankment in such a manner as to form a solid foundation.

S. M. Sivertson was a caller at the towns on the north line. this week.

W. B. Fuller, of Thief River Falls, has been doing jury duty here this week.

For sale or trade for a farm.—Two lots, a livery barn and a house. Inquire of Louis Sieff, Plummer, Minn.

Attorney A. A. Miller was here from Crookston the first of the week attending to matters before the District Court.

Mrs. Ed. L. Healy went to Thief River Falls Saturday and spent Sunday at the home of George McConnell and family.

Miss Grace Iddings has recovered from her several weeks illness, and will resume her duties at the High School next Monday.

Does your head gear bother you? If so try a Lampher hat. Wear and uptodatedness are its strong arguments. $3.00 at Gareeau & Zaiser's.

Miss Ida Poessel finished her term of school near Plummer last Friday, and has spent the week with her mother here. She has been engaged to teach a term of school near Badger and will enter upon her new duties next Monday.

Vic Knight left Monday afternoon for his home at Bigfork, after a pleasant week's visit with his relatives and many old time friends here. Vic has prospered since leaving this city a year or so ago, and says he will never regret having been one of the pioneers of northern Itasca county. Several other Red Lake Falls people are living in that part of the country, and they are all contented and happy.

Prof. Onstad was at St. Hilaire on his regular weekly visit Monday.

Miss Alice Boyd was at Thief River Falls over Sunday, a guest of Miss Rachel Tarlor.

Jim and Paul have a new ad in today's Gazette, and the reader is respectfully referred to what is therein contained.

The ladies of St. Mary's society will meet with Mrs. John Deutschman on the North Side next Thursday afternoon, April 6.

Miss Rachel Taylor will come down from Thief River Falls Saturday to spend her spring vacation with her many friends here.

Mrs. John E. King and daughter Florence, accompanied by Miss Viola Longtin, left Monday afternoon for their new home at St. Paul, where they will remain for a couple of years, at least. Mrs. King has been prominent in society circles here, and will be missed by the people.

Crookston Times: At the depot Saturday evening a pathetic sight was observed by the station crowd who were observing Martha Marcotte wife of a Thief River Falls laborer, who was being taken to the insane asylum at Fergus Falls, and during intervals at the station became very violent. Coroner Joe Belair of Red Lake Falls acting as deputy sheriff escorted the unfortunate woman to the asylum and during her frenzied moments had considerable work to control her. The woman has been the victim of fits for some time past and recently went entirely insane over a neighborhood row. She is the mother of four children.

Do You See the Point?

There is just as much difference in the fit of ready-made garments as there is in the fit of garments made at home. When you have a nice garment made you go to the best dressmakers in the city, not to apprentices. There are factories who employ only apprentices, in fact the best artist tailors have to start somewhere. a man is not born a tailor. But the garments turned out by these shops plainly show the novice work. Our show the touches of the artist. None but the highest in the profession make garments there. It is the "altogether" of a garment that puts it in a class by itself. Take a look at our coats and you will yourself see the superiority of our garments over others. Prices $10.00, 11.00, 12.50 up to $18.50.

Palmer Garments, Cravenettes and Skirts

Our imported line of

Lace Collars, Capes; Spangled Collars and Collarettes, spangled all over nets, in black and white, swell lace collars at 10c to 75c.

Fancy Trimming Buttons

A big line of new buttons in all shades and prices.

Remember our free offer on clothing. A high class story book with every boys suit, you can't afford to pass this up. The reading of a good book is often the making of a boys' character.

Black Cat Hoisery.

We will open this week our spring line of Black Cat Hose for men, boys, ladies and Misses. This brand is almost too well known to need mention, we are fully authorized by the maker to refund the money for every pair returned that did not wear satisfactorily. MILLIONS FOR THE MIKADO

Japan's Emperor Receives from the People as Salary Each Year an Enormous Sum.

The emperor's yearly expense of living is limited. For this purpose he draws $3,000,000 from the national treasury. His personal wealth is not to be spent on his own living, so that $3,000,000 is really his yearly salary as manager of the country, writes Homer Whitfield, in Success Magazine. He has got to pay out of it some 1,000 employes. The lady-in-waiting is said to be paid $150 monthly. I have no doubt that even a washing girl is paid about $70. Japan is a country where a laboring man's wages are not more than 50 cents daily. The chief cook of the imperial palace is paid $200 a month.

The emperor's daily fare is Japanese. He is perfectly satisfied for breakfast, as a comomn Japanese is, with a bowl of bean soup and a few similar dishes. But his dinner usually appears in splendid style, in some 20 courses, although he always denounces it as a useless extravagance. When any official feast is held—the cherry-blossom-viewing party at the Kioshikawa botanical garden, or the chrysanthemum party at the Akasaka palace, for instance—he will not spare any expense in preparing an elegant European banquet. The empress is the manager on such an occasion. She is a noted economist. She always gives a hint to her court ladies and the wives of the ministers how to arrange their dresses and how to save expense. She is regarded as an exemplar of loveliness and womanly sweetness. There never was a woman truer to the old teachings in respect to womanly disposition and demeanor.

SHORTAGE IN PEANUT CROP

African Product Reshipped from Marseilles to the United States in Large Quantities.

The peanut has always been regarded so entirely an American product that it will, perhaps, occasion much surprise to many persons to learn that $25,000 worth of them were imported into the United States last year. A report from Consul General Hennis, at Marseilles, says that for the first time African peanuts (arachides) have been received at Marseilles and have been reexported to the United States. The value of these exports during the fiscal year 1904 was $25,055—shelled nuts, $17,411; nuts in the shell, $7.554. As some sample lots of American peanuts had been received in Marseilles the year before this turning of the tables may occasion surprise. It appears, however, that the exports of the nuts from Europe to the United States were in consequence of an unusual shortage in the American crop and consequent advance in price. A repetition of this shortage in the United States is unlikely, although home buyers will now have to consider the foreign market in establishing their prices. The African nuts are inferior to the American for comestible purposes although richer in oil. The Virginia peanut is undoubtedly the finest in the world in quality but yields so poorly in oil as to render improbable the creation of an American oil-crushing industry unless steps are taken to secure a new variety combining the advantages of the standard American nut with the percentage of oil in the foreign nut.

Flowers Made in Glass.

One of the greatest artistic marvels of the world is to be seen in the museum at Harvard university. This curiosity consists of hundreds of specimens of flowers and plants formed of glass, but with such exquisite fidelity to nature that they appear to be real, every tint and marking, every tiniest detail, being faithfully reproduced. They are made by a secret process, the artists being a father and son in Germany, who, it is said, may let their secret die with them. As an instance of the wonderful workmanship, it may be mentioned that the very hairs which appear on the stems on certain plants are reproduced on the glass imitations.

Find in Congo Forest.

In some interesting notes on the researches of Dr. David, a Swiss naturalist, in the Kongo forest, there is reference to a find made by him of an armadillo four feet long, closely resembling its congener of the pampas. It frequently assumes an erect attitude, supporting itself on its tail and holding to the tree trunks with its powerful fore claws.
